THE DAILY TRIBUNE

THURSDAY,.....Feb. 17, 1876

Mrs. Seymour, who was burned the other day in New Orleans, by an ignorant use of coal oil, is dead.

There was another coal oil explosion in New Orleans on Tuesday morning. There was no great harm—burt no one, and destroyed very little property.

No person has yet been taken in the United States Senate in the Pinchback case. The members seem to desire to postpone it for a more convenient season.

Mrs. Victoria Woodhull and Mrs. T. C. Claflin are now coming to Mobile. They will retrace their steps and go to Memphis to attend the Mardi Gras festivities of that city.

At Newton Station (Miss.) a fire last Monday night destroyed the drug store of J. J. Crane. The stock was valued at $3000. The insurance was $3,000. There was no insurance on the house. It is supposed that the fire was designed.

There is a lesson in them that is not very ingeniously covered, but carries with it a good deal of wisdom.

A few days ago a party of Mexicans on the border went to a store and murdered an old man named Garcia and his wife, two grown daughters and several Americans. They stole all that was in the store. The next morning a party of citizens set out in pursuit of the rascals. Eight of them were captured, and they were hanged without any legal formality.

We did not intend yesterday to intimate that Booth was to play Hamlet, Richelieu and Lago in Montgomery next Thursday night. Typographically it was so, but the innocent reader will take our word for it, that a feat of that kind has never been done, and is altogether impossible to be done by any man that has lived since Adam was created.

A New Plan.

Last Monday the currency question was before the Congressional House of Representatives. What was proposed is stated as follows; Mr. Harrison, of Pennsylvania, offered a bill to repeal parts of the act for the resumption of specie payments, and to prepare the way for specie payments. The bill provides for the substitution of greenbacks for national bank notes surrendered, and to require national banks to retain their gold until the amount so retained be equal to one-third of their circulation. It also provides that the Secretary of the Treasury shall annually retain $16,000,000 in coin for the redemption of legal tenders, such amount to be taken from the sinking fund, and when it amounts to one-third of the legal tenders in circulation, it is made his duty to redeem them to the amount of $12,000,000 annually, using gold received from customs for that purpose.

Amenities.

There were two panics in one of our large public school-houses recently, both of them occasioned by a mischievous boy crying fire. Both promised serious consequences, but fortunately one broken leg was the worst result of the fright. The more tragic scene at Cincinnati, lately gives prominence to the fact that every crowded hall is at the mercy of any unwhipped boy who, for the fun of seeing them "get," cries "fire." Every father who has such a son would do his young hopeful and the country service if he would take to private report of that terrible drama in one hand and a hickory in the other, and impress on the young and susceptible mind the possibilities and realities of a practical joke.—Washington Capitol.

The Capitol editor ought to come to Mobile to see how we do it. There is hardly a boy that would not crowd his grandfather or his grandmother from the sidewalks. These young people are ignorant of all the duties of life, and have no regard for age, or respectability won by years of duty. It is a great pity that one is not legally impowered to carron cowhide in his hand, in order to teach them something that their parents ought to have taught them.

The girls are some of the women, are guilty of this ungraceful and inelegant conduct. We saw a gentleman not long ago hold one of the gates of Bienville Square open for a minute to allow a woman to pass out. It was raining at the time. She looked like a lady, and would have sent her brother, or her father, or her lover, or some other person, to assault the man who would have dared to deny her right to the title, and yet this woman turned, with a scowl on her face, as though the gentleman intended to do something that might have sent him to a penitentiary, and made no recognition of the little service that he thought was due to her sex.

Isn't this mortifying?

"I thank you, sir," would have been a reward, and made the woman respectable in the opinion of the gentleman—who was not a negro; and, if he had been, would have recognised the small courtesy, and deserved it.

Turn to another phase—the obverse. It was a very pretty picture. One of the street cars was crowded. Men and women occupied all the seats. There was no woman standing. A lady came in, and looked about for a seat. A half dozen jumped up, to give her accommodation. She accepted one seat—for she could not occupy a dozen—and said, "sir, I thank you." The lady was pretty and graceful, and the gentleman whose seat she took, said that he wished that he had been a bachelor, so that he might have a had right to fall in love with her.

But this little statement shows that the small courtesies are more valued than great favors, and for the reason that they exhibit character. A lady ought to be a lady everywhere, whether she be in her own coach, or on a railroad car. If she be not that everywhere, she has no right to what she claims.

This, we know, looks like censoriousness; but is it not true?

We are willing to take the public suffrages on the question.

Rev. T. J. Scott, a Methodist missionary to India is in this county endeavoring to raise $30,000 for suitable buildings for a school at Canpore, India.

Would it not be wiser to attend to the welfare of our own heathens?

They are everywhere among us. Ten thousand of them could be discovered in New York city. Here in the South, we have them in superabundance, with votes in their hands. We know very well that "Charity begins at home," and that, individually, it ought not to stay there; but, nationally, with our various millions, it ought to stand by the national domicil before it goes to India. When we make Christians of our own heathens, then we may be in a condition to attempt to convert those of foreign lands.

There is a great deal of fuss in the papers in respect of a man named James P. Hambleton. He is the clerk of the committee of Ways and Means of the Congressional House of Representatives.

It is not said that he stole any thing from the Government or from us, the people.

But he committed a crime. Some years ago, he had a child born to him at Atlanta, and the parents put on that boy the name of John Wilkes Booth Hambleton. The child died, when it had passed the age of six years.

The father, "desiring to hold his place, denied that that was the name of the child; and here is where the trouble comes in. It now seems that that was the name of the little fellow—now dead, and, we hope, in Paradise. The proof of this seems to be conclusive.

For this great crime of a foolish man, Mr. Hambleton has been requested to resign his place as clerk. Of course, he will do it, for the chairman of the committee requests him to resign, and that amounts to an order to do so. He knows that, and it is to be presumed that the culprit is no longer the clerk of the committee of Ways and Means.

The man was a fool: this is all that can be said for him—but, if he did his duty well as a clerk, we see no reason why the members of the committee of Ways and Means should make fools of themselves.

There is, perhaps, a reason for it. That is party necessities.

One of the great calamities that fell on the Confederate cause was the assassination of Mr. Lincoln; and if it had been authorised, or in any way promoted, or paid for, by our people, we should be ashamed. For, no matter what may be said about the murdered man, there can be no disputation as to the kindliness of his nature. If he had not been killed, we should have been better off than we are now.

But let this and other errors be buried. They have been kept above ground too long for the happiness and safety of our people.

We have received from Mr. W. E Mickle, No. 60 Dauphin street, a copy ot Godey's Lady's Book for March. It is very beautiful in its pictures and illustrations of the spring fashions, and its notations of music. It is the oldest monthly on this side of the Atlantic. It numbers 540, and was begun when Philadelphia had only a hundred and fifty thousand "souls." Now it has about eight hundred thousand, and, we suppose, Godey's has grown with the community within which he dwells. Mrs. Hale, who does a great part of the editing, is now some seventy or eighty years of age. It is impossible to say any thing with accuracy on the subject—for women never get old. The "eternal years of God are hers," as Bryant says: but whether old or young, she understands her own sex, and knows how to cater for them. We hope that she shall be able to abolish the "pin-backs." This is what we believe they are called. It is painful to see a woman going about the streets, apparently trying to hold up the clothing, which one expects to drop away from her, and leave her, like Pauline Bonaparte, when she stood for the beautiful representation that was made of her by an artist who had passion for nothing, except his art.

Von Bulow recently said: "Another thing about American women which delights me is the size and character of the ear. That is one of the first things I look at. A handsome ear is a wonderful feature about a woman. When it is well rounded and finely chiselled it is a magnet to any man of taste."

Von Bulow is a great musician, and knows the value of compliments. But no woman has chiselled ears, unless in stone; and all the ears that we have seen are not round, but we have not enough of geometry to describe their form accurately.

Alabama Legislature.

TUESDAY—Senate.—Mr. Little offered a bill to prevent officers of the State from charging illegal fees. A bill to "punish minors who purchase spirituous liquors for their own use," was ordered to a second reading. A bill for the publication of all the laws of a general character in newspapers was passed. It provides for paying seventy-five cents per square for two insertions. If any paper refuse the work at this rate, it will not be considered a penal offence. The judiciary committee, through its chairman, Senator Hamilton, Reported favorably, with amendment, to make it penal to buy or sell any public office or the perquisites or emoluments thereof. The amendment was adopted.

Also, favorably to House bill, to provide for the payment of costs in criminal cases, in which the indictment has been withdrawn. Passed—yeas 16, nays 7.

Also, favorably to provide for the settlement of so much of the taxes for the year 1875, as have been collected by the tax collector for the year 1874. Passed, yeas 22.

On motion of Senator Terrell, the bill to extend the time for the redemption of lands purchased by the State at tax sales, and to provide for the sale and transfer of such lands, if not redeemed at the expiration of the period allowed by law, was made a special order for Tuesday.

From the proceedings of the House we copy the following:

Mr. Clements, by leave, from committee on Education, reported favorably, with amendment on Senate bill to make an appropriation for the support of the public schools of this State. Amendment lost.

[The amendment was that the $2,000 from the Mutual Aid Association be added to the appropriation.]

Mr. Wilson, moved to strike out $150,000 and insert $100,000.

Mr. Harris, of Perry, offered a substitute for the amendment, making the amount $200,000.

The bill making an appropriation for the support of the public schools was resumed—the question being upon the amendment of Mr. Wilson, striking out $150,000 and inserting $100,000 and the substitute of Mr. Harris, of Perry, striking out $150,000 and inserting $200,000.

Mr. Chambers moved to lay the amendments on the table. Carried.

[At the afternoon session of the House yesterday

Mr. Brewer, from committee on Ways and Means, reported the appropriation bill, which was read once and ordered to a second reading.

The revenue bill was read a third time and passed. Yeas 53, nays 26.]

Cuba Affairs.

MADRID, Feb. 14.—The Minister of Foreign Affairs has sent a memorandum, dated the 3d of February, to the Spanish representatives abroad, instructing them to read it to foreign Ministers, or to leave a copy if requested.

The memorandum, after pointing out that the insurrection was no longer led by natives of the island, but by foreign adventurers, continues: Negroes, mulattoes, Chinese and deserters form the bulk of the insurgent forces.

Their army contains scarcely 800 white Cubans, while more than 40,000 of the latter are serving with the Royal Volunteers. Spain can not come to any terms with such elements. She can only, after having obtained complete victory, grant to

A colored woman, who at one time acquired notoriety as Maria Banks, died yesterday morning of consumption.

The schooner Frank Lucas was cleared yesterday by the master, with 6,927 feet pitch pine lumber, valued at $113; 21,000 shingles valued at $63, and sundry articles of merchandise, all valued at $455—for Rustan.

Jack, a colored man, about 60 years old, who lived on the corner of Congress and Franklin streets, died of apoplexy shortly after eight o'clock Tuesday night. The coroner held an inquest and a verdict was rendered in accordance with the facts.

The noon cotton report of the Board of Trade yesterday was: "Market quiet and easy at unchanged prices. Moderate demand, with sales of about 900 bales." Closing report: "Sales today 1750 bales and 200 last evening. Market closed quiet and easier. Fair demand."

The brig Snowdrop was cleared yesterday by A. J. Ingersoll & Co. for Barcelona with 455 bales cotton, weighing 234,200 pounds, valued at $27,075 15, and 1200 staves $200—total value of cargo $27,275 15.

The "Double Boll Champion Prolific Cotton" has a staple one and a half inches long, matures from 50 to 300 bolls to the stalk and produces four bales, 500 pounds each, to the acre. The agents, H. S. Goldman and A. Wilson, have some of the seed of this cotton for sale here. They will remain in the city only a few days, and can be seen on the streets each day, carrying a specimen stalk in a glass case, or at No. 76 St. Francis street, between two and three o'clock in the afternoon.

Paul Boyton, the famous swimmer, has returned from New Orleans, and will go down to Point Clear to-day to give an exhibition of the new life-saving dress, in which he will practically illustrate its application for life-saving, naval and sporting purposes. Captain Boyton was formerly a resident of Mobile and has a great deal of affection for her people, which has prompted him to give here his first exhibition at the south.

At 52 and 54 North Water street, J. H. Locke & Son have a full and complete assortment of straw, rag and Manilla wrapping paper, machine and hand made paper bags, paper and cotton flour sacks, gunny and burlap sacks and all kinds of paper and twines. They pay the highest prices for cotton and woollen rags, old books, newspapers, bagging and rope, and also for old copper, brass, lead, zinc, wrought and cast scrip iron. Read their advertisement and then buy of Locke & Son.

RIVER NEWS.

There was no arrival or departure yesterday. The only boat due today is the Bandy to Pacific for a tow on the report, as she will be in from Columbus, with 400 or 500 bales of cotton. She will go out tomorrow.

The John T. Moore, Captain Finnegan, is announced to leave Saturday evening for Montgomery.

THE WEATHER YESTERDAY.—At 6:51 o'clock yesterday morning, the wind blew 14 miles an hour at Key West and 4 at Mobile. The temperature was 66 at Key West, highest 66 at Key West, lowest 43 at Augusta.

At 3:51 yesterday afternoon, the wind blew 16 miles an hour at Indianola and 6 at Mobile. The temperature was 66 at Corsicana, 66 at Galveston, Indianola and Key West, 64 at New Orleans, 63 at Savannah, 62 at Mobile and Montgomery and 60 at Augusta.

THE CROOKED.—The New Orleans Bulletin of yesterday says: At the St. Charles there were quite a number of rumors astir relative to some developments in Mobile in the whisky line. The agents have discovered a certain lot of whisky, the packages of which have the same serial number on the stamp, a fact which shows that here stamps have been used more than once.

Collector Bagley of that city was in consultation with General Brady last night over the matter.

The Picayune of the same day says: As an instance of how far the process of re-using stamps on distillers' barrels is carried, the case is cited of a whisky dealer in Mobile whose books show that he has taken up the same number three times, when there should be only one entry of the number.

THE STEAMBOAT INTEREST.—The steamer Lulu D., of which Captain Jno. H. Stone is master, brought in a cargo of cotton several days ago and discharged it at a private wharf. The city charges eight cents a bale wharfage on all cotton landed on its wharves, but, we suppose, has no control over the freight landed at other wharves. And this, perhaps, is the milk in the cocoa nut, that prompted the harbor master to cause the arrest of Captain Stone, when he removed the Lulu D. from that private wharf to one of the wharves of the city (several of them being then vacant) to receive freight for the Bigbee river at a point where it was more convenient for shippers.

Captain Stone deemed to vacate that wharf when directed to do so by the harbor master, claiming that he had a right to receive freight there, as it was then unoccupied by any other steamer.

The case of Captain Stone came up, in some inexplicable shape, before the mayor Tuesday morning for a final hearing. Judge McKinstry, for the defense, argued at length that the city had no authority in law to order the Lulu D. to be removed from the point where she was receiving freight. The mayor reserved his decision till yesterday morning, when he fined Captain Stone $100 for the offense. From this sentence, it is understood, an appeal will be taken.

Captain Stone is an old steamboatman. All his interests have been identified with Mobile. He has brought here and landed at our wharves over 85,000 bales of cotton. He has carried away immense values of plantation supplies and goods for country traders, the result of sales by our wholesale merchants. But, notwithstanding all that he, in common with other steamboat men, has done to promote the interests and welfare of this city, a harbor master has him arrested on a frivolous pretext and the mayor fines him ten dollars because he was arrested.

Among the burdens on the commerce of Mobile is the charge on goods landed at the city wharves, which sometimes has amounted to a greater sum than the freight from Montgomery on the same goods. If the wharfage fees are less at private wharves, the city is not justified in attempting to punish a steamboat officer who avails himself of these lower prices, when he happens to land his boat up to a city wharf to load, even though no wharfage charges are made on outgoing freight.

TELEGRAPH.

DOMESTIC.

ALBANY, Feb. 16.—The steamer Golden Gate was cut in two by the ice at Stuyvesant dock last night and sunk to her hurricane deck. There was no time to remove the furniture and bedding. Loss about $10,000.

POUGHKEEPSIE, Feb. 16.—The Hudson is flooding, but no serious damage has been done, though the docks are submerged and trains delayed.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 16.—The election was quiet, the democrats have gained considerable in several wards.

TITUSVILLE, Pa., Feb. 16.—The republicans have elected their candidate for mayor for the first time in three years.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—In the senate, Ingalls, of Mississippi, made a personal explanation and denied that he had been in any conspiracy with Senator Spencer or others, to influence the opinion of Chief Justice Waite, in regard to the enforcement act, as recently charged in a dispatch to a western paper.

The elections committee heard Finley vs. Wall, from Florida. A further hearing is set for Friday and decision Monday.

The Pacific Railroad Committee made considerable progress in preparing Atkins' Texas Pacific bill for a vote on the report, as it will be presented to the house for a vote on Friday.

GALVESTON, Feb. 16.—The election passed off quietly. A large vote was polled and the democratic majority is heavy. Returns from the interior are meagre, but indicate the success of the entire democratic ticket.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 16.—J. J. Brooks testified that he had doubts of Hoge's integrity, by Hoge's reports of sales, on the 3d of June. New Orleans; Hoge had failed to meet him at the appointed time, and did not reach New Orleans until two days after he, the witness, had sold a distillaries thing; there were evidences at New Orleans that tidings of their visit had been received in advance; several persons at Washington other than Congressioner Douglas, knew he and Hoge were going there. Colonel Dyer then offered some telegrams in cypher, which the defence claimed were confidential dispatches between counsel and client, and after some hearing them the court ruled them out. The distillaries known as the Avery dispatches were admitted as evidence.

FOREIGN.

QUEENSTOWN, Feb. 16.—The bark Fleka, from Baltimore, brought two of the crew of the ship W. J. Hatfield, from Philadelphia for Bremen. The Fleka encountered the Hatfield dismasted and water-logged, and a boat was sent out, but failed to get along side because of the high sea. Three men jumped overboard; one was drowned and the two others were rescued. The rest of the crew were unable to speak or move from exposure and want of water. The Fleka lay-by during the night, but at daylight the Hatfield was invisible, and it is believed foundered with all on board.

LONDON, Feb. 16.—A dispatch from the Allemanic heads arrives at Gloria says the Carlists lost 4,000 men and many officers in the battle of the Llobo.

PARIS, Feb. 16.—Baron Sequier, scientist, is dead.

MADRID, Feb. 16.—The Cortes was opened by the King in person. The following is an extract from his speech: My relations with foreign powers are friendly. Negotiations are being carried on with the United States in a friendly spirit, and they afford reason to hope for a prompt and satisfactory settlement. Our honor and rights are threatened, and even partially occupied in Cuba, whither 34,000 troops have been sent since my accession; the Cuban war has not prevented the emancipation of 76,000 slaves, and we shall continue to uphold the integrity of the Cuban territory. The efforts of Spain to preserve her place in the world show what she will accomplish when her strength is no longer wasted in sterile agitations. May Heaven grant a speedy recompense for our painful sacrifices.

An official dispatch from General Quesada says that on the 13th he defeated the Carlists in formidable positions at Alginetta. Don Carlos and his forces fled toward Villa Real, pursued by Quesada.

Beverly Johnson's Death.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., February 11.—The main facts connected with the sudden and tragic death of Reverdy Johnson in the grounds attached to the Executive Mansion as telegraphed last night are not changed by later developments this morning. His death was so sudden and unexpected after his appearance in the State library and about the State House yesterday while the Legislature was in session, apparently in full health, that the community has not yet received from the shock. Dr. Lewis H. Steiner, State Senator from Frederick county, a distinguished physician, and chief inspector of the Sanitary Commission in the army of the Potomac, during the late war, who examined the body shortly after it was found, gives the following as his theory of the cause of death:

Mr. Johnson either stumbled over a piece of coal, or being seized with vertigo or incipient symptoms of apoplexy, and striving to save himself, hurried towards the west, staggering along by the northerly side of the executive mansion. At each step his body gaining additional momentum, so that having reached the door leading into the basement, he swayed around to the south and fell, striking his head against a sharp corner of the granite base course of the house, which gave the first wound on the head. Reaching the pavement made of rough cobble stones, a second wound was received in front of the first. At this instant, probably, the bones of the nose were fractured, and one joint of the second finger of the right hand was dislocated. Whether after struggles account for the abrasions on the knees and the fingers of the left hand cannot be positively asserted, although it is probable. The wounds in the scalp were accompanied with fractures of the external bones of the cranium, accompanied with probable rupture of some of the arteries at the base. Death must have resulted almost instantly. Mr. Gwynn, Attorney General of the State, and son-in-law of Mr. Johnson, is of the opinion that he was seized with vertigo and fell, as he had a similar attack, lasting three hours, while attending the trials in South Carolina several years since.

The Suez Canal.

The official correspondence in the negotiations for the purchase by Great Britain of the Suez Canal was published in London on the 9th inst. The following is given as the substance of it:

In November last the Egyptian Minister of the Interior assured the British agent that the Egyptian Government considered England her most sincere friend, and would infinitely prefer the Egyptian interest in the canal transferred to England than to any other power. The Rothschilds received 2½ per cent. commission on the twenty millions advanced, and 5 per cent. interest until the British Government refunded.

The correspondence includes a letter from the Lord Otto Russell, the British Minister at Berlin, reporting that Prince Bismarck had mentioned the purchase in terms of high appreciation and approval.

The lecture of the British agent at Cairo shows that the Khedive offered to sell England her rights to seven per cent. of the net revenue of the canal to which he was entitled after the earnings of the canal exceed a certain specified sum. The Khedive recommended the purchase as giving additional control over the canal. The Earl of Derby refused, and stated that England would regard as inconsistent with the integrity of the Ottoman Empire any act by which the Khedive dispossessed himself of control of the canal.

The Catastrophe at Cincinnati.

We have already published some matter in regard to the fatal panic in Robinson's opera house in Cincinnati. The following is instructive, for the reason that it shows a most ignorant construction of our public places. We observe one thing in our Mobile theatre which is worthy of regard: that is, that its doors are made to open outwards. That is a great security in case of a panic in the audience.

"The people in the lobbies, the back seats and the gallery made a desperate rush for the main exit, opening upon Ninth street, and most of the first who reached the door fell down the few steps descending to the vestibule, and those who followed tumbled over them, until the incline was piled waist high to a man with writhing, smothering and crushed people. The crowd from the street, curious to ascertain the cause of the commotion, pushed into the vestibule at this most inopportune moment, so that the passage was completely clogged, and would admit of the exit of a single person, until the struggling, groaning, shrieking and dying people had been pulled apart and conveyed into the street. The scene in the vestibule is described as horrible. A few men who had started into the house on hearing the alarm crushed on the back of in the middle of the vestibule, and there worked like very Titans for ten or fifteen minutes, pulling the prostrate people out and flinging them to the door, in danger every second of being themselves pulled down into the mass by the terrified and desperately fighting sufferers.

Mr. William Eckel, who was one of the first to rush into the fatal vestibule on hearing the cry of fire, and seeing the crowd of people rush out, thus describes the scene: "I was standing on the sidewalk talking to some gentlemen when I heard the alarm of fire, and as one of my children was inside, I naturally made an effort to force my way in. The entrance was completely clogged with people, however, and I never got beyond the middle of the vestibule. My idea is that some of the first crowd that rushed out slipped on the steps and fell, and the immense throng that followed them were so terror-stricken that they did not think of steps or anything else except to fling themselves out of the inner doorway. The consequence was that there was a general piling up of prostrate and struggling people, those who followed the first rush falling on top of the others as soon as they got to the steps. The people, men, women and children, piled up around me and the other men who made their way into the vestibule, waist high, and still they kept coming. It was simply awful. Men and women were groaning, children were shrieking, and by the gasps and deep gurgling of some of the women and children, I knew they were being smothered to death. We pulled out as could, and worked as fast as we could, but it seemed that they piled up as fast as we jerked them out, and some were so badly wedged in we couldn't budge them an inch either way. One poor lady, who was killed, lay on the tiling with a dozen women and children on top of her, her face flattened against the floor, and her tongue, which protruded two or three inches, being trampled on by others trying to work themselves out. One little white headed boy, who I saw was almost smothered to death, thrust out his hand to me from under two or three persons who were crowding him down, and I managed to catch hold of his arm. He worked the other arm out somehow, and a policeman caught hold of it. We tugged and tugged at him for several minutes, and it took our united strength to pull him out, and we are both strong men, too. They would catch me by the legs, and try to pull themselves out that way, and we were all in danger every second of going down with the whole crowd. There must have been as many as a hundred and fifty people piled up in that vestibule as I have described, and I don't think half of them would ever have issued from the trap alive if a couple of policemen had not broke through the office to the west of the entrance, and fought their way to the inner doors, and commenced throwing the people back into the house in order to give us a chance to excricate those already in the vestibule. My God! if there had been a fire in the house it must have roasted half the audience to death, the way the people were piled up and clogging the main exit. The work of the policemen at the inner doors in throwing the people back until quiet was restored, undoubtedly saved many lives. It enabled us to clear the vestibule of the living and the dead, and when that was done, and the alarmed people got to passing out in something like order, the danger was over."

From the same journal, we learn that

"The excitement and confusion in the galleries exceeded, if anything, that of the people in the parquette and dress circle. The upper portion opening upon Ninth street, and most of the first who reached the door fell down the few steps descending to the vestibule, and those who followed tumbled over them, until the incline was piled waist high to a man with writhing, smothering and crushed people. From the same journal, we learn that

"The excitement and confusion in the galleries exceeded, if anything, that of the people in the parquette and dress circle. The upper portion of the theatre was principally occupied by children, but there were many grown persons who were forced to go into the gallery or miss seeing the Allegory altogether. When the alarm was given the children became perfectly panic-stricken, and rushed down the dark and tortuous stairs with such precipitation that a similar trap to the vestibule was found in an unlighted angle of the stairway west of the balcony lounging-room. Into this trap fell headlong ten or twenty children and two or three women, and the crowd pouring down upon them, heedless of everything but the idea of escape, crushed and trampled three unfortunates to death. One little girl, Hattie Leslie, about twelve years old, was killed in the gallery, being crushed on the back of a bench by some man who was making good his own escape in total disregard of others."

After the panic the following articles were picked up on the floor: Forty ladies' hats, 36 other hats, 15 muffs, 4 boas and 4 fur capes, 26 India rubbers, 2 boots and 1 boy's shoe, 5 shawls, 12 boys' overcoats and capes, 2 ladies' capes and scarfs; 4 switches, gloves, and a large miscellaneous collection of articles. The heroine of the occasion was a young girl who, after fighting her way out of the fatal press, discovered that she had lost her mink cape, and thereupon fought her way back and recovered the article.

Going Into Business.

It is usually considered a great advantage to get into business, but there are often many pitfalls awaiting the unwary, and experience is sometimes dearly bought. The following little anecdote, related by a German friend recently retired from business, is a capital illustration of this point:

"Going down town the other night," he said, "I got to chatting with a German acquaintance, and asked him what he was doing.

"'Vell,' he replied, 'shoost now I am doing noddings, but I have made arrangements to go into pizness.'

"'Glad to hear it. What are you going into?'

"'Do you put in much capital?'

"'No, I doesn't put in no gapital.'

"'Don't want to risk it, eh?'

"'No, I puts in der experience.'

"'And he puts in the capital?'

"'Yes, dot is it. We goes into pizness for dree years he puts in der capital, I puts in der experience. At der end of dree year I will have der capital, and he will have der experience.'"

Better than a door plate with a man's name on it, says a Scotchman, is a dinner plate with a man's dinner on it.

LOSS OF TEXT IN GUTTER

FRIDAY,.....Feb. 18, 1876.

A man, named John Conley, was shot and killed by a man named T. J. Neighbors, last Wednesday night, in a drinking house in New Orleans. There seems to have been no reason for it. We suppose that both parties were drunk, and had pistols. Without the revolvers, it is probable that there would have been nothing but hot coffee or iced lemonade.

A few days ago two bills of exchange for 200,000 francs each were drawn in New York on Rothschilde & Paris banker. They were endorsed by J. J. Astor and the National Bank of Commerce. They were bought by Belmont & Co. It is supposed that they are good, for the Picayune says that they are issued by worthy watch represents, or is supposed to represent, over $300,000,000. This may be somewhat exaggerated; but, make the worst of it, and we should hazard the opinion that the bills representing 600,000 francs are good for what they call for.

We stated the other day that Mrs. Woodhull had gone back from Montgomery to Memphis. We got the no-information from an interior paper. It was a mistake. The lady seems to have jumped Mobile, and gone to New Orleans, where she is to deliver a lecture next Sunday night.

The United States Grand Jury had returned to the court several new indictments; but of whom or what is not mentioned in the papers.

California's wool clip will reach 50,000,000 pounds next season.

The crew of H. M. S. Crocodile, when about two days' sail from Aden, beheld a singular phenomenon. A band or streak of light appeared in the ocean ahead. It was zig-zag in form, and seemed to read like a signature in the sky. It formed roughly the letters "shwirtz." Now what does shwirtz mean?

It meant "shirts." "The band or streak of light" was of foreign birth, and was not well up in English spelling. Perhaps, its real purpose was to astonish the crew in respect of its fashion. Some years ago we saw something of the kind in Mobile, but it wasn't "shwirtz," or "shirts."

We are very sorry to learn from a dispatch, dated at Constantinople, that the Sultan had a carbuncle from which he suffered much pain. At the last accounts, an operation had been performed, and His Majesty was "getting better."

At least one man in Indianapolis looks with satisfaction upon the Sabbath's day. He is the tenant of a house whose ownership is disputed, and each of the parties to the suit to decide the point has enjoined him from paying rent to the other, so that he is living rent free.

Isn't it probable that finally both parties will make him responsible for the rent?

The Public Schools.

In the Alabama legislature there is some difficulty as to the money that is necessary to support our public schools.

The necessities of other business of the state interfere with the desire that good men in the legislature have to appropriate money for the schools. We are sure that the gentlemen who represent Mobile in that body have a thorough knowledge of this important subject, and what can be done by them, with due consideration for other necessities, will be done.

It seems to us, however, that the schools are more important than any other part of the legislation.

"How? Simply because, without them, thousands of little men and women, who are to be the fathers and the mothers of the future, can find no instruction, if it be not given by these schools. And the result, what? Why ignorance, which, not to-day, but presently, will show that we have neglected the instrumentality for the making of dutiful men, good women, and the children who come from the the conjunction of the two.

If ignorance be bliss, it is folly to instruct our people in the ways of getting knowledge. A boy may be made as thief—of course—by lack of this kind of instruction; and it will not be got—in our improvished condition—unless the state provide for it.

Why, here, to-day, we have little creatures—with souls to be saved, and needing the instruction by which they can be saved—

The schools will not help the adults but they are supposed to be responsible for the weaknesses, or follies, or sins of those little creatures who are getting lessons which will help them to resist what is wrong, and make them worthy of respect, and send them finally to heaven.

The public schools do not give sectarian instruction. This is proper. They do give the intelligence which will allow the pupils to understand where a true religion is to be found. If they could do nothing more than this, the cost of doing it would be worth much more than any honest taxation for the purpose would impose.

To impair the benignant effects of our public schools by some narrow notions of what is called economy, would, it seems to us, be extremely detrimental to good policy, and to the results which, after awhile, we have a right to expect from the men and women of the future.

We have no interest in this business; but the public has a very great interest in it: that is those of it who have a regard for the future condition of the country, when all of us will be lying and rotting within our coffins.

The total income of the Prince of Wales from all sources is about $575,000. The Princess receives besides $50,000. The family may, therefore, be considered "comfortable."

Alabama Legislature.

In the Senate last Wednesday a bill to establish a revenue code for the state was re'erred to the committee of Finance and Taxation. There was nothing completed during the day.

In the House, many bills were read and referred to committees. Among the committee reports was one in favor of a bill to provide for and extend the time for the redemption of lands sold for taxes when purchased by individuals.

Correspondents appear to differ upon the conduct of Italian nobles toward American ladies. Some say that they insult them: others that they do not. All seem to agree in one thing, that the ladies in question marry the aforesaid nobles rather oftener than there is any occasion for.

But there may be "occasion," which is familiar to the "parties in interest."

The Centennial.

This is to be a very "big thing."

The New York World publishes a long and very interesting account of what it promises—accompanied by a diagram of the plan of the buildings that it will require.

To show how much the newspapers are engaged in it, the World is getting ready to erect a building for the special use of its own correspondents.

Another thing shows the general interest that is taking in the affair. Thus: Five railroads have offered to transport articles for exhibition without pay. One hundred and sixty-one have offered to carry them at half price.

This fact shows the great preparation made for it, and the general interest that is taken in it.

It is stated that the entire area of the various buildings will be more than sixty-two acres, and that the whole cost will exceed $6,000,000. The area will be greater than was that of the Vienna Exposition in 1873, and the expense less. That covered fifty acres, and cost $9,850,000.

There are to be all sorts of pavilions for specialities. One of them is a "Music Pavilion"—another a "Women's Pavilion," and other pavilions for every kind of thing that is to be done or represented on the occasion.

The managers are trying to estimate the number of the persons who will visit the Exposition; but the correspondent says that there is a population of 12,000,000, "within a circle drawn twenty miles around Philadelphia," and from this alone, he thinks, will be attracted enough of people to more than reach the conclusion of the chairman, (Mr. Welsh) of the board of finance. From all other parts, the estimate is that there will be 2,600,000 visitors.

Many of these visitors will go once, and then return home; but a very large number will remain for days and weeks, studying the quality of what may be on exhibition.

Nearly every country in Europe will be represented and commissioned by their governments. They will bring much money with them, and carry very little away with them. Most of the South American governments will have their representatives present. Several from Asiatic and African States will also be on hand. Egypt will be there, and Japan, China, and the representatives of many other peoples, some of whom, it is likely, the managers of the affair will have to search their geographies, in order to discover where they dwell.

There seems to be some apprehension in regard to the means of feeding and sheltering the vast multitude that is expected. That will not necessarily raise the price of provisions generally. The additional consumption will come from the foreigners.

This great affair, which has been contrived and set on foot with much skill, will have a universal influence. Its managers have learned a good deal from the great European Expositions of the past, and will, no doubt, make the concern a very profitable business for the residents of Philadelphia, who have skill enough to use it for their own advantage.

A recent number of La Staffetta, an Italian journal, informs us that the Italian sculptor, Pietro Guarnerio, of Milan, who won a prize at the Vicinesse Exposition for two groups of his which were purchased by the Emperor of Austria, and repetitions of which were afterwards ordered by the Emperor of Germany, has now in hand a most wonderful bust of Washington, conceived by him, upon the provocation of an account of the Philadelphia buildings which must have originated with Colonel Forney in one of his inspired moments. Signor Guarnerio, it appears, under-stands it to be the intention of our Centennial Commissioners to erect a single building covering an area of 2,578,000 square metres, and representing, therefore, a building of more than one statute mile on each side, together with a tower to be of things the height of the so-called "Tower of Babel," of the Cathedral of Milan, or, in round numbers, about 1,065 feet! Naturally enough, Signor Guarnerio has come to the conclusion that anybody who expects any work of his to be so much as visible in so vast an edifice, the like of which, as he justly observes, "has never been seen before on earth that we know of," must put himself to unusual pains in the way of conception and execution. So Signor Guarnerio is now making a colossal bust of the Father of our Country at the moment when he gave the United States their Constitution," and in order to give this bust "dimensions adequate to the circumstances," he has purchased four car-loads of modelling clay, and is making a figure the little finger of the hand of which is to be 26 centimetres, or about a quarter of a yard in length! It is gratifying to know, on the authority of La Staffetta, that in this remarkable work "the great citizen of America is represented in the most simple and natural attitude possible, and expresses the satisfaction of a stainless conscience which, having fulfilled a sublime act and being convinced that it has discharged its duty thoroughly, feels that it has touched the summit of its wishes."

Ben Lane Posey, Esq.

Our former townsman, Ben Lane Posey, Esq., is now living at Rosett, in the county of Fremont, Colorado. He is practicing law and editing a weekly paper in his town, called "The Rosetta Index." We observe that he has been of counsel in a great mining case, which involves, we suppose, millions of dollars. Away out there, at the west, nothing but millions, in the present, or hoped for, suffice, for the claims, or greeds of people who take an interest in the mining operations.

The paper is very interesting. The editorials are written with skill; and we see, or think we see, that it is making itself powerful in influencing the people of Colorado who go out to that remote settlement, where mining is a business, by which thousands of persons make, or hope to make, fortunes within a few years—the interim being passed with what comfort can be got in a new country.

Looking over the market reports of the Index, we find every thing exhibited at so high a price as would startle our people. For example, candles are 25 cts. a pound; dried apples 15 to 20 cts; crackers 15; candies, assorted 50 a 60; the best flour about $12.00; and so on. When one comes to the home production, it is different: beef is set down at from 4 to 12½c.

For the comestibles, it is a long distance to carry them from the East, and the railroads will not carry them without making them dear when they get to their destination.

But this mode of calculating the cost of living is not one which shows the condition of a people. There, at Rosett, in all probability no one works for less than five dollars a day. Of course, this is the manual labor price. Two or three dollars a day in Mobile are considered something desirable. But where the wages are five dollars,—although the food may be costly—there can always be, among thrifty people, a little reserve for a "rainy day."

We are glad to see that Captain Posey is doing well. He is a little eccentric, and may be, after awhile, a Senator of the United States.

Napoleon Accepts the Republic.

PARIS, Feb. 14.—Prince Napoleon has assisted an address to the electors of Ajaccio. He says: "The form of government is not in question. It exists. I accept it frankly." He denies that his acceptance of the republic is dictated by ambition or personal interest, but declares it comes from profound convictions. He concludes as follows: "I respect the form of government without any bitterness, provided it insures order, justice and liberty. If elected, I shall be always a democratic and a partisan of progress."

M.M. Renault and Decazes have issued strongly Republican addresses.

Five little Waleses attend the Princess to Copenhagen. The entire family has left England. Nothing but a war of succession would be expected from Alfred Tennyson, and the poor man is going crazy. Perhaps, however, this misfortune will enable him to write better.—Exchange.

Goodrich, the famous Chicago divorce lawyer, has been disbarred by the Supreme Court, in a scathing judgment delivered by Justice Breese. He had a large practice in this city. —N. Y. World.

HANGING A CHICKEN THIEF.—A coloman residing not far from Mr. Eugene McDonnell's, down the bay, was suspected of being a chicken thief. After this death his house was searched and a considerable quantity of stolen provisions found.

The John T. Moore, for Selma and Montgomery is announced to leave tomorrow evening at five o'clock. It is quite certain that the Moore will be at her landing this morning ready to receive freight, and then her state rooms will be opened for passengers to examine. Spaulding & Foster agents.

A recent decision of the United States supreme court, has put a certain party in possession of the patent right of the steam capstan long used on all our steamboats. New Orleans steamboat owners have paid the royalty and now Mr. McMillan has come to Mobile to collect it from steamboat owners here. Every boat will have to pay it except the Lotus No. 2 and the William S. Hall, which secured the patent at Cincinnati, where they were built.

THE CITY AND STEAMBOATS.—The controversy between the city and steamboats that discharge their cargoes at the wharves owned or leased by the Mobile Ice Company, and load at wharves owned by the city, is waxing warm. It transpires that the harbor master is anxious to protect the revenues of the city by an attempt to break up what the city regards (as to the municipality) a very unprofitable arrangement—for a boat to discharge freight at a private wharf, then to vacate that wharf at once and give room for another to discharge at the same wharf, each steamboat to take on outgoing freight at one of the city wharves.

This is an emergency never, perhaps, contemplated or fully provided for by the city ordinances. The wharves on the river front border on the navigable waters of the United States—or so the United States commissioner holds, on the high seas.

The harbor master claims that he has a right to remove from a wharf a steamboat or other vessel may lie. The steamboat men very properly regard the recent attempt to exercise that authority as extremely arbitrary in its character, and without the sanction of the law. In the contest, though the harbor master may be only exercising what he regards as a legitimate authority, the city must appeal to the federal law which protects steamboats on navigable waters, and allows them to discharge cargoes at one wharf and land at another, either public or private.

The controversy seems likely to lead to a competition between the city and the private wharf owners that will materially reduce wharfage charges on goods landed; but will be unlikely to terminate in hindering a steamboat from loading at any unoccupied wharf owned by the city.

MINSTRELS TONIGHT.—The debut of Kelly and Leon's minstrel and burlesque opera troupe tonight at the Mobile Theatre will create a sensation. Of this company the St. Louis Globe-Democrat says:

The entire entertainment was of a superior character, and elicited the praise of an enthusiastic audience. It requires varied talent and artistic philosophy to conduct so excellent a troupe, and these character-ists possess it in a marked degree. The opening piece, in part first the ballads were all new, and as rendered by Messrs. Kelly, Burridge and Clinton were especially acceptable to the audience. Morton and Leyser on either end, are capital. The finale, "The Skidmores," is both new and laughable.

In part second Leon is the bright, particular luminary and well deserves to be, without doubt the best impersonator of female characters we ever saw, with a clear, sweet, melodious, natural voice, and gracefulness of manner surprisingly deceptive.

Walters and Morton gave a budget of songs and dances, entirely new and first-class in all particulars, and Frank Bowles is a talented musician, whose power is gracefully expressed on the cornet. The burlesque opera, Norma, and the extremely laughable burlesque representation of "The Two Off-Uns," were both tip-top, the latter especially commendable. Altogether, a merry, mirth-provoking company.

RAINFALL.—Dr. D. O'Donoghue, signal observer here, sends to the Tribune a copy of the Weekly Weather Chronicle, published at Washington, containing a general summary of the weather for the week ending the 12th instant.

The amount of rain or melted snow for that week averages about as follows in the various districts: St. Lawrence valley, 0.45 inch; New England, 1.00; Middle Atlantic States, 0.30; South Atlantic States, 0.83; Eastern Gulf States, 0.20; Western Gulf States, 0.55; Lower Lake region, 2.00; Upper Lake region, 0.75; Ohio valley, 1.00; Tennessee, 0.35; Upper Mississippi valley, 0.80; Missouri valley, 0.05; Minnesota, 0.05.

"John, you said Sally kissed you, did you kiss her back?" "No, I did not."

WALKS AROUND TOWN.

Japan plums are retailing at ten cents a pound in New Orleans. They are on the trees and unripe in Mobile.

The city court, Judge Semmes, will meet tomorrow morning, when the civil docket will be taken up and cases set for trial.

The storm signal hoisted over the signal observer's office early yesterday afternoon was ordered down last evening about six o'clock.

Hamersen, at the Opal restaurant, next door to the post office, has a grand reception every day. On all these state occasions, good dinners are ordered.

In the circuit court, Judge Toulmin, the cases for trial today will be: Levy & Co. vs Ryan & Van Hagen; same vs same; state of Alabama vs Weed; Lee vs Gray; Farley vs Daughdrill.

According to the Board of Trade reports, the cotton receipts at all ports Wednesday were 16,411 bales: New Orleans 8,926, Galveston 2,129, Savannah 891, Mobile 644, Charleston 503, Norfolk 544.

The old Mobile Bank Building—or that part occupied for banking purposes—on the corner of Royal and Conti streets, will be converted into a lager beer saloon in a few days.

Fincher, the Wheelerville man who was shot in the other night, says his brother-in-law did it. He was riddled with thirty-three buckshot, so he told Justice Turnower, who went out to take his dying deposition.

According to the Board of Trade reports, the cotton receipts yesterday at all ports were 15,421 bales: New Orleans 7,476, Norfolk 2,207, Galveston 1,606, Charleston 857, Savannah 515, Mobile 481.

The only matinee of the Kelly and Leon minstrel and burlesque opera troupe tomorrow at twelve o'clock, will attract a great number of people who enjoy holiday entertainments under the gas light. The indications are that the house will be crowded to see this company that comes to us heralded by the most excellent reports of their performances.

M. J. Farrell, Thomas E. Rabby and W. H. Manning offer to police the city of New Orleans for $800,000 a year. They are all competent men in that department. The average cost for the past seven years has been $780,000 per annum. No ex-detectives of Mobile could police New Orleans so cheap as this off'r.

Bayly & Pond, of New Orleans, have been indicted by the grand jury of the United States circuit court for doing a rectifying business without a license. The rectifying consisted in using pure rain water to make their whisky suitable for the trade. Such a thing done in Mobile would be considered honesty towards the government, but a little rough on customers who can make their own water.

"A Citizen" desires us to respectfully ask Captain Paul Boyton, who delights in the most perilous aquatic adventures and exhibitions, where that fleet of steamboats will start from Sunday morning, that means will be provided to satisfy the thirst and satisfy the hunger of the passengers and what are the precise features of his proposed exhibition. Our correspondent hopes to hear from Captain Boyton, through the columns of the Tribune, tomorrow morning, so that he and the public may know what they may expect.

St. Vincent's Church was crowded Wednesday evening to witness the performance of the ceremony that united in marriage Mr. James F. Tierney and that very estimable young lady, Miss Mary Annie Kiernan. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father O'Callaghan at half-past five o'clock, and from the church the bridal party proceeded to the residence of the bride's mother where a substantial repast was spread for this party and a few invited guests. The bride and the groom are congratulated and the wish of a long life and prosperity is extended to them.

The Imperial Insurance Company, of London, established in 1803, and the North Insurance Company, of London, established in 1836, issue joint policies. Their capital and assets amount to $23,000,000. Mr. Joseph E. Murrell, No. 44 St. Michael street, is the agent for these old and reliable companies, and insurance can be safely made in them.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT.—Judge Bruce presiding. United States vs Myer Goldsmith, demurrer to the indictment overruled yesterday. Today witnesses in this case will be examined.

Excitement on Canal Street.

[From the N. O. Picayune.]

Yesterday, between the hours of 10 and 11 o'clock, a gentleman dressed in gray clothing, whose place of business is on Camp street, might have been observed standing at the corner of Canal and Chartres streets, gazing inwardly in the direction of Camp street. Now and then he would twist his long brown mustache with a nervous air, or roll a cigarette between his fingers. A few whiffs of smoke and it disappeared in the gutter, while the gazer would take out his watch and, after noting the time, looked around with an expectant air, as if on the alert for some event of importance, or awaiting the arrival of a party with whom an appointment had been made.

Just as the long hand of the Canal street clock was pointing to the eleventh hour two lawyers, well known at the bar, one a very tall and portly man, the other a stunt spare frame, advanced across to the northern side of Canal street, and when arrived at the corner of Chartres, turned to go in the direction of the Custom-House. At this moment, the genteel man in gray sprang quickly across the street, and drawing from his pocket the ample folds of his cloak a long, thick cowhide, applied it with vigorous blows to the broad and substantial back of the tall lawyer, to whom the assault seemed a most disagreeable surprise, for he immediately took to flight and incontinently sought a safe harbor from the storm of wrath that was raging in his wake by taking refuge on the first closed stairway. Here he was followed by his irate pursuer, who plied again the cowhide with telling effect.

The besieged lawyer resorted to his books for aid, and showered the yellow missiles on the bold assailant. When this ammunition was exhausted he defended himself with his feet, at only resuming all the challenges of the enemy to satisfy forth and join issue on the level plain below. Finally the bystanders interfered, and the combatants separated. It appears that the cause of the cowhiding was as follows:

The gentleman in gray, above mentioned, had been a witness in a certain case with which the lawyer was connected, and the latter resolutely died a duel in this case after it was appealed to the Supreme Court of the State, in which he charged that the aforesaid witness had manufactured certain letters for mercenary purposes, and that his testimony was not to be believed.

It is needless to say that the affair created the greatest excitement.

The Chicago Tribune suggests as a means of preventing pauses in theatres and similar places of public resort a placard with the words "Pause Adam, No Dauger," which could address the people through the eye when the tumult would render audible speech impossible. Such a placard was for many years a regular part of the stage furniture at the old Chicago Museum, and it was once or twice used with the happiest effect.

The list of distinguished failures of the past year, published by the London Times, exhibits catastrophes of the most magnificent amount. Those which head the list are L. C. Im Thurn, Gaudersons and Ouffin, each of which is over £3,000,000. Then comes Young, Bortwick & Co., £2,500,000; Robert Benson, £1,000,000, with many more almost as large.—N. Y. World.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 14.

Passing down the avenue the other day with a gentleman who has been here for many years, I happened to remark that at the opera I often saw members of churches whose discipline strictly prohibited such amusements. My friend laughed, made some dry comment upon the change of ideas, and then related his own experience.

"I came here twenty years ago from the West; my Methodist education had taught me to regard the theatre as the direct road to perdition, and I resolved that no amount of temptation at the capital could make me betray my principles. Oh, dear! how long the evenings grew, for I was a total stranger here, and prayer-meetings, somehow, were not the refreshing means of grace I needed. They were proving the Achilles' heel of the Christian Colossus at the old Nation al and every day in Congress I heard my colleges laughing over its sins till one evening, feeling especially blue, I strolled near the theatre and finally entered, stealing up into the balcony, as if I were guilty of some dreadful crime. The curtain rose; I never looked around me, and supposed no one saw me there—but how I did like that play! The next day, meeting another western member, and longing to share my enjoyment, I decided to tell him and tempt him to try the experiment. He was a Baptist of the most strict sect, so I approached the topic very cautiously. He heard me through without a word, and said with one hundred feet, thence east 27 feet and nine inches, more or less thence north along the wall on the east, dividing the lot hereby conveyed from the building now occupied by the State and Commercial Bank, and the lot now or lately belonging to John Henry, to the place of beginning, one hundred feet. Together with all and singular the tenements, hereditaments and appurtenances unto the above described property. JOHN M. MORGAN, greatly detracted from the general effect. Nothing could change the woful reality of the death scene. That drawn, pinched look about the nostrils, the upturned glassy eyes, the rattle in the throat, the limp pall and dropping jaw. Oh, it was ghastly! I never wish to witness anything like it again.

REVEREDY JOHNSON.

The death of Reverdy Johnson shocked us all, with some lasting distress. It seemed as if he had a life when and before he had seen so many experiences; so crowned with success in every path he had chosen to pursue should go out along that the gray head should fall and the sightless eyes close forever with no hand near to give a single tender touch, and that no listening ear could receive any word or thought. More than eighty years old, but his intellect was undimmed, and only a few days ago he stood in the Supreme Court room giving a legal opinion with the statelliness of manner, the courtliness of phrase and the emphatic declaration of those who are absolutely sure of the position they assume. To-day he has been buried, the waves of our life close about his memory; younger men are crowding forward to fill every possible place of distinction, eager to seize every failing honor, and caring little for the aged hero whose stations they but poorly occupy; fill them, they cannot! I wonder if the men who to-day are prominent will ever pass so gradually through the vista of history as those who are gone? The excitement of distance is strangely effective, but it is difficult to believe that we shall ever accord to our political leaders of to-day the honor we so willingly have given to Webster and Clay, and Calhoun. Take the gentlemen now conspicuous in the House,

RANDALL, COX, LAMAR, BLAINE AND GARFIELD.

Randall is wily, adroit, and sudden in all his movements. His speeches are rarely calm statements; they are passionate harangues, for he is an impassioned speaker by nature. He is almost the coal argument of any topic that interests him. His usual tones ring through the chamber, his face grows white, his thin lips compress themselves firmly after every sentence, and those wonderfully luminous eyes grow darker and darker while they gleam with intensity of emotion. Don't you know that it is from the blackest cloud that the most vivid lightning leaps?

Cox, too, can now speak without intense excitement, but he manifests it in a different way. His fine head is so poised upon a slender neck that his nods are almost as conclusive as those of Olympian Jove; he cannot possibly stand still, but rising with his own enthusiasm, he inches up the ascending aisles all the while he speaks, coming suddenly down at intervals to inspect documents upon his desk, catching the drift of data at a glance and then backing again. Mr. Cox is never at a loss for an expression; should the ordinary resources of language fail, he coins at once some word which astonishes with its fitness while his wide knowledge of both ancient and modern literature, his practical experiences of travel and his ability to see the absurd points in any opponent's statement render him a formidable antagonist. Very likely in a stand up fight he would be utterly floored, but he leaps round a bigger adversary goading him with little stabs that bring blood every time, till worried out he yields.

Blaine is the acknowledged champion of the minority, and doesn't he magnify his office? Let one of his rank and file dare to think independently and the wrath of their chieftain is quickly felt. His speech on the financial question the other day was covered with the greatest deference. Frederick Fraley of Philadelphia, President of the National Board of Trade, declared that "Mr. Blaine had presented the ocean of the financial situation unembarrassed by statistics," but this oracular sentiment is so queer an example of mixed metaphor that one is tempted to wonder whether Mr. Fraley's ideas were not equally uncertain. "Thunderstorms ocean!" Think of it gramgers! Yet Mr. Bla

SATURDAY,.....Feb. 19, 1876.

Mr. S. S. Cox is pro tempore speaker of the U. S. House of Representatives, in the absence, from illness, of Mr. Kerr.

Gen. Brady, who is trying to make the crooked straight, is now in Mobile, if the N. O. papers are right, and the railroad has not been crooked.

The death of Rev. Dr. Horace Bushnell, in Connecticut, is announced. He was very highly distinguished in his profession. Age seventy-three.

It is reported in the despatches that Gen. Schenck, U. S. minister in London, has resigned his office. He has been a very much persecuted man, but there has yet been nothing like proof that he is culpable of the various charges that have been made against him—in the party newspapers.

A sad accident occurred in New Orleans the other day. Two ladies died from poison—the one seventy-two years of age, and the other fifty-three. By some mistake of the elder, oxalic acid was put in a stew, instead of salt. Resembling that, it was used instead of it. Both, after eating their dinner, were taken sick, and the doctor was called too late to save them.

Two men went out from New Orleans last Thursday to fight a duel; namely, George Dupre and I. N. Stoutemyer. Why they went out, or how they expected logically to conclude their differences in that way is not mentioned. But it is a satisfaction to them to know that they shook hands on the "field of honor," and went home in a carriage and not in coffins. Both, we suppose, were gratified with the result.

We alluded yesterday to the Centennial Expedition, and gave the World's estimate of the probable pecuniary result of it—not to its managers, but the people of Philadelphia. A much larger result is made by a correspondent of the N. Y. Post. He makes the visitors seven millions, and, at ten dollars a person, the result $70,000,000. Another gentleman—evidently not entirely sane—supposes that there will be one hundred million visitors. At ten dollars per head, the result will be nearly enough to buy the whole city.

The London World, (as stated by the New York World) gives an interesting sketch of the work of Baroness Burdett-Coutts in behalf of morality and humanity. The energetic munificence of this lady has built churches and schools in desolate districts in London and in the provinces. She has planted the Church of England itself in several of the colonies, by endowing bishoprics in Australia, in the Cape of Good Hope and British Columbia, at an aggregate cost that might have purchased a principality of broad acres for her own enjoyment. A society for improving the condition of the aborigines was also instituted at her suggestion and by her aid. Her interest in every effort to promote religious knowledge has never slumbered. She provided funds for Sir Henry James's topographical survey of Jerusalem, and she employed agents to obtain ancient manuscripts from the East for the verification of Scripture.

Well, the lady is rich—very rich—and, we suppose, gentle and tenderhearted.

Some of us poor people are disposed to censure those persons who have great wealth, and do not give more of it—to every solicitor, or tramp.

Commodore Vanderbilt has been very generous, as in the case of the University in Tennessee, which is named after him.

This beneficence was not, we suppose, intended for any other purpose than the very liberal gentleman supposed would be of use in his generation—looking, also, farther ahead, and seeing, in the future, the effects it may have in the forming of the moral and scholastic condition of the men and women who are growing up for good or ill.

We like a rich man—not because he is rich—for wealth gives power, not respect. We like him because he is good in the use that he puts his power to.

And so we have a great respect for the English lady, and for Commodore Vanderbilt. They may not distribute their wealth wisely. That is their business. But they do distribute it, and that is something. They do not keep it all at home.

Wednesday's Register contains an article from the editor of the Illinois "Era," who has made a flying trip over portion of the South.

He is very eulogistic of the carpet bag managers of the Mobile and Ohio Railroad, upon which, I suppose, those adventurers gave him a free pass.

As one of the many whom these carpet-baggers intend to swindle, I call the attention of Judge Woods to this unauthorized ab se of management to obtain popularity.

Where is the Illinois "Era" published? Is there any such paper? or is the article manufactured for home consumption? What influences have been brought to bear upon a Southern public, to advocate the cause of a party that has obtained possession of the Mobile and Ohio Railroad by fraud, to wreck it for the personal uses of themselves and their co-heres?

We shall see, when the case comes up for their removal, whether they are relieved from the bonds required in New York for fraud, or whether they are amenable on similar charges in the State of Alabama in relation to this road.

Alabama Legislature.

SENATE — Thursday. — Senator Hamilton, from Joint Committee on Revenue, by leave, reported favorably, on bill to refund money paid for licenses by merchants and others, other than commission merchants and brokers, under paragraph 20 section 102 of the Revenue Law. Passed, yeas 27.

A bill was offered to make printing bills a part of the costs of causes. The bill to provide for the printing of the state was reported, and passed, with the amendments. The committee on Federal Relations reported favorably on a joint resolution to appoint three additional Commissioners to the Philadelphia Centennial. It was adopted. The bill in relation to the redemption of lands sold for taxes, and bought by the state, was, after some debate, sent to the Judiciary Committee.

The chair announced as special committee on Governor's message in regard to swamp and overflowed lands, Messrs. Green of Lee, Price, Clements, Chambers and Wood of Talladega.

Also, as addition to committee on bill to adjust the public debt, Messrs. Price, Billups and Beirne.

Mr. Brewer, from Committee on Ways and Means, reported favorably on bill to make appropriations for the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, 1876. Passed.

The Governor notified the legislature of his approval of several bills that had passed. He has not yet sent in a veto, which is indicative of harmony.

Mysteriously Burned at Sea.

From the New York Herald.]

The steamer Pommerania of the Hamburg line, which arrived at Hoboken yesterday, reported that a burning ship was seen on the 8th inst. Captain Schwensen, commander of the Pommerania, last night gave the history of the incident to a Tribune reporter as follows: On the evening of February 8th we saw a strong reflection of light against the sky in the distance. Judging that it was caused by a burning vessel. I had my steamer turned out of her course in the di ection of the light. As we drew near enough to distinguish that the flames were those of a ship on fire. I brought the steamer as near as convenient, and sent out a boat to rescue the passengers and crew, if any could be found. The boat rowed up to within forty or fifty feet of the ship, but could not approach nearer on account of the intense heat. The vessel was of large size, and wrapped from stem to stern in flames that shot up high in the air, and emitted dense volumes of smoke. The fire must have broken out some time during the day, as the vessel had already burned down nearly to the water's edge, which rendered it impossible to ascertain her name or whether she was bark-rigged or full-rigged. The boat rowed about for a long time in search of the crew or passengers, but no trace of any human being could be found. The sky was clear and the sea very calm, only a slight breeze blowing, and the boat's crew could not have failed to find any persons around the burning ship if there had been any there. From the great heat thrown out by the flames, from the peculiar glow and the dense smoke, I was led to think that the vessel had been freighted with petroleum. Cotton or any other material would not burn so fiercely. I did not leave the place until I had satisfied myself that there was no living being to be found. Those who had become aboard the lost ship had probably been picked up by a vessel going east, in which direction I judged the burning vessel to have been bound. The flames could be distinguished for a long time after we left, but finally were suddenly quenched, indicating the sinking of the hull.

Theatre.

The audience at the theatre last night was a large one. Very few of the seats were vacant. A better pleased one we have rarely seen. There was much in the play except fun and enough of it to break a susceptible man's heart. To keep from a continuous roar was impossible.

There was something more than the fun. The Echo Cornet Solo was very beautiful, and attracted the attention of the auditors, and the lady who sang in the burlesque of Norma gave great delight to those who love music. She has a voice that has a great deal in it that is charming. She may be a man, for all we know. She looked like a woman, and acted like a lady.

We have never seen a performance which better pleased the audience. There was nothing hurtful in it and fun enough, all through it, to remove the "blues" from the most dyspeptic man or woman in America.

The company is to play to-day in matinee, and to-night. If it lack a large audience we shall be surprised.

P.S.—We are told that the lady who played in Norma is not a lady. We are sorry for that, for we know two or three susceptible young men who have had no sleep in consequence of him, or her, or it.

Humors of Hymen.—Appleton's Journal gives the following among its wedding-announcements: A young clergyman, at the first wedding he ever had, thought it was a very good time to impress upon the couple before him the solemnity of the act "I hope, Dennis," he said to the coachman, with his license in his hand, "you have well considered this solemn step in life." "I hope so, your reverence," answered Dennis. "It's a very important step you're taking Mary," said the minister, "Yes, sir; I know it is," replied Mary, whimpering. "Perhaps we had better wait a while." "Perhaps we had, your reverence," chimed in Dennis. The minister, hardly expecting such a personal application of his exhortation, and seeing the $5 note vanishing before his eyes, betook himself to a more cheerful aspect of the situation, and said: "Yes, of course it's a solemn and important, you know, but it's a very happy time, after all, when people love each other. Shall we go on with the service?" "Not yet, your reverence, wait until we go to the mutual aid and draw the money, and we are sure to get—and then we will be better prepared to take the important step your reverence talks about." And after the next drawing day his reverence drew them as coupled and made them one, and each thought they had drawn a prize.

TELEGRAPH

DOMESTIC.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—Finley and Wall, from Florida, had a further hearing. The committee on privileges and elections did not consider Spencer this morning.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 18.—A letter-carrier testified that in the latter part of February, 1875, at the request of Joyce, he opened a letter-box and searched for two letters, one addressed to Babcock and one to Avery, and gave them to Joyce. Joyce declined to give a receipt, saying it was a fly. The carrier did not report the circumstance.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 18.—The difficulty between Hon. Geo. Dupre and I. N. Stoutmeyer of the Times, was adjusted on the field, creditably to the parties and satisfactory to their friends.

FOREIGN.

LONDON, Feb. 18.—The Daily Telegraph is informed that the statements published by the central press yesterday, that General Schenck, American minister, had resigned, and that his resignation had been accepted, were unauthorized.

Of the nine persons landed at Deal from the steamer Stratte Clyde many were greatly exhausted and three have since died. The accounts of the number on board the Stratte are conflicting, the most reliable seems to be thirty of the crew and twenty-six passengers of whom eleven were saved at Dover. The total number perished is yet at sixteen in addition to the three who died at Deal.

BERLIN, Feb. 18.—The Gerichtshalt, a legal journal, announces that the state tribunal has decided to indict Count Von Arnim for treason, and issue a writ against him.

The Opal Restaurant and hotel, next door to the post office, is conducted on the European plan. Guests may dine and wine there and sleep elsewhere, or they may take a lodging room there and dine where they choose. Hamerson is polite and courteous to all.

Two colored hands at work in a turpentine orchard, ten miles back of Point Cesse, had a difficulty Thursday about the wife of one of them, and he was dangerously if not fatally shot. An old smooth-bore army musket, loaded with buckshot, was the weapon used.

Hatton is the shirt king of Mobile. He has a large stock carefully selected and sells at these astonishingly low prices: Six shirts for $3 (open back or front) or for $10 50, six for $12 50, six for $16. The quality of the goods is excellent and the work so faithfully done that the seams do not rip, nor the buttons drop off.

The clothing sales of Pincus, the famous dealer, northeast corner of Dauphin and Royal, are made on Saturday at remarkably low prices, whether the purchaser buys a single garment, or a full fashionable suit. The salesmen at this house make only correct representations as to the quality of the goods, and the prices are established so low that the most intelligent buyer is perfectly satisfied.

At five o'clock, sharp this evening, the new iron steamer John T. Moore, Captain Owen Finnegan on the roof and Mr. P. J. Lyons in the office, will cast off her lines for Selma and Montgomery. The elegance of the state rooms and saloon and the courtesy of the officers will attract passengers, and the Moore is bound to carry out a big freight. Spaulding & Foster agents.

The favorite steamer Victoria, Captain Woodie Stone, will back out at five o'clock this evening for Tuskaloosa and Northport. There is so much pleasure in traveling where Captain Woodie is in command that the Victoria is sure to have a good list of passengers and the freight will just pile up. Spaulding & Foster agents. Frank Stone's Grange Line.

The Victoria passed Demopolis yesterday morning with 700 bales of cotton and will be in Mobile today.

The D. L. Tally was due last night.

The Bandy Moore, Captain Stewart, from Columbus, arrived about daylight yesterday morning with a few passengers, 474 bales of cotton and a small trip of sundries.

The Jno. T. Moore, from Montgomery, arrived yesterday morning with a large number of passengers, 500 bales of cotton, 56 sacks cotton seed and a tolerable list of sundries.

Selling off to close business, all of our best calicoes at 8 cents a yard at retail, and all other dry goods at prices to insure their immediate sale. Stone & Sale.

Gala Day Tomorrow.—The steamers Annie, Fountain, Effort and Rover, with barges, will start from the foot of Dauphin street at half past eight o'clock tomorrow morning for Mobile Bay, where Captain Paul Boyton will give his wonderful aquatic exhibition. The Annie is reserved for ladies.

The programme will be sailing, floating and standing upright in the water; flag bearing; sending dispatches; forms of a raft from the debris of a wreck; signals of distress; fishing; cooking; smoking and reading; shooting; carrying a line; night signals; the rescue, etc.

The cotton receipts here from the Alabama river since September first have been 45,409 bales; same time last year 33,035—increase 12,464 bales. From the Bigbee river 48,868 bales; same time last year 24,192—increase 24,676 bales. From the Warrior river 22,607; same time last year 11,205—increase 11,402 bales. By Mobile and Ohio Railroad 131,720; same time last year 130,416—increase 1,304 bales. By Mobile and Montgomery Railroad 47,257 bales; same time last year 71,566 bales—decrease 24,309 bales. Total increase from all sources 25,537 bales.

At the Mobile Varieties this evening, in addition to the usual novelties, Addie Woods will give a third illustration of her ability to read slips of writing sealed in an envelope, when she is blindfolded. She has no previous knowledge of what any one in the audience (to whom slips of paper and envelopes are distributed) will write, but she will read it correctly every time. Dora Dawson, the double-voiced vocalist; Eloise Woods, the bewitching songstress; Rosa Lee, the beautiful vocalist; George Simon and Dick Roberts will also contribute to entertain the multitudes who will visit the Varieties this evening.

A Philadelphia experimenter has been emulating the example of Dio Lewis in respect to economical living and a vegetable diet, and communicates to the public the result of his effort to feed a family of three on a dollar a week. He tried corn-meal, and found it insipid. Buckwheat soon followed, and potatoes soon failed to sustain bodily strength. Then oatmeal was tried, and at the expiration of two weeks, saw the experimenter, "I found myself now and a quarter pounds heavier. My wife had gained three pounds, while the lad had gained over five pounds. Our food outlay for the fourteen days was exactly two dollars and eighty cents, or less than seven cents per day for each person. We are now pursuing the same course, with an occasional 'mixed meal.'"

There is a man in New Hampshire who sends fourteen of his children to the same school. The rest are too small to go.

Garfield doesn't enjoy being in the minority one bit, but I can't help acknowledging how admirably he is (training his mind to meet the heavy tempest he cannot avoid. He is a fine orator, but he rarely succeeds in stirring the hearts of the people so strongly that they will care to rank him among the great men of the country, and he now will be rid of the incongruity in which his varied pursuits have clothed him. Priest and soldier and politician! A vodd combination!

THAT CONSULAR BILL

gave us some showy speeches, but good as they are in the reading, one should have heard them to appreciate their power. The tides of laughter that ebbed and flowed leaving all faces with their pleasant traces (Goodness! I didn't mean to make a rhyme) the bright sallies and interjected retorts, the blank faces of the unlearned when bits of Greek and Latin were quoted, the cordial delight of those who felt they were missing "hits," and the great relief to all parties of a little amusement intruding into such dry details. Phrase by phrase they are considering the bill. Mr. Hewitt of New York fights it with polished weapons, and I confess my sympathies are with his views of the case. Suppose our domestic resources have been badly used and Uncle S. finds a deficiency in the family purse. Is it quite worth while to go howling about it all around the universe, to let us appear respectably abused and pinch at home if we must. As a western poker player would phrase it, "play bluff when you hold a doubtful hand." But America doesn't hold a doubtful hand at all, think of the undiscovered riches waiting only the miner's search! Why doesn't our respected and beloved Uncle take possession of tracts known to possess valuable ores and make those ores supply our deficiency? Can't a mine be as successfully coined for the benefit of the nation as for individuals? Why shouldn't our Ministers abroad live like princes? Are they not such by right of birth in this royal land, where all may be nobles? If the poor upon whom the untimate burden of taxation falls most heavily could only deny themselves the use of those things which debase and destroy, their cry need not be so freighted with anguish.

Mr. Springer was evidently satisfied with himself when he sat down, for he had quoted Byron to some purpose and read the vouchers or accounts, or something which detailed the amount wasted! in conferring presents upon a Turk! Mr. Springer is ambitious. Mr. Springer is eagerly looking for a chance to distinguish himself here, and make an impression also at home, and this speech he thought was an entering wedge worth driving to its full length. Well, we shall see how much good it will do him.

A quiet gentleman sits on the back row of desks. When he rises you will see how tall he is; he carries his head slightly forward. The face is smoothly shaven, its kindly thoughtful eyes beam behind glittering spectacles; solid gray hair is carelessly tossed back from a brow remarkable for height and fullness, and any one would instinctively trust a face so full of truth and earnest purpose. I don't think he has made a speech yet during the session, but none of the new members carry greater weight in the committee room, and all the country has heard of this quiet man, for he is H. B. Payne, of Cleveland, of whom I write and his proposed plan of slowly resuming specie payment finds favor with many men in both parties.

But to-day is St. Valentine's festival and political courting goes hard. I meant to close my scribble with a rhyme that should make you all my choosin, but that would be as bad as Pactolus managing his daughter, or the system so hated among the the Utah mountains, and I don't want to be a Mormon or a polyandries.

Two men from Mobile, Messrs. Gayle and Lemoine, were arrested in this city on Monday, charged with defrauding the internal revenue by manufacturing whisky out of alcohol, water, and a flavoring extract, according to a recipe which they are engaged in selling. They are still in jail.—Columbus (Miss.) Democrat.

Instead of fooling away their time on the cashiers of country banks, the burglars, if they were smart, would turn their attention to the Bank of France, where there is $355,000,000 in gold. All they would have to do would be to get it out of the vaults.

The New York papers tell about a "drawback on sugar." That's nothing. There has been a fearful "pull back" on 'lasses all summer.

London has 5,000 miles of gas mains, 54,000 street lamps, which burn 3,000,000 cubic feet of gas each night.

The memory of M'lle Titiens is said to be marvelous. She can retain the music of sixty-eight operas in her mind. She only taps her forehead and says, "They are all there," but she can't tell how. It is long since she sang "Norma," but the other day she went to rehearsal and rendered it without glancing at the score. And, what is more, she not only knows her own role, but that of everybody else.

A MONSTER TELESCOPE.—The great telescope recently erected in the Paris observatory is to be completely overshadowed in size and power by the instrument now in course of construction for the new observatory in Vienna. Tu s is the largest yet attempted, and is being made at Dublin. The length will be thirty-two feet, the object glass will have an aperture of over twenty-six inches, and the great brass casting—weighing eight tons—will form a chamber of twelve feet long, eight feet high, and four and one-half feet wide. The tube will be entirely of steel, and all the axles will have their friction relieved by anti-friction apparitus. It is expected that the instrument will be completed by the autumn of 1878. It took six years to build the Paris reflector, which cost about $40,000.

WHAT A WICKED BOY DID.—A wicked boy caught a firefly one day and stuck it with mucilage on the centre of the largest lens of the telescope in the Washington Observatory. The astronomer perceived a blaze of light, which died out at intervals, and thinking he had discovered a most extraordinary star, he pronounced it "of the third magnitude of Orion. He telegraphed at an expense of $2,500 all over the world, and the astronomers gazed at Orion until they were wild, and then telegraphed back to the professor for further information. In the meantime his star had moved 18,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 miles in twenty-one hours and he perceived it actually had legs! But on polishing his lens he found the lightning bug!—then he swore terribly—worse than "our army in Flanders!"—in fact they heard him swear away down in Alexandria, seven miles away. Since then he has been looking for that boy; he wishes to consult with him about something.

BRICKELL, C. J.

1. Rulings upon demurrer not shown otherwise than by recital in the bill of exceptions will not be revised on appeal.

2. Written instructions given a former agent, limiting his authority, are not competent evidence for the principal in a suit on a contract, with which this agent had nothing to do, entered into by other agents (after the termination of the authority of the first) who had no written authority or instructions, and did not communicate the extent of their authority to the plaintiffs. Such evidence affords no reasonable presumption or inference in reference to any material fact in issue; it not being a legitimate inference that because the principal restricted the authority of one agent he did not entrust others with larger powers.

3. It is within the sound discretion of the presiding judge to prescribe the time and manner of introducing and closing evidence. It is discretionary to permit the plaintiff to offer in rebuttal evidence which in strictness should have been offered on the examination in chief, and the exercise of this discretion is not revisable. Although evidence offered in rebuttal enables a plaintiff to make a new case, after defendant is closed, an objection to its admission merely because of time at which the court permitted its introduction, presents no question for revision.

4. A party excepting to a general charge must point outspecifically the objectionable portions. A mere general exception to a general charge can not be sustained unless the entire charge is incorrect.

5. A charge which asserts that a contract of life assurance cannot be valid without a delivery of the policy, actual or constructive, during the life of the assured, is erroneous. In the absence of statutory inhibitions a contract of life assurance is not distinguishable from other contracts, and may be verbal, and all that is necessary to give it validity is the concurring intention of the parties and a sufficient consideration. The reduction of it to a writing, called a policy, may not be a condition precedent, but merely enduring evidence of the contract itself. If the proposal for assurance is accepted, the consideration paid and every thing done by either party essential to a complete contract, the delivery of the policy is not material to the validity of the contract.

6. An agent having authority to make a contract of assurance, receive payment of the premium and deliver the policy, without special instructions limiting his power, may determine what he will accept as payment. If he accepts a draft upon third persons in payment of the premium, the contract of assurance becomes operative and binding upon the company. It is not essential in such a case that the premium should be paid in cash, and in a charge so asserting, when there is evidence that payment in that way was waiver by the agent, is erroneous.

Affirmed.

An exchange says that croup can be cured in one minute, and the remedy is simply alum and sugar. The way to accomplish the deed is to take a knife or grater and shave off, in small particles, about a teaspoonful of alum, then mix it with about twice the quantity of sugar, to make it palatable, and administer it as quickly as possible. Almost instantaneous relief will follow.

David Dudley Field is another man of genius. He signed his name recently to a document and sent it to the printer. The signature appeared in print, "Tried and duly filed."—Ind. News.

THE MILK DEALERS.—The New York papers are discussing in a lively manner the justice of punishing milkmen who sell in that city an article that will not come up to the lactometrical standard. An expert in all sorts of analyses, the well-known Dr. Doremus insists that the lactometer is a variable and unreliable instrument for determining the purity of milk. For instance, with a given quantity of pure milk he finds the lactometer standing at the same figure, whether he puts in an equal amount of rich cream or clear water, while those who buy, notice considerable difference in quality. A prominent evening journal, on the other hand, insists that the lactometer is correct, because nine of a number of milk-dealers who were convicted on the testimony of this little instrument confessed their dishonesty. The best policy, and one involving no injustice, would be to always wait for the confessions of accused parties before accepting the statements of the lactometer as reliable. It would be rather hard to fine a man because he left too much cream in his milk. But the lactometer condemns cream equally with water. Convictions on purely instrumental evidence are liable to be faulty.—Boston Post.

Messrs. Gordon & Colquitt, the former United States Senator from Georgia, and an officer of the Southern Life Insurance Company, publish a card with reference to the failure of that concern, from which we extract the following:

We regret to announce to you that on the 24 inst. the Southern Life Insurance Company filed its petition in the United States Courts at Memphis, Tennessee, to be declared a bankrupt. The necessary effect of this is to suspend our business, at least for the present. This event was by us totally unlooked for, and has come upon us to our great astonishment. The officers of the company inform us that the complication is caused by an unexpected decision of the Tennessee courts, holding them liable for a large debt due by the Carolina Life Insurance Company, which the Southern Life had bought out, and that they have taken this step to save and secure their own policy-holders. They represent to us that they are, independently of this claim, abundantly solvent, and that if they can have a short breathing time, they can even meet this claim and be perfectly solvent. And that the going into bankruptcy is to prevent the preference and absorption of its assets by judgments and sales under these Carolina claims. We pledge to you that we will exert all our energies to protect your rights. Having complete record of the status of your policy, we will promptly notify you of any action that may be essential to your protection.

All the coal companies throughout the anthracite coal region of Pennsylvania have stopped work for five weeks, thus throwing about forty thousand people out of employment. The unusually mild winter has left a large accumulation of coal in the hands of the companies, and they think it unnecessary and impolitic to increase the surplus. As this course was anticipated by the miners, it is not thought that there will be no disturbance on account of it.

"Would you take a man's last cent for a cigar?" asked a rather seedy looking individual, as he entered a tobacco store on Front Street one day last week. The unsuspecting merchant replied in the affirmative, so the purchaser took a cigar, bit off the little end, applied the match, laid a copper cent on the counter, and walked out, evidently well pleased with his bargain, and the fumes of the choice Havana.—Meridian Gazette.

According to the Board of Trade reports, the cotton receipts yesterday at all ports were 11,752 bales: Norfolk 1,175, Mobile 1,544, Galveston 1,318, Savannah 810.

Chess, Carley & Co., successors to W. T. West & Co., are producers and refiners of petroleum and dealers in naval stores and distillers' supplies. They send turpentine to the west and bring back petroleum in special tank cars.

The noon cotton report of the Board of Trade yesterday was: "Market quiet and unchanged. Both a moderate supply and demand. Sales about 400 bales." Closing report: "Sales today 800 bales and 500 last evening. Market closed quiet and irregular. Fair demand."

Having now in store and receiving daily one of the largest stocks of choice family and fancy groceries in this city, Owen Farley solicits an examination of his stock and prices before purchasing elsewhere, guarantees to give entire satisfaction as to quality and prices and to deliver goods promptly in any part of the city free of drayage.

One of the undertakers of this city, Mr. John McDonald, has just had a new hearse made by H. Hanna & Co., of 19 North Conception street. It is a fine specimen of home work, is very simple in style, painted black with a gold band, and neatly trimmed with the most appropriate cloth and fringes. As compeering with Cincinnati, which is the centre of manufactures in hearses and other materials for the dead who are dear to the living, Mr. Hanna has shown what he can do.

The hardware importing firm of Scranton, Barney & Co., whose establishments on the river, and who are dealers in the most approved laborsaving plantation machinery and implements, was doing an immense business yesterday, indeed so much that they were compelled to tell some of their best customers that they could not deliver the goods they ordered till another day. It is a pleasure to note this evidence of unusual business prosperity here.

Circuit Court.—In the circuit court yesterday, Judge Toulmin on the bench, the disposal of a few motions was the only business done. The cases set for tomorrow are: Taylor vs. Epstein; Edwards vs Mobile and Northwestern Railroad Company; Libermann vs Waddell; same vs same; Bain vs M. and S. R. R. Company; Long vs Herpin; Mabry vs Saunders, Garner & Co.; Williams & Glascock vs Tonart; Alabama Gold Life Insurance Company vs Garner; Mobile Saving Bank vs same; Monett vs same.

WALKS AROUND TOWN.

Captain W. H. Merritt will hold his regular weekly auction sale tomorrow.

L. E. Brooks will sell as usual tomorrow, and dispose of a few baskets of champagne.

A soft fat, a suit of under clothing, a nice shirt or any other article of furnishing goods can be bought of Hatton.

The Concordia will give a subscription dramatic entertainment at Temperance Hall on the evening of the 28th instant.

The card of M. Forcheimer, wholesale grocer and dealer in western produce, will attract the attention of retail dealers.

It is freely admitted that Pincus, corner Royal and Dauphin, sells fashionable clothing of durable fabric at the lowest prices.

In the city court yesterday, Judge Semmes on the bench, the entire day was consumed with the motion docket. The court adjourned till next Wednesday.

The Mobile Turner Minstrels will give a grand minstrel performance and ball at Turner Hall next Friday evening. The receipt of a complimentary invitation is acknowledged.

Rev. Victor Both, will deliver an English Sermon, this evening at 7½ o'clock at the German Lutheran Church on St. Francis street between Warren and Dearborn streets, and the public are respectfully invited to attend.

The Battle House, under the management of Major McGowan, takes a front rank among southern hotels, and has all the conveniences and comforts of a first class house at prices to suit all travelers. Elevator for guests.

Complimentary tickets have been received to the entertainment by the Concordia Dramatic Society, on the 28th instant. June Spear and Dave Levy, both amateurs of rare dramatic merit, will be cast in the leading play.

M. Forcheimer has just received 500 barrels of choice Eastern early rose potatoes, which are excellent for the table or superior for planting purposes. Readers of the Tribune are advised to buy of him and get a choice article.

L. M. McKinney & Co., who are in the saddlery and harness business at 14 North Water street, have specialties in manufactures, as stated in their advertisement and will sell goods at the lowest possible prices.

Dr. R. A. Savage, surgeon dentist, corner Dauphin and Conception, has one of the most conspicuous offices in the city. This indicates that he is not now conducted by T. J. Bidgood & Co., corner St. Francis and Water streets, where everything in the line of staple and fancy stationery and all the standard school books may be found.

One of the best places in the city to purchase staple and fancy groceries and provisions, is at the house of Hargrove, Little & Co., 45, 47 and 49 North Conception and 46, 47, 49 and 51 Front, where the stock is large and the prices small.

The wholesale grocery and liquor house of Martin Horst, corner Conti, Commerce and Front streets is one of the central points of the city and the large stock of goods enables it to retain old and attract new customers at the low prices fixed on every article.

The fleet to carry passengers to witness the novel aquatic exhibition of Captain Paul Boyton in Mobile bay this morning will leave the Dauphin street wharf at half past nine and not at half past eight o'clock this morning, as announced.

The ineffably and incomparably stupid printer still lives. He used the standing head of "imports" over the list of "exports" in yesterday's paper. At the Centennial Exposition he would be sure to get the first premium as a blunderer.

Quite conspicuous in this paper is the card of Jno. R. Lassabe, wholesale dealer in provisions and fancy and staple groceries, 20 and 31 North Commerce street. Mr. Lassabe has a carefully selected stock, which he offers at the smallest possible advance on the cost.

Of the South Commerce street dealers in provisions and groceries, the house of A. A. Voss & Co., 36, 38 and 40 South Commerce street, is prominent for the quality of their goods, variety of the stock and low prices. They are also dealers in and manufacturers of naval stores.

Mr. J. Mc Donnell, wholesale grocer and provision dealer, 9 and 11 North Commerce street, has an immense stock of fresh goods, which he is selling at the lowest prices, and his trade, therefore, with retail dealers increases from day to day. Call on Mr. McDonnell, note his prices and buy a bill of goods.

All a clothing and furnishing goods house of Brisk & Jacobson, 56 Dauphin, the rarest bargains may be secured in the purchase of a full suit of clothing or a single article of furnishing goods. The reputation of this firm stands deservedly high for fair and honest dealing, and their customers are always treated with such consideration that they go back there again to get good fits and better bargains.

Mr. Lou. H. Mayer, internal revenue collector, has just returned from New Orleans, having been called to that city to testify in reference to the operations of the whisky ring there. He reports that after the closest investigation into the business operations of the wholesale merchants of this city, who are wholesale dealers in liquors, there cannot be found the slightest irregularity in their books or whisky transactions. .he is a high tribute to the integrity of our Mobile dealers in whisky by wholesale.

RIVER NEWS.

The steamer D. L. Tally, of Frank Stone's Grange Line, with Captain Frank Stone in command, arrived about ten o'clock yesterday morning from McLure's Landing with 740 bales of cotton, 705 sacks cotton seed, a fair trip of merchandise and thirty-five passengers.

The Victoria, Captain Woodie Stone, of Frank Stone's Grange Line, arrived from Tuskaloosa about three o'clock yesterday afternoon with 752 bales of cotton, a small list of sundries and about 20 passengers.

The only boat that went out last evening was the Joe T. Moore, Captain Finnegan, with a splendid freight and a large number of passengers.

To accommodate shippers, the Victoria, of Frank Stone's Grange Line, will leave tomorrow noon at twelve o'clock for Tuskaloosa and Northport. The state rooms, the saloon, the freight capacity and the popularity of the officers will ensure a good trip for the Victoria.

The D. L. Tally, though she had access of freight, laid over to accommodate other shippers.

The Atlanta, of Frank Stone's Grange Line, from McLure's Landing, and the W. S. Holt of Central Line No. 2, ought to be in tomorrow evening, to go out on their Tuesday trips.

In passing by the Mammoth Clothing House of M. P. Levy & Co., we were surprised to see the immense pile of boxes on the sidewalk as high as the first story of the building, containing goods that have just been received. To satisfy our curiosity, we crossed over into the store and every aisle was filled with boxes of goods, and the counters were packed as high as a man can stand, on all the three floors.

By the courtesy of one of the salesmen, we were shown through the immense building. It would take two columns of this paper to mention the styles and and variety of the goods.

But, without describing it, we can assure our readers that it is the nicest as well as the largest stock of spring clothing ever brought to this market, and that it will defy competition, not only in this city, but in the cities of the east or west. We would again urge on our readers, if they are in need of clothing of any article of gents' furnishing goods, to call, before purchasing elsewhere, at the Mammoth Clothing House, 16, 18 and 20 North Water street.

United States Circuit Court.—In this court yesterday, Judge Bruce presiding, the case of the United States, vs Meyer Goldsmith, late deputy collector of the customs here, for alleged complicity in an attempt to defraud the revenue on the importation of cigars by E. Goldstucker, occupied the whole day's session. The testimony was not concluded when our reporter left the court room, and after that the court adjourned till tomorrow morning. Many cigar dealers were in the court room. One witness incidentally stated that the trade puts cigars of one brand into the box of another brand and sells the substitute to their customers.

Mayor's Court.—In this court yesterday, Alderman Muldon presiding, Solomon Short, Jimmy Scott, Alfred Howard and Dick Robinson, four colored boys, for stealing a pistol from a lady living on Water street, were arraigned. Scott, said he took the pistol because the lady refused to pay him what she owed. Scott was locked up in the dark cell and the others ordered to be switched on the B. & Adams and Alfred Thomas for stealing from the store of J. C. Calhoun & Son, from the store of R. A. Weems and a box of tobacco from in front of the store of Chamberlain & Co., were required to give bonds in $100 for larceny and $250 for burglary. Montgomery Tax pleaded on the gang and he and McLean gate bonds for appearance as witnesses.

The Weather Yesterday.—Yesterday morning at 6:51 o'clock, the wind blew 16 miles an hour at Indianola 12 at Key West and 5 at Mobile. The temperature at Mobile was 39, highest 66 at Key West, lowest 33 at Augusta.

At 3:51 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the wind blew 14 miles an hour at Indianola, 11 at Key West and 4 at Mobile. The temperature was 78 at Key West, 69 at Corsicana, 78 at Galveston, 62 at Indianola and Mobile, 61 at Savannah, 60 at New Orleans and 59 at Augusta.

Selling off to close business, all of our best calicoes at 8 cents a yard at retail, and all other dry goods at prices to insure their immediate sale. Store for sale.

F. H. Pepper & Co.

SPRING GOODS—MAMMOTH CLOTHING HOUSE.—We had the pleasure yesterday of meeting Mr M. P. Levy, of the celebrated Mammoth Clothing House, who has just returned from a business tour of six weeks at the north, where he has been to manufacture under his supervision a very heavy spring stock for the wholesale and retail clothing trade, which he assures us is the largest and most fashionable and seasonable stock that has ever been brought to this city.

Having been early in the market, he has also been enabled to take advantage of bankrupt clothing sales, to such an extent that the firm of M. P. Levy & Co., will be enabled to sell at prices less than the cost of manufacture. Purchasers will be sure to obtain reliable goods at the great advantage of low prices.

We would advise our patrons and every one in need of spring clothing, or even winter clothing, to go to the Mammoth Clothing House, 16, 18 and 20 North Water street, and get the value of their money.

At the Mobile Theatre tomorrow evening, the dramatic combination of Lucien Barnes will commence an engagement of six nights and a matinee. Miss Sallie Adams and Jule Keen will appear Monday evening in their famous speciality drama, entitled "Bits and Luns, or German Life on the Upper Mississippi," introducing a new selection of musical specialties. Box office open tomorrow morning.

Ira W. Porter & Co., dealers in hardware, imported doors, mouldings, sashes and blinds, have the most approved tools for gardeners and turpentine makers and a great variety of kindred furnishing goods.

If you want anything in the line of sporting goods and fishing tackle, military and hardware for personal use, go to F. L. Golbke, 14 Dauphin street, who is selling off his large stock at reduced prices.

The total value of the foreign exports from Mobile yesterday was $377,988 88. The number of bales, weight and value of the cotton, and the quantity and value of lumber are stated in our marine columns.

Free Exhibition.—Tomorrow and next day day there will be an exhibition of diamonds, watches, jewelry, etc. of the stock brought here by the well-known diamond broker, Mr. M. H. Prince, of Washington City, at Mr. Brooks' store. This will give all an opportunity of critically examining the goods before day of sale, which will be Wednesday the 23rd instant, at 10 a. m. See Mr. Brooks' advertisement in another column.

Something New in Cabinet Organs.—Four more of those splendid-toned organs arrived at J. H. Snow's yesterday, made by Peloubet, Paine & Co., of New York. Mr. Snow has been selling this make of instruments for twenty years. The tone is as soft as a pipe organ or the human voice. We can conscientiously recommend them.

Pianos Repaired and Tuned.—J. H Snow's, 102 and 104 Dauphin street, is the place to leave your orders for thorough workmanship and tuning. None but the best materials used, and none but competent artists employed. Entire satisfaction guaranteed in every instance, or no charge.

MARRIED.

Gen. Lee and his Children.

While at Petersburg in the winter of 1864, General Lee attended preaching at a crowded chapel, and noted a little girl, dressed in faded garments, standing just inside the door and timidly looking around for a seat. "Come with me, my little lady," said the great soldier, "and you shall sit by me." And taking the little girl by the hand, he secured her a comfortable seat at his side.

Rev. W. H. Platt, who was rector of St. Paul's church during the war, gives the following: One day in Richmond a summons of late date was rolling in-ope on the stairway, when word was passed from one to another that General Lee was riding toward them. They all gathered into a still group to gaze upon one whom they had looked so much, when, to their surprise, he threw his rein to his attendant courier, dismounted, kissed every one of them, and then, mounting, rode away, with the sunny smile of good-by on his face and plans of great import in his mind.

Once, in a stereotrop, he called to see a child in whom he felt a special interest, and finding her sick, begged to be shown to her room. When the mother, who was at a neighbors for a moment came home, she found him by the bedside of her sick child, ministering to her comfort and cheering her with his word.

In coming one day in Petersburg upon the accomplished lady of the gallant and lamented A. P. Hill, his bright little girl met him at the door and exclaimed, with that familiarity which the kind-hearted old hero had taught her: "Oh, General Lee, here is 'Bobby Lee' (holding up a puppy) to see him. The General pretended to be so, and the little girl was delighted.

General Lee's love for children was proverbial, and he never lost an opportunity of showing it.

Henry Irving, the actor who came suddenly into great popularity in England, is described as resembling Booth, yet not handsome. He is tall, slender and awkward in gait. The characteristics of his acting are originality and unconstraint. He violates stages, and has genius enough to make the changes seem natural in the main. He represents Hamlet as sane, feigning mentality; delivers the "To be or not to be" soliloquy certainly seated in a chair; does not rest in the seeming sense of upbraiding with Ophelia; throws himself upon the throne after the king, betrayed by the mock play into a show of guilt, has left it, and then falls in a swoon; and at the end of the play seizes the king by the throat, stabs him, and flings his body among the courtiers.

A Toper's Soliloquy.

Leaves have their time to fall,
And so likewise have I;
The reason how's the same—
Both comes of getting dry.
But the difference 'twixt them and me—is
I falls more harder and more frequently.

To the Editor of the Mobile Tribune:

It has been very evident from the time Wm. Butler Duncan was elected a Director of the Mobile & Ohio Rail Road Company, that it was the purpose of himself and his confreres to wreck this road for their own benefit.

The public are looking very closely into the movements of the parties who control this property by direction of the court, and if there is any justice in this unfortunate Confederate territory there will be a more bitter and terrible day of retribution for Democratic carpet baggers than for the Radicals, who have preyed upon our people. The Radical carpet baggers came to the Southern States under appointments of the centralized and consolidated government, and were not expected to pay much respect to the views and feelings of the white people of the south, but these Democratic carpet-baggers, who are southern people, from their expressions of sympathy, and a belief in their honesty and integrity, lugged to their bosoms, have rewarded them with concealed daggers.

This latter class united with a few southern men and formed a ring who are not satisfied with the small stealings from peculations in office, like the Radicals, but they seek larger game, and their policy is, through their influence abroad, to wreck and steal the railroads of the South.

In illustration of this, we call the attention of our people to the Mobile and Ohio Railroad.

The purpose of these mutton-chop carpet baggers (all Democrats) is to wreck this property for their own benefit.

The last number of the New York Financial Chronicle gives the earnings of the Mobile and Ohio Railroad under this mutton-chop carpet-bag administration for the year 1875

In 1874, the first year of the same rule it was.. 2,391,019

Under the home administration in 1873 it was. 2,768,482

This shows a decrease under the mutton-chop carpet-bag Democratic administration in two years of $854,140.

Now those who are interested in the Mobile and Ohio Railroad may take either horn of the dilemma—that the management is incompetent, or it is their deliberate purpose to wreck the property for their own benefit, and to the damage of bond and stockholders and those who hold the floating debt. There are scattered along, from Florida Keys to Cape Henry, a class of men known as wreckers. They erect high poles upon the beach, with steps to go up and a plank on top, where they may be seen at early daylight, anxiously looking for and hoping that some disabled vessel may be driven ashore by the storm. Whenever an unfortunate vessel is driven ashore they, without mercy, rob the unfortunate passengers and crew of everything of value. The hyena will rob the graves and devour the carcases of human beings, but they always leave the coins used in closing the eyes of the dead that their friends may know their last resting place. These railroad wreckers, with more brutal instincts, will rob the widow and orphan of the last penny necessary to sustain life. The hyena feeds upon the dead. The railroad wreckers feed upon the living.

An Incident of the War.

On the 12th day of June, 1863, I witnessed a duel between a Captain Jones, commanding a Federal scout, and Captain Fry, commanding a rebel scout in Greene county, East Tennessee. These two men had been fighting each other for six months, with the fortunes of battle in the favor of one and then the other. Their commands were camped on either side of Lick creek, a large and sluggish stream too deep to ford and too shallow for a ferry boat; but there a bridge spanned the stream for the convenience of the the traveling public. Each of them guarded this bridge, that communication should go neither north or south, as the railroad track, had been broken up months before. After fighting each other, for several months, and contesting the point as to which should hold the bridge, they agreed to fight a duel, the conquerer to hold the bridge undisputed for the time being Jones gave the challenge, and Fry accepted. The terms were that they should fight with navy pistols at twenty yards apart, deliberately walking toward each other, and firing until the last chamber of their pistols was discharged, unless one or the other fell before all the discharges were made. They chose their seconds, and agreed upon a rebel surgeon (as he was the only one in either command) to attend them in case of danger.

Jones was certainly a fine-looking fellow with light hair and blue eyes, five feet ten inches in height, looking every inch the military chieftain. He was a man that soldiers would admire and ladies regarded with admiration. I never saw a man more cool, determined, and heroic under such circumstances. I have read of the deeds of chivalry and knight-errantry in the middle ages, and of brave men embalmed in modern poesy; but, when I saw this man Jones come to the duelists' scratch, fighting, not for real or supposed wrongs to himself, but, as he honestly thought, for his country and the glory of the flag, I could not help admiring the man, notwithstanding he fought for the freedom of the negro, which I was opposed to.

Fry was a man full six feet high, slender, with long, wavy, curling hair, jet black eyes, wearing a slouch hat and gray suit, and looking rather the demon than the man. There was nothing ferocious about him; but he had that self-sufficient nonchalance that said, "I will kill you." Without a doubt, he was brave, cool, and collected, and, although suffering from a terrible flesh wound in his left arm, received a week before, he manifested no symptoms of distress, but seemed ready for the fight.

The ground was stepped off by the seconds, pistols loaded and exchanged, and the principals brought face to face. I shall never forget that meeting. Jones in his military, boyish mood, as they shook hands, remarked that

When in glory's romantic career.

Fry caught up the rest of the sentence, and answered by saying:

Yet he bends o'er the foe when in blood he last few,
And bathes every wound with a tear.

They turned around and walked back to the point designated. Jones' second had the word "Fire!" and, as he slowly said, "One—two—three—fire!" they simultaneously turned at the word "One," and instantly fired. Neither was hurt. They cocked

THE DAILY TRIBUNE

TUESDAY,.....Feb. 2 2, 1876.

The burning of dead bodies is be coming a custom in Italy. We hope that it will be universal.

Reverdy Johnson's life was insured for $100,000. Mr. O'Conor is said to be worth $1,000,000.

Miss T. C. Claflin, by request, is to address the Louisiana House of Representatives. It is quite likely that she will instruct most of the members.

A prominent Broadway merchant in N. Y. named W. H. Ward, is missing, and his friends are in distress. Perhaps he has gone to look for Boss Tweed.

There were terrible storms in the English channel last week, and, of course, elsewhere. What damage was done by them, we shall know after awhile.

Last Saturday night eight of the houses of the Knickerbocker Ice Co's houses at Athens, N. Y. were destroyed by fire. 40,000 tons of ice were melted on the occasion. Loss $325,000.

The pen with which the President signed the appropriation bill for the Centennial was made from a feather plucked from an eagle. Some people seem to think that it ought to have been plucked from a goose. This class is opposed to the appropriation.

Last Saturday a tenement house took fire on East Broadway street, N. Y., and was destroyed. Several persons, jumping from the burning building, were very much hurt—some of them, no doubt, fatally. The fire was caused by the explosion of a kerosene lamp.

The U. S. circuit court has given through a jury a verdict for $100,000 in promissory note made by the Secretary of the N. O. Mobile and Texas Railroad, in favor of E. D. Morgan & Co. It was drawn March 20, 1872.

The steamboat Bill Henderson was sunk last Friday near Port Hudson, on the Mississippi, by a collision with the steamboat John F. Toile. The boat and cargo are a total loss. One deck hand was drowned.

We saw Hon. J. Forsyth on the street yesterday. One may not love his politics, or his financial theories; but these are of not much account, it one can respect the man, and that respect is what he has among our people. Of his wisdom in matters of public policy, we have nothing to say, because it is likely that we know less than he in matters of the kind, but there is a fact that is of value: the gentleman is a gentleman, and that is a very important consideration, when we are trying to discover who is worthy of public trust, and who is not likely to steal.

The Centennial.

A correspondent of a Montgomery paper makes a very solemn protest against the State's appropriating $10,000 for the use of the commissioners who have been deputed to visit the Philadelphia show.

We have no doubt that that affair was devised for the benefit of the Quaker City. Has Carpenters' Hall, and the State House, with a cracked bell in its belfry. It was once the capitol of the federal government. It has the honor of holding Franklin's bones, if they have not come up in the form of trees and flowers. It has—or used to have—some of the wisest, sharpest and most learned lawyers. This was so noted years ago that it was not an uncommon saying among the illiterate of the city, that "Philadelphia was the Devil's headquarters." It also once had the prettiest women in the world. Perhaps, the new fashions have reduced them to homeliness.

There are other things there that it would be tedious to try to mention. They are a sufficient reason why the crafty merchants and others of the place should have seized the opportunity offered by our one hundred birth-year.

But if the profit that may be derived by Philadelphians from the Exposition were all, we should say that the sending of commissioners to it, or the appropriating of any money for their uses, would be without justification.

There is every reason to suppose that there will be, during the exhibition, many millions of strangers in Philadelphia, drawn thither from all parts of the world. Most of these persons, of course, will not be mere menials—men who cannot afford to go twenty miles from home. There will be a great deal of wealth among those visitors; and the probability is that a great many of them will go for the purpose of finding how they can add to their enough something more. The desire for money is like compound interest. It is constantly increasing. Give a man, with money on the brain, five thousand dollars, and he will starve himself or his family in order to make it $10,000. Then $20,000 will be his great aim; then $40,000, until, generally, as Richelieu says, he becomes a mere money bag, with no manhood in his poor prostituted soul.

Men of this kind will be in Philadelphia. What for? Not because they love art, or science, or anything of beauty; but to spy out the means of increasing their incomes.

We of the South live away off from the roads that tempt travellers, unless they come for merely business purposes. They are agents with specific objects—not those for investments, but for the getting of new business, or the arranging of old business. There is not one of a hundred of these travellers who come to the centre of what undeveloped wealth we have.

This may seem to be strange, but it is true.

Well, then, we get to a conclusion: that is, that there will be men worth millions in Philadelphia, looking for something that they think will be valuable to them.

We assume that there is something of value in this state of Alabama. Its iron, its coal, its genial and wholesome climate. Our coal and iron can be furnished more cheaply than they can be in Pennsylvania—the chief place for these indispensable commodities. The Philadelphians have their eyes on this part of the subject.

We have here in Alabama all these things in superabundance. How can we attract attention to them? There, in that Centennial. And if wise men be sent to it from this State, the cost of $10,000 is of the slightest importance. It may produce ultimately millions. At all events, it is worth what it will cost—and that is not much—about ten cents to be paid, per capita, by the people of the state.

This expense is insignificant, if one compare its probable result with the cost of sending drummers to Europe or elsewhere, to attract immigrants. By the use of this Centennial we can do more to draw attention to the state than would be possible by a hundred agents sent out, at great expense, to travel in Europe, and live, with some measure of luxury, in the hotels, where, it is supposed, more luxury can be got than it is possible to find on this side of the Atlantic.

The fact is, in short, that the cheapest way of attracting attention to the vast material resources of Alabama is by means of this Philadelphia scheme. It will be useful to the people of that city. Does it not offer some means of usefulness to us?

Congress.

The opinions of Congress in regard to the currency question seem to be sectional. The North and East want specie. The West and South are content with paper that has the stamp of the Government on it. If that be not good, why the Government is worthy of no respect.

As we understand the matter, the North and East have money or are looking for profit by the means of a forced resumption.

These are divided interests—each struggling to get an advantage on the other. It is, in short, a struggle between the sections. For patriotic purposes? Not a bit of it. For pecuniary profit? That is all.

The forced specie resumption business has no, or few, advocates in the South, because our interests are in a very large measure, the same as those of the West. The Mobile Register was very eager for the forced resumption; but it has been very chary of the subject of late. In short, it is beginning to see that New York interests are not those of the people from whom it gets its living.

We applaud it for this; and the rebukes which are indicated by a different opinion, will be instructive to those persons who think that all the prosperity and happiness of our people are to be found at Washington, or in Wall Street.

This is a simple introduction to the fact that, last Saturday, Mr. Chittenden, of New York, in the House of Representatives, insisted on an early resumption of specie payments. He wanted contraction—hated the legal tender—thought that the trouble came from too much of it, etc., etc., all of which showed that he had studied the effect, and not the cause—which plainly is, that men have wasted the industry of the country in all kinds of nefarious speculations. They have discounted the future, and used it in riotous living, and jewels and every other kind of extravagance—extracting from the soil which yields all that we have, nothing—have been buying up Congressmen to give away lands, which of course, are valueless until industry drag from them something of value; and the natural result of this immoral speculation is universal embarrassment—the industrious poor feeling it keenly, and the speculators enjoying luxuries, and no penitentiaries opening their doors to furnish them with a hospitable reception.

THE SUPERVISOR'S MISSION.—Supervisor Brady, of the Internal Revenue Department, departed a few days ago for Mobile. Thence the official winged his way northward, and it is whispered in Gath that the object of his mission is to prepare for the removal of the whiskey cases to the West, in the event that such a movement might be deemed necessary.—Picayune.

The case of Senator Spencer will not be determined now. The committee to which it was entrusted has resolved to continue its investigations, and report at the next session of Congress.

The recent census of the city of Metz shows a decrease of 10,000 in the population since the annexation of Alsace-Lorraine by Prussia.

The D. L. Tally, of Frank Stone's Grange Line, with Captain Frank Stone in command, went out last evening at six o'clock for McLaren's landing, with an old-time freight, almost as much as she could carry.

WALKS AROUND TOWN.

The grand military parade contemplated by the first regiment Alabama Volunteer Militia, contemplated today in honor of the anniversary of Washington's birthday, has been postponed till next Monday, on account of the weather and condition of the streets.

To make a long story short, the steamers and barges that went down to Mobile by Sunday to see Paul Boyton's aquatic exhibitions were crowded. Captain Boyton did everything that was on his programme, and the whole party returned to the city satisfied. On Thursday of next week at 3:30 P. M., he will give his farewell aquatic exhibition off Arlington jetty. Soon thereon interesting experiments in the life-saving dress will be made. Seven cars will run every ten minutes. Fare for the round trip, including ticket to view the exhibition, 25 cents.

PIANOS REGULATED AND TUNED.—J. H Snow's, 102 and 104 Dauphin street, is the place to leave your orders for thorough workmanship and tuning. None but the best materials used, and none but competent artists employed. Satisfaction guaranteed in every instance, or no charge.

SOMETHING NEW IN CABINET ORGANS.—Four more of those splendid-toned organs arrived at J. H. Snow's yesterday, made by Peloubet, Pelton & Co. of New York. Mr. Snow has been selling this make of instruments for twenty years. The tone is as soft as a pipe organ or the human voice. We can conscientiously recommend them.

Mr. Lyon & Son, who have for many years visited Mobile with large and valuable stocks of diamonds, watches, chains, etc., have now on exhibition at Nat Strauss & Co's, corner St. Michael and Water streets, the finest stock ever brought to Mobile, and which will positively be sold at auction, commencing on Wednesday, February 23, at 10 o'clock.

F. H. PEPPER & Co.

A pretty tart communiction will be found on our outside page this morning. The use of the word carpet bagger ought now to be going out of fashion. Our correspondent, however, uses it without making a distinction between the two parties. He distributes his favors in this respect fairly between them.

There seems to be something like influenza running about the city. Three persons in this office have got it, and are lying up at house nursing themselves.

Mr. Ketchum, the well known and popular comedian, and a general favorite in this city, leaves us this morning for Mobile, where he has an engagement for two or three weeks. Our loss will be the gain of our Mobile friends, whom he is certain to entertain with his admirable representations of comic characters and fine flow of wit. We wish him a speedy return to New Orleans.—Picayune.

It has been reported that the U. S. Senate judiciary committee had concluded to report against the nomination of Mr. White, of this state, as U. S. Judge of the court of Utah. This is denied and, probably, is not true. Charges have been made against Mr. White, but it is said that it is not true that any conclusion has been reached in the business.

their pistols, and deliberately walked toward each other, firing as they went. At the fifty shot Jones threw up his right hand, and, firing his pistol in the air, sank down. Fry was in the act of firing his last shot, but, seeing Jones fall, silently lowered his pistol, dropped it to the ground, and sprang to Jones' side, taking his head in his lap as he sat down, and asked him if he was hurt.

I discovered that Jones was shot through the region of the stomach; the bullet glancing around that organ, and coming out to the left of the spinal column; besides, he had received three other frightful flesh wounds in other portions of his body. I dressed his wounds and gave him such stimulants as I had. He afterwards got well.

Fry received three wounds—one breaking his left arm, one in the left, and the other in the right side. After months of suffering he got well. Neither of them asked for a discharge, but both resumed their commands when they got well, and fought the war out to the bitter end, and to day are partners in a wholesale grocery business down South, doing a good business, and verifying the sentiment of Byron that "A soldier braves death," etc.

Trusting that the above truthful narrative will be a lesson to some people North and South, that stayed out the battle and yelled "Seek ooh!" and are still not satisfied with the results of the war, let me subscribe myself a reconstructed

Legislatiug for Sunday.

The following report of the debate in the Alabama Senate last Friday will interest most of our readers. It came from a proposition to prevent the running of freight trains on railroads between 12 o'clock on Saturday night and 12 o'clock on Sunday night. When the bill was first presented, we suggested the argument that was used by Mr. Moore.

We copy from the report of the Montgomery Advertiser:

Mr. Moore offered an amendment to include passenger trains, steamboats, wagons, or vehicles of any kind. He said that if it was wrong to run a freight train on Sunday, it was equally wrong to run any other kind, and he believed this bill was for some special purpose.

Mr. Parks said that nothing helped the State so much as a healthy morality. On the lines of many railroads, and in many States, this law is already observed, and no detriment has resulted.

Mr. Hamilton was opposed to the bill in all its phases—this is a day of railroad rivalry, and he wanted no law enacted that would divert trade from the Alabama roads or from the business establishments of the State. The Mobile & Ohio Railroad, with which he is best acquainted, is a great artery and of incalculable benefit to the whole State, 65 miles in Alabama, 250 in Mississippi, and 90 or 100 in Tennessee and Kentucky. The Mobile & Montgomery is also a connecting link; so, also, the Memphis & Charleston and others. He cited many other reasons why the bill should not pass. In the present state of society, especially in Mississippi, the stopping of trains on Alabama borders at 12 o'clock Saturday night, would be a field for robbery and thievery by lawless men, and the railroad men would have no remedy. The passage of the bill would destroy, to some extent, the early vegetable and fruit trade, and thereby cripple the resources of the State in no small degree. Notwithstanding his desire to see morality supreme, other reasons convince that the passage of the bill would be an invitation to immorality, besides inflicting a great injury on the State and the collection of her revenue. The Express Company sends all its freight by the regular passenger trains, and the effect of a bill such as this would be a benefit to a foreign corporation, and force the railroads to submit to injustice on their own tracks. And besides all else, it would eventually tend to encourage lawlessness and robbers.

He would endeavor to draw his conclusions, and had ever done so, not so much from the letter of the law as the spirit of the law. Wherever anything is required by public necessity he would not be trammelled by the letter of the law; but a great public necessity is not, and should not be controlled by the letter of the law. He had endeavored to show public necessities and public considerations, and, in the performance of great public duties, the instrument must not be crippled. There is an expression in the good book, that he who follows out too strictly the letter, is more apt to violate the spirit of the law.

He believed that in the near future, a new state of things would come about—a true, perfect morality would yet exist, but it has not come and we must not shut our eyes against the state of things which now surround us.

Mr. Cobb said that the opposition to the bill was not unexpected by him, it came from the parties that are fraternally attached to the Mobile and Ohio and Memphis and Charleston railroads. He was glad to know that the Senator from Mobile favored the spirit of the bill. He wished to know if the opponents of the bill desired to make an issue in favor of the railroads as against morality.

Mr. Moore inquired if Mr. Cobb would support his amendment, which included all kinds of common carriers.

Mr. Cobb said that the amendment came in such a way that he could not support it.

Mr. Cobb proceeded at length, and said that he was as much in favor of President Slosson, of the South & North Road, that there was no necessity for running freight trains on Sunday. The question simply is which shall be subordinated, the railroad employer or the employé, and if the Legislature listens to the whisperings of the railroad authorities, this bill will never pass. He gave many reasons in support of the bill.

Mr. Snodgrass spoke in opposition to the bill, and moved to indefinitely postpone, which was lost—yeas 14, nays 12.

The question then recurred on the adoption of Mr. Moore's amendment to include passenger trains, steamboats, etc.

Mr. Parks moved to lay the amendment on the table.

Mr. Moore said if it was wrong to carry on one sort of business on Sunday, it was as culpable to transact any other sort, and he was astonished to see Senators who had been preaching morality and religion now opposing this amendment.

Mr. Inzer moved to amend by adding: Provided, that the provisions of this act shall not apply to flatboats while passing through the "Devil's Ballpath" and the Coosa River, nor to any boats on the Tennessee River while going through the "Pot, Skillet and Pan." Withdrawn.

Mr. Harris, of Lee, favored the bill and gave his reasons at length.

Mr. Cooper said the time for such enactments had not come, and they were not demanded either by the people or morality. He was opposed to the bill and all amendments.

Pacific Humor.

It appears that the humorous Californian has a habit of charging a cigar with a small capsule of nitroglycerine and then presenting the same to his friend by way of a joke. A number of noses have already been blown off and quite an assortment of jokers shot, so that the press hardily suggests the abandonment of the custom and the substitution for it of some less pointed pleasantry. Foreign observers have noted that American humor was entirely original and possessed a flavor of the soil. So far as this manifestation of it is concerned it cannot be denied that the characterization is accurate; but with all its originality, we trust that they will keep it where it is, and not turn back the hands by exporting it eastward. Swift said that nothing was so tender as a modern piece of wit—much of it not surviving transportation from one room to another—and we are quite clear that this practical piece of wit is not vital enough to survive carriage across the continent. The blowing-off of a friend's nose here would be looked upon as a piece of boorishness and ill manners, and the perpetrator would be denied a parliamentary reception by the Lotos Club—a thing which hasn't happened here to any traveller within recent memory.

THE DAILY TRIBUNE

WEDNESDAY,.....Feb. 23, 1876.

Miss Charlotte Cushman, the actress, was buried in Boston with imposing honors last Monday. Several conspicuous persons were present at the funeral, among them the governor of the State.

The inwave establishment of Lelance & Grusjean, on Long Island, has been destroyed by fire. Loss about $250,000—about half of it insured. It was the largest establishment of the kind within the country.

Judge Billings, who was recently appointed to the place of Judge Durell, U. S. District Court, Louisiana, began his business last Monday.

Booth, the actor, has gone from Montgomery to Atlanta. The receipts of his three performances in the former city, were $4,800, and they leave a very handsomé profit, notwithstanding the costliness of the actor.

We see an advertisement in some of the papers headed as follows: "Married People—New Invention." This is not true. It began with Adam. The advertiser probably means Mrs. Anna Dickinson's plan—which is divorce.

We are indebted to Hon. F. G. Bromberg—who is now in the city—for a copy of a pamphlet entitled "Frederick G. Bromberg vs. Jeremiah Haralson. Contest for Seat in 44th Congress, from First Congressional District of Alabama. Brief for Contestant, by Jos. F. Johnston, esq."

If all the statements within this pamphlet be verifiable, there can hardly be a doubt that Mr. Bromberg is entitled to represent us of this district in Congress, but the publication of them here would be of no value Each House of Congress has a right to accept or reject claims of this kind, and the popular voice is not likely to have much influence in regard to them. That voice may be heard finally, but it is slow—like the "mills of the Gods."

We may take this opportunity to say that Mr. Bromberg has been a faithful representative. He has not used his office for any base purpose. He seems to have all the time considered himself as one of the citizens, with great representative responsibilities, and not acting for himself. This is about the highest praise that it is possible to give to a member of Congress. or any other person.

Colin J. McRae.

The papers announce the death of Mr. Colin J. McRae, which occurred in British Honduras, on the 28th of last month.

Mr. McRae was a man of much intelligence—was always active in party matters—was, indeed, in our democratic strifes in Mobile, relied on for advice and personal activity. He gave these with great skill. He hated no man, but worked for his party—that time when partisan feeling was so embittered that old and respectable gentlemen on different sides of parties would pass each other with scowls on the r faces—and on each side in fighting trim.

Mr. McRae had none of this in his nature. He loved his luxuries and his party and worked for both, and was noted as a gentleman who got the one, and nearly always accomplished the other.

He went away on service to the confederacy in London—had some reputation and influence, but not the finale came, and he was hors de combat; and, we suppose, finding something to attract his attention to Honduras, went thither and there his body is interred. Why he did not return to this country is a question that we cannot answer. He had his own reasons, and we suppose that none of them was from an apprehension of going to a prison. We have not heard that there were creditors here or elsewhere in the country, with legal authority to drag him to jail.

He staid away, we suppose, because he had lost all love for his country, and it is probable that a great many men would go away from it for the same reason—if they had the money.

The dead gentleman was noted among us in the past. He was generous, intelligent and full of manhood. His defects are nothing. All of us have them. His virtues, as we know, were more than those of most people, perhaps.

Alabama Legislature.

The proceedings of Monday were not of much general importance. as they are reported. The truth is, they furnish very little information, and to reprint them would be of no possible use.

In the Senate a bill was passed which provides that any five citizens of any circuit, county, or town, may prefer charges against any of their own elected officers and bring him to trial. But this is accompanied by a condition which will make the law a nullity.

That is, the persons making the charges, and failing in establishing them, shall not only pay the cost of the prosecution, but be liable, also, for damages to the innocent defendant. This, as far as we can see, is a bit of legislative folly; although not having the bill before us, we may be in error.

It is, however, intended to carry into effect sections two and three in the new Constitution, which are as follows:

SEC. 2. The chancellors, judges of the circuit courts, judges of the probate courts, solicitors of the circuits and judges of inferior courts, from which an appeal may be taken directly to the supreme court, may be removed from office for any of the causes specified in the preceding section, by the supreme court, under such regulations as may be prescribed by law.

SEC. 3. The sheriffs, clerks of the circuit, city or criminal courts, tax collectors, tax assessors, county treasurers, coroners, justices of the peace, notaries public, constables, and all other county officers, mayors and intendents of incorporated cities and towns in this State, may be removed from office for any of the causes specified in section one of this article, by the circuit, city or criminal court of the county in which such officers hold their office, under such regulations as may be prescribed by law; Provided, that the right of trial by jury and appeal in such cases be secured.

In the House a message was received from the Governor announcing his approval of a bill "To refund money paid for license by merchants and dealers, other than commission merchants and brokers, under paragraph 20, section 102, of an act to establish the revenue laws for the State."

Mr. Editor:

As a subscriber, I write for information. Why is it, in the Lee testimonial and again now, with the much-advertised Carnival and Rex, Mardi Gras, the Tribune is so completely ignored? With some of your friends, I am of the opinion that you have had none of these advertisements at all. Do you charge so high that you run people away? If so, you are not just, as I know you have been very moderate in charges to me. Certainly many of your friends have subscribed to these funds and, I believe, if the matter was called to the attention of the powers that be, you would get a little of the chicken pie.

The above is what a gentleman writes to us. The mystery is easily made plain. The societies that are alluded to have a monkey which controls them—a supersérviceable monkey, and, of course, not a man. The men are only figure-heads. The monkey is their servant.

It is not necessary to give a name to the animal: but we assure our correspondent that he is a monkey.

We have made no complaint on the subject, and have none to make now, and should have made no allusion to it, if had not been suggested by the above brief communication.

Mrs. Clementina Emily Harrison says in a note to the London Times: "I am informed by Miss Caroline Black, only daughter of Byron's 'Maid of Athens,' that the death of her mother has left her without the means of livelihood. By making this fact publicly known, could not the interest that has been felt for the mother be transferred to the daughter, so that she might be relieved from the responsibility of the rent of the house she now occupies, and which is left on her hands?"

Editor of Tribune:

When Cuyens, or any other untamable, ferocious, and savage animal, is turned loose in a civilized country, the inhabitants turn parties to hunt down and destroy it.

The poor Stockholders and the few Bondholders of the Mobile and Ohio Rail Road are too few in numbers, and too weak to fight parties who have tailed for more than two millions of dollars, and who have the earnings of that road, varying from $150,000 to $275,000 per month, to use to crush out those who oppose them. We propose to inquire now—and it is only one of many similar cases—what has become of 800 shares of the capital stock of the company, which were sent to the financial agents of the company in New York to be used in borrowing money for the company's use?

Those financial agents failed, and transferred the larger part of their assets, to Duncan, Sherman & Co., and it is believed that those 800 shares of stock were included in the amount.

This stock was said to have been forwarded by the then President without the authority of the Directory but, subsequently, when a Director, who was a power behind the throne and controlled the Board, called to it the attention of Wm. Butler Duncan, then President, and insisted that the former President should be held personally responsible, that, after examination, Wm. Butler Duncan found that the stock had been transferred to and issued to the benefit of his firm, and no further notice was taken of the matter. The stock was then worth in New York about $45.00 per share, and it will be interesting to honest stockholders to know whether this "heroic" failing Banker, then President of the Company, allowed this amount knowingly to be appropriated to the use of his firm. This is a good subject for investigation by Judge Woods, and we shall bring many others to his attention, before we bid "good by" to these mutton-chop carpet-baggers.

The tornado that passed over the lower portion of the county did considerable damage near Pine Level. The residence of Mr. Robert Carter was blown down and his furniture torn to pieces. The house fell upon his seven year old son and required seven men several hours to remove the timbers, the child was unhurt. A sill of the house, twelve inches square; was blown 150 yards. Numerous other houses, trees, animals and stacks of fodder were blown away. The path of the tornado presents a barren waste.—Montgomery Bulletin.

LONDON, Feb. 22.—In the Suez debate, Messrs. Lowe and Gladstone criticised the transaction. Gladstone pointed out the great risk England ran by abandoning her position as a champion of the interests of Europe to become the champion of her own selfish interests. Mr. Disraeli said he thought the discussion showed unmistakably that if Mr. Gladstone had been in office the shares would not have been purchased; he did not recommend the purchase as a financial investment, but as a political measure calculated to strengthen the empire. The vote was agreed to.

A motion to non-concur with the council in the adoption of the resolution, was amended by a motion to indefinite ly postpone action on the resolution.

The yeas and nays were demanded on the motion to indefinitely postpone, and this was the result :

Yeas—Bligh, Cahill, Migbell, McConnell—4.

Nays — President Smith, Andrews, Bruce, Hanna, Kirkbride, Maldon, O'Connell, Smith A. H., Walsh—9.

The motion to non-concur with the council in the adoption of the resolution was then carried.

At half past eight o'clock the board adjourned.

THE GREATEST ATTRACTION OF THE SEASON.—At 10 o'clock A. M. today Mr. L. E. Brooks will sell for Mr. M. H. Prince, the great pawnbroker of Washington City, a large collection of diamonds, jewelry, opera glasses, etc. The goods are all warranted to be just as they are represented and will be sold to the highest bidder, without regard to price. At the same time Mr. Brooks will also sell for Mr. Sigaus one of the finest collections of silver-plated ware ever brought to this city. The ladies ought to attend the sale by all means.

A cold, starless, cloudy night, and "Doris and Lena," had, as a consequence a small audience, for without an extraordinary incentive nobody would brave the discomforts of a penetrating north wind, to go out in the cold and into a theatre which is not so comfortable as a seat by the home fireside. Florence Kennedy, Emma Palmer, Ketchum, Huntley and others of the Academy dramatic company, supporting Sallie Adams and Jule Keen, ought to fill the house and would do it in even tolerable weather, with an attractive play. "Doris and Lena" to-night, and after that "The Cut Glove."

MAYOR'S COURT.—In this court yesterday morning, Mayor Hartel presiding, Wm. Boyd, colored, was fined $5 for a drunk. John Coleman, a colored individual from the state of Baldwin, was fined $5 for a drunk. Edmund Anderson stole an overcoat from the house of Captain Wm Brainard last Friday. He was sent to the city court for trial, the bond being fixed at $750.

POLICE LOOMS.—Mary Dyer had Cae sey O'Donnell arrested for threats to kill her and burn the house she lived in. Peace bonds $200 for twelve months.

RIVER NEWS.

The Cahawba, for Montgomery; the Emma No. 2 for Tuskaloosa and the Atlanta for McLaren's Landing, both of Frank Stone's Orange line and the W. S. Holt, of Central Line No. 2, for Columbus, all went out last evening on comparatively light freights, owing to the bad weather, for shipments. No boat is due today and those will be no departures.

The finest stock of diamonds, watches, jewelry, etc, ever brought to Mobile is to be sold this morning at ten o'clock, by Messrs. Nat Strauss & Co., cor. St. Michael and Water streets.

WALKS AROUND TOWN.

So far this month, the foreign exports of cotton from Mobile have been 49,543 bales.

The custom house was open as usual yesterday, but there was no entry or clearance.

The post office was open yesterday, just as though it was not the 22nd of February.

Mr. Colin J. McRae, formerly of Mobile, died at Belize, British Honduras, on the 28 h ultimo.

The United States circuit court, Judge Bruce, adjourned yesterday, as it was a legal holiday.

Yesterday being a general holiday throughout the cities, no reports were received by the Board of Trade of cotton receipts at other ports.

Miss Dickey Lingard, whom some of the Mobile theatre-goers remember, was recently married to a wealthy young Englishman, Edward Trafford, and will reside in Denver, Colorado.

A house on State street, between Wilkinson and Scott, owned by Dr. Jesse Carter and occupied by Maria Parker, a colored woman, was destroyed by fire Monday night.

An unknown colored man was found drowned clinging to a raft at Otis' mills yesterday morning. Coroner Harwell held an inquest and the verdict was the deceased, name unknown, was found drowned.

The noon cotton report of the Board of Trade yesterday was: "Market quiet and unchanged. Fair demand. Sales over 600 bales." Closing report: "Sales today 1500 bales. Market closed weak and irregular. Moderate demand."

A cottage house, containing six rooms, in good repair, about four miles from the city, together with twelve acres of land, is advertised in this morning's Tribune. Mr. G. M. Brewer will give full information in reference to the property.

It is undeniable that it was cool yesterday morning and colder as the day progressed. Our morning weather report was not received, "which it was nobody's fault," and we do not give the usual figures as to the temperature here and there and elsewhere.

MR. Graham, the scenic artist at the New Orleans Academy of Music, whose reputation in that profession is deservedly high, has come to Mobile to favor the patrons of the theatre here with specimens of his artistic skill. Among his paintings is a bust of Shakespeare.

A vicious Texas pony had his own fun on Augusta street last Sunday evening, biting the neck of a mare that could not outdo his pursuit. "Dat pony'll kill dat mare, sure," a negro said, and then two or three men separated the animals, drove off the pony and led off the mare.

Major George B. Cittherall, formerly of Minnesota, has sent up to St Paul a barrel of oranges which he raised on Mon Louis island, near this city. Seven dozenlets of a penetrating north wind, to go out in the cold and into a theatre which is not so comfortable as a seat by the home fireside. Florence Kennedy, Emma Palmer, Ketchum, Huntley and others of the Academy dramatic company, supporting Sallie Adams and Jule Keen, ought to fill the house and would do it in even tolerable weather, with an attractive play. "Doris and Lena" to-night, and after that "The Cut Glove."

MAYOR'S COURT.—In this court yesterday morning, Mayor Hartel presiding, Wm. Boyd, colored, was fined $5 for a drunk. John Coleman, a colored individual from the state of Baldwin, was fined $5 for a drunk. Edmund Anderson stole an overcoat from the house of Captain Wm Brainard last Friday. He was sent to the city court for trial, the bond being fixed at $750.

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY.—The anniversary of the birthday of Washington was celebrated by a display of flags of all nations in various parts of the city. And that was all with the exception of a flag-raising at the barracks, to which the first Regiment Alabama State Militia was invited. At half past twelve o'clock, Colonel Jno. McArdle, at the head of a delegation of officers of the first regiment, went out to the United States barracks, and participated in the flag raising to which they were invited. After this ceremony was over an ample collation was spread and there were speeches by officers of the federal army and the volunteer state militia. It was a pleasant reunion, indicating that the era of good feeling has approached, which obliterates all past prejudices and bitterness.

At the store of Messrs. G. M. Parker & Son, can be seen specimens of oil cabinets holding 10, 12, 50, 100 and 250 gallons, specially arranged for the convenience of dealers in and consumers of oil. A tin reservoir for kerosene, lubricating and burning oil, naptha and spirits of turpentine, in a large box, enables dealers to dispose of oils and consumers to keep them without leakage. The cost is not so great as to prevent the common use of those cabinets by retail grocers. They are made by the standard Oil Cabinet Company, of Boston for which G. M. Parker & Son are agents.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 18.

The Mess in an Upper Drawer—A Pint of Opium—Morey, the Beautiful Carpet-Bagger and the Fiend of the Chicago Timet—Gen. Gordon's Wit—Lamar.

I wonder, Mr. Editor, if you have any idea what the top drawer of a lady's bureau contains? If you have, then you can fancy something of the condition my note-book presents, for I have jotted memoranda there about as carelessly as I have poked gloves and laces, ribbons, cards, candy, tans, photographs and jewelry in the dressed upper drawer on the other side of my room. A minute ago I searched there for a missing earring; now, with equal disgust, I've been whirling over the leaves where hieroglyphics as mysterious as any on the Rosetta stone pretend to, remind me of interesting facts! Oh dear! what is one to do when this wearying Washington life forbids regularity in anything?

Every day I go to the capitol as regularly as any other member of Congress. I perch myself at my desk and listen eagerly for oracles that refuse to utter anything worth repeating. More inventive and daring writers send dispatches concerning political tempests that have never occurred. But I don't know enough of political technicalities to increase knowledge in that way, and besides I have still a memory of certain maternal admonitions upon the sin of story-telling. The funniest thing in the House yesterday was when, in the midst of confusion, a Granger member felt his senses reeling, and, having screamed, "Mr. Speaker," at least six times he succeeded in gaining his attention long enough to say nervously, "Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order, and I insist upon having it!"

Then, while everybody was talking at once, and the gentleman from Iowa (McCrary) was losing both time and temper, up hopped Morey from Louisiana, desiring the gentleman to allow him "two minutes." "Two minutes!" inquired McCrary. "Yes, two minutes," quoth Morey. McCrary yielded and Mr. Morey prepared himself to speak, by sending to the clerk's desk for an extract from the Chicago Times, and buttoning his coat tightly round him.

Old members of Congress; men of experience and ability spring to their feet at any moment quite ready for action, now caring a picayune for personal appearance, useless, indeed; they give an additional rumple to their hair, adding the impressiveness of a ruffled crest to their already excited faces; but new men like Morey, men who amount to nothing in any way, deliberately get ready before claiming the floor. They retire to the dressing room, use the Congressional hair-brushes and clothe-brushes, pull down their wristbands and polish their nails, then buttoning their coats tightly (they never omit that) their toilettes are completed. So Morey came yesterday advancing down the aisle with as much dignity as a lobbyist gracefully supported himself upon a convenient desk and waited while the clerk read what

Mr. Morey listened, then in those two precious minutes he begged leave to explain that he was not present at any such conclave; that he had not been in any way responsible for proceedings there, etc., etc., etc. Well—the attention of the House had been claimed for nothing, so the House courteously revenged itself by a burst of derisive laughter, and a chorus of voices sneeringly asking, "Who cares whether you were there or not?" It was rich, for Morey is a carpet-bagger, and there is a very striking resemblance between his nose, hair and that of his dusky constituency. Theirs is black and woolly, while his capillaries are deeply, darkly, beautifully red, but they kink as tightly as any African's, so tightly, indeed, that his forehead is drawn up in aspiring wrinkles. I am morally sure that hair was a whistling card in his election.

GEN. GORD'N'S WIT: MR. LAMAR'S ELECTION.

Apropos of this comes the recollection of Morton's anticipated speech. You have seen some people who never were happy unless they made somebody else miserable, so as the issues of the late war are fading out, and the bitterness between the two sections subsiding, Mr. Morton delights to strike bruised spots with heavy blows; to light local fires with any stray fagots he can find in remote corners, but now and then some wit sharper than his own deals him a thrust not easily parried, and of Gen. Gordon had never said anything else worthy of attention his remark at Atlanta the other day would make his fame. Urging upon his friends the necessity for prudence and calmness, he added, "You now have to fight only the endless Christian battle against the world, the flesh and—the Senator from Indiana!" He called no names; He made no libellous charges, but every body knows the third person usually completing the aforesaid trinity, so the fit elicits shouts whenever it is repeated. Mr. Lamar (whose recent triumphant election in Mississippi has rejoiced the hearts of all who call themselves "Stars" in opposition to our National councils) was chatting with some friends the other day when I offered my sincere congratulations, saying, I supposed I must at once call him "Mr. Senator." "O, by no means," said Mr. L. with that pleasant smile of his, "by no means; wait for Mr. Morton's ratification?"

THE DAILY TRIBUNE

THURSDAY,.....Feb. 24, 1876.

The Grand Duchess. Marie Nicolevich—i sister of the emperor of Russia—died a few days ago.

We have had constant rains here for a day or two, and we observe that they were general. The probability is that the rivers will be heavy with water, and that the low lands may be overflowed.

The papers are saying that there is an irreconcilable difference between the President and Secretary Bristow. Perhaps these gentlemen were bobnobing together last night and laughing over their quarrels—in the newspapers.

Calamities do seem to come in groups. One late illustration of it is in the case of Mr. Boucicault. A few days ago he had a son killed by a railroad accident; and now he has married daughter, Mrs. Green, has been drowned by an accident on a steamer.

A motion was made in the Alabama Senate to adjourn in respect to the birth day of Washington. The vote was ayr, 7, and nays 18.

We are forgetting all the traditions of the past. This may be wise, for we are beginning a new life—cutting loose from the old respectabilities, and from all that is loveable and respectable of the olden time. Here in Mobile there was not much ceremony, as we hear, used to celebrate the anniversary.

Mardi Gras.

Great preparation, we are told, is making here for the celebration of Mardi Gras next Tuesday, the 29th instant. It is said that extraordinary pains is taken it a very brilliant display. We have no means of knowing how and what is doing in regard to it; but are pretty sure that it will be wor hy of admiration; and so we can commend it to all strangers who desire to see some fun and a great deal of splendor.

In the past years the celebration of the day was noted here for its elegance, but it is likely that the present year will exceed any of the past years.

Our merchants are taking advantage of the occasion and putting their stocks in order for the purpose of tempting purchasers—not by high prices, but by good articles at a cost which could not be duplicated in cities of larger dimensions.

It now seems that nearly all the towns and cities are making preparations for this celebration. Montgomery is stirring itself. Atlanta and Memphis are wide-awake, and New Orleans is doing its best in the matter. Yet we venture to say that none of those cities will excel in beauty and interest the exhibition in Mobile—for somehow this city, in all the fanciful displays of the kind, excels those of all other places. Indeed, it is the forerunner of most of them. It is here that the New Year holiday was made especially attractive, and the example it set a score of cities have adopted. Yet none of the imitators have excelled the beauty and good taste that have characterized our displays.

It is probable that this Mardi Gras celebration will excel all of the past celebrations.

Oranges.

The following paragraph is copied from the St. Paul (Minnesota) Pioneer Press. This statement in regard to the weight of the oranges will be taken with a grain of salt by those persons north and west who eat West India and Italian oranges. We have seen the fruit that exceeded a pound, the product of Mon Louisland, and it was produced by cultivation, and not by that forced into an unnatural growth. The flavor of this large fruit expelled that of the ordinary size, and the weight was not made by great thickness of the rind.

Our people are just beginning to learn that, by the use of a little art, the orange that is produced in this section can be made superior to any of foreign growth—but many people treat it as they do the fig and the scuppernong vine, which yield their fruits spontaneously. The fig, by a little care, can be greatly improved, and the scuppernong—which is the most delicious of grapes—can be made by culture to produce fruit as large as a plum, and its deliciousness increases as it is taught, by the cultivator, to grow large.

Those people of the far west will presently find all this out, and then a thousand men engaged in this fruit culture will have provocatives to labor and reflection, and will always find a market to reward their industrious intelligence:

We were the delighted recipients last night of some oranges weighing one pound each—seven on a single stem weighed six pounds. In size and flavor they surpassed any fruit we have ever seen in any country, and were raised by Major George B Chitherell, formerly of Minnesota, on Mon L ui Island, near Mobile, Alabama, who presented a barrel to one of our citizens from whom we received the above gems.

To the Editor of the Tribune:

The article which you copied from the Brookhaven Ledger is a splendid piece of philosophy. It illustrates the standing of many worthless people all over these United States. Our citizens, I mean all in poor ci cumstances, raise them children with high ideas, particularly the girls, for a boy is soon made to understand his position. They instruct them with the belief that they are all of them ladies, whereas that title belongs only to those who are rich, able in every way to back the pretension that they may make. It is a well-known fact that many of our young men have from three to six sisters, whom they support in idleness and pride; whereas, had the girls been raised in an industrious manner, able to maintain themselves, we would have plenty of good reliable servants to wait upon our ladies, without inviting a foreign importation, or depending upon the African. It is advisable for every young man who has one or more sisters depending upon him, to tell them to do as he has to do: go out and work for a living. It is no disgrace to be a servant. It is a disgrace to be a shabby genteel, or a dead beat, as all are such who make pretentions and have not the wherewith to back the same.

Editor of the Tribune:

Your Three-Starred correspondent inquired in yesterday morning's issue what had become of certain 800 shares of the capital stock of the Mobile and Ohio Railroad, which had been forwarded to the Company's Financial Agents in New York, and which, on the failure of those agents, accidentally fell into the hands of Duncan, Sherman & Co., who soon after failed themselves.

We see that the Hon. Wm. Butler Duncan, and one of his confidential clerks arrived here tiis morning, and in view of the case set in the U. S. Circuit Court for to-morrow for the removal of his firm from the control of the road, he may be induced to answer the inquiry.

It would be interesting to the court and other persons, if the Hon. Wm. Butler Duncan would make an honest confession of the tricks used by him, and his confreres to obtain possession of that property.

It would be interesting to those who originally furnished money and constructed the Mobile and Ohio Railroad, and who honestly invested their money in it, to know the amount placed to the credit of the party through whose interest and power Wm. Butler Duncan and his partner, A. Foster Elliott, obtained possession of the property.

The Hon. Wm. Butler Duncan, or his confidential clerk, will please answer these questions, so that Judge Woods will understand the matter, without the usual court routine of depositions and affidavits.

There is but little doubt that Judge Woods will remove these parties, who obtained their positions by treachery to the stockholders, and fraud upon the court, and we suggest to him that, where there has been so much fraud under all of the mortgages, and by the Directors in the issue of stock and where there are NINE (9) conflicting interests, that the property should be placed in the control of disinterested parties until the court decides upon the equities of the various interests.

But we submit also that the U. S. Supreme Court has decided that where there is such a conflict of interest, as in this case, that the Court should place the property under the control of honest, competent and disinterested parties.

We submit also to the Court that the parties in this case should live on the line of the road, and be well-known to the people, and fully understand their interests, as well as those of the road. We, therefore, recommend the following names for Trustees and Receivers:

Gen. R. W. Healy, of Mobile.
P. H. Pepper, Esq.
Hon. Milton Brown, of Tennessee.

None of these parties is interested in the stock or bonds of the road, and are respected for their integrity and ability. T. J. C.

An emigration agent accosted an old negro in Columbus the other day: "I say, old man, don't you want to make some money?' 'Dat's jest what I'm a sarchin' roun' for, boss. I hongry right now.' 'Well, in Mississippi, the planters are paying mighty high prices for good work hands, and if you—' 'Hole on dar, boss. Jess wait, I'm a Middle Georgia nigger, I done been out dar. I'm a good wuk hand, too—I wuk myself out dar, an' den I turn roun' an' wuk myself back agin, an right here I'm gwine ter stay et de Lord spares me. When I dies I wants for have a belly spang full o' meat an bread, an I wants ter be berried in a seminary whar I'm quainted wid de folks. You heerd my boru!

FIRE.—About nine o'clock last night, while a servant of Dr. Owen, corner of Claiborne and Congress street, was unharnessing his horse, he left the animal in the shafts a moment. The horse, in a hurry to get to his feed, knocked over the lantern and set fire to the hay. An effort was made by Dr. Owen and others of the family to extinguish the fire, with out success. Dr. Owen's son mounted the horse and rode down to box 25 to get Mr. Gridden to give the alarm. But the box was not in working order, and the alarm could not be given. The young man then rode down to Hook and Ladder No. 1, on St. Francis street, and the boys of that company went up to the scene of the fire with their machine and a Babcock extinguisher, and immediately after their arrival put out the fire with the Babcock. The fire was under control before the general alarm was given from the tower and the fire department had no occasion to perform any service.

At 3:51 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the wind blew 23 miles at Key West; 24 at Montgomery and 14 at Mobile. The temperature was 77 at Key West, 64 at Corsicana, 63 at Mobile and Savannah, 62 at Augusta, 61 at New Orleans, 60 at Indianola, 58 at Galveston and Montgomery.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT. Judge Bruce on the bench.—The cases set for trial today are Moses S. Foote vs James H. Allen; Deposit Savings Association vs David H. Marks, et al; United States vs Serafin Casey; United States vs Philip Wolffe. Judgments were rendered against the city yesterday in the following cases:

Milton H. Thompson vs city of Mobile, judgment in favor of plaintiff for $1,307 98; Hiram Sibley vs the same, $23,500 12; James H. Young vs the same $1,633 78; Thomas Nelson vs the same $3,301 20; John J. Lancaster vs the same $1,541 34; Henry L. Young vs the same $3,022 54.

The aggregate of these judgments against the city is $34,427 02; to satisfy which, it is probable property belonging to the city will be sold by the United States marshal.

Captain Paul Bayton went up the river from New Orleans yesterday afternoon to Bayou Goula, a hundred miles, and will commence his swimming and floating on the Mississippi at five o'clock this evening. He expects to be twenty-four hours in the water, a longer run than he has ever before attempted. Next Thursday he will give an aquatic exhibition from Arlington jetty.

The officers of the Washington Blues, a colored military organization in Mobile, have been commissioned by Governor Houston. They are Samuel Wilson, captain; Freeman Smith, first lieutenant; William Lewis, second lieutenant.

WALKS AROUND TOWN.

The cotton receipts at all ports Tuesday were 19,751 bales.

Fincher, who was riddled with thirty-five buck shot at Wheelerville a few days ago, will recover, notwithstanding his dying deposition was taken afterwards.

The card of Ph. Frank, wholesale and retail dealer in stick and fancy candies and general confectionery, is suggestive of the sweetest thoughts and the most pleasant memories.

The noon cotton report of the Board of Trade yesterday was: "Market quiet and unchanged. Moderate demand. Sales about 400 bales." Closing report: "Sales today 1800 bales. Market closed quiet and unchanged."

According to the Board of Trade reports, the cotton receipts yesterday at all ports were 19,339 bales: New Orleans 12,280, Norfolk 1,636, Mobile 1,037, Charleston 638, Galveston 587.

Schooner Welawka was cleared yesterday for Havre by A. J. Ingersoll & Co., with 1335 bales of cotton, weighing 693,438 pounds, valued at $30,165, and 1230 staves valued at $300—total value of cargo $30,360.

Such preparations are being made for the ball of fire company No. 6, on the 28th, as to render it certain that it will be one of the most brilliant affairs of the kind ever inaugurated by the organization.

The Tribune will be honored with a Mardi Gras call from the E. S. M., between twelve and four o'clock. They will meet with a joyful reception on this joyful day, and so we now inform our friend who wears the short-waisted name of Bughuughuughaughaugh-r.

The Southern States Agricultural and Industrial Exposition will open at New Orleans next Saturday and continue ten days. Governor T. A. Hendricks, of Indiana, will deliver the opening address. Hon. Eli S. Shorter, of Alabama, will pass through Mobile today on his way to join Governor Haudricks at New Orleans.

The attention of readers is called to the advertisement of J. K. Randall, book seller and stationer, who has a full stock of law, medical and miscellaneous books, bibles, prayer and hymn books, and his stationary department is complete in all its branches. Read his advertisement carefully.

A better house at the Mobile Theatre than that with the final production of "Chris and Lena." Tonight "The Cut Glove" will be presented with a strong cast that will include Ketchum, Florence Kennedy, Pike, Emma Palmer and other members of the Academy company, to support Sallie Adams and Jules Keen.

The "bloated bondholders" obtained judgments yesterday in the United States circuit court against the city of Mobile to the amount of $34,427 02. The seizure and sale by the United States marshal of property belonging to the city, to satisfy these judgments, will follow. Perhaps the wharf property of the city may be seized and sold, and private owners will then get up a healthy competition on wharfage rates, for the benefit of commerce.

THE DAILY TRIBUNE

FRIDAY,.....Feb. 25, 1876.

Will the Irishmen of the city celebrate St. Patrick's day?—Montgomery Bulletin.

Will a duck swim?

Mr. Stephens, of Ga., is again very ill, and "sinking," as the papers report. He has a wonderful tenacity of life, which, probably, is the reason of it very resolute will.

The "grip" has got hold of three of our compositors—got them by the throat—which fact will account for the less matter than usual in these columns.

Washington's birth-day was celebrated at Charleston with considerable eclat. The military was out in full rig. Salutes by cannon were fired. Speeches were made. Business was suspended, and there were "several large military banquets."

Alabama Legislature.

In the legislative business of Wednesday there was a good deal of work done, but little that came to a conclusion. In the Senate Mr. Hamilton, from the Judiciary Committee, reported favorably on several bills, one of which that concerns us was "to regulate the practice in the Circuit Court of Mobile." It is not possible for us to tell what this means.

The legislature seems to have a hankering for temperance, and all sorts of bills have been before it—in order, apparently, to make water the drink. Lust is not to be done by legislation. Here is what can be done. It is simple. It is moral influence. Noah was found drunk, and he cursed one of his sons for exposing his nakedness. That was the first temperance society, although only one man was at the head of it.

There is nothing more worthy of respect than these temperance societies. If in their labors, they save only one man from his excesses, and restore to him self-respect, they deserve the highest applause. If they can restrain a man for a few days—perhaps months—from excesses, they are doing more good than can be got by sending blankets and Bibles to the African who cannot read, and whose delight is in exhibiting his ebony body to the sun, or an individual of the other sex, who has nothing on her, except what she received from nature.

Dogs.

The legislature is after the dogs, which howl all night—disturbing the sleep of innocent people, or devouring the sheep—and biting people as they pass along the streets, and suggesting imaginary hydrophobia—giving them a distaste for water, and making them cry out, like the canines. It is said that a proper tax—properly collected, in regard to these animals—would be sufficient to educate all the children of the state. This may be a mistake, but it is probable that the tax would amount to enough to make the dogs useful.

There are few men who have been acquainted with dogs that do not love the animal. It is a generous creature—will stand by those who love it. Poverty in the master is nothing. It will clug to Sambo, and starve with him, rather than be separated from him.

This is a loving quality in our poor dogs, which have so little sympathy among the dog-catchers, who get about a dollar a head for killing them. That is, when they go about the streets, picking up with their nets, and other ingenious contrivances, what these innocent dogs have not sense enough to evade.

This is pitiable enough, but men are very much like the whale. It has its instincts, and will swallow in a minute more of the little fish than would serve the purposes of a family for a month. Men have a similar kind of voracity, and will swallow a house, or a railroad; and digest it without the least indication of dyspepsia.

Well, the poor dog requires no diadems for his pups—has no desire for costly dresses—has no folly of this kind: but it is fit some sort a nuisance. It won't go to sleep when the bipeds desire sleep. It seems to think that it is a duty to make much noise. We have heard it, and it has given to us great annoyance.

But, loving this poor, faithful creature, what can one do, except to pardon it for its errors, as we have every day to pardon men, who may mean no wrong, but are constantly doing it?

We are in favor of the dogs, and they, like little children, in their foolishness, ought to be treated with all kindliness—for they love men, and some return ought to be given to them for that.

The dogs are eating sheep, which ought to be a great product of this country, among the wool-gatherers. What is to be done? Nothing that we know of, except to make the dog or his owner responsible. Don't kill the poor loving and lovable creatures; but teach it not not to steal, or take what does not belong to it.

But this is what we desire to say, in the words of Don Juan, "Dogs, or men, and I flatter you in saying you are dogs," is a truth; for a great many of the men are not worthy of so much respect as we ought to give to these poor, gentle, faithful brutes, which look lovingly into the eyes of their masters.

The "Scandal."

The only way that we can see how the Beecher scandal can be stopped, is for the prominent figure in it to commit suicide, or go in quest of Ross Tweed; that is, lose himself. The last phase of the business is reported as follows:

The report of the committee more immediately in charge of the Beecher scandals, sets forth that the committee are satisfied that there seems to be no absolute necessity of reopening the case; but inasmuch as there are so many suspicious claims and rumous allegations, it recommends that the council appoint a committee of three to advise Plymouth Church that it would be well to select a committee of five from a list of prominent persons which they submit, whose duty it shall be to hear every scrap of evidence that can be collected and adjudicated finally upon the case. There is a division on this subject, and it is said the fight will be a long and bitter one.

One of the many lawyers employed by the Receivers, Trustees, and King Stockholders (who are all governed by the "Emperor" and obey his orders) said in court yesterday—in the case of the petition for the removal of the Trustees and Receivers, "that no one complained of the management of the road." Of course, they were not expected to hear of any complaints or express them in court, because our poor unfortunate Confederate stock and bondholders are too poor to fight parties who have rallied for two millions of dollars, and have the earnings of the company paying from $150,000 to $275,000 per month which they can use to crush any rebellion. We propose now to give one instance or this "spread-eagle" management, (as it was called by one of the most prominent railroad men in New York, and who, probably, has larger investments in Southern roads than any other man in the North) of the cutting up, and sale to a junk dealer of about twenty locomotives.

There were about five of these engines—the first put upon the road—which had been condemned as "worn out," and the balance, about fifteen in number, had been run down during the war, but had not been repaired, because of the want of shop facilities. All the parts of these last were intact, and were valued at from two to five thousand dollars each, and those condemned at about five hundred each.

Their appearance in the "Bone Yard" was offensive, and a new appraisement was ordered with a view to their sale.

This appraisement was about an average of five hundred dollars each, and they were sold to a junk man at that price, and his notes at thirty, sixty, or ninety days, taken in payment. The notes first due were forwarded for collection and returned protested, and all the others met the same fate, and it is generally understood that not one dime has ever been received by the company. Receivers, or Trustees in payment for them.

It is understood, however, that the junk man repaired one of the engines at a cost of about $500, and sold it to some other company for $5,000. This matter was not alluded to in the last annual report, as that document was prepared, like Talleyrand's opinion of language, to conceal the facts and thoughts.

We desire to say that the names for Receivers in our communication of yesterday were put in without consultation with the parties, but simply because they were considered as persons living on the road, who would honestly manage the trust with ability and with justice to all parties, and who cannot be induced to join the ring either here or in New York.

T. J. C.

Mr. Editor:—That is a novel idea about a solution of the play of Hamlet which you presented the other day and I think there is something in it worthy of consideration. I have been often puzzled by the play, and could not find any satisfaction in my own reasoning about it. They of the North, we all know, were hard drinkers, but the question is did Shakespeare use this to govern his character? The other idea that he began the play not knowing whither it would lead him, seems to be rational; but it requires proof.

QUID.

The suggestion of the hard drink was made by a very eminent writer and critic.

The other idea is our own. It has never been mentioned in any essay that we know of. It may not be less rational on that account, but it is worthy of a sme consideration.

We think that it is entirely impossible to give any theory of the character that deserves respect, unless it be by presuming that the Prince indulged too much in his cups, or that he was insane, or that the author had a work which he began without knowing anything of the whither. The finale brought itself about.

Hamlet was a gentleman. He loved that very lovable woman, Ophelia. She loved him; and yet he treated that tender heart in a way that seems to indicate brutality. This is not presumable of the Prince, who was noted for all those gentle qualities which become men as much as they do women.

How reconcile his acts with his character, as it is exposed in the play, unless he was all the time drunk, or that he was not a gentle man, or that the author had a work on his hands which he chose to submit to the theatre, without reference to its coherency and naturalness?

Much might be written on the subject. Whole tomes have been written on it, and not one of them gives any measure of satisfaction to those persons who think that Shakespeare was the greatest genius that we have any record of.

He was not perfect; but his works, with their imperfections, have had more influence for instruction and moral education than all the other books that we know of. His insight of human nature is wonderful. We call it miraculous; and we assert that any man, with a good heart, who will appreciate the works of this author, and give to them careful study, will have an education worth more than that which can be given by any of the higher schools.

Any long dissertation on the subject does not become a daily newspaper. At least, we have no space for it, and our readers may care nothing about it.

The princess Beattrice, of England, has resolved to do her own courting, and is determined not to saddle a poor German Prince on the taxpayers of Great Britain and Ireland.—Exchange.

Well, it being leap year we are not at all surprised at the resolution of the royal lady.

The Attorney-General Pierrepont is accused of using his authority to protect Babcock. The Secretary of the Treasury is, however, up to the mark, and has determined that no guilty man shall escape.—Exchange.

THE NEW SPEAKER PRO TEM.

Mr. Kerr's failing health, absolutely demanding rest, he has gone away for a time, and Mr. Cox (Sunset, of course) has the chair he so earnestly coveted during the contest for its occupancy. Like many another coveted object, I don't believe he finds his possession equal to his ideal of its chances. He doesn't like to sit still and keep an eye upon the perplexing confusion of bills and amendments and points of order, so he frequently resigns in favor of Mr. Blackburn, of Kentucky. That gentleman makes an admirable presiding officer, insisting upon order, and showing the greatest fairness in all decisions. By the way, Congress has not collapsed yet, if Barclay did resign. Another Kentucky gentleman (Mr. Parsons, of Kentucky) made a very taking speech yesterday in defence and glorification of his native city. He has a fine voice, is decidedly a handsome man, and is hereafter to have attention when he says "Mr. Speaker." The new members are gaining courage to try their wings very rapidly.

Two American Dromios.

They were not twins, nor exactly alike in person, but if the Atchison (Kansas) Patriot has not been drawing the long bow for the fun of it they were very strikingly suggestive of the twins in Shakspeare's "Comedy of Errors." Not many days ago a stranger arrived at a hotel in Atchison and registered his name as "Frederick Moffatt, Bangor, Me." While he was at dinner another stranger arrived, and on going to register himself was surprised to find his own name already recorded, in a hand very similar to his own. He was puzzled at first but the "Bangor, Me.," indited than it must, simply, be a case of remarkable coincidence. He therefore wrote on the next line "Frederick Moffatt, San Jose, Cal.," and asked to see stranger No. 1. When the pair met there was a very interesting comparison of notes. No. 1. was born in Maine and was 31 years old on the 2d of January, 1876. No. 2 was born in California and was also 31 years old on the 3d of January, 1876. The father of each was named Charles and the mother Mary. Each has two sisters living and one brother dead, whose name was "Charles," named after their father.

Both were proprietors of livery and feed stables in their respective places of residences, and the residences of both were consumed by fire on the fifth day of March, 1875, and were insured in the Etna Fire Insurance Company. These two men are very similar in appearance. In height, avordupois, and general appearance they are almost enough alike to be twins. The only difference is in the complexion and color of the hair. The Maine man's hair is black, while that of the other from California is fiery red. Neither had ever heard of the other nor of his family, and the train of coincidences is rendered by this fact even more remarkable. The two men remained in Atchison over night, and in the morning departed, the California man for Maine on business, and the Maine man for California for the benefit of his health. The paper which tells this story thinks that the adage, "truth is stranger than fiction," seldom had a more singular verification.

A FATAL AFFAIR.—Our citizens in the vicinity of the corner of 2d avenue and 20th street, were startled about 10 o'clock on Wednesday night, by hearing the report of a pistol shot. On going to Webb's corner, it was ascertained that Mr. John Rainey, engineer of the switch engine on the S. & N. Road, was shot by Aleck Webb, the ball passing through the nose into the brain. He lived until 8 o'clock on Thursday morning, but was unconscious all the time. An inquest was held over the remains this morning, and a verdict in accordance with the above facts found. Young Webb made his escape, and is still at large, but there is very little doubts of his being captured. We learn from parties who knew him that he was a quiet, inoffensive man, who was too timid to engage in broils.—Independent, Birmingham, Ala.

The Bonanza Mania in 'Frisco

The people here are crazy on the subject of stocks. Men, women and children all deal in them. You step into a boot-blacking establishment, and as the darkey brushes the mud off, he remarks: "Cholla's looking up, sah. Quite a budge dey got on California?" You can stock from twenty-five cents up to $500 a share, so every body, from the richest man in the city down to the newsboys, can handle it. To illustrate the extent to which this gambling mania affects all classes of people, I will relate a little incident which came under my own observation. I was dining at the Pacific hotel. The waiter placed a plate of soup in front of the gentleman opposite me, a prominent stock-broker, whom we will call Smith. As he put down the plate the waiter remarked: "What do you think of Nevada, Mr. Smith?"

"Well, I think they are a good purchase at $220," said Mr. Smith.

"I've got ten shares dat cost me eighteen," said the darkey, "and I guess you may sell them for me in the morning. Fish, sah?"

"Yes; bring me some sea-bass."

The fish was brought, and the conversation continued.

"What do you think of Ophir, sah?"

"Well, I don't think it will go much higher. They run it up to eighty-three to-day."

"I've got fifteen shares of dem dat I held a good while. I bought 'em at forty-five. I guess you can sell dose too."

And so it went on through the entire dinner. With each course was an order to buy or sell some stock; the waiter had invested his little savings in margins on grades, and cleaned up nearly $2,000 as the result of his operations. The conductors of the street cars hardly have time to collect fares, they are so much occupied in trading with the drivers. There are some queer stocks sold, of the means adopted to influence the market. One of the leaders of the Big Bonanza ring, when asked for points by his friends, tells them that he can not say anything, but they may read the dispatches on his desk. These dispatches he himself had dictated, and when his friend buys or sells on the strength of them he finds, some bright morning, that he has been bucking against the ring and been swallowed up. Another well-known stock operator who lives at Virginia City, and whose apartments were shared by a fair companion, came down to San Francisco, and after a few days wrote his fair friend to buy shares in a certain mine. Of course the man told one or two intimate friends; they told others, and so soon as these people had bought all they could put up margins for the ring began to deliver stock. The stock had been watered and the outsiders swindled. Some say that the operator who engineered the thing relinbursed his lady friend, while others say he had not even grace to do that. As soon as a man makes a fortune here he at once builds a hotel or a theatre.

The Attorney-General Pierrepont is accused of using his authority to protect Babcock. The Secretary of the Treasury is, however, up to the mark, and has determined that no guilty man shall escape.—Exchange.

Having now in store and receiving daily one of the largest stocks of choice family and fancy groceries in this city, Owen Farley solicits an examination of his stock and prices before purchasing elsewhere, and guarantees to give entire satisfaction as to quality and prices and to deliver goods promptly in any part of the city free of drayage.

THE DAILY TRIBUNE

SATURDAY.....Feb. 26, 1876.

The Democratic National Convention is to be held at St. Louis on the 27th of June.

Washington's birth-day was celebrated in Philadelphia with a wonderful amount of enthusiasm.

A commission of lunacy in Philadelphia has decided that Dr. Helmbold is insane. This, perhaps, will put him where other people may not be made insane by his wonderful medicines.

About the 10th of March the Montgomery Advertiser will publish a pamphlet, containing head-notes of decisions of the Supreme Court at the present term. Price per copy, one dollar.

Captain W. L. Bragg has resigned his place as chairman of the executive committee of the Democratic party of the State. The letter announcing this is an earnest and a graceful one. The gentleman deserves the greatest respect that his party can give him. Capt. J. F. Johnson, of Selma, has been selected to fill his place.

The suit of Mr. J. C. Stanton against Mr. Snagge, for a bevel, has been withdrawn. Mr. Stanton was sued $100,000. Perhaps Mr. Snagge had that much in his pocket, or could "draw" for it, but we have no doubt that he thought it would be too much, as Franklin said, to pay for a whistle; and so he didn't pay, and Stanton has quitted his claim for the $100,000, and Mr. Snagge will not be held here, or go to that elegant edifice which is at Wetumpka.

Last Wednesday, Capt. Loan, New Orleans Superintendent of Police, and Capt. Gray, who commands the first precinct police, were arrested, and sentenced to twenty-four hours' confinement in the parish prison. The charge was releasing prisoners on their parole. Judge L. Adams, of the first municipality court, did it. A writ of habeas corpus was got from Judge Cullom, of the fifth district court, and the prisoners were set at large. No one was hurt on the occasion.

The papers say that there is a "great rush to the Black Hills." That is where those pesilent Indians staid, and thought that they had the right of possession.

What is impelling our people to go thither? Auri sacri fames—the thirst for gold, which they could stake here with less labor than they can stake it there. That is, if they will take hold of their ploughs.

From Alabama are going many persons in search of those gold treasures which, they think, lie on the surface of the earth. Diamonds, many of them believe, can be found there.

The discontent which drives men from their homes in search of "pastures new" indicates a lack of manhood—and—with the love that we owe to this southern country—a lack of what is called patriotism.

Well, let these fools go away, and when they are starved out, it is likely that they will beg some means to get back to the places which they have abandoned.

The Advertiser of Montgomery has found a number of its paper, dated as far back as February, 1836, and gives from its columns some very interest ng information of what was then going on in that city. It brings to mind a great many gentleman who were at that time conspicuous in their influence in public matters.

What has attracted our attention in the article is that J. E. Belser and Sol. Child were the original publishers of a paper, which in 1834, called the Planters' Gazette, was turned into the form of the Advertiser.

We see that "Ned. Hamrick" figures in this account. He was a most excellent man, but he could outswear Gen. Twiggs, or other persons who considered swearing to be a duty.

But we want to speak of Sol. Child. After leaving Montgomery—we suppose his paper there was not paying much, or because he was not willing to wait, or something of that kind—he came to Mobile, and started a little paper for the political campaign that was then on foot between Gen. Bates and Gen. Hogan were the leaders on the occasion. Child, being a Democrat, was on the Hogan side, and with his little paper stirred up much party animosity. He made a fuss, and was whipped a half a dozen times by the Bates party; but he stuck to his farh and went home—dressed his head, and came out next morning with a clean shirt on, and looking like a gentleman. It was impossible to suppress him.

Sol. was a very kind-hearted man. He had not much wisdom, and the smallest quantity of culture. We could narrate some stories of him and others when he was here that would be amusing, and, what is better, truthful, but this might hurt the feelings of good living men, and that it seems to us, amount almost to a crime.

The New Orleans papers of yesterday morning contain very little news of local interest. One thing is worthy of mention. That is, that in a jewelry store on Canal street there is exhibited a red shawl, "finely embroidered with gold thread." Nothing is asked for it; but it is said to be held at $10,000. It would be a nice thing for a raffle or a lottery. We know a lady in Mobile who would buy it, if it were sent by express, without the C. O. D.

PERSONAL.—Wm. Butler Duncan, Esq., Trustee and Receiver of the Mobile and Ohio Railroad property, and who has lately been so noticed as a victim of feeble blackmail attempts as he was always before distinguished as a banker and as a polished and large-hearted gentleman, arrived in this city yesterday and is lodged at the Battle House.—Mobile Register.

We should like to know who is making these "black-mail attempts." The Register has made a false report, but that is not uncommon with it. The black-mailers are on the other side of the house—the money, it is likely, was paid in advance.

The correspondents who have written some communications for this paper are men who want to do what is just; and, we imagine, that if all the wealthy men were to try to bribe them, they would find a kick for the temptation.

There is a lie in the little extract which heads this comment. We are sure of this, and will stand by it, until such time as the proof shall have been furnished. Then we shall give it up, as, in a case of this kind, it becomes all men who consider themselves gentlemen. Apologise for the wrong innocently done, and fight for the right. This is the manly way of acting.

Another thing we desire to mention. We allow gentlemen, who assume the responsibility, to write what they please for these columns, if it be within the law of decency; and we shall take great pleasure in printing the adverse side of it. The subject in controversy is of great interest to our people; and that interest ought not to be ignored by any consideration of regard to individual merit, or of no-merit.

This is written only for the purpose of saying, what we believe to be true, that the above paragraph is not truthful. A Lie has long legs; but Truth, like a tortoise, goes slow, but it, finally, catches the other fellow.

Editor of the Tribune:

The Hon. J. A. Campbell, in his speech yesterday upon the petition to remove the mutton-chop carpet-baggers from the control of the Mobile and Ohio Railroad, said there were parties in New York, as well as in Mobile, whose purpose was to BLACK MAIL the HON. Wm. Butler Duncan, and the Register comes to the front as endorsing this position.

Now, we know that lawyers can be retained in any case, and are in duty bound to protect their clients, whether for stealing or fraud. We have a high respect for John A. Campbell, and we regret to find him in such bad company. We regret also to see Milton Brown and George N. Stewart—as lawyers in this case—pleading the cause of these mutton-chop carpet-baggers. These lawyers have the respect of SOUTHERN people, and their endorsement of this fraud would be readily understood by the Southern people, if they had any MONEY, or PLUCK, to fight these parties in court.

And we state further that if the State District Attorney had any PLUCK, or understood the case, the Hon. Wm. Butler Duncan would have been prosecuted to the grand jury for fraud in the State courts.

He is now on bail, under this charge of fraud in New York, and we suppose his Ring (and Mobile people know who they are) can give the necessary bail, and file as security the bonds of the city issued for——, Blackmailing a bankrupt who failed for $2,000,000, and who would have been mobbed in New York, but for the timely intercession of his venerable father, was no doubt intended by Judge Campbell as a GRIM-VISAGED joke. Well, such is life, and we find persons here—as Judge Campbell—and we suppose it will be the same as in the next world. Let both parties unite in earnest prayer! We think they will be benefitted in the next world by this.

We conclude this short chapter for the breakfast table, but not for the Grand Jury when they meet.

Our hotel at Wetumpka is not full.

There will be four big events next Monday: The arrival of six steamboats with Mardi Gras visitors; the military parade of the first regiment Alabama state militia; the ball of the Cotton Exchange, and the musical performance and ball of the Concordias.

The noon cotton report of the Board of Trade yesterday was: "Market irregular and quiet. Moderate demand. Sales about 400 bales." Closing report: "Sales today 1800 bales. Market closed quiet and unchanged. Fair demand."

The ball of Neptune Fire Company No. 2 at their engine house last evening was a perfect success. The ladies were brilliant as usual, and the gallant firemaddies seemed to be just as much in their element as when fighting fires.

"Prepare for a rainy day" is an admonition that has become a proverb. There is no better way to do it than to go to Hatton's furnishing goods house, Royal and Dauphin, and buy an umbrella. His stock is large and prices small.

Hatton is the shirt king of Mobile. He has a large and carefully selected stock and sells at these astonishingly low prices: Six shirts for $9, (open back or front) six for $10 50, six for $12 50, six for $16. The quality of the goods is excellent and the work so faithfully done that the seams do not rip nor the buttons drop off.

The following sales of Pincus, the famous dealer, northeast corner of Dauphin and Royal, are made on Saturday at remarkably low prices, whether the purchaser buys a single garment, or a full, fashionable suit. The salesmen at this house make only correct representations as to the quality of the goods, and the prices are established so low that the most intelligent buyer is percetly satisfied.

The Irving Association gave another dramatic performance at Turner Hall Tuesday night, this time producing "Still Waters Run Deep." The cast was appropriate and the parts well sustained. After the drama there were dances, and after that the quiet of home was sought.

SUNDAY,.....Feb. 27, 1876.

All the last foreign news seems to show that Don Carlos is "on his last legs," but, then, no one can swear, with any certainty, to the accuracy of this kind of news.

Mr. Marcui Louis, a merchant at Holly Springs, (Miss.) was murdered in his store a few days ago. Near his body was an ax, covered with blood. Who did it and the motive of it are not mentioned.

The government is in hot pursuit of the "crooked" people of New Orleans. Last Thursday indictments were made against Wm. Finch, I. A. Lewis, J. A. Gardner L. A. Saxon and Eli H. Fairchild. Each of them gave a $50,000 bond.

Theatre.

There will be some very attractive performances at the theatre this week. It is called a Festival week—an introduction to Lent—when theatricals are not permitted to those who live up to the prescriptions of the churches which observe the ordinances of Lent.

There are several plays mentioned for this week, and, we suppose, from the names of their authors, that they will be well-worth attention. Adolphe Belot—distinguished in French dramatic annals—is the writer of one of them: Alex Dumas, fils, is another; and Musical—one of the most skilful writers of the ages—is the third. For Friday and Saturday there will be novel entertainments, which are noted in the advertisement.

What will be specially attractive is the reappearance of Miss Louie Lord —who has recovered from several weeks of dangerous sickness. She is a charming lady in person as well as an actress. She can please any audience that can crowd itself into the theatre.

There was not a very large audience at the theatre last night, but those who were there were pleased. The youthful lady, Miss Sallie Adams, gave much delight. She is a charming little woman—a mere girl—and as pretty as it is possible to make these children of the stage. Mr. Keen is a first-rate actor, and Ketchum made his usual quantity of fun.

The play was excellently put on the stage.

We met Joan the other day—a good woman to wash and "do things." She was a negro woman—has much sense, and a dutiful desire to provide for four little colored children, which she said were hers —with only one father to them.

This lady—without education—spoke to us, and we to her, and what do you suppose she said?

We shall tell that. She said that the times are "hardy," and that she was wearing her hands out in work, and that she had some difficulty in getting her money after it was earned—that the white men were good to her—that they seemed to respect any person that was trying to do her best.

And so the discourse went on, until we inquired about the reputation of George Washington, who lives in her neighborhood.

"Sir," was the reply, "dat man is not worth much, any way you can fix him."

"Why he won't do no work, and wants his wife to do all dat."

"Well, the wife being the better half, why don't she make George take his share in the business of managing the household?"

"Dat's a good question; but spose she won't do it. What den! Some fool women go about makin der husbands nuisances, and the fool husbands like dat, for de wife stays at home, while the husband runs about, being a politicianer. If I had my way, I would like dat whippin post to come, as it was in Delaware, what I was raised. Dat's a good thing."

"Why you can hardly desire to see your husband in that place?"

"Why, dat is nothing, except dat it is good, and I'tell you dat. I would like to see some of the black women put dar too. Dey makes fools of der husbands, and dey do dat because dey want to make fools of demselves, and fool all round."

This is what the colored lady said. There may be some truth in it.

"The Crooked."

The acquittal of Gen. Babcock at St. Lonis for complicity with the "crooked," made what the papers call an "ovation." The defendant shook hands with the jurors. He "was borne in triumph from the court-room by his counsel and friends." He was also "greeted with cheers from the waiting crowd," and these cheers followed him, until he got into the chamber of his hotel.

Whether these honors were deserved or not, it is not possible to say; but it is a fair presumption that they were, unless the jury had been bribed.

We used the word stake yesterday, in two places. The compositor made it stake, which made nothing but nonsense. These types are terrible things, if not handled properly. They can, like some women, break a young man's heart before he can wink.

Mardi-Gras.

If all we hear be true—and we have no doubt of it—there will be a very beautiful display in the occasion.

We observe that many strangers are already in the city in expectation of it, and the boats and railroads, it is likely, will add a few thousands more to our population.

Now is the time for our merchants and shopkeepers to expose their wares in the most attractive form.

We have no doubt that customers from the country can find as good bargains here as are to be found in New Orleans; and this, if they desire to unite business with pleasure, will save them some considerable expense.

New Orleans has more people than Mobile, but we venture to assert, with some degree of confidence, that the exhibition here will excel that in the Crescent City. That is, if the past may be considered a measure of the present year—for this city set on foot some of the principal exhibitions of the kind, and it has always carried away the palm in that respect, as we have often heard New Orleans people say.

TELEGRAPH

DOMESTIC.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 26.—The committee of seven, appointed to investigate Governor Kellogg, will report as early as practicable. Kellogg addressed a communication to the committee asking when the proceedings commence that he may appear in person or by counsel. Governor Kellogg has issued a proclamation convening the senate in extra session immediately after adjournment of the legislature.

JACKSON, Miss., Feb. 26.—The house has appointed five managers to conduct the Ames impeachment before the senate.

LITTLE FALLS, N. Y., Feb. 26.—The Saxony Knitting Mills were partly burned; loss $25,000.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 25.—A number of Episcopal Reform clergymen of Philadelphia have agreed to recommend to the standing committee the abolition of the Lenten season.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—The republican senators canvassed yesterday over the bill to restore all persons stricken from the pension rolls for disloyalty causes, and decided, as the bill allows payment of arrearages for fourteen or fifteen years amounting to several million dollars, it ought not to pass in the present condition of the treasury. This action will defeat the bill in the senate.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 26.—The whisky convicts will not be sentenced until the motions for new trials are over.

FOREIGN.

It is officially announced that eight Carlist battalions refused to obey orders to fire upon the royalists, and after a conflict between the officers and men the force was disbanded and surrendered in parties at Tolosa yesterday. The Carlists are soliciting amnesty by the thousands. A dispatch from the royalist general, Martinez Campos, announces that nine battalions have surrendered at Pamplelina. It is generally believed that a complete break-up of the remaining Carlist forces is imminent, and the war is regarded as virtually ended.

BERLIN, Feb. 26.—The opposition of Bavaria and all the southern states will probably defeat the imperial railroad scheme.

The house of Preston & Stetson has been noted during its business career of forty years in Mobile as the synonym for reliability and fair dealing. During this long period they have always kept in advance of all competitors in the extent and variety of their stock, to which from their advantage of a resident partner in Boston, they have peculiar facilities. Their spring stock of boots, shoes and hats is just received and offered at eastern prices to the wholesale trade only.

Fishermen never fail to catch fish, hunters never fail to kill game, if they purchase from J. W. Dunne, the well known gunsmith whatthey need for the purpose of hunting and fishing. Now that visitors are pouring into the city to be here at the carnival, this paragraph is written to give sportsmen among them an opportunity of obtaining their supplies. Mr. Dunne will not be undersold by any one in his line of business. He has a fresh supply of fishing tackle, hooks, lines and corks, besides all grades of powder, shot, caps and everything pertaining to his branch of trade. Walking down Dauphin street, don't forget J. W. Dunne, No. 24.

The Mammoth Clothing House.—At the mammoth clothing house of M. P. Levy & Co., 16, 18 and 20 North Water street, an immense stock of spring clothing has recently been received, much of which was manufactured under the superintendence of Mr. Levy, while he was at the north, and some of it was purchased at bankrupt sales during his stay there. They, too, are selling at the most fashionable spring clothing at prices that absolutely defy competition from other dealers, and as low as it can be purchased in any city, north or south. Their stock is the largest of any southern dealers and from it retail dealers or the citizen who wants to buy only a single suit may select. In the line of furnishing goods, M. P. Levy & Co. have every style and quality at prices to suit.

The oldest saddlery house in the south, that of Wm. T. Ayers, 14 St. Francis street, which was established 45 years ago, has an announcement this morning of interest to our readers.

Visitors to the city and our own residents who are in want of furniture or carpets, should be sure to visit the establishment of W. H. Kelly & Co., St. Francis street, one of the oldest furniture houses in the south. A large stock of goods and at the lowest prices.

The firm of Hamilton & Cudlipp has been dissolved, and Mr. A. J. Hamilton will continue the retail drug and prescription business at the northeast corner of Dauphin and Claiborne streets.

The noon cotton report of the Board of Trade yesterday was: "Market weak and irregular. Fair demand. Sales about 800 bales." Closing report: "Sales today 1800 bales. Market closed irregular and easy. Fair demand."

The Young Brothers, corner Dauphin and St. Emanuel, deal in gas fixtures and patent safety lamps, put up kitchen ranges, put down drove wells, put in a fine or copper bath tub, and do plumbing or gas fitting.

J. H. Locke & Son, dealers in straw and Manilla wrapping paper, machine and hand made paper bags, paper and cotton flour sacks, envelopes, news, book, flat, note, letter and foolscap paper and twines of various kinds, are proprietors of the cheap paper warehouse, and 54 North Water street.

John Mazenger, the well known confectioner of No. 26 Dauphin street, will put his soda fountain in operation to morrow, and will supply his customers with iced milk, pies and cakes. Strangers visiting the city are advised to call on him.

At the Ruby Exchange, conducted by those popular young men, Sutherland and Moran, the finest wines, liquors and cigars are kept constantly on hand. It is a treat to be treated or to stand treat at the Ruby, where one is welcomed with a smile and smiled on by the handsome young man behind the counter.

Visitors to Mobile who wish to get a good view of the city can do so by ascending to the top of the tower near the guard house. Police officers at the guard house kindly extend to these visitors an invitation to make this ascension.

Joe Stein is the only dealer in Mobile who keeps the celebrated Pilsinger lager beer. Full glasses at five cents. Mr. Stein displays, over the entrance to his saloon, a large golden keg, and that is the place to get a good "smack" and a glass of Pilsinger lager for five cents.

James F. Tierney, the retail grocer, northwest corner of Dauphin and Franklin streets, has a variety of choice family groceries, which he offers for sale at the lowest prices. He also keeps constantly on hand bread, cakes, pies and confectionery. Mr. Tierney will extend a cordial welcome to all his customers.

Visitors. When you are passing along Royal street, do not forget to stop at the Centennial Saloon, where the choicest wines, liquors and cigars may be had. Whatever Mr. Philippi deals in is of the best and purest quality. A magnificent lunch spread every day. Look out for stuff-d turkey as a part of a big Mardi Gras lunch.

Royal street was startled yesterday afternoon by the sight of a frightened horse attached to an open wagon, running at full speed and dragging a man two or three blocks. The unfortunate man was extricated near Soto & Primo's and taken in there. He was afterwards removed to the guard house and from thence was conveyed to his home on Davis avenue. His arm was fractured in three places. Otherwise his injuries are not serious. His name is Dwyer.

P. A. Schenermann, beer saloon, under Odd Fellows' Hall, has recently enlarged his premises and fitted up a conversation room in an attractive style. He sells the Pic. Best Milwaukee beer at five cents a glass, wines and liquors of the purest quality and cigars of the best flavor. Visitors to his establishment can partake of a substantial lunch and afterwards wash it down.

The wholesale and retail grocery house of Hargrove, Little & Co., 48, 50 and 52 North Commerce street, and 47, 49 and 51 Front street, presents a busy scene, in consequence of the reputation it has maintained as a place where goods of the best quality can be purchased at the lowest prices. Nothing in the line of staple and fancy groceries is wanting in their stock, which is perfect and complete. The customers they secured in the past, they retain at the present time, because they deal fairly, carry a large and fresh stock from which goods may be selected and are always ready to give attention to the little details of business which contribute to make great successes. Their line of staple provisions is fully as ample as their staple and fancy groceries, and the prices are always highly satisfactory. This is a model grocery house.

WHERE TO BUY CLOTHING.—A visit to that vast establishment, known as the Mammoth Clothing House, 16, 18 and 20 North Water street, reveals the fact that the firm of M. P. Levy have the largest, most fashionable and most care fully selected stock of spring goods ever seen in this city. A portion of their winter stock, ample to supply the wants of customers, is conspicuous on shelves and counters, but the greatest proportion of their stock is fresh, new and just from the warehouses of the manufacturers. There will be so many people in Mobile during the present week looking for clothing and furnishing goods for the retail trade or for their own wardrobes, that it becomes a pleasant duty to remind them that they will be sure to obtain splendid bargains by going to the Mammoth Clothing House, 16, 18 and 20 North Water street.

WALTER CROSBIE.—That's the name of a business man who advertises in the Tribune. He is the proprietor of a retail grocery house on the southeast corner of Jackson and Dauphin streets, where he has a large stock of the choicest staple and fancy groceries. Mr. Crosbie never has anything but the best goods and his store is always crowded with customers, the most of whom are ladies, who purchase goods there because everything is so neatly displayed. Everything in the line of groceries may be found at his store, in proof of which declaration call and see for yourselves.

The reputation of the wholesale and retail grocery house of Owen Farley, 64, 66, 68, 70 and 72 Government street, known in sections of the state penetrated by railroads and steamboats, through the instrumentality of the Tribune, will prompt many of the visitors to this city to go to that house to purchase their family supplies of staple and fancy groceries and provisions. Our representations that his stock is large, his goods fresh and his prices low will be confirmed by all who go there to trade.

A great many things end in smoke and so do the cigars that are sold by that popular dealer, Chris Burke, northeast corner of Dauphin and Royal. His stock is one of the choicest and most carefully selected in the city and embraces the best and most favorite brands of cigars, smoking and chewing tobacco. Visitors to the city who want to buy the weed for daily use or home consumption, will be wise to call on Chris Burke.

Visitors to the carnival will call at Mr. John Meyer's beer saloon, Nos. 4 and 6 St. Emanuel street. He keeps none but western beer of the best quality, at five cents a glass. His liquors are pure, his cigars fragrant and a nice lunch can always be obtained at his saloon. Mr. Meyer is noted for his good fortune in securing the services of polite and attentive barkeepers, and customers are courteously attended to.

Mons. Groux has arrived from New Orleans and has some of the finest costumes that have been here for some time. Mr. Groux was here last year and all who paraded with costumes obtained from him were happy. He can be found at No. 4 South Royal street. Call there.

After knowing that the thermometer in northern New England stood about fifteen degrees below zero last Thursday, we have nothing to say about cool weather in Mobile.

Strangers visiting the city, who want to buy anything in the line of furnishing goods, should be sure and go to Hatton's southeast corner Dauphin and Royal, who has a large stock at small prices.

The public will regret to learn that Hon. John Forsyth, of the Register, was seriously ill yesterday. It is hoped that his recovery will be assured before this paragraph is seen by our readers.

The weather will soon be warm enough to take a cold bath almost any morning. Housekeepers who have no bath tub should hasten forthwith to Young Brothers, corner Dauphin and St. Emanuel and order one of zinc or copper.

It is a pleasure to go into the establishment of the Young Brothers, corner Dauphin and St. Emanuel streets. They are fully posted in their business and for their skill and genius and among business men for their integrity and sagacity. Plumbing or gas fitting done by them promptly.

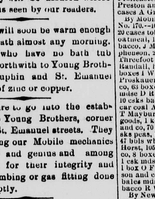

At the clothing and furnishing goods house of Brisk & Jacobson, 56 Dauphin, the rarest bargains may be secured in the purchase of a full suit of clothing or a single article of furnishing goods. The reputation of this firm stands deservedly high for fair and honest dealing, and their customers are always treated with such consideration that they go back again to get good fits and better bargains.

[From the Evening Bulletin.]

Secretary Bristow.

In the hall of Representtives today; in the open space behind the desks of the members, there appeared a solid, determined-looking man, who seemed to be perfectly at home on the floor, and chatted and shook hands with various Congressmen until the gavel of the Speaker pro tempore drove all the gossipers to the cloak-room. If you were unfamiliar with him the whispers of people along the galleries pointing the stranger out to their companions would have told you at once that it was Secretary Bristow. * * * It is a common notion that great leaders should be of massive proportions, and notwithstanding the fact that such men as Napoleon and Nelson were almost as small and delicately organized as women, the general opinion may be assumed to have some foundation in truth. Men of great executive ability. Great capacity for mental or physical labor, power to influence and control others, fortitude against every kind of opposition and readiness to deal with all concrete forms of matter and forget abstractions, are largely, stoutly built and vigorous, and a strong physique is often a good substitute for the fire of genius. He is five feet eleven inches high, and weighs over 250 pounds. His head is large and well-developed, being especially well-rounded above the ears. The face is not that of a scholar or a divine. It is rather that of the manager of a great railroad or the proprietor of a great manufacturing business, and at the present crisis of affairs it is a most consoling countenance to see upon the Secretary of the United States Treasury. The firm sweep of the jaw gives promise of aggressive perseverance, and there is about the whole man the air of one engaged in a severe contest, with all the means of winning it at his control.

Bristow's sudden and rapid rise is one of the most curious events in our politics. He was a Kentucky Unionist, who went into the army and served through the war without gaining any especial distinction, coming out unnoted among the multitude of gallant colonels who returned to civil life. He took up the practice of his profession and gradually won esteem as a sound lawyer, and was appointed United States District-Attorney. From that position he stepped into the office of Solicitor-General, when that place was created in the Department of Justice, and when Williams was proposed for Chief Justice Bristow was selected to succeed him in the Attorney-Generalship. It was a pretty scheme, but fell to the ground. In the meantime he had returned to his home in Louisville and made no secret of the fact that he had little desire for official life at Washington. There is every reason to believe that he had no knowledge of the President's intention to push him Secretary of the Treasury, and when he saw his own name mentioned in the newspapers in connection with that office, he wrote to some of his friends, who were giving currency to reports of his advancement, telling them that there could be no truth in such rumors and asking them to desist, as they were only making him ridiculous in the eyes of the public. To this day, Grant's motive in making such a selection is a mystery, and his choice can only be explained by supposing that for a moment the old unerring instinct with which he used to pick out his subordinate generals deserted him in the nomination of a civil officer. The new Secretary learned the complicated details of his office with wonderful readiness, and performed its trying duties with ease, in a plain, unpretentious way. His thorough business habits and instincts soon enabled him to detect the abuses of his department, and his aggressive honesty prompted him to reform them. There was a score of petty cliques in the Treasury Department which he broke through before destroying the whisky ring. That letter and the name which he won in accomplishing it need only be alluded to here, for the news columns are full of the story. He stands now the foremost man of the Administration and the favorite candidate of the best elements of the party for the Presidency. He has not a section behind him like Blaine or Morton, but the sympathies of all good citizens, as distinguished from good partizans in the Republican ranks favor his ambition; and his popularity at home is such that, if put into the field, he would certainly reduce the Democratic majority in that Democratic stronghold, Kentucky. His successful career is due to the happy fortune which placed him in official position and to the courage and fidelity with which he performed its duties. In a venal age he has been able to win glory by sterling integrity and manly activity. He is not a great man, perhaps, but he is a bold, sound and practical one.

It may not be inappropriate to add that the rumors of antagonism between the President and his Secretary of the Treasury, though so confidentially denied, are not baseless, and Bristow will not flinch, I think, if a crisis comes. Those who know him well say that he would surrender his position to-morrow on a point of honor, although to do so should probably destroy his Presidential prospects; but he will not go out under fire, and Grant could not afford to dismiss him.

Washington, February 19.

Explosion in Opelika.

Wednesday night about 9 o'clock, in Opelika, a keg of powder exploded in the store of Lemlie & Brothers, blowing their stock of goods all to pieces and otherwise damaging the store. The explosion was so great that the partition wall between Lemlie's store and the next one, occupied by Reed & Bros., was thrown in and their goods and shelving scattered about in every direction. As soon as the crowd gathered it was discovered that the dry goods had caught fire from the powder, but it was quickly extinguished. The building was occupied by these parties as stores, and the up-stairs by Mrs. Adams as the Alabama Hotel. The building was badly damaged and is cracked all through.

No cause is alleged for the explosion, and no one can form any correct opinion concerning it. It certainly waked up things in Opelika for awhile.—Columbus (Ga.) Times.

The British Empire is so immense and includes so many barbarious nations that there are always two or three wars going on within the Queen's dominions. The latest outbreak is in Fejee, where several powerful tribes have renounced Christianity and assailed the frontier settlements. The trouble had its origin in the frightful spread of measles among the native population, no less than 35,000 persons having perished from the plague, the introduction of which the Fejeans attribute to British carelessness.

An Albany minister said in a recent sermon: "What is the tendency of the present fashion in reference to assisting or retarding the race for salvation? Our beloved sisters are many of them, so apparelled that they can hardly walk, much less run. There seems to be a tremendous pull back somewhere."

PERSONAL.—We had the pleasure of greeting on the street yesterday Judge A. R. Manning, of the supreme bench. We are pleased to see the Judge in fine health, and in a condition to enjoy the festivities of the season.

Philadelphia is picking up all the crumbs. The "committee of the soldiers of Cumberland" has resolved to hold its annual meeting there, on the 6th and 7th of July. "A large sum of money has been raised to defray the necessary expense."

Gen. Babcock—recently acquitted of indulging in the "crooked,"—it is said, is to return to the army service, and will then demand a court martial to investigate the charges which a civil jury has acquitted him of.

New Orleans.

Gov. Hendricks delivered an elaborate and very interesting speech at the fair now on foot in New Orleans. There was a vast crowd present on the occasion.

A movement to impeach Gov. Kellogg has been made by the Louisiana legislature. There is a minority report, signed by two members of the committee.

Ex special police officer Thomas Deveraux was fired on last Friday night, whichcame near killing him as his wife. On searching the place where the shot came from, a double barreled gunwas found bursted, and there was every reason to believe that the man who fired it wasseverely wounded. He got off, however, leaving some bloody traces—among them fragments of a hand. A man named McGuire applied on Saturday morning for admission to the Charity Hospital, with wounds and a face blackened with gunpowder. He is the wretch, no doubt, and will be kept to answer. The name he gave is considered an alias, and his reputation is a very bad one. It is supposed that the murderous attempt was made for purposes of revenge, as the officer had not long before been active in finding out some of the rascalities of the culprit.

Much fuss in the papers over Mardi Gras.

Mardi-Gras.

The steamboats and railroads have brought a large number of strangers to the city "on pleasure bent, but also with a frugal mind," as was characteristic of Mrs. John Gilpin.

It is likely that these ladies and gentlemen will be pleased with the exhibition. It is likely, also, that many of them are on their way to New Orleans, in search of what they may think they cannot get here.

Mobile made these exhibitions respectable.

It set the example to other cities; and yet none of them has excelled it. Indeed, Mobile still occupies the head and front in this sort of tom-foolery—pleasant enough, and wholesome, for it gives pleasure; and what does that is worthy of regard.

We suppose that the "boys" who are making these very attractive shows, find immeasurable pleasure in them; and about what trade they may bring to the city is not taken into the account; and that is a great factor in the business—for they bring strangers among us—many, perhaps, who have never been here; and as our dealers in goods of all kinds can furnish as fair bargains as they of New Orleans can, the probability is that they will be constant customers—fixtures in the houses which use them gently, and will not cheat them. This is very important to those who are not selling for the purpose of extracting from the purchaser what he may, possibly, deserve is too much—making the business the hour of the day, and choosing the opportunity to make it only the business of the hour.

Apropos of this. It is stated that the Republican Convention was to be held in Cincinnati. One of the leading gentlemen engaged in it, wrote to the Gibson House, to know what the charges for some accommodation would be on that tonsterly. The reply stated that thirty-three dollars a day would pay for a parlor and a bedroom attached to it on the first, second, or third floors; and so up to the fifth floor, where the charge would only be twenty-eight dollars a day.

The politicians must have plenty of money in order to encounter these charges. It is said that the gentlemen, who is of large influence, is now trying to have the convention held in some place where there will be less extortion.

This fact shows how trade may be driven away from a city. We think there is not much danger of this is Mobile; but it furnishes a lesson. And it is, that sensible men will not allow themselves to be cheated twice. Once is instructive.

Floods.

When one look over the papers, with some little tenderness in his heart, he finds much to give him pain. Take the last news from Berlin. The country was much covered with snow; and ice was every where on its margin and its tributaries. Warm weather set in, and the snow and the ice were melted by it. The result was a great overflow. Families were driven from their houses to the higher lands. There were numerous deaths and an immeasurable amount of suffering in consequence of the frost, and the warmth of the sun. "The banks of the Vistula are inundated for miles near Plesa, and many families are homeless."

It was so on the Danube. Parts of Pesth and Buda were submerged. Several persons had been crushed to death by the waters undermining the houses, and making the walls fall down. Cormorn was "completely inundated for miles near Plesa, and many families are homeless."

This is the story that the despatches tell, and perhaps it is not much exaggerated.

Why do not these people come to our land, where there is no overflow to hurt any one, except that when it may fall on our river bottoms; but there is no necessity of any person's going to them, unless in the pursuit of rich lands that require only to be stirred in order to fetch crops.

The highlands are good enough for an industrious man. The water of the rivers are not likely to reach them, and, if well stirred, they yield crops enough to content an industrious man.

U. S. Secretary Bristow.

We publish in another column some account of the character and appearance of Mr. Bristow, our Secretary of the U. S. Treasury. It is extracted from the great Democratic paper of New York, called "The World."

Such descriptions of conspicuous individuals are very interesting, if they be drawn with fidelity. Here is a man with large influence from his position. Every one desires to know what is in him and what he looks like. If his enemies were to make his portrait, perhaps it would have the resemblance of an ass. In this case a party antagonist has made the picture, and there is nothing in it that does not exhibit some measure of an intention to make it a portrait. It may not be flattered, for it is not likely that the other side will flatter what there is on it.

The papers have contained much matter which would seem to indicate that the President and Mr. Bristow are at odds. The last news shows, or seems to show, that this is not true; but the partisan papers are needing something of this kind to keep them going. This, or any other thing, is a "good enough Morgan" for them.

Mr. Bristow has been trying to make the "crooked" straight, and in pursuit of this, he has met obstacles that would appal some men. He could sell himself for a million or more dollars, but he seems to be not a purchasable gentleman.

We have on hand on hand a communication in regard to our railroad affairs; but it was not possible to publish it this morning. The grippe has got some of our compositors, and will not let them loose. We are sorry for them and also for our correspondent. But what is true is not likely to spoil by a little delay. We shall see about it.

LOCAL NEWS.

Selling off to close business, all of our best calicoes at 8 cents a yard at retail, and all other dry goods at prices to insure their immediate sale. Store for sale.
P. H. DEPPER & Co.

James F. Tierney, the retail grocer, northwest corner of Dauphin and Franklin streets, has a variety of choice family groceries, which he offers for sale at the lowest prices. He also keeps constantly on hand bread, cakes, pies and confectionery. Mr. Tierney will extend a cordial welcome to all his customers.

Joe Stein is the only dealer in Mobile who keeps the celebrated Pilsinger lager beer. Full glasses at five cents. Mr. Stein displays, over the entrance to his saloon, a large golden keg, and that is the place to get a good "smack" and a glass of Pilsinger lager for five cents. No. 8 South Joachim, between Dauphin and Conti streets.

Visitors. When you are passing along Royal street, do not forget to stop at the Centennial Saloon, where the choicest wines, liquors and cigars may be had. Whatever Mr. Philippi deals in is of the best and purest quality. A magnificent lunch spread every day. Look out for stuffed turkey as a part of a big Mardi Gras lunch.

P. A. Scheuermann, beer saloon, under Old Fellows' Hall, has recently enlarged his premises and fitted up a convenient room in an attractive style. He sells the Ph. Best Milwaukee beer at five cents a glass, wines and liquors of the purest quality and cigars of the best flavor. Visitors to his establishment can partake of a substantial lunch and afterwards wash it down.

Visitors to the carnival will call at Mr. John Meyer's beer saloon, Nos. 4 and 6 St. Emanuel street. He keeps none but western beer of the best quality, at five cents a glass—from Moerlein's Brewery, Cincinnati. His liquors are pure, his cigars fragrant and a nice lunch can always be obtained at his saloon. Mr. Meyer is noted for his good fortune in securing the services of polite and attentive barkeepers, and customers are courteously attended to.

WALTER CROSBIE.—That's the name of a business man who advertises in the Tribune. He is the proprietor of a retail grocery house on the southeast corner of Jackson and Dauphin streets, where he has a large stock of the choicest staple and fancy groceries. Mr. Crosbie never has any thing but the best goods and his store is always crowded with customers, the most of whom are ladies, who purchase goods there because everything is so neatly displayed. Everything in the line of groceries may be found at his store, in proof of which declaration call and see for yourselves.

WHERE TO BUY CLOTHING.—A visit to that vast establishment, known as the Mammoth Clothing House, 16, 18 and 20 North Water street, reveals the fact that the firm of M. P. Levy have the largest, most fashionable and most complete selected stock of spring goods ever seen in this city. A portion of their winter stock, ample to supply the wants of customers, is conspicuous on shelves and counters, but the greatest proportion of their stock is fresh, new and just from the warehouses of the manufacturers. There will be so many people in Mobile during the present week looking for clothing and furnishing goods for the retail trade or for their own wardrobes, that it becomes a pleasant duty to remind them that they will be sure to obtain splendid bargains by going to the Mammoth Clothing House, 16, 18 and 20 North Water street.

A BIG GROCERY HOUSE.—The wholesale grocery establishment of Mr. J. McDonnell, 9 and 11 North Commerce street, still continues to be the centre of a large and increasing trade in all the staple articles of groceries and provisions as well as in fancy and family groceries, shelf goods, wines and liquors. He is a large dealer in northern and western produce, and by the extensive purchases which he makes at the closest bargains, he is enabled to sell to retail dealers, at prices which are amazingly low, contesting himself always with small profits, which he knows are productive of large sales. City and country retailers can obtain splendid bargains by opening a line of trade with Mr. McDonnell, for they are sure always of getting fresh goods, of the best quality, at the lowest figures.

RIVER NEWS.

The steamboats that arrived Sunday night and yesterday morning, were swarming with passengers, who came to Mobile to participate in or witness the Mardi Gras demonstrations.

The William S. Holt, Captain Whiteside, arrived from Columbus last evening about eight o'clock, with 39 cabin passengers, 3 deck passengers, 480 bales of cotton and 102 sacks cotton seed.

There will be no departure today.

Tomorrow the D. L. Tally, Victoria, Atlanta, Emma No. 2, of Frank Stone's Grange Line and the Mary will leave here at five o'clock p. m. for their advertised points of destination. Spaulding & Foster agents.

The William S. Holt, for Columbus, is also announced to leave tomorrow evening at five o'clock. For freight or passage apply on board.

THE MILITARY DISPLAY.

There were thousands of strangers in the city yesterday. The day was elegant and the parade of the first regiment Alabama militia was one of the finest military demonstrations that has been witnessed here of late.

The flag that waved from the Tribune building as the regiment marched by was borrowed from Washington Fire Company No. 8. It had the honor of being the first flag of the lost cause that was thrown to the breeze after its adoption by the confederate congress. It was the work of the hands of Miss Martha Sossaman, and was presented in due time by Leslie E. Brooks, esq., to the Washington Guards, Company A., twenty-Fourth Alabama, Colonel W. A. Buck commanding. This company went into service from the occupant of Captain W. D. Smith, who lost his life at the battle of Murfreesboro, deeply regretted by those who knew him as a true gentleman.

The military display was very beautiful. We have never seen anything really more elegant in a military point of view. The men—some of our boys—looked like veterans and they had with them what is grand in a military review—a large number of drummers. That is the only true military music. It stirs one up into a fighting disposition.

THE WEATHER YESTERDAY.—At 6:51 o'clock yesterday morning, the wind blew 12 miles an hour at Indianola and 0 at Mobile. The temperature at Mobile was 60, highest 65 at Savannah, lowest 40 at Corsicana.

The wind blew 18 miles an hour at Indianola and at Mobile, at 3:51 yesterday afternoon. The temperature was 81 at Key West, 79 at Savannah, 75 at Augusta and Mobile, 67 at Galveston, 66 at Indianola and 64 at Corsicana.

Cautionary signals at Galveston and Indianola were ordered down in the afternoon.

SOMETHING ATTRACTIVE.—We advise our readers who have an eye for the beautiful to go to Mr Brooks' store, corner of Water and St. Louis streets, today or tomorrow and see the fine display of pictures which are to be sold at auction without reserve on Thursday. The ladies are especially invited. Read the advertisement.

THE MAMMOTH CLOTHING HOUSE.—At the mammoth clothing house of M. P. Levy & Co., 16, 18 and 20 North Water street, an immense stock of spring clothing has recently been received, much of which was manufactured under the superintendence of Mr. Levy, while he was at the north, and some of it was purchased at bankrupt sales during his stay there. They can, therefore, sell the most fashionable spring clothing at prices that absolutely defy competition from other dealers, and as low as it can be purchased in any city, north or south. Their stock is the largest of any southern dealers and from it retail dealers or the citizen who wants to buy only a single suit may select. In the line of furnishing goods, M. P. Levy & Co. have every style and quality at prices to suit.

MR. F. X. Herrmann has just finished painting and otherwise beautifying his elegant saloon, corner Franklin and Dauphin streets, to which he invites the attention of readers of the Tribune and visitors to the city. His wines, liquors and cigars are of the first class, his beer sparkling and fresh, and those who drink his beverages once will continue to do so. Corner Dauphin and Franklin.

WALKS AROUND TOWN.

The "O. Y. M.'s" will meet at nine o'clock today for parade.

If you want a soft hat at prices below what regular dealers ask, go to Hatton, corner Dauphin and Royal streets.

Grandest display of domino suits and masks for mardi gras that was ever seen, at Bromberg Bros, 108 Dauphin street.

Already the cotton receipts at Mobile since September first have been greater than for the whole of the preceding commercial year.

The foreign exports commenced seriously this week. The cotton clearances yesterday were 6,511 bales, valued at $366,515.

The post office will close at eleven o'clock to-day, for the observance of Mardi Gras. Mails will close as usual, and all mails will be distributed.

Special attention is called to the fact that the agency of Ph. Best's Brewing Company will not establish in this city a retail house, but will sell by the package only to saloons and private families.

There is no necessity to be afraid of any scarcity of ice for the present, as the Mobile Ice Company has several thousand tons in store and on the way from Portland.

The quotations of prices of cotton at the Board of Trade, last evening were: "Ordinary 8@8¼; good ordinary 9@9¼; low middling 11@11½; middling 12½; good middling 12¾@13."

The noon cotton report of the Board of Trade yesterday was: "Market quiet and easy. Light demand. Sales about 200 bales." Closing report: "Sales today 600 bales. Market closed weak and irregular. Light demand."

According to the Board of Trade reports, the cotton receipts yesterday at all ports were 25,500 bales: New Orleans 10,229, Mobile 4,311, Galveston 2,100, Savannah 1,248, Norfolk 1,209, Charleston 1,054.

John Mandich's restaurant is at No. 26 South Royal, between Dauphin and Conti. Oysters in every style. Meals at all hours. Polite and attentive waiters. Visitors will do well to call upon Mr. Mandich. Board by the day, week or month. Comfortable lodging rooms if desired.

Ira W. Porter & Co., dealers in hardware, imported doors, mouldings, sashes and blinds, corner Water and St. Francis streets, have the most approved tools for gardeners and turpentine makers and a great variety of kitchen furnishing goods.

Visitors who come here to see the evidences of business progress in Mobile should witness the operation of the rice mills of Mountain & Sons, on St. Louis street, who have done much by the establishment of these mills to promote the rice culture in this section of Alabama.

Now is the time to get a great bargain in purchasing a piano. J. H. Snow offers to sell pianos and organs at greatly reduced prices for the present week for cash or good city paper. Any person thinking of making a purchase will find it much to the interest of their pockets to call and buy now at 102 and 104 Dauphin street.

The Concordias had a splendid audience last night at Temperance Hall, when they presented "The Rivals," with Jane Spear and Dave Levi in the cast, and achieved a dramatic success. After the dramatic entertainment, there were dances and enjoyment till morning.

The ball of Phoenix No. 6 last night was one of the most brilliant affairs of its nature that has occurred during the season. The boys were there in full force, the ladies wore the smillingest faces and the good time so long talked about came at last.

Sportsmen are having great sport now-a-days, and they require fresh supplies of ammunition and new sporting implements. Mr. F. L. Gelbke, 14 Dauphin street, is one of the oldest dealers in goods of this character in Mobile. He has a large stock, very carefully selected, which he offers at greatly reduced prices, and those who are in want of any article in his line should hasten to call on him before his stock is exhausted by the large sales that he is daily making. His card in another column gives a tolerably clear idea of the magnitude of his stock and the variety of his goods. An examination of his goods and comparison of the prices at which he offers them will convince the most sceptical that F. L. Gelbke's gun store is the place to go to secure the most wonderful bargains.

FEED.—J. H. O'Hara's large feed store No's 32 and 34 South commerce street, has on hand a large lot of fresh feed, such as cracked corn, hay, oats, bran, and also cotton seed, cotton seed meal. And Mr. O'Hara has the best new feed in the city. We recommend to the readers of the Tribune our friend Mr. J. H. O'Hare, his business is chiefly in feed. All orders sent to him will be promptly attended to. All goods delivered free of charge to any part of the city.

Fishermen never fail to catch fish, huntsmen never fail to kill game, if they purchase from J. W. Dunne, the well-known gunsmith, what they need for the purpose of hunting and fishing. Now that visitors are pouring into the city to be here to the carnival, this paragraph is written to give sportsmen among them an opportunity of obtaining their supplies. Mr. Dunne will not be undersold by any one in his line of business. He has a fresh supply of fishing tackle, hooks, lines and corks, besides all grades of powder, shot, caps and everything pertaining to his branch of trade. Walking down Dauphin street, don't forget J. W. Dunne, No. 24.

The Young Brothers, corner Dauphin and St. Emanuel, dealin gas fixtures and patent safety lamps, put up kitchen ranges, put down drove wells, put in a zinc or copper bath tub, and do plumbing or gas fitting.

The weather will soon be warm enough to take a cold bath almost any morning. Housekeepers who have no bath tub should hasten forwith to Young Brothers, corner Dauphin and St. Emanuel, and order one of zinc or copper.

It is a pleasure to go into the establishment of the Young Brothers, corner Dauphin and St. Emanuel streets. They rank high among the Mobile mechanics for their skill and genius and energy business men for their integrity and sagacity. Plumbing or gasfitting done by them promptly.

Mobile is justly proud of her mechanics, and there are none in whom our people should take a greater interest than in the famous marble workers, Messrs. McDonald, March & Co., Noris Royal street. Their work is highly creditable to the professional genius of the members of this firm, who are all skilful mechanics.

A great many people visited yesterday the furnishing goods house of T. J. Hatton, southeast corner of Royal and Dauphin streets, where they purchased largely from his extensive stock of fresh goods that he sells at prices astonishingly low.

The Silver Glut in California,

That the bonanzas have overstocked the market with silver is certain. The San Francisco Bulletin says of the discount of silver:

"In response to an offer to sell bars from Virginia a day or two ago, one of our bankers is reported to have replied that he did not want them at any price. At the rate the market is tending, the discount on silver coin is likely to be larger than on the legal-tender. In that event this coin will drive paper to the wall, and bring about specie-payment in a way never dreamed of."

"The heavy and constantly increasing rates of discount upon silver coin in this community is opening up a question which will puzzle the brains of our most astute financiers to solve. China, which has acted as a reservoir for this kind of coin metal, and oftentimes produced a scarcity which compelled the payment of a premium for it here, apparently has its coffers full, and the great extent to which our shipments have fallen off indicates that she has a surfeit of our trade dollars, which were at first so enticing to our Celestial customers. In China the two large cities of Hong Kong and Foochow have adopted them in preference to the Mexican dollar, whose coinage is so irregular as to compel here before shipment the employment of experts to segregate those which do not come up to the Chinese standard of clearness and weight. But Shanghae still prefers the rough, ugly Mexican dollar, and the largest portion of these shipments go to that port. Could we but remove the prejudices the people of this place have in favor of the Mexican coin, another large avenue could be opened up for the reception of our trade dollar. The feeling of the Shanghae people may be overcome in the course of time, but it is heavy up-hill work to remove any class of the Chinese from the regular groove in which they have been moving for years; and, moreover, it is a wonderful fact that the cupidity of these people has not led them to adopt it, if only on account of its superiority in weight and uniformity in manufacture and appearance. But even if the Chinese demand did not fall off, and retained up to its regular standard, the heavy production of our mines would have sooner or later caused a glut in the market, and the same disturbed state of affairs which now exist."

The merchants of San Francisco held a meeting on Friday, February 4, in the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, to devise some means whereby they might be relieved of the loss they have incurred by the decline in the value of silver.

Blacking.

Polish is undoubtedly a fine thing, whether on our boots or on our minds, and we should all of us use it. The kind of polish of which we speak, however, has not always been in use. One hundred and fifty years ago, or so, men of fashion were particularly careful not to have their elegant turned-up-toed footgear defiled by the slightest speck of blacking.

Day & Martin were the first men who developed the blacking trade to any extent that we have any record of. Mr. Day, it is related, was a barber in Eastcheap, London, or that vicinity, when one fine day a soldier, who was dilapidated to the last degree, and had just been mustered out of the service, came into the shop and beggeit to be shaved; saying he had nothing to offer in return but the best receipt for making blacking in the world. More off of good nature than anything else, Mr. Day accommodated the poor fellow; and took his receipt in payment for the "scrape."

This incident was the corner stone of Mr. Day's fortune. He manufactured some of the blacking according to his receipt, and soon found that he had a good thing. After a while he succeeded in getting a partner with money, and they went into the manufacturing business. It was found difficult to introduce the article at first, in spite of its excellence; and Messrs. Day & Martin had recourse to an amusing and ingenious expedient which was worthy of our latest days of advertising dodges. They would dress a number of men up in a smart and natty livery and then send them around to the neighboring stores to inquire for Day and Martin's blacking, instructing them to mention incidentally that their masters; "Lords ——, could not exist any longer without it." And this was the beginning of the immense business they afterwards built up.

The manufacture of blacking is one of the most simple that can be imagined. The materials of which the mixture is composed are molasses; bone-black, oil, and one or two minor ingredients. The bone black is, of course, ground up very fine. These materials are put in suitable quantities into a revolving tub. By means of machinery the mass is rapidly stirred in the opposite direction to that in which the tub revolves; thus insuring the thorough mixture of the several ingredients. In order to make this process still more thorough, the mass is afterwards ground in a mill, after which it is all ready to be packed in boxes.

The Debt Settlement.

The Governor having approved the debt settlement bill; it is now the law of the land. The debt of the State is now brought within the compass of ten millions, whereof some three millions is due ourselves. The debt to outsiders is, therefore, about seven millions, the interest upon which, at two per cent., is one hundred and forty thousand dollars per annum. This sum can be easily provided; and while no two per cent. bonds can rank very high on change, we have reason to believe that ours will stand as well as any securities at that rate could be reasonably expected to stand. The first thing to be done was to get out of the woods; that having been accomplished, we may now go to work with some definite purpose—with some degree of assurance as to the future. And let it not be forgotten that this settlement reduces the State debt to a lower figure than it could have been reduced to by a bare repudiation of all the so-called fraudulent debt of the State. Alabama has, therefore, made money by the compromise and preserved her honor besides.—Montgomery Adv.

It is announced that a Mormon tabernacle is to be erected in Brooklyn, to be used by the society of the Latter Day Saints in that city. The New York conference of Mormons, which includes branches in Brooklyn, Huntington, N. J., and Pottsville, Pa., now has nearly two hundred members.—Exchange.

Brooklyn is the very place for the establishment. It seems to have been chosen providentially.

A Chinese doctor says that Americans boil tea, thereby lose the flavor, while the Chinese make it by infusion. They place a small quantity of tea leaves in a bowl, pour boiling water upon it, and then cover the bowl. The strength of the tea depends on the time the tea is allowed to draw. "And," said the speaker, "when making an infusion do not boil the water hastily at first. Milk or sugar should never be used with tea."

From the display yesterday, no one would suppose that there is any scarcity of money or happiness in Mobile.

A butcher of New Orleans, named Bronsse, committed suicide last Monday by hanging himself. Domestic broils, it is said, was the motive.

The President has declined interference in the impeachment case of Gov. Kellogg. He was appealed to for the purpose.

Boyton, "the great floater" threw himself last Sunday into Lake Pontchartrain. He had a raft which he made on the water, and from that he ate his dinner. He also delivered a lecture at night in the St. Charles theatre; and after that was concluded some of his friends gave him a silver "water set."

All young persons yesterday had Mardi Gras on the brain, and this morning it is likely that some of them will be in the guardhouse, or have some trouble in the gastric regions, which will require purgatives to remove.

Our hive of young chaps are terribly troubled with the mania. They would rather have attended their mothers' funerals than missed the show. They form a corps, not a corpse, of a lot or boys who think that the essential element of virtue and happiness is fun.

This is not to be derided—for when we were little chaps, didn't we like fun? and why shall we deny it to the growing little chaps, if they have it in decency? We mustn't forget that there is not a living or dead man who was not once a boy—foolish, of course, but that is nothing, for it is a product that may grow, after awhile, into some measure of manhood.

We are indebted to Hon. S. H. Price for a copy of his speech delivered in the House of Representatives on the Senate bill to close the accounts and settle the contracts made by the Board for the improvement of the river, harbor and bay of Mobile."

The object of the speech as far as a hasty examination of it shows us, was to remove from the county of Mobile a debt, which properly ought to be put on the state; but although Mobile about one-fifth of the taxes of the state—that is, at least, the assessment—the interior members of the legislature seem to think that it is a "big bonanza," and its exhaustless millions of genuine gold dollars. This is a mistake; although the costly display yesterday in the Mardi Gras "doings" would seem to indicate that there are gold mines lying on every street.

The speech of Mr. Price is a very interesting, and he fortifies his expressions by statements that are not to be denied.

We find in the papers two very interesting letters concerning the war. It is better to forget it, unless to furnish facts which may be a part of a history that will be instructive to our children. No Confederate man—if he worked well in his cause—need be ashamed of the truth.

One of these letters is from Gen. Beauregard, and it shows how manly he was in treating an enemy—not an enemy, except as men move on opposite places. We are sure that this general never did more than his duty required. He fought, and fought well—not that he had any animosity to his fellow-men. He had a patriotic duty to perform, and he did it with his best skill, and that is considerable. He shows—what is not disputable—that Gen. Sherman has not told the truth; but it is quite probable that the latter did not intend to misrepresent anything. He was on the other side, and of course saw only what was on that side. We can call to mind those two gallant knights, who had a big fight in regard to the inscription on a shield. It hada reverse and an obverse side; and they saw it from different sides, and, neither seeing both sides, they put their lances at rest and went to the work, each crying to convince the other that he was wrong. They found out their error, and, like gallant gentlemen, made such reparation as was possible.

The other letter is from Gen. Longstreet, who gives some very interesting information in respect of the battle of Gettysburg, which was the turning point and the beginning of the finale of the war. Gen. Longstreet has been a very much-abused man, because he was not in conformity with those who wanted to square his opinions by their own rule. We have never agreed with these people—for its no more gallant or patriotic soldier fought in the terrible war.

Alabama Legislature.

In the Senate last Saturday, the house bill to establish a revenue code for the state was passed, with only one dissenting vote. This bill was returned to the House with numerous amendments, and there sent to a committee.

Mr. Elward, offered a bill to "create the new county of Cullman," and made a very interesting speech in its behalf. Cullman is in North Alabama, and made up mostly of Germans. It is named after the gentleman who was the leader in it. Three years ago, the few who were thither builded, and dwelt in, log cabins. Now the population is more than three thousand, and elegant edifices or solid structure have supplanted the first rude tenements. Land that then had no purchase in them now fetch fifty dollars an acre. This is a very pretty picture, and Mr. Edwards thought very properly that the example of this success will warrant all the service that may be given to it by the state.

From the House proceedings:

Special order. The substitute for bill to provide for the payment of interest on State debt was taken up.

Mr. Chambers offered an amendment, authorizing the Governor to issue not more than $500,000 of short bonds of the denomination of $100, running 30 or 60 days, to be sold to the highest bidder and paid for in State obligations, the Governor to reserve the right to reject any all bids adopted.

Mr. Anderson, (Mr. Greene, of Lee, in the Chair), offered an amendment making it a penalty for officers charged with collecting tax and license not to pay over the exact kind of money received.

The substitute was adopted and bill passed; yeas 01, nays 21.

To provide for and extend the time for the redemption of lands sold for taxes when purchased by individuals.

The governor sent to the House a communication from Mr. J. M. McKleroy, Superintendent of Public Instruction. In it he pleads for the public schools, and shows how embarrassed is the fund for their support.

Reports from several committees were made, and we shall have to wait for the full printing of all the bills before we shall have information enough to tell our readers what they mean.

BOYTON'S BATH.

His Hundred Mile Trip.

New Orleans Bulletin.]

As has been published, Paul Boyton started up to Bayou Goula to take his hundred mile trip down the Mississippi.

Mr. Boyton was caught in an eddy below Donaldsonville, where he remained some two hours. All his efforts failing to extricate him sooner. Further on, meeting the steamer Thompson Dean, his trip almost proving his last one, for the pilot of the boat seeing the signals of the launch accompanying Boyton, did not observe him, and he came in dangerous proximity to the steamer.

Some time before 5 o'clock crowds began to gather on the wharves and shipping in front of our city to witness his passage down, and a little later fully 3,000 persons assembled at the foot of Canal street, awaiting the arrival of the Professor, among whom fully one-half were ladies.

At 5:03 P. M. he appeared followed by his launch, opposite the ferry wharf, and the Natchez fired a gun as a salute to his successful accomplishment of his tedious and difficult voyage.

When Mr. Boyton was assisted out of the water by those in charge of the police boat, he seemed very much fatigued, and showed some evidences of exhaustion.

He stated that he suffered more during the trip from the blazing sun in his face and the numerous eddies in the river than he did in his passage from Dover to Calais, across the English Channel.

On last Wednesday week, at Dixie, Dr. T. E. Callier, who had missed several articles out of his store, fixed a loaded gun pointed to the cash drawer and another in a different direction, with wires attached to the triggers. While at breakfast he heard the discharge of both guns, and proceeding to the store, on opening the door saw a negro standing within, whom he told to come out. The negro came out, walked a few steps and fell down and died. On examination he proved to be literally filled with shot.—Clinton Courier.

A young ladies' seminary recently during an examination in history, one of the not more than ten pupils was interrogated: "Mary, did Martin Luther die a natural death?" "No," was the reply, "he was excommunicated by a bull."

A little Kentucky girl utterly refused to weep at her mother's funeral unless she was furnished with a new black dress and black veil. When the articles were furnished she pitched in and did the best job of crying that was done that day.

Fanny Fern's friends say that they are absolutely sure now that there can never be any Parton in heaven.—Cin. Com.

The New York Commercial Advertiser says: "New Orleans is bragging about her new potatoes. That's all right; there are a good many old beets down there to." Yes; but they will go to New York in the summer.—N. O. Republican.

It is said that the Princess Beatrice of England is deeply in love with the Prince Imperial of France.

A distinguished physician has said that if his patients would eat a couple of good oranges before breakfast, from February to June, his practice would be gone.

MOBILE DAILY TRIBUNE

LOCAL NEWS.

Having now in store and receiving daily one of the largest stocks of choice family and fancy groceries in this city, Owen Farley solicits an examination of his stock and prices before purchasing elsewhere, guarantees to give entire satisfaction as to quality and prices and to deliver goods promptly in any part of the city free of drayage.

PLANTING POTATOES.—Peerless, early rose, peach blow, Chili, Red and russets is alone and for sale low by Owen Farley, 64, 66, 68, 70 and 72 Government streets

Special attention is called to the fact that the agency of Ph. Best's Brewing Company will not establish in this city a retail house, but will sell by the package only to saloons and private families.

There is no necessity to be afraid of any scarcity of ice for the present, as the Mobile Ice Company has several thousand tons in store and on the way from Portland.

Now is the time to get a great bargain in purchasing a piano. J. H. Snow offers to sell pianos and organs at greatly reduced prices for the present week for cash or good city paper. Any person thinking of making a purchase will find it to the interest of their pockets to call and buy now at 102 and 104 Dauphin street.

It was a holiday for everybody yesterday and our printers were conspicuous in the observance of the day, which will account for the comparatively small amount of reading matter in this morning's Tribune.

Tomorrow at half past three in the afternoon Captain Paul Boyton will exhibit his life-saving dress at the Arlington jetty. Cars of the Bay Shore Railroad Company will run every 10 minutes. Tickets to witness the exhibition, including car fare for the round trip, twenty-five cents. This will be Captain Boyton's farewell aquatic exhibition, and will show thirteen different experiments.

D. W. C. PECK.—The merits of the Wheeler & Wilson sewing machines are so widely known and universally admitted that no word of praise on our part can add in the least to the high estimation in which they are held. The Company has recently taken a step that they will ever have reason to be thankful for, and that is in placing Mr. D. W. C. Peck at the head of this office. The firm of Peck Bros is on our sister city over the lake stands without a rival. They are among the most enterprising and energetic of the Crescent City's merchants, and have a reputation that is second to none. The gentleman at the head of affairs here has come to our city with the determination to show our citizens what are the true merits of the Sewing Machine he represents, and he is rapidly pushing out of the way less favored and worse constructed Machines. His win and push will secure for him success.

CROWDED.—It is expected that the Mammoth Clothing House of M. P. Levy & Co, 16, 18 and 20 North Water st., will be crowded today with customers, who will go there to replenish their wardrobes and buy a spring suit of clothing before they return to their homes. That instinct which teaches man where to obtain bargains, will lead them to examine at least the surface of the immense stock of clothing at the place we have mentioned; for there is an air of business about the interior of that establishment which must convince even the casual observer that M. P. Levy & Co. are selling clothing and furnishing goods on the principle that small profits produce large sales and create a successful trade.

There are all patterns of clothing in this immense stock, at prices to suit all classes, of fabrics that are durable, and all of the latest styles. A business suit, a dress suit, a plantation suit, or a suit for the ordinary laborer, can be bought there at just about the cost of the cloth before it is cut. With this knowledge, our prediction that the Mammoth Clothing House will be crowded today is neither unreasonable nor improbable.

THE THEATRE TONIGHT.—"Princess Georges, or One Wife," a sensational and emotional drama by Alexander Dumas, fils, will be produced at the Mobile Theatre this evening, with Miss Louie Lord in the title role. She will be supported by the Academy of Music dramatic company, and the play will, therefore, be presented in such a manner as to elicit the warmest approbation of a refined and critical audience. Box office open from 9a. m. to 5 p. m.

MARDI GRAS.

To the festivities of Mardi Gras, yesterday was entirely surrendered. Business was suspended and those who did not sorrowly participate in the peculiar celebration of the day became lookers-on and saw all that was to be seen of the ridiculous, the improbable and the fantastic. There were processions long and short, little and big, and all societies and collections of individuals, presented humorous illustrations. In truth, it was a carnival of fun, just as it was intended to be.

The J. M. C.'s honored the Tribune with a serenade. They are composed of 17 members, and represented "Dot Leedle German Band," and, we have reason to believe, that they presented as handsome, (if not handsomer) appearance than any juvenile club in the line.

One of the earliest turn-outs was that of Dade's stable, a long line of carriages preceded by a band of music, which serenaded the Tribune. The Whistler Independents, headed by the Whistler Silver Cornet Band, also extended the courtesy of a serenade to the Tribune. The Eight S Hd Men, who have a weakness for bell ringing, and were all over the city during the day, accepted the hospitalities of this office and honored the Tribune with a serenade. The L. C. Minstrel Band and the M. W. A's kindly remembered the Tribune, and the H. W. A's complimented us by accepting our hospitalities, and then tendering a serenade, to the music of the Fire Department Brass Band.

The Mardi Gras Pilgrims—last year representing the chain gang with shovels and picks and spades—celebrated their second anniversary in a most fitting manner as the Felix Centennial Invincibles. They were out with full ranks, 110 men in uniform and bearing muskets. They had a transparency and a target eight feet square that had been pierced every where but in the centre. The drum major was conspicuously tall. A band of twelve pieces, composed of amateurs and in addition a portion of the regular infantry band led the way. The Invincibles were properly and efficiently officered and had their ammunition and commissary wagon in line. A grand flag presentation at Woodcock's was the crowning glory of the Felix Centennial Invincibles.

We might fill columns with an enumeration of what was seen on the streets, but in that some of the printers employed on the Tribune have been sick several days and the force is so weakened in consequence of an inability to supply their places at once, that the reporter must forego the duty of writing and the pleasure of the paper will be deprived of the pleasure of reading an interesting narration of Mardi Gras demonstrations.

The maskers had the run of the streets during the day and were here and there and everywhere. In the evening the costumed processions, illustrating the subjects selected, engrossed the attention of the multitudes of people that thronged our streets. Strangers visiting the city and citizens residing here were delighted with the magnificent weather and the most enterprising and energetic of the Crescent City's merchants, and have a reputation that is second to none. The gentleman at the head of affairs here has come to our city with the determination to show our citizens what are the true merits of the Sewing Machine he represents, and he is rapidly pushing out of the way less favored and worse constructed Machines. His win and push will secure for him success.

TELEGRAPH

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—A Providence dispatch says that Rufus Waterman, heretofore considered a man of great wealth, has failed.

The Rev. E. C. Lougly, while engaged in preaching a sermon in the Mission Church Brooklyn, fell dead in the pulpit. He seemed to feel an illness coming on him, and sank back in a chair, and before assistance reached him he was dead. Heart disease was the cause.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Messrs. Talcott, Kalfess, and Barrett, have purchased the Tribune newspaper and will print an independent democratic journal.

At the meeting of the committee on privileges and elections Matt Carpenter appeared for Spencer. Witnesses are summoned for Friday week, to which day the case was adjourned. The defence declines to accept the evidence taken by the Alabama legislative committee.

VICKSBURG, Feb. 27.—The steamer Mary Bell was burned to the water's edge this afternoon. The boat, 5,000 or 6,000 bales of cotton, many thousand sacks of seed, etc., and the baggage of about two hundred passengers, is a total loss. No lives are known to be lost, and nobody injured. The boat was six months old, valued at $90,000, and insured for $30,000. The cargo was also insured.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 28.—It is estimated upon reliable data that the loss by the burning of the steamer Mary Bell will reach over half a million dollars. She had a large number of passengers, with valuable baggage. She was believed to be the largest steamer ever constructed for navigating the Mississippi or any other river, her extreme length of hull being 325 feet and breadth of beam 56 feet. In constructing the boat over a million feet of water-seasoned oak was used, and she had a battery of eight steel boilers, which cost over $125,000. The insurance on her cargo will fall heavily on Memphis and New Orleans underwriters. There was no insurance on the boat in Cincinnati.

FOREIGN.

LONDON, Feb. 28.—A Berlin special to the Post says that Austria has ordered the Herzegovinian refugees home within a month upon pain of expulsion.

A dispatch from San Sebastian says that 8,000 Carlists have submitted at Tolosa.

MADRID, Feb. 27.—King Alfonso has arrived at Alsava. He will visit some towns in the north, review the troops and then return to Madrid.

BAYONNE, Feb. 28.—Don Carlos, with about 2,000 men, is now at Somesvaux, very near the French border. It is believed he will enter France today. The chief members of the Carlist Provincial Council have taken leave of him and sought refuge on French territory.

Mud.

If the Mississippi was a thousand yards wide and forty yards in average depth, flowing past this city at the rate of four miles an hour, there would pass by us about 200 millions of cubic yards of water each hour. It only one-twentieth part of this water was a muddy solution, the earthy solid substance carried down by our great river each hour would be ten millions of cubic yards, or enough to build an embankment five yards deep, forty yards wide and fifty thousand yards long. In twenty-four hours this floating real estate would be sufficient to the depth of five yards an area of 1,200,000 superficial yards.

We leave it to our enterprising young arithmeticians to calculate how long it would require to raise the level of this city fifteen feet if all the sediment carried down by the Mississippi could be arrested and deposited within the boundaries of the parish of Orleans. Or, if they choose, let them calculate the number of acres of land, now unavailable because overflowed or subject to annual overflow, which could be raised beyond the possibility of overflow by the deposit of sediment borne by the Mississippi in the course of a single year if it could be arrested, separated and diffused. Or let them consider what the effect would be if the Father of Waters should cease from the task of filling up the Gulf of Mexico to the extent of many square miles of surface and of great depth each year, and leave his burden of sediment on strips of land on each bank twenty miles in width, for the period of five years. Or let them calculate the products of the 20,000 alluvial square miles of most fertile lands which would thus be raised above the danger of floods.

The time will come when the earthy burden of the turbid Mississippi will be turned to some good use. The great inventor is yet to appear who will utilize the vast weight of fertile soil that now goes on its idle errand to the Gulf. The force to be employed for this purpose is the stupendous momentum of the greatest current that flows from any continent to the sea. There is strength enough in the mighty river to propel all the engines now used on earth. The problem to be solved is to prescribe the method by which the force of the current of the Mississippi can be applied, so as to raise its own waters above the land, where being held in tranquil suspension they will deposit their sediment, and then flow off to give place to a new flood freighted with a new deposit.

The power exists in the greatest plenitude of wealth-y abundance. The problem is simply to make the force of the mighty current elevate a small fraction of its volume a few feet above its natural level. The result of a successful solution of this problem will be the arrest, deposit and utilization of the soil now carried uselessly away to the blue water of the Gulf.

The great engineer and inventor who finds out and applies this mighty fluvial power will be able to do almost anything he pleases. It was the boast of Michael Angelo Buonarotti, that he could hang the great Papal Cathedral, the architectural pride of Rome, in midair. A man with genius of equal boldness and vigor, in command of the titanic power which flows by us perpetually in silent majesty, would compel the Mississippi to build its own levees, to raise up millions of acres of rich lands, elevate our city above all fear of floods, and even to set our city "upon a hill," just as the eminent and enterprising engineer of the Jetties has declared that he could do with Cairo.

For two hundred years the Mississippi has been a terror and a tyrant; but before another century passes means will be found to make its floods harmless and its sedimentary deposits a source of incalculable wealth.

It Capt. Eads proves to be the pioneer in this field of invention, he will win a renown unsurpassed by that of any discoverer, explorer or inventor of this or any other age.

DOGS.—The dog tax in Tennessee, is proving a fine thing for the lean treasury of that State. In one county four hundred persons have no other taxable property.—Exchange.

It is estimated that in Alabama there are five hundred freedmen; (not to mention white persons), who rejoice in a following of from three to four dogs each, and who "give in" to the assessor no taxable property what ever; and it our treasury isn't "lean" it is not for lack of past deplétion, or of a good round debt at present calculated to ensure its safety against a burdensome obesity.—South Alabamian.

AS GOOD AS HE GAVE.—Said a gentleman to his coachman, "I am going to make you a handsome present. I give you all that you have stolen from me during the past year." "And may all your friends and acquaintances treat you as liberally."

The Senate of California has expelled from the privilege of the floor a newspaper reporter who reported that a Senator stated to him what should have been a secret caucus. The Legislature it would steal the State blind in three weeks."

It is generally believed that when Boss Tweed went up stairs to see if there was a robber in the house he inadvertently sat down upon a box of dynamite—because he is now being found all over the country.

It was said—we think by Dr. Johnson—that a person who is ready in the making of excuses is fit for nothing else. We have had to make some of them, but it was from no dereliction on our part. The types went dancing about the streets on Mardi Gras. We do not mean the types, although they also did it. We mean the metal types. The reader may believe us or not. It is likely that he is a sceptical individual, who wouldn't believe in Gulliver's Travels—a work which is as true as the "Memoirs of Baron Munchausen."

We are not referring to the doubting individual; but it is as much a fact thatall the types in this office, joined in what is called the "Day of Joy." They actually jumped out of their cases, and went running about the streets, in various disguises. They are small, but there are numerous ingenious devices to make small things look large. [We don't mean this as alluding to any politician, or stage manager, or even to any ordinary mountebank]. But this is true enough for a newspaper, and we shall prove it by the various typographical blunders that were made yesterday. Even the Register was a little marred in this respect, and that paper, every person knows, is going on to its Centennial birth-day.

The Congressional proceedings of Monday are of not much general importance. The chairman of the House "Committee on civil service and retrenchment" reported a bill fixing the salary of the President at $25,000.

This seems to us to be a matter that ought to be left as it is. We have passed beyond the time when the government should be made not respectable by small pay. If the President play the part of a gentleman—and he ought to be that—why the small salary will not serve him to make a decent appearance. It is true that the pay now, in the various extras used, amounts to at least $100,000. Cut off those extras, and leave the rest for the support of the person who is the representative of the country.

The time is not as it was when grown men were boys. During the administration of J. Quincy Adams the whole cost of running the government machine did not—if we recollect aright—exceed $13,000,000. Now it equals nearly 30 times that sum. Then the population was small, as compared with the present, and with its growth come on new duties and necessities.

Martin Van Buren—a genuine sneak, although a very smart one—was accused of having in the Whitehouse nothing but gold service. A miserable partisan of Pennsylvania—a member of Congress, too—made this a very important element in the then electioneering campaign. By his lying, in various ways, the public—that is the ignorant of them, and they are not few—believed that Mr. Van Buren had nothing in the Whitehouse but gold. Some of them supposed that he ate gold—could live on nothing else—that it was absolutely necessary to his good digestion.

This was a result of the mania which sometimes seizes men in our national convulsions—that is the elections.

There is a sort of magnetism in affairs of this kind. A few cunning and skilful men can go around and inspire hatred where there ought to be respect for differences of opinion.

What are these men doing it for? Well, that is inscrutable after the election. They get, by success, offices which give some income, without much labor.

That is all, and they accomplish their purpose by deluding the poor fools who listen and believe.

It is sad to think that there are so many—nearly all—grown-up men who are made the instruments of the smart fellows.

And this brings us to the opinion that there is not one man in a hundred who does not, for his own good, need a master. The African was happier than he is when he had a master. The white man, generally, would be happier if he had one.

Then the question comes in, who is to be the master? This has been solved in the older parts of the world. The king is master; and, as men are not fit to govern themselves, why not have a king to do it?—especially if it be possible to get a dutiful, sensible one.

We are not drawing this conclusion in favor of Gen. Grant, although he has been a much maligned and persecuted man—his partisans being not wise or honest, and his enemies covered over with prejudices.

Alabama Legislature.

Mr. Hamilton, by leave called up the House bill to authorize the construction of a breakwater in the harbor of Mobile; ordered to a second reading.

This is from the House proceedings:

Mr. Price, from special committee, a substitute for the bill to authorize the construction of a breakwater in the bay and harbor of Mobile; substitute adopted and bill passed.

What is in these bills, we have no means of discovering. We can only hope that they do not authorize the erection of jetties. We have had too much of them, and, as an old skipper said to us, "if you keep on improving your harbor as you are doing, I shall be obliged to fetch my ship to your harbor by land."

Public Acts.

The Montgomery Advertiser is publishing the acts passed by the Legislature. Some of them are of no general importance. We copy the following—omitting the superfluous forms:

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Alabama, That each stockholder in any private corporation hereafter organized, or that may hereafter be organized under any general or special law of this State, shall be individually liable to the creditors of such corporation for the unpaid stock owned by him or her; but no such stockholder shall be otherwise individually liable for any dues or debts owing by said corporation incurred or contracted after the fifth day of December, A. D. 1875.

When an attachment or execution is levied by a constable on personal property claimed by any person not a party to the writ, he may try the right to such property by making affidavit, which may be administered by the officer levying the process, that he has a just title thereto and executing bond in double the value of the property so levied upon, payable to the plaintiff with sufficient security to be approved by the constable, with condition to have the property forthcoming for the satisfaction of the plaintiff's judgment, if it be found liable therefor, and for the payment of such costs and damages as may be recovered for putting in the claim for delay, and thereupon the property must be restored to the person from whom it was taken; Provided, however, That in no instance shall the penalty of the bond exceed twice the amount of the execution, or attachment, and the costs consequent in the case."

Hon. Thomas J. Judge, associate of the Supreme Court of Alabama, at the latest accounts, was thought to be in extremis. He is a gentleman worthy of all public respect, and his death will give pain to those persons who respect integrity. The office he has is one of very great importance, and, as we understand, he is not unworthy of the power that it gives to him.

The ice crop at the North is likely to be a full one. The cold weather last week closed up the waters, made them tight, and there are thousands of men engaged in saving this commodity, which one could dispense with, if it had not been a luxurious custom of use—acquired, as is tobacco, or something more delightful than that.

Mardi Gras, at Montgomery, brought fatness to that city. The Bulletin says that all the hotels were "full to overflowing."

The day here was really wonderful—on the streets. We saw, or thought we saw, a hundred thousand people. There might have been more. It took half an hour to get from St. Francis to Government street; and, what is worthy of much remark, is that there was not a baby in the vast multitude. If there were it kept its little tongue still, and made no noise. It is the noise which betrays the baby.

Herod "went for" the babies; and—notwithstanding the records of history—because they disturbed his after-dinner nap. Our babies are better-bred, and if the baker furnish his material, and if the mother or the cow do duty, why there is no noise. If there should be, "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" can put it asleep so that it will never cry any more.

We like babies, if they make no noise; but, otherwise, some wicked people have a desire to see Mr. Herod, and we are not sure that they are more wicked than he was.

TELEGRAPH

DOMESTIC.

NEW YORK, March.—It is stated that the certificate of incorporation of the New York Express [newspaper] Company was filed with the county clerk yesterday. The company is to be managed by Erastus Brooks, Jr., W. B. Brooks, Augustus Schell, Frederick Smyth, and Samuel Marsh, who have been elected trustees. The company is to continue for fifty years from the 26th of January last. The Express will go into the hands of its new manager today. Mr. Erastus Brooks remains as editor and publisher.

PHILADELPHIA, March 1.—Camille D. Invillier, a prominent member of the board of brokers of this city, and at the chairge of Philadelphia and Erie Railroad Company, died this morning.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—The signal service observer at Squam Beach, N. J., reports the schooner Harriet S. Brook driven ashore in the gale of December 24th, was gotten off at 1:30 p. m. February 29th.

The Pacific Railroad Committee, by a vote of 9 to 4, laid the consideration of the southern Pacific road aside subject to be called up by a majority of the whole committee—which is 7—at any time. This action is not considered unfavorable to the Texas Pacific Road. The four who voted against the proposition to postpone were not its friends.

The senate has up the bill appropriating $75,000 to continue work on the custom house and postoffice building at St. Louis.

The Territorial committee of the house has agreed to report a bill for a territorial government in the Indian Territory. General Pike addressed the committee on Indian affairs in favor of said bill. In the committee on foreign affairs it was also resolved on behalf of Prof. Silliman, that he had been imposed on by bogus specimens.

FOREIGN.

NEW YORK, March 1.—A San Domingo dispatch says Gonzales, having been twice defeated in battle, has retired from the city. He was tried by the legislature and acquitted. He resigns the presidency and will leave the country. A provisional government was established on the 23d ult.

PARIS, March 1.—Letters from Spain give curious accounts of the scenes on the Spanish frontier. Whole bands enter France for internment. Some refugees are entirely destitute, and others bring horses and mules, for which there is no sale. The Carlist battalions in Navarre, Alaba and Guipuzcoa have disbanded, some asking amnesty and others entering France. The officers accompanying Don Carlos are well supplied with money and arms. Don Carlos does not seem depressed, and betrays neither despair nor a desire for revenge.

LONDON, March 1.—There is great rejoicing in Seville, Cadiz, and the entire south of Spain. The streets of Cadiz are illuminated every night.

It is said that fifty thousand soldiers will go to Cuba to subdue the insurrection.

A special dispatch to the Daily News from Paris says Don Carlos will arrive there on Tuesday. He will proceed to Calais, where a yacht is waiting to convey him to England.

There will be three days' bull fights and and other festivities on the entry of royal troops into Madrid.

The Spanish Embassy at Paris positively denies that ex-Queen Isabella has any political motive in visiting Spain; she goes at the request of King Alfonso.

It is stated that Isabella will go to Caravanchel, near Madrid immediately after King Alfonso's return from the North.

The marriage of Prof. Tyndal to Miss Louisa, daughter of Lord Claud Hamilton, took place yesterday at Westminster Abbey. The rite was performed by Dean Stanley. Among those present were Thomas Carlyle, Prof. Huxley, Dr. Hooker, and Sir. F. Pollock.

The Newburyport (Mass.) Herald says that when young Miss Charlotte Cushman was engaged to Charles Spalding, of that city, who kept a dry goods store. The parents or Mr. Spalding made some objection to the match, and it was broken off. Mr. Spalding died some years ago a bachelor.

While the Mobile papers are giving each other lessons in grammar, we turn the Commissioner of Agriculture over to them for saying in his report for January and February, (p. 6.) that "cheese factories have sprung up in almost every town."—Cherokee Advertiser.

RIVER NEWS.

There was only one arrival yesterday, The Maggie C., Captain John H. Stone, of Frank Stone's Grange Line, came in about half past five last evening from Pickensville with 104 bales of cotton, 123 sacks cotton seeds, a small miscellaneous freight and a few passengers.

The Victoria, of Frank Stone's Grange Line, with that popular river navigator, Captain Woodie Stone on the roof, will leave at five o'clock this evening for Tuskaloosa and Northport. The Victoria has excellent state room accommodations, a spacious saloon and large freight capacity. Spaulding & Foster agents.

There were five departures yesterday, the William S. Holt, of Central Line, No. 4, casting off her hawser for Golu about about one o'clock in the afternoon. She had all the freight and passengers she could carry.

It was a scene of much animation and activity as the four approached for other boats to go out, some of which left till after six o'clock in the evening. All carried a heavy freight, and passengers returning from Mardi Gras, as they could be seen from the landings looked like regiments of people.

The D. L. Tully, for Vienna, the Atlanta for Pickensville, the Emma No. 2 for Tuskaloosa, all of Frank Stone's Grange Line, and the Mary for Montgomery, crowded with passengers and piled up with freight, made the levee look lively.

The Bandy Moore, from Columbus, will be due today.

WALKS AROUND TOWN.

The ship Magnolia cleared for Genoa yesterday with timber and spars to the value of $6,684 41.

A fire was discovered Tuesday night in the building on Congress street and Davis avenue. It was extinguished, with but little damage.

Tomorrow evening, first appearance of Frank Mayo as Davy Crockett, at the Mobile Theatre. Office open for the sale of reserved seats from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

In Pointe Coupee parish, Louisiana, Robert Meleon planted a bushel of Pierce's prolific cotton seed which he obtained from a friend in Alabama, and gathered from that bushel five heavy bales of cotton.

Captain Paul Boyton will not give his aquatic exhibition at Arlington jetty today, having yielded to a pressing invitation to visit Galveston before he comes to Mobile.

According to the Board of Trade reports, the cotton receipts at all ports Tuesday were 13,833 bales: New Orleans, 6,454, Norfolk 1,436, Mobile 1,054, Savannah 787, Galveston 783, Charleston 475.

Clarissa Miller, a colored woman, while coming over from Baldwin county Tuesday in a skiff with her husband, was taken suddenly ill and died before he could reach the city. Coroner Harwell held an inquest. Verdict, death from natural causes.

The noon cotton report of the Board of Trade yesterday was: "Market weak, irregular and lower. Fair demand. Sales about 1000 bales." Closing report. "Sales today 1500 bales. Market closed with a fair demand at lower rates."

According to the Board of Trade reports, the cotton receipts yesterday at all ports were 7,706 bales: Galveston 2,180, Mobile 1,357, Savannah 675, New Orleans 626, Charleston 520, Norfolk 514.

The cotton exports yesterday were 6,377 bales, weighing 3,274,508 pounds, valued at $359,551 for Liverpool, and 2,440 bales, weighing 1,236,984 pounds, valued at $147,000. Total value of cotton clearances yesterday $506,501. Total value this week $873,016.

The name of Hamersen has become famous in connection with the Opal restaurant and lodging house, next door to the post office, because his larder is supplied with the choicest fish, flesh and fowl, which are attractively placed before the guests, and his lodging rooms are as cosy and comfortable as they can be.

The Mardi Gras matinee at the Mobile Varieties was a complete success. The sword combat in the evening between Manager Hippler and Mr. Durand was especially exciting, as the heavy blows that fell from the manager's arm shivered the sword of the latter. But a new sword was quickly obtained and the contest went on. A new and glittering star tonight.

Theatre.

The audience last night was composed of a great many ladies. It was a pretty sight. The play was elegantly put on the stage. All its appointments were exhibited with much skill; and independently of the surroundings, we thought it very interesting. That is what part of it we saw.

It is not possible for us to allude in detail to the actors, but we can say that the whole progress of it was very interesting. It seems impossible to make selections from the people of the stage to pay compliments, where all of them filled their parts so well, but it is not unbecoming to say that that very pretty little woman, Miss Lord, who had the most arduous part, pleased every one who was present. She is quite beautiful, and has large dramatic capacity and much grace of manner. Some additional study will put her at the top of the dramatic. She brought to our mind that lovely lady, Ellen Tree. Why not be a tree of that kind?

Mr. Huntley played his part with skill, so did the others, but for details we have not space. We thank those actors for the pleasure we have received from them.

THE WEATHER YESTERDAY.—The temperature at Mobile yesterday morning at 6:51 o'clock was 54 at Mobile, highest 66 at Indianola, lowest 48 at Augusta.

At 3:51 yesterday afternoon the temperature was at Key West 81, Indianola 79, New Orleans 78, Galveston and Montgomery 76, Savannah 71, Corsicana 69, Augusta and Mobile 67.

I believe this is commonly understood to be the nineteenth century; there seems also to be a prevailing prejudice in favor of personal liberty; church creeds have grown rar less exacting in matters of faith and church discipline so very lenient that one almost forgets its existence. We have agreed together that so little gladness could in any way be extracted from flying hours that we had better gather our roses speedily; but all at once we are brought to book. A lady, a church member, gave a reception inviting her pastor with his wife. Some of her friends were unsanctified enough to enjoy dancing and they danced! Immediately the old spirit of the Methodist church was roused, and in a preachers' meeting Dr. Newman was asked to rise and explain his presence at dance. This he did in his own characteristic, unequivocal fashion, and we find that there are still remaining some ministers who really think dancing an immoral or at least a demoralizing practice. I don't propose to discuss that question, but as this is the nineteenth century when liberty of conscience is a conceded fact, I want you to notice that a high degree of moral courage is shown when a popular pastor dares so openly to confront and rebuke a popular pleasure. Dr. Newman has been accused of toadying to those in power—of being careful how he trod on the sensitive toes of social magnates. This late manifesto doesn't looks much like "truckling," does it? True, the good doctor concluded while on the defensive he might as well fire one more round and Washington society has his opinion of fashionable dissipation. There I add my hearty "Amen," though I'm not a Methodist. Only this afternoon I saw a gentleman, handsome, wealthy, talented and cultivated, but his handsome face is showing terrible signs of the life he is leading here this winter. One glass of champagne sets his brain on fire, yet fair ladies, smiling sweetly, offer the sparkling perdition, and Mr. A.'s winter in Washington will prove the ruin of his life. No wonder Dr. Newman denounces the practice! I haven't time to add my mite of a temperance lecture; let your own experience furnish each one of you with both argument and illustration!

A STUPID CONGRESS!

Dearly Beloved! this forty-fourth Congress is awfully stupid. I hate to acknowledge it. I wanted it to accomplish wonders, and it just won't accomplish anything. Three months, and scarcely a bill passed of any importance, yet the noble army of lawmakers solemnly assemble with an air of immediate execution. Investigations are said to be progressing behind the closed doors of various Committee Rooms, but we may endure our feverish curiosity as best we may, and on the floor private bills are being rushed through with a due hope of diminishing the pile, but every day brings to unlucky members a new assortment. Have you any idea how these poor martyrs are besieged? At their residences they have little rest, and once at their desks at the House, they are subject to mercilessly renewed attacks. Cards without number are brought to them; legitimate business would demand enough of their attention; but these are the persistent lobbyists whose devices vary with every day. Doubtless the wide-spread stories concerning the charms of these lobbyists make you fancy them altogether lovely. Some of them may be, but not those who haunt the Capitol. Men have their own methods which we cannot so well criticise, but the women who fill the reception rooms, the regular corps of ornaments in this miserable warfare upon conscience and right, what can we say of them?

A SCENE IN THE SENATE.

That endless Chorpenning claim is still begging to be heard. The experience of years of defeat never wearies the applicants; they rattle like the excitement and this year in addition to all other agents they have enlisted Kate Stanton. Her really brilliant intellect; her ready pell and personal fascinations are all engaged. At present Senator Spencer is the target for the whole battery so to-day, in the public gallery that man was sitting between Miss Stanton and one of her familiars in such close proximity and in such intimate fashion as to attract universal attention and disgust. Miss Stanton was richly dressed, but she had thrown off both hat and cloak; her long blond hair was but very slightly confined and there those two women were talking and smiling as supremely happy as "the fat and the lean" (as he is known in Alabama) sat winking and blinking with about as much expression in his disgusting face as any other animal. (I beg the pardon of the entire animal kingdom for the comparison, but he isn't a vegetable or a mineral.)

Except Miss Stanton, I have not seen a passably good looking woman among the lobbyists. They are usually over-dressed, painted hideously, and when one sees them lying in wait for their prey they look by no means charming. Really, the meritorious bills never need such evil.

Men are quite willing to argue a just cause unaccompanied. I wondered to-day if the honorable Senators upon the floor saw the scene in the gallery and what they thought about it!

Frauds in Sardines.

The London Pall Mall Gazette has the following:

Persons engaged in the sardine trade in France are finding out that fraud is not always profitable in the long run. This export trade, says Consul Clipperton in his commercial report on Nantes for the past year, was found to have fallen off to such a great extent that information on this subject was sought by the Minister of Commerce from the French consuls abroad.

The United States being the principal buyer of this article were applied to in the first instance, and the unpleasant truth was revealed in a dispatch from the French Consul General at New York last February. It seems that the hermetically closed boxes containing, it was fondly believed, "sardines a l'huile" could no longer be depended on for the nature of their contents. Spurious fish, such as sprats, mackerel, and even more common species, were introduced, while the oil was of very inferior quality.

It was discovered that at least 40 per cent. of the importation was spurious, and as a natural consequence the general demand for sardines fell, and a large stock was left on hand. The ordinarily yearly production of sardines is between 400,000 and 500,000 boxes, each case containing 100 boxes, of which it is estimated that France consumes 70,000 cases, or on an average one box for every two inhabitants. With a view to protect the buyers in future from being cheated by fraudulent contractors, a syndicate has been lately formed to watch, as far as it is possible, the rules and regulations agreed to by the trade are complied with, and having full powers to grant a mark or certificate guaranteeing that the merchandise is of a sound and marketable quality—the quality to be determined each season and to be considered as accepted:

FRIDAY.....March 3, 1876.

Last Tuesday in the House of Representatives of Alabama, Mr. Price, from a special committee, reported in favor of a bill to incorporate the "Whistler Industrial Co-operative Association, No. 1."

Mr. Chas. O'Conor has so much recovered from his late illness that last Thursday evening he delivered a speech in New York before a charitable association, which showed no much decay of his mental or physical ability.

We observed Hon. C. C. Langdon on the streets yesterday—by no means looking like a disappointed politician. He knows too much to believe implicity in party faith. He was welcomed by his friends, and may yet be of service to them. Happy is the man who trusts—nobody. This is a political sense. Not at all otherwise.

According to the Montgomery papers the Mardi Gras people there had a beautiful display. There was a large number of strangers attracted to it.

In New Orleans there were a vast amount of fun and, of course, gorgeous displays. That is a big place, but, we venture to assert, that in this respect it is not bigger than Mobile.

That of Paris—taken recently—shows a population of 1,884,874—an increase within the three prior years of 33,000.

Considering the ravages of the war, this indicates great progress, but whether the whole of France has increased in a like proportion is what is not mentioned.

The greatest increase of the city populations of Europe is exhibited by Berlin. Within two years and a half, the addition has been about 55,000. The census taken the 1st of December makes the whole population 964,755, and, we think, the third city in Europe.

We are indebted to Hon. Peter Hamilton for a copy or a pamphlet entitled "Geological Survey of Alabama, Report of Progress for 1875, By Eugene A. Smith, Ph. D., State Geologist."

This is a very interesting volume (p. p. 220,) and is "devoted chiefly to the examination of the Silurian formations." It contains a vast amount of information in regard to those two elements which will make the State great after some of us shall have been buried: namely, coal and iron. There is also another thing in the volume, which one would suppose out of place. It is an essay on the "Cotton Worm. By A. R. Grote, A. M." This is a brief and, no doubt, valuable essay. It is mostly descriptive of that nasty little animal which sends, before it fairly comes, some degree of terror to the heart of the planter. The essay is preliminary only. It will take up what is lacking for the next geological report. But, while not of a geological nature, it is next to it. The worm destroys the cotton which comes out of the ground, and which we, like the worm, are feeding on—not much else being within sight; and so we think it was proper to put it in the report. Get rid of that pest, and develop the iron and coal, and then every person of industrious habits will have no reason to lack employment.

The State has done well in publishing this work—not for our people's information, but for influence abroad; and it will have that, if it be properly circulated.

Party Movements.

The National Executive Democratic Committee sitting at Washington has adopted St. Louis as the headquarters of the National Party Convention. For the selection of the place there were five ballots. In the first St. Louis, Chicago, Louisville, Cincinnati, Philadelphia and Washington were voted for. The last named place got one vote, and was withdrawn from the four subsequent ballots. The last of them was as follows: St. Louis 21, Chicago 15, and Cincinnati 2.

In the meeting there was no expression of opinion in respect of party financial policy; but the selection of the place of the meeting of the Convention would seem to imply some doubt as to the wisdom of the forced resumption scheme, which the west is generally opposed to.

Both parties are at odds on this subject, and it is probable that the leaders of neither care much about it, except as it may be useful to the election of their candidates.

We supposed that the Republican party would sustain the resumption act; but we see that its state convention in Indiana, held on the 22d ult., adopted what is called "a rag-money platform," by the specie-desiring papers of New York.

In New England there is also some opposition to the forced resumption. At New Haven (Conn.) last week there was a mass meeting, and we infer—although this not clearly apparent in the reports of it before us—that it was a sort of an independent concern, although it appointed delegates to the Republican National Convention—with the condition that it neither party would receive them, they would act independently.

The Indiana Republican Convention ran much against the old-fashioned Southern opinion. It made its declaration against state rights, and resolved that the United States are a "nation, and not an aggregation of States."

Of course, we are not willing to believe this: that is after the forms of the rules of the party.

But is is a party business; and, generally, there is no reason in that —except a greed for office. That may be reasonable enough to people who are personally interested in it.

The Connecticut mass meeting was so rational that it is impossible to resist the desire to give the following extract from its proceedings:

"We oppose the act fixing an arbitrary time for the resumption of Specie Payments, not because we have any objections to our paper money being made worth its face in gold, but because that act, by creating distrust of the future, has paralyzed enterprise, thrown the producers of wealth out of employment, postponed the day when it shall become possible to maintain our paper money at par with coin without creating the widespread bankruptcy which an attempt to enforce the resumption act will inevitably produce. Our paper money should be appreciated to par with coin by rectifying the defects in our monetary system, and by producing general prosperity, not by creating general prostration of business and by robbing debtors to enrich creditors under the hypocritical cry of "honesty." We want immediate and practical measures which will create confidence in the future and supply the conditions under which time, industry and economy will place our country in a sound financial condition and make a paper dollar equal in value to a gold dollar at the earliest practical period. To fix an arbitrary time for Specie Payments is as absurd as it would be to fix aday for a patient's recovery. We therefore ask for the immediate and unconditional repeal of the Resumption act, and demand that all similar trifling with the interests of the nation for political purposes be branded as a crime against humanity."

There are similar expressions of parties, indicating some degree of independency—seeming to show that men are not to be driven, like dumb beasts, into the shambles of party butchers.

There is a vast amount of folly in these "platforms," but the tolly part of them is intended to delude the voters—much good, perhaps, in them, but enough of what one does not like as to make it desirable to be independent of all of them.

An Act

To make appropriations for the support of the public schools of this State.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Alabama, That the following sums of money be, and they are hereby appropriated from any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated, for the support and maintenance of the public schools of this State for the current scholastic year from the 30th day of September, 1875, to the 30th day of September, 1876, and the same amount shall be hereafter annually applied during each succeeding scholastic year for the support and maintenance of the public schools of this State, from any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated; that is to say.

First—The sum of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars out of the general revenue of the State.

Second—The sum of three thousand, eight hundred and eighty three dollars and sixty-five cents, being the interest, at four per cent., accruing on the proceeds of the sale of certain lands granted by Congress for the use of schools in the valueless sixteenth sections in this State, by an act passed August 11, 1848.

Third—The interest, at four per cent., on the fund which has accrued or may hereafter accrue from the sale of the sixteenth sections of the several townships of this State.

Fourth—The sum of twenty-six thousand, seven hundred and sixty-three dollars and forty-seven cents, being the interest, at four per cent., on the surplus fund deposited with this State by the government of the United States.

Fifth—All sums of money which, during the scholastic year ending on the thirtieth day of September, 1875, have been received into the Treasury of the State from escheats, and all sums which may hereafter be received into the Treasury of the State from escheats shall in the same manner be applied to the support of the public schools during the scholastic year next succeeding their receipt into the treasury of the State.

Sixth—All the rents, incomes and profits which have been received into the treasury of the State during the scholastic year ending on the thirtieth day of September, 1875, from all lands remaining unsold which have heretofore been donated by the Congress of the United States for the support of public schools, and the sums hereafter received into the treasury of the State from rents, incomes and profits of such unsold lands during succeeding scholastic year, shall in the same manner be applied to the support of the public schools during the scholastic year next succeeding their receipt into the treasury of the state.

Seventh—All poll-tax collected in each county to be retained therein for the support of the public schools in such county.

Sec. 2. Be it further enacted. That immediately, or as soon as practicable, after the passage of this act the several sums of money herein appropriated for the support of the public schools of this State shall be disbursed according to the existing laws, until the existing laws are changed by the General Assembly at this or some subsequent session.

Approved February 18, 1876.

Official: R. K. BOYD,
Secretary of State.

AN ACT

To remit the penalties imposed under section 15, of an act to establish revenue laws for the State of Alabama, approved March 10th, 1875.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Alabama, That the penalty imposed upon delinquent tax payers under section 15, of an act entitled "An act to establish revenue laws for the State of Alabama, approved 10th of March, 1875," be and the same is hereby remitted.

Approved Feb. 14, 1875.

Official: R. K. BOYD,
Secretary of State.

Theatre.

The audience last night was not large, but the actors were not less careful on that account. The play is extremely interesting, and, like all the plays this season, was put on the stage with careful attention to scenic effect. All the parts were well done. We shall not praise the men, for that requires much space. The ladies require no praise; but the little woman, Miss Lord, is right charming. Wonder if she could not play Rosalind? It seems to us that that would sit well on her shoulders.

Ketchum, of course, made fun. He always does that, though he may have to strain a point in doing it.

The orchestral music, it seems to us, is worth the cost of entrance.

Last Wednesday, the chairman of the improvement committee of the Alabama Senate reported in favor of the bill to authorize the construction of a breakwater in the harbor of Mobile. The bill was passed.

TELEGRAPH

PORT JARVIS, March 2.—Thirty-one engines have been taken off the working force of the Eastern Division of the Erie Railroad and will be laid up till some time in April. This is one of the results of the suspension in the coal fields.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Schenck telegraphs denouncing the evidence before the judiciary committee as a tissue of infamous falsehoods. He says he has obtained a leave of absence, and will leave on the next steamer to confront his calumniator and vindicate his reputation.

Specials sent hence report that the committee on expenses in the war department have the evidence of a Mr. Marsh that he paid Mrs. Belknap $10,000 in cash and $6,000 per year for three years for the post tradership at Fort Sill and other army posts in the southwest. The specials state that Secretary Belknap appeared before the committee and made no defence, but begged for mercy at the hands of the committee. He asked that he be allowed to resign, but to this not even the republican members are inclined to listen.

Later.—About 10 o'clock this morning Secretaries Belknap, Bristow and Chandler, and Senators Morton and Merrill called on the president. The subject discussed was the resignation of Belknap.

In the senate West presented the joint resolutions of the Louisiana legislature relative to stocking the waters of that state with fish. Referred to committee on agriculture.

NORFOLK, March 2.—Isaiah Griffin, a negro man aged 28, was hung to-day in Portsmouth for outraging his brother's wife.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 2.—A dispatch from Portland, Oregon, says the steam scow engaged in removing obstructions at Umatilla rapids, Columbia River, blew up this morning, and some say her boilers burst, and others that a package of giant powder exploded. The boat was blown to pieces, one man killed, two fatally injured, and twelve are missing, when, it is supposed, were blown into the river.

NEW ORLEANS, March 2.—The house by a strict party vote adopted articles impeaching Kellogg, et uxor.

FOREIGN.

LONDON, March 2.—Winslow, the forger, was brought up at the Bow-street court today, and remanded till noon to-morrow. It was stated that Mr. Worrner would appear for the defence at the request of friends; but Winslow said he did not desire a solicitor, as he did not wish to contest the case at all; he would be glad to waive everything, and be only too happy to go home to-morrow.

SOUTHAMPTON, March 2.—The British steamer Bothnia, Captain Scarlett, from New Orleans, February 20, for Liverpool, was burned at sea on the 15th ultimo. The crew were saved and have arrived at this port.

PARIS, March 2.—It is stated that Don Carlos carries five millions in England, and has inherited forty millions from the Duke of Modena. His friends say that he has gone to England in order to personally make terms with his creditors.

Proposition of Williams & Gleanon to sell a burying ground to the city, about 50 acres, at a great bargain. South $100 per acre, it can be bought for half that sum—say $2,500. Councilman Danner, submitted a motion to cover these points, which was adopted.

Petition of Rev. J. B. Bargett for reduction of assessments was again postponed one week.

VOLUME II—NUMBER 115. MOBILE, ALABAMA, SATURDAY, MARCH 4, 1876. PRICE—FIVE CENTS.

An Old Hiding Place.

From the Philadelphia Press.]

A few weeks ago Jacob Klinck, a farmer, near Fox Chase, was sawing down a large chestnut tree when the teeth of the saw came in contact with some metallic substance. Fearing the presence of something explosive, he directed the workmen to saw on the other side of the tree. They did so. After the tree had been felled, a gold watch, two gold pencil cases and a gold chain were found imbedded in the wood, eighteen inches from the surface. They were wrapped in a soiled sock. The tree was sawn off close to the ground, and they had evidently been hidden at the junction of two roots, and the wood had grown over and enclosed them. The watch was old-fashioned, having a case which could be detached, and was inscribed with the date 1740. One of the pencil cases was provided with a pen. The other had only a pencil and was minus the seal. The chain was long and was intended to pass around the neck of the wearer. There was also a gold watch key, which, however, did not fit the watch. The tree had attained a great age, being about six feet in diameter. An old mansion once stood near by and it is supposed that the articles in question were buried during the war of the Revolution. The watch was uninjured except that the hands were rusted off. The finder has had it repaired, and will exhibit it to any who are curious to see such a relic. He lives about a mile above the Fox Chase, on the county line.

There was a spicy debate yesterday upon the Indian bill. Those Indians are no joke to those who are forced to live near their reservations; but the topic never comes before our legislators without eliciting any amount of wit. Whenever Mr. Oglesby rises to his feet there is a cessation of writing and talking, chairs are wheeled round and everybody listens. The old gentleman is always fluent. He shakes that round, white head in an emphatic gesticulation when his hands are also busy pointing out his meanings; his merry eyes twinkle with contagious fire, and all his big body becomes magnetic. His hits yesterday were not such as to bear separation from their context, but if you will read his speech you will easily understand why those graves and reserved signposts slowly forgot their gravity or endured its explosion every two minutes. Is that sentence an odd one? Well, please to tell me if laughter is not an explosion of gravity, sending that eminently respectable but tiresome attribute out of sight and hearing. This puzzling question of the Black Hills is vexatious enough. Senator Oglesby insists that the red men are quite as fit for citizenship as the black men; that they ought to be amenable to law and that we might at least try the experiment, since all others have failed. His allusions to the "unwritten policy," by which the Eastern and Middlestates shook off the Indian were very amusing. The poor wretches really seem to have no right of existence in our midst since they are so unchristian as to cherish undying hatred for the white men who have taken from them their vast domains. What a pity that if they can't comprehend the beauty of forgiveness, or the charm of loving their enemies, that they cannot learn the philosophy which bravely endures disaster and robs misfortune of its sting by laughing in its face! But the red man's laugh is something as awful as his war cry and his smile, O! that is so hideously suggestive of lurking cruelty that one never desires to see it twice, so I don't know whether Fate could be disarmed in that way.

SENATOR BOOTH.

Among all the gentlemen filling those Senatorial chairs, there is not one attracting more attention than the bachelor from California. His erect figure and dignified carriage give an air of distinction; his perfect complexion, soft brown hair and pleasant smile make him decidedly handsome, and then if you know him you will find an added charm in the low rich voice and courtly manner which are so eminently his own. He makes but few speeches, yet those few carry weight, and he commands a degree of pleased attention, which is never accorded to his colleague (Senator Sargent). Senator Booth rises quietly and stands easily; he never hurries in speech or manner, but Senator Sargent occupies his chair, under protest; he is never happy unless he is on his feet, but while sitting he restlessly watches for an opportunity to speak and even while waiting you can see his ears are alert to catch any excuse for dashing off his eye glasses and springing up like a Jack-in-the-box. Then he always snarls and aggravates; there isn't a bit of calmness in his composition either physical or mental; he brushes his hair the wrong way and he rubs against every body's pet prejudices, while his words tumble out in such haste that all his speech is a splutter, but, poor man! we would judge him kindly since his better half belongs to the Sorosis, and the Senate floor is to him a haven where he can assert himself without fear of a conjugal quietus! If Californians judge these Senators by the number of times their names appear in the Record, they must think Sargent a miracle of industry and tireless vigilance, but we who know something of the Congressional mill, understand that the noisest wheels are not most useful.

Nobody in the House has especially distinguished himself, within the past week. Tuesday you know was a holiday, and after a holiday one doesn't settle back to work easily. Sunset Cox didn't find the speaker's chair all his fancy painted it, and I don't believe he would again so ardently covet its distinction. It is curious how our illusions vanish when anticipation becomes reality. Mr. Kerr returned from his brief absence in greatly improved health, but he looks quite too frail to indure all the wearing incessant strain which the speaker must indure. Our every signed society forgot their gravity or endured its explosion every two minutes, Is that sentence an odd one? Well, please to tell me if laughter is not an explosion of gravity, sending that eminently respectable but tiresome attribute out of sight and hearing. This puzzling question of the Black Hills is vexatious enough. How a Texas Bank was Swindled.

Mr. Phil. E. Chappell, who has just returned from a business trip to Texas, related to us yesterday an instance of sharp practice on the part of a trio of thieves, which, we think, should be entitled to precedence in the line. Immediately over one of the banks in Dallas is the telegraph office, and a few days ago two of the operators applied for their discharges, received it, and left town. On the day following a well-dressed, business-appearing man appeared at the bank with a check for $10,000 on a well-known New York banking house, and desired it cashed. He brought with him numerous letters of recommendation from parties with whom the bank had business transactions, and, so far as surface indica-

The public debt of the U. S. was diminished $2,250,000 last month.

The Texas Pacific and similar railroads bills have been postponed by Congress for the session. So a special dispatch to the Picayune states.

We shall not publish any communication from any person, who does not send his name with it. This is an old newspaper law, and it is worthy of respect.

Is the Senate on Thursday Mr. Hamilton introduced a memorial to Congress in reference to the improvement of the harbor of Mobile. It was adopted.

All the papers are assuring the public that "March came in like a lamb and will go out like a lion". It doffed the lamb yesterday, and the other brute showed its head.

Last Wednesday seven vessels, laden with cotton, cleared at New Orleans for Revel, a Russian port. There was also one for Cronstadt. The aggregate of the cargoes was 21830 bales.

A septoline lamp exploded in New Orleans on Thursday night, at the corner of Toulouse and Dauphine streets. A woman was severely burned in trying to extinguish the flames which it produced.

The Republican State Convention, sitting at Hartford, Connecticut, opposed the third-term and constituencing the two-term principle to be the "unwritten law of the land." It was in favor of necessary legislation to make the specie resumption act effective.

The steamboat Mary Bell, which was destroyed last week by fire was the largest boat that had ever been seen on the Mississippi river. If she had gone through to her destination, the profits of the trip would have been about $8,000. There seems to be little doubt that the fire was started by design.

A Fruit Growers' Association of the Gulf States, in session in New Orleans, elected their officers last Thursday evening. Mr. L. O. Moses, of Grand Bay, is one of the chosen Vice Presidents. The next exhibition of the Association will be held in New Orleans on the 19th of next June.

Wednesday evening a woman threw herself from a ferry boat into the river, at New Orleans, and was drowned. Her name and condition are not known. She was about twenty-five years of age, and decently clad. It is supposed that poverty impelled her to the act.

That was a big failure in Liverpool, of Messrs. C. E. A. Dixon, men engaged in the cotton trade. It amounts to $3,500,000. It is said that the assets are good for it. That is the stereotype mode of saying it. Twenty cents on the dollar may, perhaps, be found among the effects, and the lawyers will take half of t hat.

There is a town in Louisiana called Hard Times. It was so named before the times were hard. There is another settlement called Hog Wallow. That, we suppose, is a dirty place. How the people submit to these appellations is more than we can contrive to account for.

"The Kittie Hegler lays over until to-morrow," says one of our last evening's papers, which is very true, but not the whole truth. Soon after she burned Thursday night the charter hull floated down the river and will lay over a very long time. Another river reporter stated that the aforesaid steamboat will start for Pittsburg this evening.—N. O. Republican.

Lays over what? We see: lays over the "charred hulk" Why should she be laying there? Perhaps some person was lying about her. That were bad in the case of any of the "weaker" sex, who don't lay. Hens lay, and the fruit which they deposit in their nests, is pleasant at one's breakfast, if it be not boiled too long.

Senator Pinchback.

The Pinchback business was up again in the United States Senate last Wednesday, but nothing came of it—and nothing will come of it this session—except its cost. There is certainly some possibly devisable method of getting at the right of the case.

"John Porcine," said the Judge to a culprit who had stolen a pig, "John, I intend to give you justice."

"Oh, your honor, don't do that, for I don't want it." That is what John said; and we are inclined to think that both parties are very much like John.

Mardi Gras.

Montgomery is growing in presumption, if not in population and houses, and such things. Here is a sign of it, from the Bulletin:

"A lady resident of Mobile who is at present in the city says the parade Tuesday night excelled anything ever seen in her city."

Just think of this! The youthful pupil excelling his master! Self-confidence may make or mar a boy, but this lady ought to have recollected an old adage, which runs to the effect that a person who goes from home ought to carry with him, or her, the stick-paitiveness which defends its own nest. But, perhaps, the Bulletin called up its imagination for the purpose of making a no-fact.

It is a virtuous ambition, which rebukes the lady—if there was such a gentlewoman for the authority.

We declare that Mobile beat creation on the occasion. There are five hundred here that will stand for that on the "drop of a hat." But let there be no war! We have had enough of that.

The End of the Carlists.

The following dispatches give some details of the Carlist discomfiture that have not been printed. Later information, however, is to the effect that Don Carlos is in London, and has there at his command millions of dollars, or francs. These destinies, as far as we have seen them, mention millions of something. The bankers are the persons to distinguish the difference between the value of francs and dollars.

It is strange! Don Carlos claims a right to control Spain. Alfonso,—his cousin, we believe—claims a right to the luxuries which it will give to any man who can get it.

And there they are—two persons trying to get possession of the control of the government—and the ignorant people, in fury on each side, fighting to help what is not true on either side.

We do that all the time. And why? Because of the desire of knaves to get what the poor devils, who have no luxuries, are obliged to pay for.

MADRID, February 28.—The following official intelligence has been sent to the Spanish Minister at London:

"The war is at an end. Carlos has asked France for hospitality. He informed General Pourcet, commanding Bayonne, that he would enter France at 9 o'clock this morning by the Bridge of Arnegui. Three thousand Carlists have entered France at St. Jean-Pied-de-Port. They are crossing the frontier in hundreds at Aldindes. The French will immediately intern them."

King Alfonso has arrived at Pamplelaus.

BAYONNE, February 28.—Don Carlos, with about two thousand men, is now at Roncesvaux, very near the French border. It is believed he will enter France to-day.

MADRID, February 28.—The Spanish dard has the following special despatch from Madrid:

Great enthusiasm prevails here. Alfonso will have a splendid reception on his return.

The letter to General Pourcet, giving notice of Carlos's intention of entering France, was written by Lezarraga. It declares that Don Carlos, having been conquered by adverse fortune, has resolved to abandon further struggle as useless. He asks the generous hospitality of France. General Pourcet, on receipt of the note, started for Arnegui to intern the fugitives.

WHAT THE SOUTH HAS DONE.—The Louisville Courier-Journal reveals the startling fact that since the inauguration of the national government there has been spent about one hundred and ninety million dollars of public money on public improvements in the northern states, while the expenditures in the south have not exceeded seventeen million dollars. It adds that this is the more surprising when we remember that the southern states have at all times, excepting during the war, furnished one-half to three-fourths of the exchange with which we have paid our foreign debts, and that, in default of southern productions, the supply of gold and silver would be inadequate to pay the annual interest charges on the national debt, and the government of the United States would inevitably have dishonored its foreign obligations.

A writer to the London Times suggests that the new and important thoroughfare between Charing Cross and the Victoria Embankment be called after George Washington.

A singular decision has been made in a New York court to the effect that swearing falsely to a bank statement is perjury.

TELEGRAPH

BOSTON, March 3.—The Board of Trade unanimously adopted resolutions urging congress not to repeal the law of 1875, and prescribing measures by which resumption in 1879 may be made operative.

BALTIMORE, March 3.—The court of appeals has decided that the capital stock of the Northern Central Railroad Company is liable to assessment and state taxation. This brings under taxation millions heretofore exempt.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Professor Silliman has written that he is surprised at the mendacity of Lyons's statement. He makes a general denial and demands an exhaustive examination.

Secretory Robeson this morning entered upon his additional duties as acting secretary of war. He will merely attend to routine business until the vacancy shall be filled. In hour at the war department is from half-past 9 to half-past 10 a. m. and at the navy department from half-past 10 to noon.

Mr. Belknap has not left his house since yesterday, and meantime, has been called on by a few intimate friends.

The signal service observer at Tybee Island reports a ship on Stone Horse shoals, three miles southeast of that station this morning. Further particulars soon.

The signal service observer at Kittly Hawk, on the North Carolina coast, reports this morning an Italian bark, name unknown, in ballast, bound from some point in Italy to Baltimore, came ashore twenty miles north of that station on the night of March 1st. She went to pieces yesterday, and the crew, consisting of 15 men, were all lost, excepting four, who were picked up yesterday. The life-saving crew attempted to board the bark and every man was drowned. Six bodies have been recovered and nine are still missing.

The judiciary committee have commenced preparing articles of impeachment of Belknap. They meet again this evening, but probably will not report the charges today.

The committee on privileges and elections have agreed to report the resolution referred to them for counting the electoral vote without amendment.

The house committee to report impeachment proceedings to the senate have just started for that purpose.

The senate has up the Pinchback case and Edmunds is speaking in opposition to his admission.

FOREIGN.

LONDON, March 3.—The town of Little Poko, on the Gold Coast of Africa, is half burned. Two thousand kegs of powder burst in one house, and fifty natives were blown to pieces while plundering the burning and abandoned houses

BERLIN, March 3.—The subjugation of Khokand by Russia is confirmed. This leaves only 225 miles between the Russian and British frontiers in Central Asia.

PARIS, March 2.—The inhabitants of Asnieres have been driven from their homes by the flooding of the Seine.

We might exclaim, with Carlyle: "Oh! easily gullible public!" when we see that even in the enlightened state of New York, Mormonism is making some advances. One of Brigham Young's prophets preached in Williamsburg recently, to a considerable audience, more than half of which was made up of Mormons. The New York conference of Mormons has 176 members. Not a large number; but far too large when we consider that practical adherence to the pretended, prophet means disobedience to law, disregard of moral precepts, as well as violation of God's commandments.—New York Independent.

The licenses to shoot game in Scotland amounts to $3,000,000 annually; or more than all the game is worth.

"Class in the middle of geography, stand up," said a schoolmaster. "What is a pyramid?" he asked. "A pile of men to a circus, one on top of the other." "Where is Egypt?" "Where it always was." "Where's Wales?" "All over the sea." "Very well," said the schoolmaster, "now there till I show you a species of birch that grows all over this country."

All sorts of things seem to be emulating the example of the dynamite. A bucket of water set by the forge to thaw burst with a loud report, and injured several persons. There a pumpkin, which an old lady put into the oven to get the frost out, exploded with a loud report and barried the old lady. And now a barrel of sauer kraut, in which there had accumulated a large quantity of gas, blows up in a cellar, making itself heard for half a mile and doing considerable damage.—Exchange.

tions went, everything was all right. But $10,000 was a considerable sum to pay out, even on the very best documents of recommendation, and the bank officers hesitated, wavered, and finally declined to cash the check. But the stranger was importunate. "Gentlemen," said he, "I came to Texas to invest this money in cotton. It is very necessary that this check should be cashed or I will be greatly inconvenienced. Suppose you telegraph to New York to this banking house? Ask them about me; I will pay all expenses." Nothing could be more plausible than this; nothing sound more honest. So a dispatch was sent, asking about the stranger and the check, and in a short time came the answer to the effect that it was all right; and the Dallas Bank would confer a favor on the New York firm by accommodating their cotton-speculating friend and cashing the check. Still the bank officers were not satisfied, and the dispatch to New York was duplicated. Again the answer was of a similar tenor, only probably a little more emphasis was added to it. This was satisfactory, and the check was cashed. It seems to be the practice of operators to go over their day's work at night briefly by asking the different points to which dispatches have been sent whether they have been received or not. On inquiring whether dispatches 13 and 14 had been received, a negative answer was returned. No such dispatches had come to hand, and consequently no answers could have been sent. It was evident that the bank had been swindled, but how? There was the mystery. The dispatches had been regularly received; they had come from somewhere, but wherefrom could not be known. The cotton speculator had disappeared with the funds, and the bank officials were at their wits' ends. In a day or two the mystery was solved. The two telegraph operators, referred to above had gone a few miles out of Dallas, taken possession of an old shanty by the roadside, attached a battery to the wires, and taken the dispatches intended for New York off. They had then sent prearranged answers. The three were confederates, and the operators knew about the time the bogus speculator would enter the bank and when to attach their instruments. It was an adroit scheme and successfully carried out. The bank has no clue to the swindlers, but has learned a valuable lesson and paid a high price for tuition.—Jefferson City (Mo.) Tribune.

SUNDAY,.....March 5, 1876.

We are indebted to Hon. J. H. Caldwell, M. C., from Alabama, for a copy of the "Annual Report of the Comptroller of Currency" for the year just passed.

In New Orleans the people are eating new potatoes and green peas—not every person, but only those who are able to pay for the luxuries. We drink Champagne in Mobile. We mean those of us who can afford the luxury.

The Emperor of Brazil is 52 years of age, with white beard and hair, an erect carriage, and a solid frame. He is over six feet high, and dignified in his bearing. He is a man of scholarly attainments, and speaks fluently the principal languages of modern Europe. He has reigned in Brazil for thirty six years, and in 1871, recognising the progress of the times, issued his edict on liberty, gradual emancipation of all the slaves in the Empire.

The Paris police, while searching lately a very old house in the Rue Saint Honore, for some stolen property, came upon a door which apparently had not been opened for many years. The door opened on to a staircase, at the foot of which was found an empty coffin, which had almost crumbled to dust. From inquiries which have since been made, it has been ascertained that this secret chamber was a hidden place for several Huguenots during the massacre of St. Bartholomew, and that Henry IV. took refuge during that terrible night in the house, which is close to the entrance to the old Louvre.

We are indebted to Hon. F. G. Bromberg for a copy of the report of the contest in the case of "Bromberg vs. Haralson" as to the right of representation of this Alabama District in Congress. It is a document of more than four hundred pages of octavo size, and, as far as we have had time to examine it, shows that Haralson is not rightly in his seat. Of this, however, we have not knowledge enough to speak positively. The evidence would require a week of study. But, we can assert, "without fear of successful contradiction," that most of the white men would prefer Mr. Bromberg to Mr. Haralson. We have no party prejudice in the giving of this opinion.

Alabama Legislature.

Last Friday Gov. Hendricks was introduced to the members of both houses of the Legislature, in a most distinctive of party.

Nothing of general interest was determined in either House. The following paragraph may interest the reader. What it exactly means is not mentioned:

Senator Hamilton, from Judiciary, reported as a substitute for the bill regulating the fees of officers, and an act to regulate exemptions of property from sale for the payment of debts.

Further consideration postponed until to-mo row.

Theatre.

The play represented Friday and last night is a very interesting one.

But its interest is mostly in the acting of Mr. Mayo. This is worthy of much admiration, and for the reason that it is not what is called "stagey."

The actor plays his part with a naturalness that is uncommon in the theatre. It is a simple exposition of a character, just as one would expect to find it in daily intercourse with the man portrayed.

In this respect it was extremely interesting to us; but the audience seemed not to know when it was proper to laugh or cry. There was much applause, but the laughter was sometimes given in the wrong places. This showed no due attention to the excellence exhibited by the actor—for it was excellent in all respects—in almost every respect a simple, believable representation that is a little uncommon on the stage.

The lady who played Eleanor Vaughn gave grace to her part. In fact, the whole piece was well done.

It is worth a little study to watch Mr. Mayo—to see, in his style, how he has emancipated himself from the old-fashioned rats and rants of the stage.

[The above was written to appear yesterday morning; but, by some stupidity, it was omitted. We give it now as a truthful representation of a very interesting performance.]

The Shrinkages.

The shrinkages are not confined to real estate. They are getting into official stations. For example, the salary of the Mayor of New York is about to be cut down from $12,000 to $8,000; the corporation counsel from $15,000 to $8000; the health commissioner from $5000 to $3000; aldermen from $4000 to $2000; the president of the aldermen from $5000 to $3000. In Mobile the members of the municipal boards serve without pay. Honor and regard for the general weal are what control them. The largest cut-down in New York is that of Superintendent of buildings. It is reduced from $6,500 to $3,000.

These facts are evidences of a reaction from war prices to those of peace. With the vast debts hanging over all our communities, economy is an essential element of progress. Chicago has a debt to-day of $25,000,000, and on the first day of January the tax-payers were in arrears amounting to $10,000,000.

The debt of New York city is much larger—perhaps ten times as large, but the safety of a debt—although a great burden—is secured by the means that a population has to pay it. The state of Alabama cannot carry $30,000,000, but $10,000,000 may ultimately be safe, if the people accept it as just, and are willing to stand by it.

We do not believe that any state debt is worthy of regard, if it have been incurred for the uses of thieves, who seized the opportunities of their places in order to steal what all of us might be obliged to bear, until our wives and children sank under it.

And the sooner the traffickers in bonds, or other securities, know this, the better it will be for the honest people of our various communities.

The legislature of a state or a city has no right to plunge their constituents into the terrible obligations, which rogues have got the benefit of. It has no right to plunge any community into debt without the assent of the people of that community. If it has this right, it has also the concurrent right to sell out all the taxable property held as answerable for the obligations.

There are, of course, community duties to be observed. For example, what for the uses of the state is needed. For this, we must all take a part of the responsibility; and yet even in this case it is hard to find where the beginning or ending is. We are obliged to stop somewhere.

Well, then, where stop? Why, stop at the elections, and choose and send honest men to perform the immediate and important duties of legislation—either for state, municipal or national purposes.

We here in Mobile are troubled with some amount of debt. Every other city is troubled with the same disorder. Let the reader think of this question. "Why was it incurred?" Who got the benefit of it?

It is strange that our citizens—that is those of them who give no thought to the anguish that their own folly will put on the little children and the good wives that they seem to love—it is strange to see these men holding on to the tails of partisans, thinking, apparently, that great amounts of gold will drop from them. And these men would consider it an affront if they were told that they are fools. They are fools, nevertheless, and the unconscious instruments of the managers who pull the strings which make them dance to any tune that is played.

We of Mobile have had some experience. Just look back to the past. It was proposed that we should give bonds to make a park away down on the bay shore. What for? Why to make that and the adjoining lands valuable—to their owners. It was proposed to cover all these streets with Nicolson pavements, like the one that is in front of this office. A million or dollars would have done that, leaving a half million in the pockets of those who contrived the infamous project.

The voice of no citizen was asked for that. It was to be got through the municipal government, and, it is likely, it was expected that enough of the members of the two boards could be bribed, directly or indirectly, to lend their assent to it.

The so-called North Western Railroad is a similar thing. It began at both ends, and never met in the middle. We are not sure that any man made money by it, but we are sure that the citizens are paying for it. Vide their tax bills.

We make the positive assertion—and are willing to defend it against all persons—that there is no obligation on good men to stand up to these wrongs. We know that the much-abused word "honor" comes into to delude the fools—and, foolish men or rogues handy that about. It is the soft, easy cushion on which knaves repose. We have no respect for it.

The New York World has a dispatch describing in detail the turnout of the New Orleans "Mystick Crewe of Comus" last Tuesday. Perhaps no one read it.

The death of T. J. Judge, one of the Justices of our Alabama Supreme Court, has pained a great many people. He was noted as a worthy gentleman in all the relations of life. From his position, we must suppose that he knew much of law. But was otherwise cultivated, as we once heard him deliver an address before a society in Demopolis, which indicated the evidences of much general literary attainment.

The latest news from Washington shows that the President is very much troubled by the exposures in the case of Gen. Belknap, late Secretary of War. The confession of crime by the latter, as is natural, is a cause of much pain to the President.

The impeachment of the Secretary, it is said, will be prosecuted. How? He is not a public officer. His resignation of his place has been accepted in due form. How can he be held for his offence in this? He might, as we know, be arraigned in some other kind of court. The impeachment method is costly, and profitable to nobody.

Mr. Tommey, recently arrested for stealing at Memphis, has been released from jail on bail. He was well-known some years ago in Mobile, where he had no better reputation than some other people. He may have been slandered here, as he may be in Memphis.

TELEGRAPH

PHILADELPHIA, March 4.—The extensive dry-goods house of Wood, Marsh & Co., 309 and 311 Market street, was destroyed by fire this morning. No. 307, occupied by Garretson, Blakmoore & Co., dealers in paints, was badly damaged in the rear, while the interior was deluged with water. No. 313 Market street, occupied by B. & H. Behr & Bros. & Dalson, dealers in fancy goods, was likewise damaged.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The signal service observer at Kitty Hawk reports the name of the Italian bark wrecked on the North Carolina coast on the night of the 1st to be Nuova Oita Via, bound from Genoa to Baltimore. The bark's crew were all lost, except the second mate and three men. The captain's name was Bazzo Daside. No bodies have been recovered since the report of yesterday.

It is officially stated that Gen. Babcock's connection with the business at the executive mansion has now ceased.

The attorney general has been in consultation with District-Attorney Wells relative to Belknap, and the preliminary papers with a view to his punishment have been prepared. They will be sent to the grand jury next, when it is expected an indictment will promptly follow. Similar proceedings will be instituted against Marsh. The Attorney general had a consultation with the president to-day on this subject.

FOREIGN.

LONDON, March 4.—The Hour understands that a writ returnable in the Court of Queen's Bench, was served upon Minister Schenck yesterday at the instance of the Emma Company. The writ was served on Gen. Schenck was entering the train at Euston station. Gen. Schenck referred the server to Lord Derby.

A special from Gibraltar to the Daily News states that the prize crew of the Guatemala Costa were overpowered and captured by the crew of an English trading vessel, which they attempted to seize. They have been committed and will be tried for piracy.

The Times, of this morning, says editorially of the Belknap scandals: "This event is more grave because it is confirmatory of a suspicion which has long prevailed among the American people. Even we Europeans cannot but be struck with the altered tones in which Americans speak, if not of their institutions, at least of the men who have the present direction of them."

The News alluding to the same subject says: "American political life seems to be in anything but a healthy condition. It refers to the whisky fraud trial, the Emma mine scandal, and the downfall of Belknap, and says that these scandals lift a veil from a class of society which it was hitherto pretty generally supposed had as yet escaped the impurities of the social strata below and they lead one to fear that some of the worst vices of municipal government may be percolating into the federal administration.

The Telegraph says: "Disclosure after disclosure, charges after charges, varying in degrees of truth but with the same ugly and untoward character, have lately darkened the commercial, religious, judicial and administrative institutions of the United States. Some have proved false, others true; and more await evidence; but the general effect beyond denial has been to bring a blush of shame and anxiety into the faces of all honest Americans, and to make the countless friends of the Republic in this country silent and sorrowful when its enemies rejoice over these recurring revelations.

The Standard says: Happily the countries are few where gross an abuse of trust would be possible.

Madrid, March 4.—All Carlists submitting prior to the 15th inst. are to be granted amnesty.

It is stated that the Vatican will not make a formal protest against the article of the new constitution concerning religious toleration.

Paris, March 4.—An official notice issued today informs senators elect that there will be a preparatory meeting on the 7th to form a provisional bureau to fix upon an order of the day for the first sitting of the senate. The deputies have also received a similar notice.

Athens, March 4.—The Queen of Greece has been delivered of a daughter.

Havana, March 4.—It is officially reported from Tomas De Gibera, that on February 27th, 300 Spanish cavalry, while scouring the country, met 600 mounted insurgents, commanded by Maximo Gomez. The Spanish hardly had time to draw their sabres, and a hand to hand combat followed, lasting an hour, at the end of which time they remained masters of the battlefield. Their loss was 26 killed and 33 wounded. The loss of the enemy is considered at least equal. Captain-General Jovellar reached the scene very soon after he heard of the fight. This is the first engagement of any consequence for a long time.

The Flight of Don Carlos.

PARIS, February 29.—Don Carlos, accompanied by Conte Caserta, left Mauhon at 7 o'clock yesterday evening for Pau. It is reported that he intends going to England.

LONDON, February 29.—When Don Carlos arrived at Pau the Prefect informed him that he could not allow him to reside, even for a short time, in his department. He added that the French Government would permit him to sojourn temporarily in some town in the north of France, and suggested, among others, Dieppe and Boulogne. The Prefect placed a special train with a saloon-carriage at the disposal of Don Carlos to take with him his family and suite, if he desired to be accompanied by them, to the frontier or to a place of residence in the north.

The reconnaissance of Carlist refugees near Pau has obliged the local authorities to make special arrangements to convey them to the interior of France for interment.

The flight of Don Carlos has thrown the Carlist population of Navarre into complete stupefaction. The submissions are so numerous that it is impossible to calculate them. The Alfonsists returning to their homes in Navarre find them entirely devastated.

The railroads and telegraphs are being rapidly repaired.

The Madrid journals energetically insist that the Government must now remove all causes of discontent which might lead to a renewal of the war.

HAVANA, February 29.—The city is rejoicing over the news of the end of the Carlist war. The streets are decorated.

LONDON, March 1.—A telegram from Cadiz, to the Times says a proclamation has been published there declaring that the King, his navy, army, and the Government, with the patriotic co-operation of all parties, have put an end to the curse of civil war.

Alfonso and part of the army will make a triumphal entry into Madrid at the end of the present week.

There is great rejoicing in Seville, Cadiz and the entire South.

The streets of Cadiz are illuminated every night and processions with bands of music are parading. Business is suspended, and there is a general holiday.

Fifty thousand soldiers will go to Cuba to quell the insurrection.

The Standard's Vienna special says the accounts of the devastation from the inundations in Hungary are heartrending. A hundred manufactories and fifty other buildings at New Pesih have been undermined and fallen. It is feared that when the waters retire a vast number of houses in Buda and other places along the river will fall. Twelve thousand out of the 18,000 inhabitants of Altihen are homeless.

The Fascination of Altitude.

Jumping from points of elevation, says Albert Rhodes in the February Galaxy, is a fashion of suicide. To stand on an elevated site exercises a singular fascination over some people, leading them to jump into the air. It causes others to sweat and tremble with fear. Last summer I talked with the guardian of the Cathedral at Strassburg on this subject, and he informed me that few visitors were free from the feeling of flight on reaching the first terrace, which is of great altitude, and that it was so pronounced as to generally prevent them from going higher. Sometimes the women fainted. I confess that I was not free from vague dread in looking out over the immense reach of landscape which this view takes in, although there was absolutely no danger, the terrace being securely guarded by strong iron rails. This man of the upper air—the guardian or genius—informed me that the summer before an Englishman had fainted, but determined to ascend every day for a week, until he could look out in the direction of the Black Forest, from the lantern, with equanimity. During the summer a man jumped into the air through altitude fascination. He was probably dead before reaching the ground, on account of the immense height from which he hurled himself.

Formerly the Vendome column was the scene of so many deaths of this kind that a decree was issued to prevent visitors from ascending it unless accompanied by a guardian. It was the Parisian Rock of Paris. Such a number have killed themselves from the fascination of altitude, or fright produced thereby, that elevated places must be recognized as dangerous for certain people. Those whose self-killing is premeditated, of course are not comprised therein.

The Newest Great Scandal.

The late Secretary of War.

The Attorney General was busy yesterday in gathering together facts in the Belknap case, and early this morning sent for District Attorney Wells, and with him repaired to the Executive Mansion to consult with the President. In the meantime an order was issued for the grand jury to assemble on Monday morning early. The consultation between the President and Attorney General and Mr. Wells ended at noon, when the case was formally placed in the hands of Mr. Wells with instructions to press it. The Attorney General says an indictment will be presented on Monday. Not only will Gen. Belknap be indicted, but all those implicated with him will be indicted and prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

The Senate was not in session today.

A member of the committee on Expenditures in the War Department is authority for the statement that the committee are of the opinion that before it gets through with the post traders sale business it will be safe to say that Secretary Belknap is worth at least $250,000.

The National Democratic Congressional Committee met last night, and it is understood they decided to make the issue in New Hampshire and Connecticut on the question of official corruption in high places, leaving the financial issue to take care of itself.

Sam. Cox says that the eyes of the country are not looking to the hard and soft money issues now, but that the disgrace of Belknap is the absorbing theme.

The St. Louis Republican learns from a gentleman just from Fort Sill, that developments in the Belknap case will create no surprise out there, because everybody at the post has for a long time, been convinced of the fact that traders have been required to send heavy monthly contributions east, and they urged in order to enforce monthly collections from their patrons, that they were required to pay for the privileges they enjoyed.

Lee & Reynolds, post traders at Camp Supply, make so secret of the fact that they hold their franchise as a thing purchased, and at large figures.

NEW YORK, March 4.—A special from Poughkeepsie says Caleb Marsh who preferred the damaging evidence against Secretary Belknap, arrived there yesterday and purchased a ticket for Montreal, Canada. He entered the Montreal car, but before the train arrived at Poughkeepsie, he showed considerable anxiety about something, and nervously asked the conductor when a train went back to New York. The conductor, told him he could go as far as Garrisons and catch one there. Marsh did not wait however, but jumped from the train a little beyond Poughkeepsie, narrowly escaping severe injuries. He was forwarded on the Montreal train at 8 p. m.

The Herald's special says it was decided yesterday that Gen. Babcock shall be dismissed from the White House, and it is understood that he has virtually received its discharge. The Committee on Naval Affairs has instituted fresh investigation in the navy department, more than 3,000 pages of testimony has been taken, and it is said there is evidence enough before the committee to make work for another impeachment committee, and there is positive evidence that somebody in the navy department in making exports to intimidate witnesses. There are said to be as many as six or seven distinct subjects of fraud in the navy department.

The crime of Belknap continues to be the leading topic of both the press and public. Ex-Gov. Dix does not believe the exposure will have any particular bearing upon the Republican party. Geo. T. Curtis says the revelation is a symptom of a state of society in Washington, and a tendency towards extravagance of living; but thinks it yet too soon to form any opinion as to Belknap's personal culpability in the matter. Prominent Republicans claim that the exposure will not affect the Republicans in the approaching campaign in any degree. Leading Democrats claim that half is not yet known, and predict further revelations of corruptions of a like startling character.

A Washington special says that Gen. Babcock's friends here and in New York and Philadelphia have undertaken to raise funds ($30,000) to reimburse him for expenses attending his late trial.

The Tribune says the Republican party has reached a decisive crash in its history. Within a short time it will either shake itself clear of rascalities which disgrace it, or go down to dishonor and death. Exposing Belknap is but a lost link which can be broken only in one way. It claims that the Republican party is unfit to govern the country, unless it clears itself of all complicity with this administration and the foul creatures who have gathered around it.

TUESDAY,.....March 7, 1876.

The Spanish government has offered amnesty to all the partisans of Don Carlos who will submit to its authority prior to the 15th inst.

Henry Kirkwood, a former resident of Pascagoula, was murdered recently near Point Washington, Fla. The deceased was a man of some substance within his community.

The whole amount of national paper money in circulation on the 1st of January was $702,333,030, of which $346,479,755 were national bank notes.

Fifteen vessels arrived at Pensacola, during the week ending the 1st inst. Twenty-nine cleared within the same time. They carried off a large amount of lumber.

Gen. Schenck has resigned his position as minister to England, and R. H. Dana has been appointed in his place. This is not the manager of the New York Sun, or, we think, one of the editors of Appleton's American Cyclopedia. He is the author of a very interesting work, entitled "Two Years before the Mast."

Last Saturday evening, there was a difficulty in the office of Messrs. Prestidge, Graham & Co., corner of Carondelet and Perdido street, N. O. The junior partner of the house, Mr. Hardeman, was found shot, and by Mr. Prestidge. The latter was also wounded by a knife. It is not known that either person is fatally hurt. The cause of the trouble grew out of some business dissensions that are not stated.

The American ambassador, Mr. Schenck, left Liverpool on the 4th inst. for New York. He has been accused of all sorts of acts which do not become a man in his place. We have seen no proof that he is guilty, and he is coming home to try to relieve himself of what, in party papers, by constant repetition, looks like truth. This is very scandalous crap, and it is not wise to believe every thing that we find either in newspapers, or otherwise.

The Bishop's Lecture.

To night the Right Reverend Bishop Quinlan, is to deliver a lecture at the Cathedral for the benefit of the Catholic and Educational Society. The subject is one of great public interest: that is, "Church and State." The good Bishop is who so gentle in his manner and his desire to find what is true, will, we suppose, offend no man's feelings, although, it is likely, he may run against some prejudices, but, in the contest of opinion, this is always to be expected, and the protestants, and the members of no church—as we are—will find, we have no doubt, some instruction in the lecture. We are sure that it will be given in such a way as to hurt no one's religion The Bishop, we are told, is a very lovable gentleman, who would rather suffer himself than wound any man's heart. Of course, he defends his church. He would be fit to be a leader in it, if he did not do this in all earnestness. The purpose of the lecture is one which concerns humanity, and that is every where in this sinful world.

The Lee Association.

We are not sure that the following note was expected to be put in print, but it is so cordial in its manner and tone, that we risk the—perhaps—impropriety of giving it to our readers. We shall assume the responsibility.

This Robert E. Lee Association, as we understand it, is for nothing but benevolent purposes. It is made up almost entirely of those men who fought in our disastrous war. Its name alone carries with it the highest recommendation. For no man can have that name on his lips, or on the legend of any society or place, without being battered by it. In the presence of the name of the dead soldier, it seems to me to be impossible to do an act that does not become a gentleman. A great many boys bear this name. That ought to be to them an ever-present incentive to true manhood. Any boy with it ought to be above the low-lying place of meanness. To us it brings not only respect, but something like love. To every Southern man it ought to be a symbol of what is virtuous, and inspire him with a desire to emulate it.

Messrs H. Bellenytne and T. B. Lyons:

Gentlemen:—I have the honor to state to you that a unanimous vote of thanks was tendered to you at a late regular monthly meeting of the Lee Benevolent Association, for your kind and generous action, affording us a space in your valuable journal, for advertising the hall and procession of the Lee Benevolent Association, which occurred on the 19th of January, the anniversary of the birth of Robert E. Lee, free of charge.

We, therefore, beg leave to thank you. We wish you as journalists success—and pray that the Tribune may become a guiding star throughout our Southern land.

Very respectfully,

J. C. DOMERT, Corresponding Secretary of Lee Benevolent Association.

Theatre.

There was a good audience last night, and no person has ever seen a better pleased one. The troupe is perfect in all its parts, and it is difficult to single any member of it for special praise.

Sometimes we cry over tragedies. Last night the tears came from the constant succession of admirable and delicate fun. We broke our heart in laughing. So, extremes meet.

To-night there is to be another performance of the troupe, and those who miss it will lose something that is extremely agreeable.

The music is excellent. The Cornet Solo is worth the price of admission to those who love music.

The Latest Scandal.

The developments in the case of Gen. Belknap United States Secretary of War, would be appalling, if familiarity had not made us acquainted with innumerable similar crimes.

Honesty used to be considered the rule—especially in public life. Now it seems to be the exception.

What news we have received of this mortifying exhibition is given on our outside page. It is said that the accepted resignation of a cabinet officer relieves him from impeachment. This is a question that has been discussed in Congress; but can that relieve him from the responsibility of the wrong? Is stealing, or bribery in office, to be condoned for by a resignation? If that were answerable in the affirmative, why it would be authority to get office for the means of the opportunity that it gives to rascality.

Impeachment in the case amounts to not much of account. Take the fellow before the ordinary courts, and make him thereon answer for his misdeeds.

The poor wretch who filches a loaf of bread from a baker's shop will find thirty or more days of imprisonment. Here, in Gen. Belknap we find a man who has put up his great influence for sale—made money by so doing. The fellows who offered the bribes ought to be caught, and put where the dogs could not bark at them. They are as guilty as he—like him, rascals.

This great scandal has made an impression on Europe, and—as we infer from what reports have come from London—there is a sort of a belief that there is nothing in the United States except corruption—that men in office can be bought or sold—nothing being necessary but a price—sometimes not much—any thing of value.

This is sad for those of us who love the country. It takes from us that love, and reduces all the desires of those who think that this love is a great virtue in men.

There is one thing about it. The opponents of the administration are using these painful exposures for party purposes; and, as we see in some of the states, wherein some expression of party opinion is soon to be made, the financial question has been pretermitted, and the corruption business is to be made conspicuous. This Belknap affair is bonne bouche to the democratic party—a sort of "caviare to the general."

This is the year of party affairs; and the administration has given to the opposition enough of ammunition to fill its papers with a dreadful account of the necessity of changing it.

The President seems to be perplexed. Well, we suppose that he means well; and have no doubt that all the members of the cabinet are shocked: and, if the scandal be not removed, are ready to resign their places. It looks very much like disintegration.

TELEGRAPH

BOSTON, March 6.—Chas. H. North & Co., very extensive pork packers, went to protest, Saturday; the house claimed a surplus in December of more than half a million of dollars, and have now undoubtedly a large surplus, and will probably only ask an extension. D. M. Oliver & Co., provision dealers, is reported to have failed on Friday evening, owing to North & Co., for $40,000. E. C. Ridgeod & Co., wool dealers, failed last Saturday.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The democratic caucus last night adjourned by a vote of 52 to 44 to Tuesday night without a test vote.

Craig and Bryant were arrested upon a charge of passing fraudulent claims from Colorado. Craig gave $25,000 bail. The case is twelve years old, and was prosecuted to payment by General Butler. The best opinion is that the authorities have been overzealous this time. Craig is a prominent democrat from Colorado.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Belknap was arrested last night on a warrant sworn out by Judge Wells. He was detained in his house, with police inside and out all night.

Henry Heaer, of F. C. Heaer & Co., bankers, of New York, is quoted as saying that Schenck hesitated about becoming a director in the Emma Mine Company, and that Grant received $20,000 for writing the letter which induced Schenck to accept it; it was a gold draft for $20,000, and negotiated through Heiser's banking establishment.

A gentleman from New York represents that the dominant feeling in higher republican political circles there by the Belknap development, is indignation against the witness Marsh.

Belknap will have a hearing before Judge Snell, in the police court this afternoon.

Schenck has resigned, and R. H. Dana, of Massachusetts appointed.

In the senate a large number of private bills were reported adversely on during the morning hour.

Mr. Sherman, of Ohio, then spoke at length on finances.

In the house Mr. Randall introduced a bill to protect witnesses before the judiciary committee from molestation, for evidence given before them, and making attempted intimidation a penal offence.

The impeachment committee in the senate has taken the necessary order for proceedings without questioning the jurisdiction of the senate on account of resignation.

NEW ORLEANS, March 5.—The three-mast schooner Mattie W. Atwood, with a cargo of 2,950 bales of cotton and drawing 13½ feet of water, put to sea today through the jetties at South Pass. The is the first merchant vessel that has passed through the jetties.

FOREIGN.

LONDON, March 6.—The Oldenburg Courant this morning says Albert Grant, the noted financier, intends to go to Washington and personally testify before the house committee on foreign affairs to the following effect: That he never told Lyons that he [Baron Grant] had given Senator Stewart 2,000 shares to become a director in the Emma mine and to assist in getting Schenck's name on the board; and that Lyons' statement to the contrary to the committee is absolutely false. Second, that he has never seen Lyons nor held any communication with him in his life. Third, that he never gave any shares to Stewart either to become director himself or to get Schenck to be a director.

Dispatches from the North of Spain announce that troops have fraternized with the Carlists who presented themselves for amnesty. General Quesada will occupy the provinces of Biscay and Navarre with 45,000 troops. King Alfonso will visit Burgos and Santander. He will enter Madrid on the 15th inst. with the captured cannon. The Alfonsists have captured 12 cannon. The soldiers belonging to the class of 1870 have been disbanded, and it is expected that the army will now be reduced to 20,000 men.

PARIS, March 6.—The increasing demands of Casimer Perier regarding the composition of the ministry, has caused a rupture between Perier and MacMahon. It is now said that M. Ricard will take the ministry of the interior. This solution will admit of the formation of the cabinet before the opening of the chambers.

Capt. Munn, a noted clerical legitimist enthusiast, was elected in the department of Morbihan, defeating the Bonapartist Abbe Cadoret.

RAGUSA, March 6.—Twenty insurgent leaders who took refuge in Cettinge refuse to accept the reforms, though threatened with withdrawal of relief and strict surveillance. The Austrian authorities consider the pacification of the Turkish provinces hopeless. The maltreatment of Rayahs by Musselmen is increasing, and the position is becoming dangerous.

Wallo Mobile is indulging in ripe strawberries, green peas and new potatoes, and the eye is delighted with the beautiful flowers that blossom in the open air, the route to the Pacific coast is blocked with snow. The following telegram is cool reading:

SAN FRANCISCO, March 5.—A dispatch from Truckee says a heavy snow storm began Thursday morning and continued all this evening. The snow is 12 feet deep on a level. On Thursday night a snow slide at Yuba Pass crushed the snow sheds for 150 yards, and the west bound freight train ran into the slide, ditching the train. While clearing the wreck another slide occured half a mile behind the train, carrying away 150 feet of sheds, making it impossible to reach the train with assistance; slides meantime occurring in all directions, the men refused to endanger their lives by working in sheds. Slides near Summit and another at Strong Canon carried away several hundred feet of sheds. This morning work was commenced at both ends of the blockade; and the road is now clear. The east bound passengers of the 1st and 2nd insts., from San Francisco have passed on. The west bound trains due at Truckee on the 2nd and 3d will start this evening, and will probably pass Summit without trouble. Toe freight trains have all been abandoned, and it will take several days to get things straight. The passengers were well cared for, and made the best of the situation.

RIVER NEWS.

The steamer Mary, Captain John Quill, always on time, announces her own movements and arrived early yesterday morning from Montgomery with 350 bales of cotton, 26 sacks cotton seed, a fair miscellaneous freight and about forty passengers.

Captain Frank Stone telegraphs to Captain H. G. Baldwin that the D. L. Tally passed Demopolis at eight o'clock Sunday evening with 250 bales of cotton. He reports seven feet of water to Vienna and the river falling slowly. He left the Atlanta at Vienna and the Hale at Demopolis.

A Demopolis telegraph reports the river falling.

The D. L. Tally, Emma No. 2 and Atlanta, of Frank Stone's Grange Line, will all be at their landings this morning, with fair cargoes of cotton. And so the W. S. Holt, of Central Line No. 2, will be at her landing from Columbus.

The elegant and favorite steamer Mary, with three popular river men, Captain John Quill on the roof, and Mr. Jimmy Quill in the office will ring herself off the Saxon and Montgomery this evening at five o'clock sharp. The splendid state rooms and saloon accommodations of the Mary and the popularity of her officers will attract passengers, and she is bound to carry up a big freight. Spaulding & Foster agents.

The Lotus No. 2, Captain A. J. Stone, will resume her place today in Frank Stone's Grange Line and take her departure at five o'clock for Pickensville and intermediate landings. She affords the best accommodations for passengers, and has large freight capacity. Spaulding & Foster agents.

The William S. Holt, of Central Line No. 2, that fleet little, light draught steamer that is fitted with all modern conveniences for the comfort of passengers and has easy handling of freight, will back out for Columbus at five o'clock this evening. For freight or passage apply on board.

The T. M. Bagby is lying at Mount wharf, and is a pretty craft now that she has donned a new suit of paint and is a credit to the city.

WALKS AROUND TOWN.

The panorama of the Bible, an immense length of canvass, is still on exhibition at Odd Fellows' Hall. Everybody should see it.

The closing cotton quotations of the Board of Trade, yesterday were: Low ordinary 7¾; ordinary 8; good ordinary 9; low middling 11 4-11; middling 12½; good middling 13.

The noon cotton report of the Board of Trade yesterday was: "Good demand. Light supply of desirable cottons. Sales about 500 bales." Closing report: "Sales today 2,000 bales and 500 Saturday evening. Market closed strong. Good demand and scant supply."

According to the Board of Trade reports, the cotton receipts yesterday at all ports were 18,871 bales: New Orleans 10,960, Galveston 1,903, Mobile 1,323, Savannah 883, Charleston 793, Norfolk 785.

The ship Mary Fraser was cleared yesterday for Liverpool by Jas. H. & Jno. Wylie & Co., with 3,307 bales of cotton, weighing 1,953,126 pounds, valued at $209,385.

Major Samuel C. Muldoo, secretary of the board of underwriters, has paid to Police Detectives C. R. Eastburn, James Pendergrast and John Bressingham the reward of $500 offered for the conviction of the incendiary who set fire to the store of John Dahm on Joachim street. It was equally divided among the three.

The watchman of the Magnolia Cemetery is reported to be so ungallant as to say that the ladies pull up more valuable plants and gather more flowers from private lots in which they have no interest than do boys or men. He is correct. The reporter has seen much of this indiscriminate gathering of flowers by ladies who did it unblushingly. At one time, he saw two ladies who had been trimming their own lot with shears, cut off beautiful flowers from another lot as they were walking toward their home, just as unconcernedly as though they owned them. An exposure will shortly be made that will mantle the face of ladies with shame.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT.—In this court yesterday, Judge Bruce on the bench, the case of Curtis W. Jacobs vs Josiah Robins, continued from Saturday, went to the jury about four o'clock, who in a short time returned a verdict for the defendant. The following is the call for today:

United States vs Wiley Williamson; United States vs Henry Morningstar; United States vs Gustavo Van Ecoph; United States vs Jno. Winters; United States vs Henry Posey; Antoinette N. Barrios vs Charles Smith, et al; Lancaster Brown & Co. vs county of Chambers; Lancaster, Brown & Co. vs county of Randolph; John H. Garner vs the London and Lancashire Fire Insurance Company; Wm. A. Tooker vs John H. Garner, Alabama Gold Life Insurance Company, et als, garnishees; Ruth Eliza Thompson vs Knickerbocker, Life Insurance Company, James M. Elliott vs James H. Daugherdit, Moses S. Foote vs James H. Allen; Deposit Saving Association vs David H. Marks, et als.

THE WEATHER YESTERDAY.—The day was by no means cold yesterday, but the wind and dust were uncomfortable. At 6:51 o'clock, a. m., the wind blew 18 miles an hour at Mobile, but it shortly increased to 20. The temperature at Mobile was 64, highest 67 at Galveston and New Orleans, lowest 51 at Augusta. Storm signals were ordered up in the morning at New Orleans, Galveston and Lindenau.

At 3:51 yesterday afternoon the wind blew 20 miles an hour at Mobile and 24 at Corsicana and New Orleans. The temperature at Montgomery and New Orleans was 73, Augusta 71, Savannah 70, Mobile 68, Galveston 63, Corsicana 56.

ANOTHER VERY DESTRUCTIVE FIRE

FRAME BUILDINGS IN ASHES

The high wind that was prevailing yesterday morning, the fire bells that were ringing continuously, the flames that were leaping and cinders that were flying made an exciting tableau yesterday morning, from half past five o'clock to a later period.

In the unoccupied stable of J. W. Thorpe on Hamilton street, between Monroe and Eslava, flames first burst forth. There had been stored in this building pine burrs such as are used for kindling, but they were ordered to be removed. To the fiendish act of an incendiary the fire is ascribed. From the stable the fire extended to the frame buildings on the north of it, occupied by B. R. Levy and Dr. Elliot Johnson. But little of the personal effects of the occupants was saved from these dwellings. To the south of Thorpe's stable, the fire communicated to a frame house owned by P. Melville and occupied by two colored families, Inge and Farley, which was totally consumed. The one-story frame buildings next east of Dr. Johnson's, occupied by Mrs. McNallis, and a part of the Wedge estate, was partially destroyed.

At eight o'clock, the alarm was again sounded, fire having been discovered in the unoccupied frame dwelling house of Mrs. Metzger, on the west side of Cedar, between Government and Conti streets. The fire engines and the hook and ladder men who had the Babcock extinguishers, worked faithfully here. It is supposed that this fire was caused by cinders that were blown from the corner of Hamilton and Monroe streets

The aggregate losses are estimated at $6,000. The total value of the property partially or wholly destroyed was $14,835, on which there was insurance of $9,500.

Major Samuel C. Muldoo, secretary of the board of underwriters, furnishes to the reporter of the Tribune, the following detailed figures:

N. Weekes, trustee, one-story frame dwelling on Monroe street, valued at $1250, insured for $1000 in the London, Liverpool and Globe. Loss $1000.

N. Weekes, trustee, one story frame house on Monroe street, valued at $1185. Insured in London, Liverpool and Globe for $1000. Loss $400.

P. McArdle, two story frame dwelling on Hamilton between Monroe and Eslava streets, valued at $1600. Insured in Insurance Company of North America for $1000. Loss $1000.

R. Levy, household furniture, wearing apparel and piano forte, southeast corner of Hamilton and Monroe, value $3,500. Insured for $1500. Loss $1500.

Mrs. P. Metzger, two-story frame dwelling on the west side of Cedar, between Government and Conti, valued at $4500, insured in the Franklin, of Philadelphia, for $3000. Loss $1000.

THAT MOCKING BIRD.—Some days since Mrs. Cotton, a little lady, lost a mocking bird, worth $25, from its cage on Conti street. Before Justice McCormick yesterday, in a suit for the recovery of the bird, it appeared from the testimony that Joe Portuguese, a traveling fruit dealer, found the bird and sold it to ringtown Agnor for a box of lemons worth $6. There were thirteen witnesses in the case. According to the testimony, one toe of the bird was cut off to make it correspond with a mocking bird that Joe had sold to the Lamaine Boss, but the cut was so recent that it was regarded as a fraud. Through the instrumentality of a writ of replevin, the proper owner will shortly regain possession of her favorite mocking bird.

THE AQUATIC EXHIBITION.—If the weather is favorable today, thousands of people will go to Arlington on the cars of the Conception street railroad, which will run every ten minutes in the afternoon, to witness from Arlington park the aquatic exhibition of Captain Paul Boyton, who will give thirteen distinct experiments in his life-saving suit, from half past three to six o'clock p. m. Fare for the round trip, ten cents, including car fare for the round trip.

LAST NIGHT OF THE MINSTRELS.—Tonight is the last night of the famous Kelly and Leon minstrels and burlesque opera troupe, who will give an entire change in the programme, and present something new, novel and entertaining. We bespeak for them a good house.

Owing to occupancy of the Temperance Hall this, Tuesday evening, Messrs. Whittle and Bliss will conduct their evening services at the Government Street Presbyterian Church at 7½ o'clock. The public most cordially invited. To-morrow they will occupy Temperance Hall.

A Fine Art Experience.

Into one of the large jewelry and fancy goods stores of Mobile walked, the other day, one of those customers that the holiday season sometimes brings to town. He was a hard-headed, loose-jointed, broad-shouldered individual, carefully dressed in baggy, ready-made clothes, a home-laundried shirt, and a hat which, although perfectly new, was three seasons behind the present fashion.

Sauntering up to one of the salesmen, with a very obvious attempt at being at home among the glittering splendor of the salesroom, and a general air of "not to be either astonished or done by you Mobile fellers," he inquired,

"Got any brunzes?"

The clerk answered in the affirmative, and led the way to a bewildering stock of bronze statuettes, clocks, &c. The visitor stared at them for a moment as an interior African might have at the first white man he had ever seen, and then settling his hat a little more firmly on his head, asked,

"Which o' them niggers mout be the Venus of high low?"

The trained salesman, with placid countenance, quietly replied,

I do not remember any by that title; are you sure that that was the name?"

The patron of fine arts drew a large yellow silk handkerchief from his hat, and mopping his face uneasily, said,

"It mout hev been nee high, but I think it was high low, Mariar, sed that of I thort of Seven Up I shouldn't forget the name. The fact is," said the puzzled purchaser, with a sudden burst of confidence, "the fact is, Cap, I have jess put up a new tenement down to South Higginsboro', and Mariar 'lowed she'd like a brunze in the keepin' room, suthin' like what she seed once in cousin Sam Stiffner's parlor on Government street. Cousin Sam he writ the name on a card, 'n praps I've got it now?" and diving into his breast pocket as if he was about to unsheath a two-handed sword, he lugged out a long pocket-book, from the depths of which he plucked a card and handed it to the salesmen.

"Ah!" said the latter, "The Venus of Milo. Yes sir, here is a fine copy, a reproduction by Barbidienne."

The customer surveyed it earnestly for a moment, and then said,

"Ye hain't got a perfect one, hav ye Cap? This 'ere one has lost both her arms and both dents all down her back."

The patient salesman explained that the statuette was a copy of the original that was found in that condition.

"Shoh!" commented the other, and then hesitatingly, "don't any of them have any more close 'n that? This 'ere one's night yown 'pears to have kind of slipped off on her."

Again the shopman, despite his twitching muscles, explained to the attentive listener that it was an imitation of an ancient statue. He, however, cocking his head on one side, inquired,

"Wall, now, what'll you tax fur her, jess as she stands?" pumping his bony knuckles on the bronze as if it were a buna saw.

"One hundred and fifty dollars for that size," said the clerk.

"Wh-a-a-t?" almost shouted the astonished would-be patron of the arts; "a hundred 'n fifty dollars fur a brunze gal 'thout any arms, and skearce a rag to her back! Venus of My Low! Venus of Your High, I should say. A hundred 'n fifty dollars! Why, that's half the mortgage on brother Jim's farm. Guess Mariar thought my name was William B. Astor, instead of John Higgins. But, mister, I'll tell you what, I'll jess step round to the mutual aid and give a dollar fur a prize ticket, and come right back and buy that brunze and make Mariar nappy." And so he did.

Selling off to close business, all of our best calicoes at 8 cents a yard at retail, and all other dry goods at prices to insure their immediate sale. Store for sale.

F. H. PEPPER & CO.

Hon. Thos J. Judge.

The Montgomery Advertiser is in black in respect to the memory of Mr. Judge—of the supreme Court of the State. From its account the deceased was born in S. Carolina Nov. 1, 1815. His parents, when he was a child, removed to Butler county, in this State. At the age of fifteen he entered a printing office in Montgomery, where he staid a year or so. He was offered and accepted a clerkship in a dry goods store. He then started a newspaper in Greenville, but left it to enter the army that was then hardly trying to put down the Florida Indians. After his service therein, (in 1837) he studied law with Messrs. Hunter & Cook, at Hayneville. His political career began in 1843, and from that time until his death he was conspicuous in public affairs.

Judge Judge was in all things a "manly man." Every instinct of his nature leaned to honesty and truth. A strong believer in the people, he neither stooped to court their favor nor hesitated to differ with them. His words were always born of his convictions, and his actions never ran counter to them. His whole nature was earnest. What he undertook, he zealously strove to carry out to the end. He admired manhood, and was even tolerant of faults which were not mean. He was wholly generous without effort, and truly charitable without ostentation.

Last Saturday due honor was decided to the deceased by the Legislature.

The funeral took place yesterday at Greenville. Several of the members and lawyers went from Montgomery to attend it.

RECEIPTS AND SHIPMENTS

COTTON RECEIPTS.

By steamer Mary, from Montgomery.—156 bales Dunklin & Duffee, 28 order, 25 Bloomer,

New Orleans Fire Department.

The Thirty-Ninth Anniversary of the New Orleans Fire Department, held on the 4th inst., was a grand affair. After the parade there were all sorts of entertainments—good wine and good fellowship were abundant: but what will most interest our firemen is the following, which we extract from the Picayune:

This morning, when Chief O'Connor was preparing for the parade, he was hastily summoned to the house of Common No. 3, where he was surprised to find a delegation of members of the Mobile Fire Department.

The following resolution was then read by a member of the committee:

"At a meeting of the Mobile Fire Department Association held on the 19th of January, 1876, it was unanimously resolved: That the heartfelt thanks of this association be tendered to Mr. Thos. O'Connor, of New Orleans, for his kind and gratuitous services on behalf of this association, as its appraiser. And it is further resolved: That a committee of four be appointed to procure some proper testimonial to be presented to Mr. O'Connor, expressive of the high regard and esteem in which he is held by this association.

SAML. C. MULDON,
E. M. UNDERHILL,
J. J. CROWLEY,
FRED GRAVES,
Committee.

The Chief was then presented with a full silver service inscribed as follows: "As a mark of esteem from the Mobile F. D. A. to Thomas O'Connor, of New Orleans. Presented March 4, 1876."

Mobilowiej:

My Dear Friend—This is as surprising as pleasing to me. It is with love and gratitude that I except at your hands from the Mobile Fire Department, this beautiful token of appreciation of my best services in their behalf when I was summoned abroad by that duty to perform a duty. I went in that noble spirit which characterizes all brave and true firemen, without fear or favor, and it is most gratifying to know that my services have been appreciated by both the citizens and firemen of that city.

When Father Time stamps his seal upon this beautiful token, and I as well as many of you may be remembered among the dead, there may be some of my children left, which at this sight of this, will create emotions of kindred feeling within them, and the last bequeathed to them, that their father once rendered a service which was duly appreciated.

To you, Mr. Crowley, is confided the trust of conveying my heartfelt thanks to the citizens, and particularly to the Fire Department Association of Mobile, for this beautiful testimonial of their appreciation of my past services, and let me assure you that whenever my or the department services of this city are needed we shall respond with that alacrity, with which I responded when called. Gentlemen, again I thank you sincerely.

The Little World of London.

It numbers within these boundaries 4,000,000 inhabitants.

It contains more Roman Catholics than Rome itself, more Jews than the whole of Palestine, more Irish than Dublin, more Scotchmen than Edinburgh, more Welshmen than Cardiff, and more country born persons than the counties of Devon, Warwickshire and Durham combined.

It has a birth in it every five minutes, a death in it every eight minutes, and seven accidents every day in its 7,000 miles of streets.

It has on an average twenty-eight miles of new streets opened and 9,000 new houses built in it every year.

It has 1,000 ships and 9,000 sailors in its portevery day.

It has 117,000 habitual criminals on its police register, increasing at an average of 30,000 per annum.

It has as many beer shops and gin palaces as would, if placed side by side, stretch from Surrey Cross to Portsmouth, a distance of seventy-three miles.

It has as many paupers as would more than occupy every house in Brighton.

It has an influence with all parts of the world, represented by the yearly delivery in its postal districts of 238,000,000 letters.

Liverpool Cotton Brokers.

LONDON, March 2.—Some days ago it was pointed out in these dispatches that scandals in connection with the Liverpool cotton trade would shortly be made public; that there had been failures by which questionable transactions had been brought to light. These statements are confirmed to-day by the following dispatch from Liverpool:

"In the Police Court to-day Robert Mann, the younger, and William Hurst, composing the firm of "William Peers & Son," cotton brokers were summoned to answer the charge preferred by Messrs. Leech, Harrison & Forwood, of having unlawfully conspired to acquire fifty bales of cotton, the property of the latter firm. The defendants are also charged with stealing the cotton and with obtaining it by false pretenses. Neither of the defendants appeared at Court, although the service of the summonses was proved, and neither has been seen since Tuesday last. The magistrate granted warrants for their apprehension."

LONDON, March 2.—Walter Cosser & Co., timber and mahogany merchants in Belvidere road, have failed. Their liabilities are estimated at $500,000

The growing wealth of Liverpool and of its citizens is exemplified by the sums bequeathed by some of the leading men of the city who died during the past twelve months. It will be seen from the following list that the legacies or eight of these gentlemen represent in the aggregate upwards of £4,000,000; Robertson Gladstone, £350,000; James Houghton, £300,000; Richard Houghton, £500,000; Charles Turner, M. P., £700,000; James Tyrer, £200,000; R. L. Jones, £350,000; J. J. Rowe, £500,000, and H. Dawson, £1,500,000.

The wife of the Marquis of Bute was recently delivered of twins—a pair of Butes, as it were.

CROOKED WHISKY.—There is no crooked whisky in Mobile, though if it is imbibed in too large quantities it will make a man pursue a crooked course. This, from a western city, is an interesting report about the crooked whisky business:

ST. LOUIS, March 5.—The Times today published a somewhat lengthy statement of what purports to be a part of the secret history of the whiskey-ring prosecutions here and especially of the Babcock trial. It asserts that Attorney General Pierrepont was very active and zealous in the prosecutions until Gen. Babcock was indicted, when his ardor cooled, and he began to use his influence and the power of his office to save that gentleman. With this view the attorney-general sent for Edwards Pierrepont, Dyer to come to Washington. Dyer went, and while there Attorney-General Pierrepont, on the plea that it was very important and even necessary that he, as head of the department of justice, should know what the mode of prosecution would be in Babcock's case, obtained from him by the greatest and most inexcusable hypocrisy a detailed statement of all the oral testimony against Babcock, the whole plan of prosecution, what he intended to prove by each witness, the order in which he intended to present the evidence, etc. This information Pierrepont handed over for the use of Babcock's counsel in order to defeat the prosecution, and this, too, with the president's knowledge and consent. Mr. Storrs, senior counsel for Babcock, remained in Washington, and whatever Pierrepont obtained from Dyer in regard to the case he first repeated to the president, and after consultation with him, Storrs got the benefit of all he had learned. The private office of the attorney general was the place where all the plans to defeat the government in its case against Babcock were matured. Every night preceding the time set for Babcock's trial, Babcock and General Harper met and Pierrepont in his office and closely studied every point contained in the evidence for the government, and prepared to overcome it. General Babcock was admitted to conferences between the President and Pierrepont when the plan was first arranged, and whenever Dyer sent any additional witnesses to Washington Storrs was sent for; and when the plan of prosecution was fully matured, he was as familiar with it as the attorney general himself. Those familiar with all the circumstances absolve Colonel Dyer from all censure. Mr. Dyer had reposed implicit confidence in the integrity of Pierrepont, and had been deceived. Mr. Dyer could not be made to believe that one of the chief officers of the government would violate his oath of office and disregard his duty; hence, he accepted Pierrepont's pretended interest in a vigorous prosecution as his senior, and even relied upon him as his superior officer for aid and counsel. It is then asserted that while Pierrepont was at the outset very much interested in prosecuting the whiskey ring, believing it would redound to his credit as chief law officer of the government, he soon found he was overshadowed by Secretary Bristow, the people and the prosecuting officers giving that gentleman great credit for every blow struck against the ring.

A correspondent of the London Hour states that Germany has hinted to France that she will transfer Lorraine to France for the little consideration of $400,000,000 in gold. The French will not, probably, buy back their own territory, as they hope some day to re-annex it by the power of the sword.

The Great Britain steamer was one of the first-made iron vessels, and among the earliest to ply regularly between this and England. She has lately arrived at Liverpool from Melbourne, Australia, thus completing her thirty-sixth trip round the world. She was designed by Brunel and built at Bristol, also in July, 1845, made her maiden voyage from Liverpool to New York in fourteen days. Her dimensions are: Length (extreme) 330 feet; breadth, 57 feet; depth, 32 feet, with engines by Penn, 500 nominal horse-power. The weight of iron used in her hull alone is 1,940 tons, which is about equal to an average thickness of 2½ inch. Since 1852, independent of her employment in the Crimea during 1854 and 1855, she has sailed over 1,000,000 nautical miles, her last voyage out from Gravesend to Melbourne only occupying fifty-four days, and when recently surveyed she was pronounced to be one of the strongest vessels in the mercantile marine.

Ralph Waldo Emerson says: "The essence of all jokes, of all comedy, seems to be an honest or well-intended half-ness." This is beautifully said, and it is just what we have many times declared. 'All and 'half is a good joke. And the essence of all philosophy is a whimsical and obscure three-quarterness. The fraction may not be quite right, but it is somewhere near there.

WEDNESDAY,.....March 8,1876.

The police department of New Orleans made 1404 arrests last month—976 males and 428 females.

W. B. Hardeman, who was wounded last Saturday by Mr. Prestidge in New Orleans, died on Sunday night.

Last Monday morning one hundred and fifty feet of the outer end of the wharf of the Pontchartrain railroad was destroyed by fire—the result, it is supposed, of an accident.

Alabama Legislature.

Last Monday some special honors were given in the Senate to the memory of the late Thos. J. Judge, of the Supreme Court. A committee, composed of Messrs. Parks, Hamilton, McClellan and Martin, reported resolutions suitable for the occasion. Mr. McClellan, Mr. Hamilton and others delivered brief and eloquent speeches in their behalf.

By joint resolution the adjournment sine die, was fixed for to-day, at 1 o'clock p. m.

The late Duke of Modena bequeathed to Don Carlos $40,000,000. So it is said. The latter is now in London to pay off a small debt of $5,000,000. This, we suppose, was borrowed to carry on the war. It leaves him a balance of $35,000,000, which will arm and feed a pretty strong force.

We made a mistake yesterday in saying that the lecture of Bishop Quinlan was to be delivered last night. It is to be given next Tuesday night. The mistake will not, we suppose, lessen the audience—indeed, we think, will increase it, for it will allow time for thought in respect of the benevolent purpose for which it is intended.

The National Disgrace.

The people of the country have been much moved of late by charges of fraud against men eminent in office. That there have been great frauds is not at all questionable. The most conspicuous of them have been those on the import and internal tariffs. Many men who go to church and pray, with much "unction," have not the least scruple in cheating the government of its dues. They would also cheat their neighbors, if that were not liable to legal action and easily and immediately discoverable. To hide the traces of theft seems now to be the chief purpose of a very large number of people.

But this is a time of party asperity. This is the Centennial year, and the year that is to make or mar the ambitions of a great many men by means of our quadrennial revolution, and so, as numerous individuals are interested in it, there is a probability that there will be much untruth running through the newspapers, and the streets, and the highways.

Having seen something of the past in matters of this kind, we assume the privilege of giving advice; and it is done simply in this way. To investigate; distrust; take no party representation as trustworthy; get rid of the influences of those whose purpose is to deceive, or, being deceived themselves, think it a duty to deceive others—not intentionally, perhaps, but in fact.

Now, let us state our notions in regard to these scandals, as they stand before the public.

First, we do not believe that Babcock is so wicked a man as he is represented to be.

Secondly, we see no reason to believe that Gen. Schenck is a very bad man—he, we mean, who represented the United States in England.

Thirdly, we do believe that Mr. Belknap is a sort of rogue, and was tempted, in his own miserable weakness, by his wife.

And, fourthly, we do not believe that the President has been privy to these astonishing disgraces that fall with so heavy a weight on all the men who love the country.

If he were this, he would not be fit for association with a chain-gang.

It is not possible to suppose that he is so worthless.

How, then, can one account for these derelictions?

It seems to us easy enough. General Grant has no skill as a statesman, which is the primary indispensable of the head of this great government.

He has no great skill in anything. As a soldier, he was not great, except in his good fortune. But that he has no love for the morals of his country, which, it is supposed, he saved, is not predicable of any thing that we have seen.

This sentence we think covers the whole philosophy of the case.

By thus putting a right man in a wrong place, what is theresult? Why he is trusted, as men sometimes trust women, and he has been befooled by his trust.

This is all.

But there is another thing apparent. Experience is making him wiser.

He has trusted knaves, and given them, by his own lack of skill and much trust, opportunities to do what is really a great disgrace to every man who thinks that honor should come down from the heads of the country and, by example, permeate all the lower parts of it.

This seems to us to be in the nature of a crime, and no one can be held, in its real responsibility, for it so much as the President. He is the agent of the people. He stands for them, and the responsibility ought to rest on him.

In commercial affairs this is a rule.

We do not see why it should be different in our agent at the head of the government.

The sooner this responsibility is made known, and the people understand it, and shall insist on its enforcement, the sooner we shall be restored to the time when a mere suspicion of corruption in office was considered an unfitness for it.

We must return to that era.

There was not, perhaps, much more virtue at the time; but there was much more self respect. Stealing was not then fashionable.

Underlying, quietly, there is a large part of our people, composed of persons of old-fashioned notions, who think that to steal in office is equivalent to stealing in private.

This assertion at present may shock many persons.

The man who will rob a treasury of a thousand dollars, would not pick up a gold watch from his friend's table and carry it away. The latter he would think a mean theft. The other he pockets without any compunction.

The logic is not sound, although the thousand dollars have a vast amount of purchase in them.

A Leap Year Story.

A Queen asks and does not solicit it is otherwise sometimes, but it is en regle. Hearts queens command, and are not commanded by them. The story is not new, but it is worth repetition, this Leap Year, when the maidens of low degree have rights like those of Queens.

"Her uncle, the late King William IV, had done all in his power to prevent their union; no less than five other marriages had been planned for the young Princess; and William though he never mentioned the subject in her presence, took special pains to bring about an alliance between her and the brother of the King of the Netherlands—Prince Alexander. In consequence of these views his majesty endeavored to prevent the visit of the Duke of Coburg in 1836, but in vain; for the Duke came over to England and remained at Kensington Palace nearly four weeks, as guest of Queen Victoria's mother, the Duchess of Kent. King William died in 1837, and Victoria ascended the throne on the 20th of June. In 1839 Prince Albert of Coburg, accompanied by his brother, made that second journey to England which resulted so successfully. The three years that had passed had greatly enhanced his personal attractions. Tall in figure and manly in bearing, Albert was, besides, remarkably handsome, with an expression of nobleness and innate refinement, joined to an air of intellectual superiority, which far surpasses any more regularity of features."

"And so the Queen fell in love with him?"

"Very naturally—and on the 14th of October she made known to Lord Melbourne, who at that time stood at the head of the Whig Ministry, her resolution to offer her hand to Prince Albert definitely, and next day he was called to an audience with the Queen. Victoria, in her lofty position, had found herself in a very peculiar embarrassment, for it was necessary that she should manifest to the Prince that his suit, it preferred, would be successful. This was a very delicate task for a young lady, but one which the Queen had solved with rare tact. Not long before, at one of the court balls, she took advantage of the opportunity to hand the Prince her bouquet; the kind was not lost upon the gallant cavalier, and since his close-fitting uniform, buttoned tightly to the throat, did not permit of his disposing of this token, so full of promissory impiness, in the usual fashion, he quickly took out his pen knife, cut a slit in the coat near the vicinity of the heart, and inserted therein the invaluable treasure. A second hint was opportunely given. Albert having expressed his thanks and appreciation of his kind reception in England, was asked by the Queen: 'If your highness is pleased with this country, would you be inclined to remain with us?'

"'I would sacrifice everything in life to remain at the court of your Majesty,' was the characteristic reply.

"When, in compliance with the request above mentioned, the Prince repaired to the Queen's presence, after a short conversation, she declared to him with an earnest expression of sincerity and affection, that he had won her heart, and that it would render her only too happy if he would make the success of his life to shar ng it with her; for she regarded it in that light, and the only thing which troubled her was the idea that she was not worthy of him."

"How! made such a decarration of love to him?"

"She was obliged to, for the position of a Queen demands imperatively that the marriage proposal shall come from her, undesirable as this may appear to those who look at it from a standpoint of private life, and who regard it as a privilege and a fortunate circumstances for women that their hands must be sought for, and their not be offered."

"And what was the Prince's reply?"

"The charming frankness of Her Majesty quite captivated the heart of the favored young man, and he was entirely overcome. The marriage was solemnized February 15, 1840."

TELEGRAPH

DOMESTIC.

NEW YORK, March 7.—The two abducted little girls were found at one of the ferries, and were taken to a hotel by the man who coaxed them away. They were left there alone all night, and fled in the morning.

About 5 o'clock this morning a fire broke out in the House of the Aged, of the Little Sisters of the Poor, a large four-story building with two wings, at Bushwick avenue and Chesnut street, Williamsburg. The fire originated in the south wing, and before the aged inmates were aware of its presence the flames had made considerable progress. A panic was caused among the inmates, who rushed hither and thither through the building until they became exhausted or suffocated from smoke and sank down. The police rendered valuable assistance, and carried out a number of old people who had become unconscious. There were 150 old people in the building, and in one part egress had been cut off by the flames and smoke, so they went up to the roof uttering piercing shrieks, and the smoke and flames which shot up completely hid them from view. The inmates and police succeed d in rescuing all who were on the roof, but there were numbers who were suffocated and burned in the ruins.

PHILADELPHIA, March 7.—The house naval committee are at League Island navy yard today. The committee remain here several days. The proceedings are secret.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—The office of secretary of war has been tendered L. M. Morrill. This places Blaine in the senate for Morrill's unexpired term.

There are about 1,000 contracts for the next four years awarded on straw bids by the post-office department.

Marsh and his wife have some information about the half million claim of the Kentucky railroad. It is thought the present Mrs. Belknap, or somebody for her, received $35,000 for her influence in the case.

Evidence of Pierrepont's interference in favor of Babcock is in the hands of the judiciary committee of the house, and is almost conclusive. His impeachment is possible.

A prominent member of the house and a member of one of the investigating committees, thinks three of the members of the cabinet will be impeached.

Heister Clymer is quoted, that everything in the war department saleable Belknap sold, even wharfage privileges about Washington.

Schenck was recalled on the express demand of England. The delay in official action was to get him safely to sea.

Ex-Secretary Delano and his son John will be before the house committee for selling trading stations on the Indian reservations.

Gideon Welles will be before the naval committee Thursday to testify about the Secor claim.

This morning Representatives Clymer, Blackburn and Robbins, of N. C., members of the house committee on expenditures in the war department, appeared before the criminal court and and stated that they had been subpoened to appear before the grand jury. They denied the authority of the court to interrogate them as to the testimony of any witness before a committee of congress.

Besides they are constantly engaged in their duties as members of the committee which would make it inconvenient for them to be present. They do not wish to plead their privileges, but to enter their protest not only here but on the records of Congress of the country.

District Attorney Wells said he thought he could remove the difficulty presented, in the first place there was no motive or desire to ask any member of the committee anything as to any matter testified to by any witness before the committee; and in the second place, while appreciating the duties and engagements of the distinguished gentlemen, he thought the grand jury would sit such time as would subject the gentlemen to the least inconvenience.

GALVESTON, March 7.—A special from Brownsville, to the news, says the revolutionists under Diaz are rapidly strengthening. There is great excitement among the border families, who are seeking protection on the American side of the Rio Grande. Matamoras is said to be the objective point of Diaz.

FOREIGN.

LONDON, March 7.—The Pall Mall Gazette's Copenhagen correspondent writes that the mail from Iceland reports that the 50th inhabitants of the West Manna Islands, a group lying south of Iceland and belonging to Denmark, are actually dying of starvation. The fisheries there last year were unsuccessful and the inhabitants fearing their food would not last them throughout the winter sent to Iceland asking for supplies. Accordingly a small quantity of supplies was sent about a month ago, but a bottle was found on the coast of Iceland containing a letter, stating the supplies on hand were only adequate for one week, and famine was inevitable. The dangers attending a voyage during the winter months render communication with the West Manna Islands almost impossible.

Late arrivals from Mexico announce that country in a revolutionary condition.

A despatch in the New Orleans Republican, dated San Antonio, Texas, March 6, says Camargo has been captured by "the insurgents," and that the Mexican custom-house officials had brought to the Texas side of the Rio Grande the government funds, &c.

Secretary Belknap, who has fallen into disgrace, was born at Hudson, New York, in 1829. He was educated at Princeton. He subsequently studied law, and practiced it at Keokuk, Iowa. He was also a member of the legislature of that state in 1857—58. He was then a Democrat in politics. After the war began, he began as a major in one of the Iowa regiments. He served with courage and skill, and, step by step, he arrived at a general's command. After the war he was made a collector of internal revenue in Iowa. In 1869, he was made Secretary of War, in place of Gen. Rawlins. Now he has fallen lower down than he was when he began.

Don Carlos Issues a Manifesto.

PARIS, March 4.—Don Carlos received at Boulogne a deputation of 150 Legitimists, who presented an address.

He has issued a manifesto to Spaniards, in which he says: "Desiring to stop bloodshed, I forbear continuing a glorious but, at present, fruitless struggle. Seeing the sufferings of my volunteers and the superiority of numbers against them, it becomes necessary to sheathe the sword. I will never sign any compromise. My duty remains folded until the moment which God shall fix as the supreme hour of redemption."

In an address to his soldiers Don Carlos congratulates them on the heroism they have displayed and bids them not abandon hope.

The total number of Carlists who have taken refuge in France is 815,000.

GEORGE KETCHUM'S BENEFIT. — Next Friday evening an event is to occur that will have a marked influence on the future of the Gulf City. It is the benefit of George Ketchum, on which occasion three rousing comedies will be produced and there will be a perfect carnival of fun. Mr. Ketchum has done much to cheer up our Mobile people and if, in turn, they will give him a rousing benefit it will show that there is gratitude among us, and that will induce others to come here and enliven the multitudes.

THE WEATHER YESTERDAY.—There was a moderate rain long before midnight Monday night, but about half past two o'clock in the morning just as the report of the committee in his humble cottage, where nothing interposes to deaden the sound of the rain drops pattering on the roof down it came in torrents, and until late in the morning heavy showers continued.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

At the regular weekly meeting of the board last evening, the roll was not called till twelve minutes before eight o'clock. In the absence of President Smith, Alderman Muldon was called to the chair, on motion of Alderman O'Connell. The following members answered to their names:

The board took a recess for ten minutes.

Alderman Craft came in before the ten minutes expired, and still there were two members less than a quorum.

Just as the clock was striking eight, President Smith, who had been detained by business at the United States circuit court, came in, and still one member was wanted to make the quorum.

President Smith assumed the chair, and the roll was again called, twelve members answering to their names. There being no quorum, the board adjourned.

WALKS AROUND TOWN.

The Tonawanda from Liverpool brought 3150 sacks of salt and 10,000 bricks.

When one gets late or it is a stormy night, it is so convenient to go to the Opal and enjoy the comforts of one of Hamersen's lodging rooms. Everything about these rooms is nice.

The closing cotton quotations of the Board of Trade, yesterday were: Low ordinary 7; ordinary 8; good ordinary 9; low middling 11; middling 12; good middling 13.

The noon cotton report of the Board of Trade yesterday was: "Market quiet and firm. Declined moderate and supply light. Sales about 500 bales. Quotations unchanged." Closing report "Sales today 1800 bales. Market closed quiet and firm."

It always looks so much like business when the steamer Mary goes out, that there was a big crowd on the levee to witness her departure last evening. The roustabouts who sang her off did it to lively tunes.

The panorama of the Bible, one of the most instructive historical paintings ever unrolled, is exhibited at Odd Fellows' Hall and those who fail to see it will deprive themselves of information which every one ought to possess. Go there this evening.

Matinee every day this week at the exhibition of the panorama of the Bible at Odd Fellows' Hall. They have had crowded houses every day this week, so well. Father Ryan has visited the exhibition with orphans of the asylum and they were all mightily delighted with the panorama.

Homerson's restaurant in the Opal building, next door to the post office, is fit quarters by hosts of hungry men, who go there to enjoy the pleasures of the table which is abundantly supplied with the choicest viands. The Opal is in fact an exchange, where visitors to the city from the eastern shore and from the coast along the line of the New Orleans railroad, meet to discuss the topics of the day.

TO SMOKERS.—For something delicious in fine imported cigars call at E. Goldstucker's, who has just received 25,000 of the choicest brands.

THE LOTTERY OF LIFE.—At the theatre this evening Boughum's famous drama of "The Lottery of Life" will be produced with new scenery and appointments, introducing a new and novel specialty. The management have determined to put this drama on the stage in the most attractive manner, and as the best talent of the Academy dramatic company is cast in the play, there will be no failure to satisfy theatre goers. Box office open for the sale of reserved seats this morning and during the entire day till five o'clock.

THE FAREWELL AQUATIC EXHIBITION.—After the heavy rains of Monday night, which continued till late Tuesday morning, the sun came straggling through the clouds late yesterday morning, and there were indications that the day would be beautiful. And it was. The sky was clear, the air bracing, the sun lent its lustre to the scene. Early in the afternoon, the cars of the Bay Shore Railroad Company, running through Conception street, began to be crowded with passengers who were wending their way out to Arlington to witness the farewell aquatic exhibition of Captain Paul Boyton. The weather could not have been more favorable, and, as was predicted, the Conception street cars were crowded to their utmost capacity, and thousands of people went out on them.

Besides, there were hundreds of private carriages, which conveyed thousands of people down to see the great floater. The scene around Arlington just that immediate vicinity was lively and gay. Captain Boyton performed all his famous experiments, of which there are thirteen on his programme, in his life-saving dress, to the eminent satisfaction of those who went out there to see him, and, as nothing untoward occurred, the opinion may be ventured that he never had a more successful result with similar experiments.

Of the practical value of this life-saving suit there can be no doubt, and when it is generally adopted by sea-going travelers there will be less peril in the voyages that they make.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT.—Judge Bruce, in this court, will try today the cases on the call announced yesterday.

The "Crooked" in Alabama.

We learn that there was considera ble trouble near Ashville St. Clair county last week. The Deputy Internal Revenue Collector (a Mr. Peavy) visited Ashville with a posse of U. S. soldiers, in citizens' clothes, hunting up illicit stills. They found one about two miles from town, which was seized, but the owner fled. His brother and another man were arrested and lodged in jail at Ashville, and the premises of the distiller placed under surveillance. Towards the wee sma' hours anent the dawn, the crooked whiskey man was seen trying to enter his premises, and in attempting to escape a second time was shot and wounded. He is now a prisoner at his own house. On Thursday night the jail at Ashville was surreptitiously opened, and the prisoners escaped. The sheriff of St. Clair and a posse of citizens were in search of them on Friday and Saturday, but without success. Our informant tells us that illicit distillation is carried on to a great extent in the mountains, and it has been connived at by the Revenue officers no doubt for a consideration.—Independent, Birmingham.

BEECHER'S LAST.—Mr. Beecher will have his little joke, as will be seen in the following, which we copy from the N. Y. World of last Saturday. He would perhaps be less jocose, if he will not be bocked by a following that believed him to be a saint—rich fellows too:

Brooklyn entertained itself yesterday with a report that Mr. Beecher had died in several specified ways, some of which were apoplexy and poison. This is what he said about it to an Eagle reporter:

"Well, I suppose you've come to see me laid out. Here I am," he added, "now take a good look at me."

"To me," said the reporter, "you look the liveliest dead man I ever saw."

"Oh, don't say that," said Mr. Beecher, playfully; "you will disappoint, possibly, the wishes of my friends. I had better give you an invitation to my funeral—say on the day after to-morrow. This," he continued, turning to Mrs. Beecher, who at the moment stepped into the hallway, "this is my widow."

MOBILE DAILY TRIBUNE

It is now said that Gen. Schenck, our British ambassador, was recalled on "the express demand" of the English government. This, probably, is not true. It is not likely that a demand would have been submitted to. He is coming home, anyhow, and that will rid us of a great scandal.

The lecture of Mr. Jefferson Davis in New Orleans last Tuesday night to the "Veterans of the Mexican War" seems to have been very successful. It is a subject that he is familiar with, and the brief reports of the lecture show that he handled it with skill—nothing in it indicating any bitterness in reference to the recent war, of which he was the head and front, as President of the Confederacy.

In another place we extract an article from every interesting paper at Washington called The Capital. It relates to the recent developments of fraud in one of the highest officers of the government—Gen. Belknap, late Secretary of War.

We already know enough of it to be ashamed. Ashamed of what? Not the country, for in all respects, it is great, except what is shown in this strange crime, and scandal, of the Secretary of War—and similar crimes which make what we fondly hug as the best government in the world—a reptile.

The article we publish, we have no doubt, is a true representation of the condition of society affairs in Washington — women emulous of their associates, thinking a costly gown on one is a reason for plunging a husband into disgrace, in order to get as showy a gown. Of all ambitions this is the most pitiable, and yet this seems to be one of the reasons by which the weak Secretary fell into the commission of frauds.

We must hang wives—for they lead men into crimes, and are not responsible for them. Make them responsible. Hang or put them in jails. When they shall feel this responsibility, they will take care of their households.

Now, what is the best to be done, if the law allow no measure of this responsibility?

Well, make true men of the husbands.

The government of this country seems to be carried on by the influence of women—most of them bad ones, we have no doubt—adventurers, who desire to live in luxury. There is not enough of manly virtue at Washington to resist their temptations, and the wretched creatures there sleep on beds whose price is given by stealages.

This seems to be rude in the matter, but have not developments shown that it is true?

All the bad women flock to the capital, as vultures are attracted by a carcase.

And the creatures who are in office, give their miserable bodies to these female vultures.

And the result is lust and stealings, and the women know how to make so enamored man steal, if she have the purpose to make him do the wrong.

Shoddy.

Sophisticated. "It is almost too good to be true. It is from the Philadelphia Press: "In coming years 1876 will be noted as that date on which Philadelphia emerged from her own provincialism, from the territorial limitations of a single nation, and took her rank as the first city of her own land among the first cities of the world."

This is a "cut" at New York city, whose papers half all the other parts of the country "provinces." The word was got from the London papers, and those of the other city thought they would magnify their self-esteem by using it.

There's a difference. London has almost unlimited power. By means of its immensity, and its great wealth it controls. There the monarch dwells. There the noblesse, of immeasurable wealth, live, still such time as they choose to go to their estates in the country." England is also a unit. Every thing from India to Australia converge there. The mastery lies within that wonderfully great city.

New York is only "provincial," and, after awhile, some of the cities of the west may compete with her in population and influence. That west is full of the elements of greatness. It has any imaginable quantity of dormant wealth.

Why, even here in the South, we have this. Alabama is not a province. It is a full-grown state, and may give, after awhile, law to New York, as far as the provincial idea is concerned.

Those rich fellows and papers in the great city are insolent. Why, did they not start an elegantly printed paper immediately after the close of the war called "The Imperialist," with a legend, and a fine engraving at its head, in the shape of an imperial crown? Its purpose was to impress the people with the belief that there was no possible happiness or security for them, except by imitating the modes of Russia or Austria.

There were to be Dukes, and Earls, and Counts—and all others kinds of Noaccounts—the Duke of Shoddy; the Earl of Brass; the Count of Yardstick, &c.

There was no proposed office to represent the Duke, or Earl, or Count of the plough.

That instrument was considered good enough for the glebe, but by no means respectable enough to find a place among the silken-clad fellows, whom a true man would be tempted to kick, if they fell in his way, with insolence in their manner.

We should have no hope of keeping this thing we call a republic for any length of time, if it were not that its population is mainly composed of poor people—struggling to get a tolerable subsistence.

Wealth is power, and it is insolence in unworthy men. There is one man in a hundred who can carry grace with him in riches. Poverty to these people is to make them good—good as far as there is any goodness in them.

This, of course, is intended only as a general law. There are exceptions, and the exceptions are the gentlemen.

But, heaven knows, they are few.

We are sorry for this belief, but it is true.

This brings us back to the extract that heads this article.

That shows what Philadelphia expects as a result of the Centennial, and it proves, if the reader will think of it, how cunningly that scheme of business was devised. And by it, it is thought, the Quaker City will emerge from "provincialism," into the full blaze of the light of capitalism.

We down here in Mobile laugh at these pretensions—for our province is Alabama—a nation in itself—poor, but rich in self-respect. There is a good deal of the "shoddy" among us; but it is not a controlling element. Sensible men laugh at it, as they do at all pretension that makes itself conspicuous.

Congress.

The chief business in Congress last Tuesday was in relation to the Belknap frauds. There was evidently a disposition to cover up the scandal, but this was resisted and got rid of.

What seems a little strange is that the Attorney General, Pierrepont, is likely to be brought to task for some malfeasances. This is much alluded to in the papers—especially in the telegraph dispatches.

Whom trust? Are we going "to the dogs?"

These extraordinary events show that there must be a new "departure"—that some man, with a head on his shoulders and honesty in his heart, must clean out the Augean stable—a dirty place in ancient Greece, that needed many shovels and much fumigation.

How It Looks At It.

From the Washington Capital.]

The event [that is the fall of General Belknap] is to be regarded as a national disgrace and as a national calamity.

Turn and twist the matter as we may, there is no redeeming element, no favorable feature on which to hang a charitable hope or an apologetic construction.

General Belknap has been false to his friend, the President; false to his party, false to his country, false to the memory of an honorable father and false to the little ones, not yet old enough to realize the inestimable inheritance of an honest name.

An event that lends no ray of consolation to the warm hearts of personal friends, and which disarms the vindictiveness of political enemies, may at least afford the one good cause of pointing a moral.

This sale of a birthright for a mess of pottage may be traced to the love of extravagant display which possesses the society of the capital with a hold as powerful as that which the seven devils had upon Mary Magdalen. We have become so familiar with the signs of wealth in all official quarters that inquiry into the means whereby those riches are obtained is not made. We know that the day of miracles is over, yet silently acquiesce in the exhibition of Lydian wealth on the part of public servants whose salaries can neither purchase nor justify anything more than dignified and democratic simplicity.

Ill-gotten and well-gotten wealth have usurped the leadership of society, and a once conservative respectability, based on moral qualities, intellectual traits and inherited name, has yielded to the influence of the hour.

The social aspect suggests a semi-barbarous feast, where the tables groan with vulgar redundancy and good taste and utility are postponed to disgusting display.

We do not believe that wives and daughters realize in the slightest degree how much their pitiful ambition for display contributes to the dishonoring of husbands and fathers and to the debasing of the moral tone of society.

It is customary, we are informed, for a society woman to dazzle, not by her beauty or conversation, but by the quality of her dress and the value of her jewels, and that a costume is not remarked upon as being in good taste and becoming, but as having cost so many hundred dollars.

We trust that sober second thought that virtue will lead to a reformation before necessity compels one, and that poor women will prefer to retire from the whirlpool of death rather than to tempt men to deeds which must cousign them to the penitentiary, the contempt of the honorable, and the pity of the charitable.

One thing is certain, the last straw has been put on the camel's back. In the future, extravagance will be scrutinized with suspicion, display regarded as the badge of assured vulgarity and possible fraud, and moderation be respected for its integrity.

The Governor has appointed George W. Stone associate justice of the Supreme Court in place of Mr. Judge deceased. The gentleman has a high reputation both for legal learning and integrity.

The Louisville and Pensacola railroad was sold last Monday at Pensacola, under an execution. It was bought by a citizen of New Orleans —J. W. Black.

TELEGRAPH

DOMESTIC.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 8.—Wm. Mitchell, of Troy, was drowned with some ladies whom he was attempting to rescue.

NEW YORK, March 8.—In the municipal elections yesterday the republicans carried Rochester, Cohoes, Ithaca and Auburn; and the democrats, Newburg, Oswego, Elmira and Utica.

S. T. & A. T. Meyer, real-estate operators, failed. The real estate on hand is over one million of dollars, and the liabilities reach that sum.

CHICAGO, March 8.—Last night a fire in Nos. 165 and 107 South Water street, owned by Judge Skinner and occupied by a number of commission firms, completely destroyed the inside with contents. Among the losers are Wm. Little & Sons; E. C. Reichwald; Fordham & Co.; Wayne & Lowe; and McCloy & Tucker. Loss $85,000.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Ex-United States Detective Nettleship has made a clear breast of the details of the district safe burglar conspiracy, notwithstanding the pressure brought to bear to prevent his doing so.

Today at noon Major Richards, chief of police, made a formal arrest of Belknap and brought him into the police court. Belknap was accompanied by his counsel, ex-Senator Carpenter, who said they waived examination and were prepared to give bail for Belknap's appearance before court. Judge Snell fixed the amount of bail at $25,000.

Mr. Belknap showed by his movements during the short time he was in the court room that he was much depressed in spirits, covering his face with his hand and sighing deeply.

In the senate Mr. Bayard introduced a bill to authorize the secretary of the treasury to appropriate certain bills incurred by the direct tax commissioners. Referred to the committee on finance.

In the house Mr. Forman of Florida, is making a personal explanation. He accuses his accuser of swindling negroes while an agent of the Freedman's Bureau and Freedman's Bank.

The six-election committee reported that a majority of them agree upon facts which, if accepted by the committee, will result in a report to the house favorable to Finlay as against Wall, the sitting member from Florida.

It is stated that the recusant witness, Jacobs, has succumbed. His evidence, it is said, touches Secretary Robeson, ex-Senator Cattell and S. P. Brown damagingly.

Marshall O. Roberts was before the judiciary committee on the El Paso Railroad and his evidence is a general denial of Fremont's vagaries.

FOREIGN.

LONDON, March 8.—The Hour says that Schenck's quitting England without taking leave of the Queen is unprecedented.

The Co-operative Bank, limited, failed. Cash assets 25 cents.

The Liverpool Courier says that Charles Brent, travelling under the name of Clarence Elders, was arrested on board the steamship City of Richmond when she arrived at Queenstown day before yesterday morning. He is charged with forging 15,000 dollars' worth of bills on the Falls City Tobacco Bank of Louisville, Ky. Upon searching him a considerable sum of money and paper was found upon his person. He was brought before a magistrate no Queenstown yesterday, and after a short examination ordered to be sent to London preparatory to extradition.

The News says the appointment of Richard H. Dana as American minister to the court of St. James is one of the most acceptable that could be suggested. It revives old traditions of honoring men of letters with important positions. Mr. Dana will be welcome here on many accounts, and the appointment seems to indicate a return to a healthier sense of public duty in the distribution of posts.

VIENNA, March 8.—Horrible accounts of Turkish atrocities continue to come from Bosnia.

Anna Dickinson, in a late lecture out West, asked three times in succession, with great emphasis, and a long pause every time the question was put: "Why was I born?" The silence became painful until a news boy in the gallery responded "Dunno I give it up." It brough down the house.

Southern vegetables and fruits have made their appearance in New York market. On the 1st inst. cucumbers were sold there at $5@6 ₱ dozen, lettuce at 50@75c. ₱ dozen, and strawberries at $4@5 ₱ quart.

Nothing is calculated to make a young man more deliberate than the spectacle of seventeen pairs of striped stockings hanging on the clothesline of a house where there is only one young lady in the family.

Mrs. Mitchell and her daughter are conducting a revival in Montreal. The girl is about twenty years old, and the newspapers of that city say that many of the converts are young men.

It is said the wealthy people of New York are quite carried away with the new style of gold-mounted coffins.

March came in like a lamb; and the New Orleans Republican says, "let us have peace." Why, we've had them ever so long. Peace is not only possible among the politicians.

The last nomination for the Presidency: Capt. Eads, of jetty fame. The Scientific (N. Y.) American suspicions it. It ought to know how to make crooked things straight.

A goose, last Tuesday, with a $1000 in his pocket, entered a "Bienville street den," New Orleans, and came out of it without a nickle. Isn't that strange? He asked the police to find it; but so far, they have no been successful. A young woman of the house had been interviewed, but not a cent had been found. She had her chemise on at the time and was as innocent as Mary's little lamb.

Theatre.

The play last night—"The Lottery of Life"—was excellently put on the stage. It is a very interesting piece, and will be repeated to-night. The whole strength of the company was engaged in it—numbering more than twenty persons—seven of them ladies, and all of them worth looking at, without reference to their dramatic skill. Ketchum was there too, and, of course, some fun came with him.

MOBILE DAILY TRIBUNE

LOCAL NEWS.

LOTTERY OF LIFE.—At the theatre this evening, Brougham's "Lottery of Life" will be produced. The merits of the play, and the manner in which it is put on the stage, ought to bring out an immense house. Box office open all day for the sale of reserved seats.

KETCHUM'S BENEFIT.—The event of the week will occur tomorrow night, when George Ketchum's benefit will take place. On that occasion, three roaring comedies will be produced, "Bill in a China Shop," "On the Shell Road" and "Seeing Ketchum." There will be no extra charge for seats, notwithstanding the extraordinary attractions that will then be presented. Box office open all day for the sale of reserved seats, on the principle of the first come, first served. Let everybody see Ketchum.

THE DIAMOND RESTAURANT.—Another business man is added to the ranks of Mobile, who invests capital here to engage in an enterprise of a class that pays. We allude to Mr. W. F. Barnes, a brother of the late Dr. Barnes, who has purchased the Diamond Restaurant and lodging rooms, No. 7 North Royal street, long and successfully managed by Mr. A. Dacovich. Mr. Barnes has fortunately secured the services of Mr. John F. Lenaghen, favorably known in Mobile as one of the best caterers in the city, and the Diamond will be under his immediate management. Single meals, or board by the day, week or month, and pleasant lodging rooms.

OIL CHROMOS AND PAINTINGS.—We call the attention of our readers to a very superior collection of oil chromos and paintings, which has just been opened at No. 29 Dauphin street. The collection, we think, is the finest ever exhibited in this city. The frames are very elegant and costly, and of the latest styles in the market.

The entire collection is to be sold at auction to the highest bidder, regardless of cost, commencing at 7½ o'clock this evening. Lovers of art will do well to be on hand, as there will doubtless be great bargains.

All are invited—particularly the ladies—to call today and examine the pictures and picture-antiques, from which selections may be made.

THE WEATHER YESTERDAY.—There was a sudden fall of the temperature from 70 at 2:51 o'clock Tuesday afternoon to midnight, when it was down to about 48. These sudden changes have a tendency to break down men who are not blessed with iron constitutions. The wind blew only 3 miles an hour at Mobile yesterday morning at 6:51 o'clock, and 10 at New Orleans. The temperature at Mobile was 48, highest 72 at Key West, lowest 54 at Augusta.

At 3:51 last evening the wind blew 19 miles an hour at Corsicana, 16 at Indianola and 6 at Mobile. The temperature was at Key West 75, Cuthbert 75 (a change of 20 degrees since morning) Indianola 73, Galveston 70, Augusta and Savannah 67, New Orleans 66, Mobile 64, Montgomery 63.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT.—In this court yesterday, Judge Bruce presiding, several cases on the docket were continued. Today the cases not otherwise disposed of, will be taken up, according to the list already published.

The following cases were disposed of yesterday:

United States vs Gustave Von Eelcop. Fined $10 and costs for violation of the revenue laws.

United States vs Hesse & Co. Unstamped checks. Settled by payment of $50 and costs.

United States vs Jno. Winters. Not pros entered.

Moses S. Foote vs James H. Allen. Verdict for plaintiff, $60. It was the case of a desk and clock sold at auction by the internal revenue collector, as a part of the property of the Deposit Savings Association, and bought by Mr. Allen.

MONTHLY WEATHER STATISTICS.—Dr. O'Donoghue, sergeant of the signal service here, sends to the Tribune a table showing the monthly and daily means of barometer and thermometer, monthly velocity of wind, and amount of rainfall, with the prevailing direction of the wind for the month of February.

The highest barometer 30 521 at 6:51 a. m. of the 5th. Lowest barometer 29.787 at 2:51 p. m., of the 14th. Monthly range of barometer .734.

Highest temperature 75, on the 28th. Lowest temperature 23, on the 2nd. Monthly range of temperature 47. Greatest daily range of temperature 26, on the 1st and 20th. Mean of maximum temperature 63.62. Mean of minimum temperature 42.33. Mean daily range of temperature 15.29.

Total rainfall 4.32 inches.

Total number of miles traveled 3936.

Maximum velocity of wind 27 miles per hon on the 2nd.

Number of cloudy days other than the on which rain fell 7, fair days 5, clear days 6.

Names of days on which rain fell 11.

WALKS AROUND TOWN.

A beautiful moonlight night and yet a good many people in Mobile were not happy last night.

L. E. Brooks will sell today at half past nine, o'clock, furniture, groceries, crockery, glassware, dry goods, etc.

Attention is called to the advertisement of a cottage house and twelve acres of land for sale or exchange for city property.

The panorama of the Bible unrolls its nine thousand feet of canvass at Odd Fellows' Hall every day and evening. Do not fail to attend it this week.

In the cargo of the schooner Frank Atkins from New York there are 6655 marble tomb stones, 66 barrels guano, 848 barrels fertilizers and 184 bales of hay.

No wonder people shivered yesterday morning, when there was a fall in the temperature from 70 at 3:51 Tuesday afternoon to 48 at 6:51 yesterday morning.

The Government street Presbyterian Church was thronged yesterday and last evening to hear the revivalists, Whitefield and Bliss. They are creating a renewed interest in religious topics.

On motion of District Attorney Dusenbury, Mr. J. J. Osborne was yesterday appointed United States commissioner by Judge Bruce, of the United States district court.

According to the Board of Trade reports, the cotton receipts yesterday at all ports were 15,453 bales: New Orleans 9,119, Galveston 1,152, Norfolk 1,132, Savannah 884, Charleston 649, Mobile 320.

Bark Scotland from Boston brought 600 tons of ice to Gage & Hurtel. This is the third cargo received by this firm within a week. It does not look as though the New England ice crop is entirely cut off.

The closing cotton quotations of the Board of Trade, yesterday were: Low ordinary 7¼; ordinary 8¦; good ordinary 9¦; low middling 11¦@11¦; middling 12¦; good middling 13.

The noon cotton report of the Board of Trade yesterday was: Market quiet steady and unchanged. Good demand. Offerings light. Sales about 500 bales." Closing report: "Sales today 1500 bales. Market quiet. Fair demand. Supply on sale light."

On the first page of the Tribune this morning will be found an unusually interesting letter from our Washington correspondent. It gives an idea of the necessities which compelled Secretary Belknap to handle more money for his current expenses than his salary of $8000 a year.

By request of many citizens, Captain Paul Boyton has consented to remain here a few days longer, and he will probably give other aquatic exhibitions, the time and place of which will be made known through the columns of the Tribune. As thousands were unable to attend last Tuesday, it is certainly to be hoped that he will give other exhibitions at the same place or somewhere in that vicinity.

DESERVED COMPLIMENT.—The jury, of the United States court, of which Owen Farley was foreman, having been discharged from further service, which has been long and arduous, addressed to Judge Bruce the subjoined deservedly complimentary communication, closing with an expression of their individual and collective wish that happiness and prosperity may attend him through life.

They also record their testimony to the zeal and energy with which District Attorney Duskin has labored in the interest of the government.

This is the testimonial, signed by the jurors whose names are appended:

To Hon. John Bruce, judge of the United States district court, for the southern district of Alabama:

Sir: The jury having been discharged from further service, feel that it would be improper to leave them to separate without an expression of their appreciation of your honor's charges to us, and of your courtesy during our weeks of service as jurors.

We sever our official connection with your honor, with the individual and collective wish that happiness and prosperity may attend you through life.

Before this connection we beg to record our testimony to the zeal and energy with which the honorable Geo. M. Duskin, United States district attorney, has labored in the interest of the government.

The signatures are those of Henry Norbring, Spencer Allan, Theo. Guesnard, R. C. Sar, C. Perez, H. F. Acker, F.W. Heimstag, S. B. Quigley, Robert McClarin, Geo. B. Clitherall, Robert Europe and Owen Farley foreman.

Selling off to close business, all of our best calfcos at 8 cents a yard at retail, and all other dry goods at prices to insure their immediate sale. Store for sale.

RIVER NEWS.

It was not until nearly seven o'clock last evening that freight for the Emma No. 2 of Frank Stone's Grange Line, ceased offering. She went out with a handsome cargo and several passengers, for Tuskaloosa and intermediate landings. Captain Gunnison was happy.

The W. S. Holt, Captain Whiteside, arrived last evening at six o'clock from Columbus, with eleven passengers, 233 bales of cotton, 52 sacks of cotton seed, and a short list of sundries.

The little iron steamer Bandy Moore, Captain James G. Stewart, of Central Line No. 2, arrived between ten and eleven o'clock last night, from Pickensville, with fourteen cabin passengers, 214 bales of cotton, and a small miscellaneous freight. The Bandy Moore will go out tomorrow evening on her regular Friday trip.

The officers of the Bandy Moore report the river low and falling.

No steamer is expected in today.

The elegant little steamer W. S Holt, of Central Line No. 2, with Captain G. H. Whiteside on the roof and Mr. Virgil Powers in the office, will back out this evening at five o'clock for Columbus. The Holt has excellent accomodations for a few passengers and can get away with a big freight. For freight or passage apply on board.

MADAME LE VERT.—The Savannah Daily Record, of the 25th ultimo, contains a report of Madame Le Vert's entertainment the previous evening in the senate chamber, which will be read with some interest by Alabamians. Says the Record:

The inclemency of the weather prevented a large attendance. The audience was, however, of respectable numbers and excellent character. Lieutenant Governor Johnson presided for the lady beautifully and with a complimentary speech, introduced Madame Le Vert, of whom an extended sketch appeared in this paper yesterday, as an authoress of high repute. She is short of stature, rather heavy set, a well-preserved woman, and though fast approaching a century, does not use glasses, and has few gray hairs in her still abundant braids. She is at ease on the platform, and appears there to good advantage. She has a smiling and expressive countenance, and a resolute but kindly eye. Her rather full features of red complexion and facial expression in keeping with the words she utters. In her reading there is considerable formalism, accompanied with much gesticulation, though none ungraceful. Her delivery is fervid, her tones known to be expected of one of her years, marked by peculiar, precise and positive emphasis on each word. Her voice is very often thrill, and throughout all there was a clear vein of perdurable pride as the speaker told of the days of statesmanship and of scenes in which she moved at the nation's capital, when Jackson was president, Clay, Webster, Calhoun and Crittenden and such men graced congressional halls. The auditors listened with the deepest attention, and personal descriptions of distinguished Americans of a past period, which, coming from a distinguished person, were clear cut word-pictures, strongly colored, and accompanied by close and concise analysis of the eloquence and mental powers of those eminent men of the early years of the country.

Madame Le Vert then related "An Episode" in her early life. Traveling in a coach in a thinly-settled part of Alabama, with her parents, she gave interest to the enthusiasm of a young girl at the romantic scenery. Her father spoke gaily to a fellow passenger for her entertaince. The stranger answered, "Do not check her; enthusiasm is a gift of God;" and then he began in eloquent terms to tell of scenes he had gazed upon and lands he had visited, dwelling alternately on the majesty of the wilds of the west, and the splendors of the highest civilization. The girl's fancy was all aflame, and her love of the beautiful up in arms. She led the stranger to speak of foreign lands, and at last of Spain, until, forgetting himself, he declaimed of scenes and legends in words which disclosed to her his identity, and the girl, clapping her hands, cried, "You are Washington Irving." They made a conveyant of friendship then, which was close and warm to the day of his death. He description of this episode, and the last days of Irving, was very touching and natural. Madam Le Vert then read her sketch, "Scenes in Baden Baden." It was a running account and an interesting story of the habitues and consequences of that great gambling field, as it was when at the hight of its glory, thirty years ago. This closed the literary entertainment, the interest of which was about equally divided between the desire to see the distinguished authoress, and the pleasure given by her literary efforts of last evening.

CIRCUIT COURT.—This court, Judge Toulmin on the bench, will hold a session today, when cases will be fixed for trial for the next three weeks.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT.—The cases not disposed of, on the docket, will will be taken up today by Judge Bruce.

MAYOR'S COURT.—In this court yesterday morning, Alderman Muldon presiding, Daniel Doyle for assaulting Louis Martin and raising a row in his barroom, was fined $5. John Henderson, drunk and disturbing the peace, was fined $5.

The "Active Girl" of Miss Lizzie Wheelen, the new and attractive star at the Mobile Varieties, is one of the most bewitching productions ever listened to and seen on that stage. It draws and she draws.

PLANTING POTATOES.—Peerless, early rose, peach blow, Chili, Red and russet in store and for sale low by Owen Farley, 64, 66, 68, 70 and 72 Government street.

married and dearly loved by all who know her, so it is not quite necessary to be distinct. There is only this fact. Where social position and dignity are a matter of heritage; where the signet of refinement and honor is legibly written and the consciousness of their possession innate, there is very little thought given to outward assertion or pre-eminence. In carrying out our beloved republicanism we are too apt to forget this; we like to sneer at the old phrase "noblesse oblige;" we like to assert that one man is as good as another, if not a little better, till some day when we have exalted our pet ideas into practical demonstration, we find the demonstration trembling before us. Well, we are waiting now to see "What next?" and the "next" is very likely to be the official beheading of at least one more Cabinet minister. The President certainly finds himself in a most disagreeable position, where other men would be in despair. There is a sort of poetic justice in the fact that all this disaster occurred on Ash Wednesday when sackcloth and ashes are in order, and that Mrs. Belknap queened it to the very last. The President declares he has never had a suspicion of the Secretary's integrity, and that when he accepted his resignation he had no idea of any crime in connection with the sudden resignation!

Isn't that a little odd, or is Mr. Grant obtuse when he wants to be? He has been in the most intimate personal relations with his Cabinet officers; he knows their salaries and he ought to know something of their private incomes. Has it never occurred to him to inquire how a splendid establishment and Parisian toilette could be sustained "without visible means of support?"

Said a prominent Republican yesterday, "Well! we might as well let the Democrats run the country awhile; they could scarcely make a worse scene of blunders than we have made!"

Oh! this miserable strife of party! If Americans would only realize the grandeur of being American citizens, if they would only aim to put before the world in prominent places our best men, how proud we might be. Surely in these days, when the old issues are so nearly obliterated, there need not be such bitter partisanship.

You see, I can neither think nor write of anything but the one subject, which has possessed us all, and, indeed, there has been little else of public interest. The Hawaiian Treaty is being discussed, but nobody cares much. Fernando Wood began making a speech in its favor on Thursday, which will be memorable, not for its subject matter, but because he was interrupted by the necessity of hearing the Committee's report upon the case of Mr. Belknap. That fact will live in history, so Mr. Wood's remarks will also survive. Pinchback is again before the Senate. That case reminds me of the old woman, who always kept knitting work about, because it's so handy to take up when there's nothing else demanding attention, and the Senate took "Pinch," very much in the same way.

Mr. Brewer's Protest.

Mr. Speaker: In the exercises of my constitutional right, I hereby solemnly protest against the passage of the bill to be entitled an act to close the accounts and settle the contracts made by the Board for the improvement of the river, harbor and bay of Mobile, and present the following reasons for this action on my part.

This act proposes to impose on the County of Mobile a debt never authorized or sanctioned by its corporate authorities, or by the citizens of said county. What power has the Legislature to impose such a burden on the county of Mobile, against its will?

We concede the general principle that counties are parts of the frame work of the State, and that county organizations are parts of the municipal government of the State, and that they are subject to the control of the Legislature in the legitimate purposes of local government. But we deny that the General Assembly of Alabama has any constitutional power to impose upon the County of Mobile the burden contemplated by this bill.

The rights, or supposed rights of the parties for whose benefit this burden is to be imposed, have been adjudicated by the courts. The Supreme Court of Alabama at the present term have decided that these parties have no rights against the County of Mobile.

The judicial department of the State Government, with proper parties before it, and on evidence produced by the parties, appropriately determines the rights and remedies of litigants. To this tribunal, these parties, the county of Mobile and those persons to be benefitted by the provisions of this bill, have submitted their case; and by the solemn adjudication of this tribunal, the highest in Alabama, it has been deliberately determined, that the county of Mobile does not and never did owe these persons the debt, for the payment of which this bill provides. This bill then creates in these persons a right against the county of Mobile, which the Supreme Court decided had no foundation in fact or law.

This General Assembly, therefore, are not only by this bill imposing a debt on the county of Mobile, against the will of its citizens, without the consent of the taxpayers, and against the protest of its corporate authorities, but it is undertaking to reverse and set aside the judgment of the Supreme Court, in a matter over which the Supreme Court had exclusive jurisdiction. That such an act is beyond the constitutional powers of this Legislature, I assert on the authority of the highest jurist of the land.

Judge Cooley who, by his recent work on Constitutional Limitations, has placed himself in the rank with Marshall, Kent, Story and Taney, has discussed this question with calmness and consummate ability. He after a careful examination of all the American authorities, laid it down as a fundamental principle that "the legislature has no power, against the will of a municipal corporation, to compel it to contract debts for local purposes * * * or to assume obligations not within the ordinary functions of municipal government; such matters are to be disposed of, in view of the interests of the corporators exclusively, and they have the same right to determine them for themselves which the associates in private corporations have to determine for themselves; the questions which arise for their corporate action. The State in such cases may remove restrictions and permit action, but it cannot compel it." See Cooley on Const. Limt., page 230. On page 235 he says: "and to hold that the Legislature may go further, and authorize its power to control the taxation of the political divisions and organizations of the State, compel them, without the consent of their citizens, to raise money for such or any unusual purposes, or to contract debts, therefore, seems to us to be introducing new principles into our system of local self-government, not to be sanctioned by a construction of power, not within the contemplation of the makers of the American Constitution. We think, when any such forced taxation is levied by the municipal organizations it will be very difficult to defend it as a proper exercise of Legislative authority in a Government whose power is distributed on the principles which prevail here."

To the same effect, see what Judge Breese says in People vs. Mayor of Chicago, 51 Ill. Reports, 17.

Many other authorities might be cited to the same effect, but it is unnecessary.

But this enactment, in the opinion of the undersigned, violates the spirit, if not the letter, of section 55, article 4 of our Constitution, which declares that the General Assembly shall have no power to authorize any county, city, town, or other subdivision of this State, to lend its credit, or to grant public money or things of value in aid of, or to any individual, association or corporation whatsoever, or to become a stockholder in any such corporation, association or company, by issuing bonds, or otherwise.

This enactment not only authorizes, but compels, against the will of the people and of the corporate authorities thereof, the county of Mobile to assume a liability for the benefit of individuals never incurred by it.

I respectfully submit that it violates both the letter and the spirit of the 23rd section of the 4th article of the Constitution, which is in the following language: "No special or local law shall be enacted for the benefit of individuals or corporations in cases which are, or can be, provided for by a general law, or where the relief sought can be given by any court of the State."

In the case of Mobile county vs. Kimball & Slaughter, decided at the December Term, 1875, of our Supreme Court, the mode and manner of the relief to which this court is entitled by this act are entitled are pointed out; and the relief to which they are entitled can be had in the courts against the party with which their contract was made, to-wit: the Harbor Board, and to which, both legally and equitably, they must look for relief. In the same case it is expressly decided that these parties have no right to any relief against the county of Mobile.

This bill violates that clause of our Constitution, section 2 article 4, which declares that each law shall contain but one subject, which shall be clearly expressed in its title. The title to this bill is "an act to close accounts and settle the contracts made by the Board for the improvement of the river, harbor and Bay of Mobile," whilst the subject, purpose and object of the act is to impose on the county of Mobile a debt which it never contracted, and for the payment of which the Supreme Court has decided, it never has been and it is not now liable.

Also, sec. 56, article 4, and several other clauses of our Constitution, the spirit of which this enactment violates, would be cited but it is unnecessary to particularize them; what I have said is sufficient to show the solid ground of my opposition to the law and for this my protest.

I therefor feel constrained by a sense of public duty, and by my obligations to the Constitution, and my responsibility to my constituents, whose rights have been wholly disregarded and stricken down, to enter this my solemn protest against said enactment; and I respectfully ask that the same shall be recorded on the Journals of this House.

MOBILE DAILY TRIBUNE

FRIDAY,.....March 10,1876.

Envy.

The Montgomery Bulletin is trying to make its readers believe that there was something or a Mardi Gras display in its village, and nothing of the kind in this great city. In small places like that, an organ-grinder will make a sensation.

The adjournment of the Legislature will reduce the population about one-half.

The former observed the size of the latter, and began to blow itself up, in its envious ambition.

The result—the thing bursted, and the ox went on its way, with tears of pity running down its innocent nose.

That ox is we!! If the editor of the Bulletin come to Mobile, we'll show him ever so many things that he has never seen—among them, more pretty girls than he has ever dreamed of—about as many as would double the population of what is, in derision, called the Capital. Pa!!!

Mr. Brewer's Protest.

In this morning's paper will be found an interesting protest of Hon. L. Brewer to a proposition to tax this county of Mobile for a service that ought to be paid for by the state.

The improvement of the harbor leading to this city is not a local business. It concerns the whole state. There is no harbor within the state except this.

Mobile pays a very large amount of taxes for the state's uses. It de, serves regard for that reason.

There are people in the interior—and influential people too—who believe that here we dress in Genoa velvets, and drink nothing but the finest wines—people who think that there is gold to be picked up anywhere on our streets: in short, that Mobile is paved with gold.

This is a delusion—for there is not one in a hundred of our citizens who would not desiderate a farm, with chickens—of course eggs—and the little pigs running about everywhere—splendid for roasters.

They had better stay where they are—for the struggle for subsistance in cities requires skill, and a kind of skill which few men bred in the country have.

Here in Mobile we have a population exceeding forty thousand.

Many of this great number are good for—nothing; and yet, not having been bred to any industry, they would be of service at the handle of a plough—if they had learned how to hold it.

And they won't learn.

Why?

Simply, because they have no energetic manhood.

This is the only answer that we know how to make to the question.

But, to come back, referring to Mr. Brewer's protest. It is a well-written paper—lacking only one thing: that is to show that, no matter where the cost was put in this harbor matter—it was money thrown away.

It served some purpose of maintainance of those who were engaged in it—gave them, perhaps, luxuries. If to them they had a right by due service no one has a right to complain.

All the cost of this inconsequential and detrimental work is due by the state, and we are certain that this county has a right to put it off—get rid of the nuisance at once—resolve to have nothing to do with it—feeling no sort of responsibility for it.

This is our notion. Of course, it may be a wrong one. We are open to conviction in respect of it.

Mr. Pinchback.

According to the despatches from Washington, the defeat of Pinchback in the U. S. Senate has the "struck terror to the souls" of some of the partisans. Five Republicans, we called—namely, Christiancy, Edmunds, Morrill, of Vermont, Morrill, of Maine, and Paddock, voted with the Democrats. The vote was 32 and 29. The first of the members named has not been en rapport with the Republican party. He was considered to be what is called an "independent." The business is settled. That is some consolation, for it kept the public mind in suspense, and its constant appearance in the senate cost the country some dollars.

At best, it was not of the slightest importance—for Pinchback could not have controlled the country, if he had been admitted. He would have been only a cypher, with one vote—purchasable, probably.

It was thought that the contestant in the matter, Mr. Eustis, would be seated.

The thing now to do—as is the custom—is to pay the expenses that Mr. P. has been put to. That will come out of the general treasury.

We do not pay for it! Of course not.

What an "Old Man" Says.

"An Old Man" gives in a brief communication this morning, his knowledge or some of the eminent personages who owe the public ten or twenty years of penitentiary service.

"The Old Man" is a keen judge of human nature; but—notwithstanding great goodness of heart — is inclined to look with suspicion on all persons accused of crime. Well, that is proper, but he knows that an accusation is not proof.

He has made this the study of a long life; and, perhaps, is familiar by his profession with the dark side of human nature. Lawyers, generally, know only this dark side; for those who are on the other side rarely have a necessity to consult lawyers, except in defence of the wrong meditated against innocency on the white side; but they may see both sides. That is what is necessary for defence against wrong; and in this experience they acquire a knowledge which they must get, and this knowledge engenders distrust; and if a legal gentleman has no philosophy enough to make proper distinctions, it is likely that he will come to the sad conclusion that all men are rogues.

This were to fly in the face of all that is respectable among men.

We shall not believe it until the proof be furnished.

There is a little versicle that may come in here. Thus:

"Tis better to have loved and lost,
Than not to have loved at all."

This in relation to women, but it may be applied to men—that is men on a higher plane than that of a mountebank, whose business in life is to get a luxurious support at the cost of any innocent, credulous person who can be victimized.

Better believe, or hope forf what is good than for what is evil.

By this sort of belief one may suffer; but then he may wrap the drapery of his couch (coffin) about him and lie down to pleasant dreams.

It is a good thing to be honest—not profitable, perhaps, but good for one when he lies down, and goes to sleep, and can wake up above the reach of the "politic worms."

This, however, is sentiment, and that is what does not become a daily newspaper.

Party prejudice cannot give us distrust. We want to believe. Unbelief is just exactly what is making smart fools conspicuous. We have an aversion to them, and shall try to keep out of their company.

But, to come back to the communication of "An Old Man." In his diagnosis of the President, we have no doubt that he is right. The President is an inexperienced man, and in a wrong place, and has his friendships, and is ready to sacrifice for them what ought to be given to the country, whose great representative he is.

Now, it is impossible to recreate a man. Even the Supreme Court can't do that. Well, then, what is to be done? Why, find some individual of skill in these matters of civil life to take his place. Give him the command of the armies, and let Sherman, and Sheridan, and people of that kind find subordinate positions. To do this may not be possible, but it is desirable.

As we have stated, we have seen no reason to believe that General Schenck is not trust-worthy. He may be a fool, but it is got to be shown that he is a knave. Babcock is just in the same condition. Belknap is a self-convicted rogue. Let him be punished as the proper court may decide.

This Belknap business is very painful to those of us who love the country.

Mr. Clymer, of Pennsylvania, who had been a fellow-student of the culprit, by his position was obliged to make the charges that brought his derelictions before the U. S. Congress. He did his work with much anguish, for the tears fell from him in the performance of his painful duty, but he did it like a true man, and deserves respect for the manner in which he did it.

EDITOR OF THE TRIBUNE:—I have seen your comments on Grant and Belknap. Will you permit a subscriber—an old man—to suggest this to you?

Grant, as an individual is honest, (I mean simply honest.) He is vain, and will listen to those who flead him, and every one that professes friendship for him, or will tell him he is greater than Washington, Frederick the Great, or Napoleon, he believes are not only his friends, but men above all suspicion, therefore they have his full confidence. Hence, Mr. Schenck who has disgraced us abroad, Mr. Belknap, who has disgraced us at home; besides the multitudes of little thieves, who have robbed the people of our own country. Without, therefore, attributing mean dishonesty to him, I attribute utter incompetency to him, for the duties he is appointed to perform.

AN OLD MAN.

A Bill has been introduced into the California Senate which provides that "all original articles or correspondence hereafter appearing in any newspaper or serial" published in, that State, "shall be printed in said newspaper or serial with the full oral name of the author of each article or correspondence," etc.

We extract the following from a Washington letter:

The Alabama members are all working men. I found each of them the other evening in his room engaged in answering communications of his constituents. All of them complained that the Agricultural Department failed to furnish them with a sufficient quantity of seed to send to those who had written to them. Each of them is upon some standing or special committee and all are kept constantly busy. Mr. Caldwell obtained quite a victory the other day by securing the passage of a bill granting the extension of a patent for a dredge to a Mobile Company. The House had virtually defeated the bill, but, through the endeavors of Mr. Caldwell, it reversed its action and passed the bill.

The dredge alluded to above is the same that was patented in 1854 by Chas. H. Fonde and Thomas B. Lyons. This patent was renewed at its expiration for seven years, and the bill grants an extension again for seven years.

The patent right is owned by the United States Dredging Company, the stockholders being the original patentees, with several more of our citizens, and some wealthy gentleman of New York city.

They have built a dredge in Baltimore, at a cost of $50,000, which will probably be put to work in a few weeks.

An account of the trial exhibition of the dredge was given in this paper some weeks ago, which was taken from a Baltimore paper.

NORWICH, Conn., March 9.—A fire at Danielsonville, Conn., destroyed the freight depot of the Norwich and Worcester Railroad, passenger station, and block, including the postoffice, telegraph office, H. E. Tillinghast & Co's store and the meat market; loss not estimated. The railroad company lose only the freight depot and contents.

NEW YORK, March 9.—Rum thieves John Lowry and Chas. Meyers were sentenced to fifteen years hard labor.

Senor Josef Olgeods, an eminent Spanish gentleman, who had resided twenty-five years in Cuba, drew $25,000 from his banking-house, when he was arrested by a man showing a star. Olgeods' companion ran to the Spanish Consul, but the search for Olgeods since has been in vain. The object of the abduction is supposed to be money not political.

The Herald's special from London says; "On the highest authority I can say there is no foundation for the statement that the British government has demanded General Schenck's immediate recall. The government never even intimated a wish for his recall.

A special dispatch says that about the time the Indians drove off the horses at Custar City, Wyoming, on the 4th, an emigrant train, near Pleasant Valley was attacked. Every able-bodied man in that section has been enrolled, and a mounted party of sixty whites started at once in pursuit of the redskins, who retreated in the direction of the Red Cloud agency. There is great excitement, and trouble is anticipated all through the Black Hills.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—Rumors are that it was Wolf, not Jacobs, the witness before the naval committee, who testified that S. P. Brown paid two navy department clerks five thousand dollars for altering figures.

The naval committee have sent for ex-Senator Cattell.

There is a connection between Congressman Hays, of Alabama, a check for three thousand dollars and a cadetship.

The evidence of Wolf does not implicate Secretary Robeson or any of his family.

The senate, during this morning passed a number of bills on the calendar which were not objected to.

Mr. Ferry, the president pro tem, of the senate, has caused the doorkeepers to be notified that Pinchback is no longer entitled to the privilege of the floor of the senate. This action is thought harsh and hasty, especially as the case may come up to-day on a motion to reconsider.

The election committee, with three dissenting votes, have decided to report in favor of seating Finley, who contests Wall's seat from Florida. Wall is colored.

The Spencer vs. Morey case, from Louisiana, has been referred to a sub-committee, consisting of Beebe, House and Wells.

CINCINNATI, March 9.—A fire at Kenton, Ohio, last evening, destroyed $25,000 worth of property.

NEW ALBANY, Ind., March 9.—A fire broke out in Depaw College. Loss $15,000. About 1,000 female student stampeded but none were hurt.

FOREIGN.

BRISTOL, March 9.—The steamship Somerset, from New York, landed the crew of the bark Columbine from Pensacola for Greenock, which was abandoned in a sinking condition.

LONDON, March 9.—A telegram from Citigie says the insurgents under Peko and Socicca attacked the Turks Monday at Muratoizza. The Turks lost 800 men and horses, besides ammunition and cannon.

PARIS, March 9.—The inhabitants of Ajaccio made a demonstration over Rouher's election, shouting "Vive l'Empereur," when the military dispersed them. The inhabitants have resolved to fight MacMahon.

The Rappel announces that the senators and deputies favoring a complete amnesty, will meet to-morrow to frame a motion looking to that end, which will be introduced in both chambers early next week.

Last Wednesday W. M. Todd, late inspector of customs, at New Orleans, was placed under bond to answer for conspiring to defraud the government. Another of the tribe W. A. Thomas, also an ex-inspector, has been called on to give a bond for some similar kind of rascality.

There was an excitement on Perdido street, New Orleans, last Wednesday. A woman cowhided her husband on the street—"gave it to him good." Cause, too much attention to another woman. He made no resistance, but got out of the way as soon as he could. Having no pistol, he did not attempt to shoot the "wife" of his bosom.

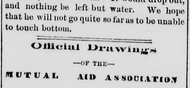

There is another scandal at Washington in which we of Alabama are interested. Chas. Hayes, of our fourth Congressional district, it is been found, sold a West Point cadetship for which he received $3500. If true, there may be a vacancy in our state representation.

There seems to be a virtuous mania in Washington. Party feeling, we suppose has nothing to do with it.

The "white folk" of New Orleans are getting a little "how-come-you-so," over the rejection of Pinchback from the U. S. Senate. They seem to think that the country is now sure-enough saved.

They have another thing to rejoice over. It is not of a partisan nature, Capt. Eads has added several feet of water to one of the outlets of the Mississippi—done by his jetties. If he keep on increasing the depth there will presently be no bottom. It would stop out, and nothing be left but water. We hope that he will not go quite so far as to be unable to touch bottom.

NOTICE.—The gentleman who carried off the umbrella with a yellow handle and white specks on the said handle, will leave it at the Tribune office inside of two days, or he will see his name published in big black letters.

CHROMOS AND OIL PAINTINGS.—There was quite a lively competition last night at the auction sale of chromos and paintings at 29 Dauphin street. The sale was well patronized by the lovers of art. The sale will be continued this morning at ten o'clock and at 7½ this evening, when all are to be closed out. Do not miss this last chance to get fine pictures at your own price.

The Bay Shore Railroad Company are working very diligently to keep the track of their road in good repair. An entire block in length, from Charleston to Palmetto, was wholly relaid yesterday, and as there was an interregnum of no rails, passengers changed cars at that point all day. But the work was done well.

EADS' JETTY—WILL IT SUCCEED ?—It was announced by telegraph several days ago that the three-masted schooner Mattie W. Atwood, 783 tons, with a cargo of 2,250 bales of cotton, and drawing thirteen feet six inches, was put to sea through the jetty channel at the South Pass of the Mississippi river. Ifshe had gone through without difficulty, the exploit would not have been a great one in comparison with what has been done from the wharves of Mobile. A bark carried from our wharves a few days ago 2,000 bales of cotton, and not much fuss was made about it.

It seems, according to the statement of Captain Joseph Aver.il, of the tug Wicaco, that the schooner Mattie W. Atwood was pulled through with considerable difficulty and at some peril. Captain Averill tells the whole story. He says:

March 4, the tug Wicaco, with the schooner Mattie W. Atwood, got to the head of the passes at 4 A. M. Winds also waited until 10 A. M. for the pilot to be sent by Captain Eads, as per arrangement. The captain of the schooner Atwood became annoyed at this delay, and ordered me to the Southwest Pass. I went down as far as I could and blew my whistle. A boat came from the telegraph station; and I told whoever came out that a South Pass pilot was wanted. He went back with the message, but was gone so long, and so we started for the South-west Pass. Captain Eads' pilot then came down, and we went back. He took us in at the South Pass at 2:20 P. M., and we went down the pass after sticking at the entrance thirty minutes. When we arrived at the jetty station, John F. Girsdorff and Robert Tilford, bar pilots, can on board, and went on the bar with the Wicaco and the small tug Bryerly. When we come to the first buoy the schooner struck last, a little to the left of the channel. Captains Eads and party were on the towboat Julia, and they came up and sounded, and found eighteen and nineteen feet of water in the channel. We sounded in other places and found twelve and thirteen feet in the channel. At 4 P. M. the revenue cutter John A. Dix came and took a hawser from the starboard bow of the Atwood, and began to push some distance. The Bryerly and the Julia, the Eads boat, were assisting us on the port side. We worked until 6 P. M., when the Dix let go and went off. The tide had fallen so much that the captain of the schooner and Pilot Girsdorff concluded we could not get her out. We then all let go and came back to the telegraph station.

March 5, at South Pass jetty, Captain Eads, Colonel Allonez and pilot Robert Tilford and others came on board the tug Wicaco at 10 A. M. They told me that the schooner was afloat and working. We got her so at 10:30 A. M. I started down, having received orders from Captain Eads that if I did not get the Atwood out in an hour he would send another boat. There were then about twenty-five of the persons in Captain Eads' party on board the tug, besides my crew. I took the hawser of the Mattie W. Atwood and pulled the schooner over into the channel, and she went over on to the south jetty. There was no rough time that I see filled my decks several times, but I had to tie schooner's hawser, being told by the captain and pilot that if I did not, my schooner would be ruined. I pulled her I went and the captain put on some sail; I then slacked up the hawser, and the schooner drifted down on to the end of the south jetty, and her stern grounded on a mud lump. It was then so rough that some seas were going over the schooner, and I had to wait for a chance to get head out. As soon as possible I towed the Atwood six miles to sea. The pilot had to be taken off in a yawl-boat. He came on board the tug, and we returned to the telegraph station wharf at 2:30 P.M.

It was a rough passage through, so rough that the sea filled the decks of the tug several times and some seas went over the schooner.

The New Orleans Republican, which seems to have given more attention to the matter than the other journals of New Orleans, says of the Mattie W. Atwood:

After risks of delay and wreck, she finally made the passage out. If there is a continuous channel through the South Pass the Atwood was unfortunate in not being kept in by the pilots. In fact, she first grounded at the very entrance of the pass, and stuck for half an hour at Chambers' Island.

With so many conflicting ideas concerning the depth of water at the South Pass, it would be interesting to know the actual depth to be found at all times in a continuous practicable ship channel. A good tugboat can overcome at least a foot of soft mud, so that where a thirteen foot pilot can be encouraged the water is less than twelve feet. In a crooked and shifting channel, with mud lumps coming up and going down, it can safely be said that there is now twenty and twenty-three feet of water where there was formerly only three; and on the contrary, it may be that there is now only three feet of water in places where there was formerly twenty. The question is constantly asked, "What is being accomplished by the jetty contractors?" And the fear is felt that the head of the South Pass may fill up and prevent a deep channel to the sea, even if Mr. Eads succeeds in maintaining a sufficient depth on the ocean bar, according to the letter of the jetty law.

There was only one departure yesterday. The W. S. Holt, of Central Line No. 2, with Captain Watteside on the roof, went out last evening with a full freight and several passengers.

The John T. Moore, from Montgomery, having left Selma with 100 bales of cotton, is due this morning.

The fleet little iron steamer Baudy Moore, Captain James G. Stewart, of Central Line No. 2, will leave this evening for Columbus and intermediate landings. If passengers want to go through rapidly they should engage state rooms on this little steamer, which has all the comforts of a larger craft. Of course, she will, as usual, go out with a full cargo of general merchandise and plantation supplies. For freight or passage apply on board. Captain Stewart reports the river rising at Columbus.

The Victoria, Captain Woodie Stone, from Tuskaloosa, arrived last evening, with 223 bales of cotton, 207 sacks cotton seed, a fair miscellaneous freight and 11 passengers.

Cox, Charles Love, James Harrington and James Martin, who were arrested here by Sheriff Parker on an attachment issued by Chancellor A. W. Dillard, of the western division, Demopolis and Marengo counties, for alleged contempt of court. Sheriff Parker was proceeding to carry the prisoners into the western division Wednesday evening, when the writ of habeas corpus restrained him. After hearing the cases, Judge Semmes remanded the prisoners to the custody of the sheriff, who departed with them last evening.

THE WEATHER YESTERDAY.—The weather opened mild and pleasant yesterday after the rain of the previous day. At 6:51 o'clock, the wind blew only one mile an hour at Mobile. The temperature here was 46, highest 71 at Key West, lowest 42 at Augusta.

At 3:51 o'clock, the wind blew 26 miles per hour at Indianola, 20 at Corsicana and 14 at Mobile. The temperature was at Corsicana 80, Key West 78, Galveston and Indianola 75, Augusta, Montgomery and New Orleans 72, Savannah 69, Mobile 67.

TWO MORE AQUATIC EXHIBITIONS.—Captain Paul Boyton will give two more aquatic exhibitions at Arlington jetty next Sunday, at two and five o'clock p. m. This will afford an opportunity for thousands to go out there and witness his interesting experiments in the life-saving dress, who did not see them last Tuesday. The Conception street railroad cars will run every ten minutes or oftener, and cars enough will be put on to convey the multitudes out there and bring them back, without delay or confusion.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT.—In this court yesterday, Judge Bruce on the bench, the case of John Heinich Roberts vs German brig Marie, a libel of the vessel for seaman's wages. The court decided that it had no jurisdiction in the case and that was the end of it. The district court was yesterday adjourned, sine die. The next regular term commences on the first Monday in June.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT.—In this court yesterday, Judge Bruce presiding, the case of Henry W. Sxaats, as signee of the estate of Jno. Ryan vs Joseph Hynde, was disposed of by a decree in favor of defendant. The United States circuit court was adjourned yesterday till the 6th of April.

CIRCUIT COURT.—This court, Judge Toulmin on the bench, met yesterday and adjourned till today, when cases will be set for trial for the next three weeks.

WALKS AROUND TOWN.

The John T. Moore arrived at Montgomery Tuesday morning and left there the evening of the same day.

A Montgomery man bought eggs at seven and a half cents a dozen. They reo tail for seventeen and a half and twenty cents here.

Immigrants from the northwest are coming to North Alabama. There is room for some of them in South Alabama.

The closing cotton quotations of the Board of Trade, yesterday were: Low ordinary 7½; ordinary 8¼; good ordinary 9¼; low middling 11¼@11½; middling 12¼.

A colored man named Ben McBier, while felling a tree in the swamp about nine miles this side of New Orleans, was crushed to death by the tree which fell unexpectedly.

The cotton receipts at Mobile since September first have been 331,687 bales, against 290,618 bales during the corresponding period the preceding year—an increase of 31,969 bales.

The Centennial Fair of the Mobile Agricultural, Mechanical and Horticultural Association will commence on the 25th of April and continue one week. It will be a great success.

The new revenue law of the state imposes a license of fifty dollars on commercial travelers or drummers. It would be about as wise to tax immigrants that amount. Let commercial restrictions be removed.

According to the Board of Trade reports, the cotton receipts yesterday at all ports were 6,294 bales: New Orleans 1,721, Mobile 1,158, Norfolk 1,113, Savannah 602, Galveston 333, Charleston 286.

The panorama of the Bible, at Odd Fellows' Hall, attracts multitudes of people there to see it, at the matinee and night exhibitions. It is interesting and instructive and will repay those who will take the time to go and see it.

The Opal restaurant, under the direction of Hamersen, is a popular place of resort more popular, perhaps, in consequence of its central location—but chiefly frequented by gentlemen who go there because they can get a square meal served to suit them.

The noon cotton report of the Board of Trade yesterday was: "Market quiet and firm at unchanged prices. Sales about 500 bales with a good demand and scant offering." Closing report: "Sales today 2,000 bales. Market closed quiet, steady, and unchanged. Good demand and scarcest here of cotton."

The Mobile delegation in the Alabama legislature tendered their friends in Montgomery a banquet at the Exchange last Monday night. Quite a number of speeches were made, and among them one by the governor in which he eulogized the legislature especially for having adopted the revenue law, which he said was a standing monument to their discretion.

The rice mills of Messrs. Mountain & Sons, connected with their corn mills, have had an excellent influence on the subject of rice culture in Alabama. Many people will produce rice this year, now they know where it can be hulled, who would not otherwise have done so. If the rice culture is largely increased in this state, the firm of which mention has been made, should have the credit of promoting this increase.

At the banquet given by members of the Mobile delegation in the Alabama legislature, in Montgomery last Monday night, the Gulf City was frequently toasted and her senator and representatives were warmly commended for the ability and zeal with which they had discharged their duty, not only to their immediate constituents, but to the entire state.

The town is billed by huge posters announcing that the Wallace Sisters will play at the Mobile Theatre next Monday and Tuesday evenings.

A DASTARDLY ACT.—While Reverend Father Insaad was delivering a lecture on temperance at St. Joseph Church, last Tuesday evening, between 8 and 9 o'clock, some vile creature outside the building raised the cry of fire, thereby creating a rush and a panic in the crowded congregation, the terrible consequences of which were only averted by the coolness of the Reverend Father himself, who authoritatively commanded every one to retain their seats until the real cause of alarm was ascertained. The alarm proving groundless, the audience resumed their seats and the meeting proceeded.

The reporter is informed that one of our city officers, himself a member of the congregation of St. Joseph, offers a reward of fifty dollars for the detection of the wretch or wretches who schemed such an odious attempt at wholesale slaughter.

COMMON COUNCIL.

At the regular weekly meeting of the common council last evening, President Quigley in the chair, Messrs. Brous, McCaw, Perryman and Smith were also present.

Among the reports of city officers, was one from the city assessor of the collection of $1083 25; of John Case, clerk of Southern Market, the collection of $747 10, which were referred to ways and means.

Report of joint fire engine committee asking an appropriation to build a cistern at the corner of Broad street and Spring Hill road, and an appropriation, not to exceed $400, for partial repairs to the battery room in No. 2's old engine house, which they find in a very delapidated condition.

Report of the joint committee of ways and means, communicating the information that they have ordered the payment of the monthly pay rolls. The recapitulation is: pay rolls $13,097 45; police bills $220 60; city lamps $1176 40; powder magazine $36; streets $220 60; pumps and wells $15 55; board of health $140 35; office expenses $717 15; commissions $809 87; funded debt of 1875 $1128 20—total $17,502 17.

The joint committee on ways and means reported on the petition of P. O. Foster, asking to be refunded the taxes paid for several years past on the steamer Jackson, that after a careful investigation of the facts and the law of the case, as expounded by the United States supreme court, in the case of Morgan vs the city, they have come to the conclusion that so much of the interest held in that boat by residents of Mobile city is liable to city taxation, and that as soon as Captain Foster will have stated what that interest amounts to, they will recommend that any surplus be refunded; but, in advance of such action, they feel bound to state that they cannot consistently to precedents and uniform practice allow any interest on any such claim.

The same committee, on the petition of the market men and green grocers, asking to be relieved from the payment of the license tax on their carts or wagons, report that in justice to all parties, and in view of the fact that all merchants delivering goods in the city from their place of business are liable to the same license tax, they can only recommend, as their own interpretation of the law and ordinances, that only such wagons as bring their produce to market from the place of production, (namely, the shambles or gardens) to their stalls or stores where the same are offered for sale, be relieved from said license tax, but that any such carts or wagons employed in the delivery of produce from the place where they are offered for sale, be like others liable to the payment of the license tax.

A petition for reduction of assessments, brought out extended remarks in support of and against a resolution adopted weeks ago declaring that no such petitions shall be received. Councilman Brous opposed the resolution in strong terms as insisted that, under its operation the injustice of over-assessments, could not be remedied, because no aggrieved tax-payer could be heard. He proposed a modification. A modification was also proposed by Councilman Perryman. President Quigley, called Councilman Smith to the chair, and spoke earnestly against receiving petitions for reduction of assessments and in favor of the resolution as it stands.

After the president had resumed the chair, Councilman Smith having investigated the subject, expressed the opinion that the court of assessments (which will be reconstructed before many weeks) was just as much a court as the circuit court; that its decisions are final, and that the two boards have no authority to reduce assessments. On his motion, the further consideration of the matter was postponed one week to give time to prepare an ordinance on the subject of petitions for the reduction of assessments.

In unfinished business, the scavenger ordinance, prepared by the board of health, was again postponed one week.

The resolution of Councilman Danner, instructing the city treasurer to burn $10,000 a month of the scrip of 1875, signed and unsigned, or as much as he has on hand, was again postponed one week.

So were other unfinished matters.

At nine o'clock, the board adjourned.

KETCHUM'S BENEFIT.—The benefit of George F. Ketchum, the most amusing comedian of the times, at the Mobile Theatre this evening, will be attended by so many people that there will hardly be standing room left in the house, from pit to dome. The attractions will be "A Bull in a China Shop," "On the Shell Road" and "Seeing Ketchum." Everybody will see Ketchum tonight in all his glory. Box office open for reserved seats all day.

ICE WITCH MATINEE.—The readers of the Tribune have not forgotten the splendors of the "Ice Witch" spectacular drama, which will be again presented for the matinee performance tomorrow. The ladies and children will be out in full force.

Winslow the Forger.

LONDON, March 3.—Winslow, the Boston forger, was again brought up at the Bow Street Police Court this morning, and formally committed for extradition.

Before the commencement of the proceedings Winslow's family had an interview with him in his cell.

Winslow was more cheerful, and bowed slightly to the magistrate on entering the dock. He stood during the proceedings, not requesting to be seated.

Sir Thomas Henry, the magistrate, said:

I have now received the formal notification that the American Government has applied for your extradition upon the charges of forging seven promissory notes detailed in the indictment read here yesterday, and also for uttering the same. I have nothing more to say than that I commit you.

Winslow bowed his head slightly.

The Magistrate asked him if he understood.

Winslow repied that he did. He then asked that the watch which was taken from him at the time of his arrest, which was not a valuable one, but prized solely on account of associations, might be given to his wife.

Sir Thomas Henry said he had no power to make such an order. He referred the proposition to Colonel Chesebrough, of the American Legation, who said the Legation merely appeared to obtain extradition and not as prosecutors. He thought it would not become them either to assent or object.

Detective Bowdell, of Scotland Yard, said the watch was of gold and seemed to be a good one, and that Mr. Dearborn, the American officer, said he would not object to give it to Winslow.

Winslow supposed that would settle the matter and withdrew the application.

He was then removed to his cell. He stood for a few minutes outside the court, in the passage at the entrance to the cells, talking with the detectives and officials. He seemed to be on very good terms with them, and bade them good morning rather cheerfully, they promising to bring his friends around to see him.

The point about Winslow's being committed on the separate charges of forging and uttering is important. After Sir Thomas Henry had said in court yesterday that he had not received the necessary notification from the British authorities, the American Legation, remembering the fiasco in the case of Lawrence, the fraudulent custom-house agent, withdrew the application previously sent to the Foreign Office asking the extradition of Winslow on the charge of forgery, and, to make everything certain, substituted an application asking extradition on the charges of forging and uttering.

Winslow will now await the legal time (fifteen days) before being surrendered to Mr. Dearborn, the American officer.

Good News From The Jetties.

From the N. O. Bulletin.

Capt. Eads last night received dispatches from the jetties of the most cheering character. Very remarkable changes have occurred where the crest of the bar formerly existed. Throughout a distance of about 3000 feet, at the extreme end of the works, an immense amount of deposit has been removed and carried to sea within the last three days. What constituted the old original crest of the bar, and which continued to have but 7 or 8 feet depth on it up to a period not fifty days past, may now be said to have vanished forever; for, at this place there is now from 17 to 34 feet of water. Throughout a distance of nearly half a mile within the sea end or the jetties the depth is fully 17 feet. The shoalest water is now 14 feet and is at a point 3000 feet from the sea.

From this point out the water grows deeper and deeper, and where it was only 14 feet between the ends of the jetties, it is now 20 feet. Four hundred feet beyond the jetties the depth is 34 feet. There is a width of 350 feet in which the depth is not less than 18 feet, extending up between the jetties 600 feet, where only 74 feet of water existed sixty days ago.

All of this remarkable change is due to the action of the sea during the past two or three days of stormy weather. Inasmuch as the depth of the river current is guaged to 14 feet by the present crest, which is now 3000 feet from the sea end of the jetties, this action at the outer end of the channel has been much more effective, because the sea ends of the jetties have been brought up to high tide nearly out to their intended limits within the last three weeks.

The wave action within them has enabled the water to be highly charged the original bar deposits, which have in this way been carried out to sea by the constant outflow of the river. The channel deepens very rapidly above the present crest, and this fact indicates that a deepening of the crest is close at hand—indeed, we may confidently look for a depth of eighteen or twenty feet through the jetties at the end of the month.

The following comparison of the total influx of immigrants at New York in the last five years, shows how alarming has become the decrease of transatlantic contribution to the American labor markets:

Immigration for 1873	267,354
Immigration for 1874	140,337
Immigration for 1875	85,000

The German and Irish elements have fallen off nearly fifty per cent., and the Scandinavians and Italians have shown equally great proportions of decrease. Among the very undesirable classes of immigrants are those from Russia. They usually bring money with them and settle on public land. They generally go to the far west, but a considerable number of families are expected soon in South Carolina.

Ex-Secretary Belknap.

Wm. Worth Belknap, the dishonest Secretary of War, is the son of Wm. Belknap, a renowned soldier of the war of 1812. The ex-Secretary was born at Hudson, New York, on Sept. 22nd, 1829, and is now in his 37th year. He was educated at Princeton, New Jersey, and George M. Robeson, Secretary of the Navy, and Hon. Heister Clymer, Chairman of the Committee that made the disclosures were two of his classmates. He was named in honor of General William Worth, a distinguished friend of his father.

William Worth Belknap entered the army as Major of the 15th Iowa volunteers, and participated in the battles of Shiloh and Corinth, and the long siege of Vicksburg. After the war was ended, President Johnson appointed him Internal Revenue Collector of the first District of Iowa, which humble position he occupied at the time President Grant was inaugurated, when fearing removal, he made a trip to Washington. President Grant recognizing his good qualities as a soldier offered him the position of Collector of Customs at New Orleans, La., which he was compelled to decline on personal reasons. He subsequently was nominated for the office of Secretary of War, as the successor of General Rawlins. The appointment was made on the 12th October, 1868.

Mrs. Belknap.

Mrs. Belknap, as Miss Tomlinson, was a bosom friend of Congressman Blackburn's wife. To her, last night, she betook herself, when her husband, coming home from the committee, declared that all was lost. To work more effectively upon Mrs. Blackburn, the wretched wife brought her baby to plead for her. It was one of the few cold, snowy nights experienced in Washington. The ground was covered with an inch of slush, the snow melting as it fell. As she appeared at Mrs. Blackburn's it was almost impossible to recognize her. A plain cloak was thrown over her, and her babe was pressed in her arms. She had barely reached the inside door when she fell in a faint. Recovering she fell upon Mrs. Blackburn's neck. She raved piteously to save her husband and child. She would bear all the blame. She alone was guilty. They ought to hang or imprison her, but spare her babe and her husband. During the scene Mr. Blackburn came in, and the two women clung to him, his wife almost as much moved as the wretched wife and mother. Blackburn says he never was so moved in his life by an appeal, but he was powerless, it is said, to do other than willing to shield, Belknap. He told the unfortunate woman, gently but firmly, that justice must be done, and that he was powerless. This was not the first time Mrs. Belknap had asked Blackburn's good offices. She told him some points of the story a few weeks ago, but did not say how her husband was implicated, Blackburn did not understand, and jokingly promised to apprise her of any plots against her husband.

The Boston Post has this little story for the hard times: "There were no assets; there was not the remotest chance of a dividend. What were the creditors to do with this wretched individual? At all events they were determined to have something, and one of their number, either previously aware of the bankrupt's lyrical attainments or moved by a Shakespearean intuition of the debtor having a 'single face,' asked him if he could not cheer the drooping spirits of those to whom he stood indebted by warbling some ditty. The penniless yet tuneful bankrupt expressed his willingness to oblige, and in mournful accents piped forth the tender ballad of 'Then you'll remember me.' The scene was as pathetic as it was original."

The great drink manufacturers of Ireland are distinguished by an exemplary munificence where ecclesiastical edifices are concerned. The late Sir B. Guinness led off with $800,000 for St. Patrick's Cathedral; a great distiller, Mr. Roe, followed with the restoration of the other Protestant metropolitan Cathedral and a ball for synodical assemblages; and now in Cork Mr. Wise, a distiller, has given £20,000, and Mr. Crawford, of the great brewing firm of Beamish & Crawford, £10,000, to restore the Protestant Cathedral in that diocese.

MOBILE DAILY TRIBUNE

SATURDAY,.....March 11, 1876.

The Supreme Court of Alabama has adjourned until the 16th inst.

The Democratic papers are enjoying the Belknap discoveries. The Republican papers throw Boss Tweed at their heads.

Mr. Snagge, the English barrister, who stirred people here in railroad matters, was to sail for Europe last Wednesday, the 8th inst.

Gen. F. Fessenden (Republican) was elected last Monday Mayor of Portland (Maine) by 526 majority. The democratic majority last year was 429.

The Washington Chronicle declares that Belknap has never been a Republican, and it pitches him into the Democratic camp.

This is an excellent illustration of the old phase of human nature. When a man is down, every person disowns him, or gives him a kick.

The new Supreme Court Justice, Judge Stone, a member of the Board of Aldermen of Montgomery, at the time of his promotion. From all accounts he is legally and otherwise worthy of the important place. The members of the Board on his resignation, gave him a luxurious supper. They were sorry to part with him. The cordiality of the occasion shows the respect in which he is held.

William Hemphill Jones, now Deputy Comptroller of the Treasury, (says the New York World) is the man to whom General Dix telegraphed: "If any one attempts to haul down the American flag, shoot him on the spot." "The order," says a correspondent, "was grand, but it becomes almost ridiculous when you see the amiable gentleman to whom it was sent, and imagine him receiving it, alone and unarmed, as a Treasury clerk sent to Mr. Corbin on private business, and surrounded by an infuriated mob. Never was a man more powerless to obey an order."

Tweed.

A verdict for $6,657,117 has been rendered by a New York jury against Boss Tweed. The great thing now is to get the property or the person of the defaulter gentleman.

Is it not strange that the body of this eminent rogue has not been found? Has he "made away with himself?" Yes! he has done that, unquestionably; but where is the body? The property, we suppose, is "nothing to nobody."

This is a very remarkable case. For the delinquent a great reward has been offered—$10,000, we believe—and yet the man is not found. Well, the reason, probably, is, that there are other rogues, whose evil deeds have not been exposed. If, as the thieves say, Tweed was caught and would "squeal," it is quite likely that there would be much disturbance in families that ride in their chaises, and so they, in order to save themselves, are hiding him.

The detectives—who are above the reach of a tribe—know where he is, but, losing nothing by silence, they are not required to tell all they know. Nothing could be got from them, except by pay, and as there are two sides to almost every question, it is likely that they have taken the other side.

This man Tweed is a very great man. He ruled New York city for years. His word was law. He had the municipality under his thumb. Men of eminence knuckled down to him. He made Mayors and Governors, and, if he had not been found out, might have made Presidents. Unhappily, he was a Democrat by profession, and that helped to destroy his unbounded influence.

We expect, however, to see him turn up after awhile, and be a conspicuous member in the other party, which is suffering under the trials of Belknap's lack of skill. Tweed could beat that man. All he needs is a chance. Can't he be found, and some governor or other potent functionary give him a pardon? If it were done that way, there would be a very useful man for party purposes.

It is supposed that he is in Mobile. We are sure that this is not true—although we did see a man the other day who looked very much like the description that has been given of him.

This looks like jesting. The great clown in London, who broke people's hearts by making them laugh, was one of the saddest men that walked the streets of the great city. He killed himself. While the audiences was crying with laughter at his strange antics and humor, he went sought and took his own life.

Here, as in other cases, extremes meet. They show, of course, that there is some mental disturbance—a lack of equilibrium—that, perhaps, which is commonly called genius. The exception to it, in our modern days, is Shakespeare. Cowper—one of the best of the men of his kind—was mentally disturbed; but there is not much sign of this in the beautiful poems which he left for the delight of those who can understand what is good.

The rogues never die. This is a strange assertion; but it is true. They sometimes get into penitentiaries.

But, generally, they have skill enough to keep out of them.

Time proves every thing. Here is Gen. Belknap, who has been doing what is a disgrace to the country.

Other men have been doing it.

What was disgraceful in the olden time is now considered nothing but a little departure from the old habitudes and customs.

Well, those were customs of the olden time, when stealing was not considered respectable. Now it hurts no man to steal, if he do it in what the small novelists call a heroic style.

Belknap is caught. We want to see Boss Tweed. He may be in Mobile, or some other place.

It sounds almost like romancing to say that the American gold dollar is at a discount, but such is the melancholy fact. According to the San Francisco Bulletin the demand in China is no longer equal to the supply, and the consequence is an overabundance for California circulation, with the natural result of depreciation. The Bulletin adds: "Even conductors on the street cars refuse to take them for their face, and subject them to a discount of ten per cent. Other silver coins circulate in small quantities for their face value. There is no reason why any such distinction should exist. The trade dollar is as much a legal tender for sums not exceeding five dollars as any other silver coin."

Alabama Legislature.

The legislature adjourned sine die, Thursday.

In the Senate a vote of thanks to Lieut-Gov. Ligon, ex officio President of that body, was tendered. Brief speeches in its favor were delivered by several of the members. A resolution of a similar kind was offered in behalf of all the subordinate officers, Both were adopted without dissent. President Ligon delivered a very neat little speech in announcing to the Senators the end of the session.

In the House similar ceremonies took place. Speaker Anderson and the other officers received much praise, and the former, in announcing the adjournment, spoke admirably to the point.

A remarkable thing is that—if we recollect aright—there was not a single veto during the long session; and another thing noticeable, is the harmony which prevailed among the members. There were few "tiffs," and courtesy in general reigned all through the proceedings. The fact is, every one seemed to feel that sense of responsibility which is so becoming in a legislature, and is not often seen—except—except—in Congress.

There was a lady in Montgomery who wrote letters, and praised every body and every thing. The only defect that the feminine censor could find was—what do you suppose? Why, the members would eat peanuts during the debates. This is very wicked, no doubt; but there are acts at Washington that, some people suppose, are much wickeder.

This same young lady said, also, that she had learned more from the acting of Mr. Booth than from "all the preachers that she had ever listened to in all her life." This is excusable, for she lives in the backwoods, where there is poor preaching, because there is poor pay.

TELEGRAPH

WASHINGTON, March 10.—The committee on expenditures in the war department have summoned Nordoff, of the New York Herald.

The confirmation of Richard H. Dana hangs fire in the senate, on account of the charge that he was convicted in 1869 of appropriating copyrighted notes of Lawrence's edition of Wheaton's Laws of the Nation.

The senate has up the bill for the admission of New Mexico into the union.

The Wine and Spirits Association have a committee before the ways and means committee, arguing in favor of a reduction of the tax to 50 cents.

The levee committee have again postponed its visit.

The committee on war expenditures are making an ineffectual search for General Boynton, of the Cincinnati Gazette, whom they want as a witness.

LOUISVILLE, March 10.—The senate has passed the bill incorporating the National Grange. The grange headquarters are to be at Louisville.

FOREIGN.

PARIS, March 10.—Louise Revoil Colet, authoress, is dead.

The Republique Francaise, Gambetta's organ strongly attacks the constitution of the cabinet. The writer says it is unacceptable, and in contradiction to the resolution adopted by the Republican Union recently at Versailles, to the effect that they would only support a homogeneous cabinet, which is firmly resolved to administer the laws in a thoroughly republican sense, and conformably to the spirit of the constitution and the will of the nation.

BERLIN, March 10.—The police are ordered to seize all newspapers containing excommunications by Catholic bishops.

RAGUSA, March 10.—Later accounts of the battle of Muratovezza show that five battalions under Salim Pasha were pure stricken. The insurgents pursued them for four hours, capturing everything.

Don Carlos arrived in England on the 4th inst., and found a good many people there anxious to look at him. He is athletic and has a stature of six feet three inches. His reign, in all probability, is over.

The newspapers are suffering from the hard times. Rowell's (N. Y.) Report says that seventy eight gave up the ghost during the first two weeks of February.

Money is so abundant in some of the northern cities that there is no one to borrow it—except on very sound security.

Theatre.

There was a large and an elegant audience at the benefit of Mr. Ketchum. He made a great deal of fun. Of course, he always does that.

An agreeable episode was the presentation of a medal to the First Alabama Regiment. This was delivered by Mr. Irwin Ledyard, and was received by Col. T. K. Irwin in behalf of the regiment. The speeches on the occasion, both in the presentation and acceptance, were brief and very graceful. It was pleasant to hear them.

The audience was much delighted.

The performances passed off with eclat; and, if we had the space should give many compliments to the ladies in the three pieces. People fall in love with some of them—whom we consider it not proper to mention.

Sherman's Views.

A reporter of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat has interviewed General Sherman on the presidential question, with the following result. The General said:

I cannot think of any circumstances that would induce me to accept the nomination.

There are so many men in the country better fitted for the place than I am. I have no civil experience, as every President should have. The country wants a change in this respect. Military men know no way of settling troubles except to fight, and our country is now peaceful, and a different policy is needed. We want a civil President, and not a military one. Now, there is Blaine, he would make a splendid President; and he showed his political sagacity when he headed this Jeff Davis amnesty affair. He is going to be hard to beat for the nomination. This man Hayes would make a magnificent run. He is very popular and has much of the real statesman in him. A stronger candidate could hardly be named. Morton is a remarkable man, and fitted for any political position in the gift of the people. From his knees down he is physically dead, but from there to the top of his head he is about the liveliest man in the country. I love Morton for his war record. He was the best war governor we had. He never complained that Indiana had furnished more than its just quota. The demand for more troops had only to be made to be complied with. Thousands of the war democrats would vote for him.

LOCAL NEWS.

The Opal restaurant and hotel, next door to the post office, is conducted on the European plan. Guests may dine and wine there and sleep elsewhere, or they may take lodging rooms there and dine where they choose.

Hatton is the shirt king of Mobile. He has 4 large and carefully selected stock and sells at these astonishing low prices: Six shirts for $9 00 (open back or front) six for $10 50, six for $12 50, six for $16 00. The quality of the goods is excellent and the work so faithfully done that the seams do not rip, nor the buttons come off.

The clothing sales of Pincus, the famous dealer, northeast corner of Dauphin and Royal, are made on Saturday at remarkably low prices, whether the purchaser buys a single garment, or a full, fashionable suit. The salesp en at this house make only correct representations as to the quality of the goods, and the prices are established at so low that the closest buyer is perfectly satisfied.

THE LARGEST COTTON CARGO.—The ship Andrew Johnson, Captain Speed, cleared for Liverpool yesterday, with 6,237 bales of cotton, weighing 3,305,793 pounds, valued, at $411,405. The largest cargo previously carried from Mobile was that of the steamship Australian, Captain Peters, that cleared on the 7th of February with 6,102 bales of cotton, weighing 3,262,515 pounds, valued at $369,720.

The weight of the cotton taken by the Australian is greater by 56,722 pounds than that on the Andrew Johnson; but the latter carries 75 bales more than the Australian, and the value of her cargo exceeds that of the Australian by $41,685.

LAST OF THE ICE WITCH.—That gorgeous spectacular drama, "The Ice Witch," put on the stage with exquisite taste and dazzling splendor, abounding in beautiful scenes and tableaux, will be produced this evening for the last time at the Mobile Theatre. The box office will be open all day for the sale of reserved seats, for which no extra charge will be made.

ICE WITCH MATINEE.—The spectacular drama of the "Ice Witch," as presented at the Mobile Theatre, is perfectly gorgeous. It will be produced in the matinee today, and the misses and children will throng the house to see it for the last time at midday. There is something exquisitely beautiful in the entire representation of the piece, from beginning to end, and all who see admire it. There are no reserved seats today, and, therefore, those who want to secure seats should go early to the theatre.

AMUSEMENT FOR THE MULTITUDES.—At that popular place of attractive amusements, the Mobile Varieties, northwest corner of Royal and Conti streets, there will be lots of fun and a levy of beauty on the stage tonight. Every variety of entertainments such as songs comic and sentimental; ballads that will moisten the eye or provoke a smile, dances jig and clog; delineations Ethiopian, Irish and Dutch.

The pretty faces and charming voices of Lizzie Whalen, Rosa Lee, Addie Woods and Rose Woods, who will also appear in vaudevilles and concerts, and the popular delineations of every character under the sun by George Sisson, Dick Roberts and A. P. Durand, will certainly draw a big audience this evening. Manager Rippler permits no impropriettes on the stage nor rowdyism in the auditorium and hence his varieties entertainments are popular.

CHROMOS AND OIL PAINTINGS.—The auction sale of chromos and paintings at 29 Dauphin street will be continued this morning at ten o'clock and at half past seven this evening, which will positively be the closing sale.

RIVER NEWS.

The only departure yesterday was the fleet little iron steamer Bandy Moore, that "walks the waters like a thing of life." Captain Stewart commands the smallest and yet the fastest boat of the river fleet and he is proud of that little craft. Running in Central Line No. 2, the Bandy Moore went out with a full freight as the boats of that line always do, and she will go through to Columbus on Sunday.

The magnificent iron steamer John T. Moore, with Captain Owen Finegan on the roof and Mr. P. J. Lyons in the office, will leave this evening at five o'clock, sharp, for Selma and Montgomery. The elegant state rooms of the John T. Moore, her spacious saloon, and the comfort of traveling up and down the Alabama on this popular steamer, are sure to attract a large number of passengers today. The Moore will carry a big freight.

WALKS AROUND TOWN.

The ship L. L. Sturges, from Liverpool, brought 2998 sacks of salt.

Hot coffee, five cents a cup at Thompson's, opposite the Campbell House.

THE LAST AQUATIC EXHIBITIONS.—Captain Paul Boyton will gratify the wishes of thousands of people by giving two aquatic exhibitions at Arlington jetty tomorrow, in each of which he will exhibit thirteen experiments in his life-saving dress. The Bay Shore Railroad Company will put their whole rolling stock on the road that day and keep it constantly in motion to accommodate visitors to the jetties. They will put three cars on one run, so that nobody will be disappointed in seeing Captain Boyton, whose exhibitions will begin at two and four o'clock, p. m. Tickets, twenty-five cents, including car fare for the round trip.

GROCERIES AND FRUIT.—Mr. J. B. Chigazola, who deals largely in groceries and will deal extensively this year, at the southeast corner of Dauphin and Dearborn streets, in fruit of his own production, becomes a sort of public benefactor. Notwithstanding Mr. Chigazola's barn in the country, oxen, farming utensils, hay, etc., were recently burned by incendiary, his fruit trees are uninjured. And unless some untoward accident shall occur, his fruit crop will be full, and he can supply a large number of customers with the finest and freshest fruit from his depot in this city, such as peaches, pears, plums, etc. He has always on hand a fine and carefully selected stock of choice family groceries, feed, etc. He also deals largely in foreign and imported domestic fruits. THE BIBLE.—Do not forget the matinee at Odd Fellows' Hall today at twelve o'clock, especially for ladies and children, who can then witness the unrolling of the panorama of the Bible and listen to the explanations of historical scenes that will be presented to the view of the audience. The hall ought to be crowded on this occasion, and the probability is that it will be. Those who can go to Odd Fellows' Hall in the evening and cannot go in the daytime are reminded that an exhibition will commence at eight o'clock for their special convenience.

PANORAMA OF THE BIBLE.—The unrolling of this nine thousand yards of scriptural canvass will attract a great many people to the matinee today, and they will be delighted with what they see, and secure a fund of information that will be useful to them in the future. The exhibition this evening will be specially interesting, and it should be attended by the multitudes of people interested in Biblical history. It is not probable that this panorama will ever be exhibited here again and, therefore, it should be visited now.

OPENING OF FRASCATI.—The grand opening for the Centennial year will commence tomorrow and Frascati will be in its glory during the afternoon and dazzle with splendor at night. The Conception street cars will make regular trips to Frascati after two o'clock in the afternoon. The usual refreshments will be provided, which include beverages, plain, mixed, exhilarating and intoxicating, together with the tempting sandwiches and other edibles, which are provided for the Frascati campaign.

COMING UP TO FRASCATI.—All the world and the rest of mankind will go to see Paul Boyton tomorrow at the Arlington jetty. Gentlemen, and ladies with their escorts, who want to enjoy a little of the pleasures of Frascati can walk up from Arlington after the aquatic exhibition is over and wander in the gardens of Frascati or sit under the roof of the cosy room or some of the other buildings out there till nine o'clock at night and then take the street cars. We mention this for the benefit of those who want to participate in double enjoyments that evening.

WASHING WOOLLENS.—Prof. Artus, who has devoted himself to the discovery of the reason why woolen clothing when washed with soap and water will insist upon shrinking and becoming thick, and acquiring that peculiar odor and feeling which so annoys housekespers, says the evil effects are due to the decomposition of soap by the acids present in the perspiration and other waste of the skin which the clothing absorbs. The fat of the soap is then precipitated upon the wool. These effects may be prevented by steeping the articles in a warm solution of washing soda several hours, then adding some warm water and a few drops of ammonia. The woollens are then to be washed out, and rinsed in lukewarm water.

Prof. Tennant, mineralogist to Queen Victoria, has just furnished a full description of the Imperial State Crown. He summarizes the jewels as follows: One large ruby, irregularly polished, one large broad-spread sapphire, sixteen sapphires, eleven emeralds, four rubies, 1,363 brilliant diamonds, 1273 rose diamonds, 147 table diamonds, four drop-shaped pearls, and 573 pearls. The crown was made in 1838 with jewels taken from old crowns, and others furnished by command of her Majesty.

Gen. Sherman on Belknap.

"Can you think of a cause for Belknap's demoralization?"

"Of course, I do not know the cause, but having lived in Washington during his tenure of office, I can form a pretty good idea of it. In my opinion, his downfall is due more to the vicious organization of Washington society than anything else. I refer to the ridiculous extravagance of those who move in the first circles at the capital. Very few Cabinet officers are able to live within their salaries. While I was there the only member of the Cabinet who could stand it was Fish; with his income of $200,000 a year he could afford to pay most any price for social privileges; nevertheless, it cost $70,000 a year. Mr. Chandler, who has gone into the Cabinet since I came to St. Louis, is another one whose private fortune is so ample that his salary is no object to him. Outside of these two none of the public officials in Washington can live within their salaries. I left Washington entirely because my salary would not support me; and because I did not consider the society there the proper place in which to rear a family. I received $13,500 regular salary; besides $3,000 for rent and horses, making $16,500 in all. I outlived this amount every year by several thousand dollars. I had to keep open house all the time. My family rarely had any rest from entertaining people, most of them utter strangers, in whom we could feel no interest. Besides, every body considers themselves privileged to practice extortion upon any person who holds a prominent place in Washington. Gas companies, house furnishers, marketers, etc., always charged me exorbitant prices, simply because I was general of the army. Now, Belknap got $8,000 a year, and had no outside resources. He had a fashionable wife, ambitious to lead in society. She must have money, and there was no other mode of getting it except by resorting to unlawful practices. In my mind this is the key to the disgraceful conduct of the Secretary of War?

"Do you know Mrs Belknap?"

"Very well. She was regarded as a most sensible woman, intelligent, brilliant and pretty. She came of a good Kentucky family and was ambitious to lead in society. She wore a profusion of jewelry, and her dresses were imported. Her receptions were among the most agreeable and showy entertainments at the national capital. It was impossible that she could keep her expenditures within her husband's official income.

"Do you think Belknap will endeavor to shield himself behind his wife?"

"To the contrary, I think he is likely to suffer much personal odium by keeping silent, in order to shield his wife. If Mrs. Belknap, for a moneyed consideration from outside parties, influenced her husband to make appointments, the world will never know it through Belknap. On the other hand, Mrs. Belknap is just the woman to shield her husband, and will doubtless assume as much of the odium as possible. It is a very sad affair all through, and will reflect much discredit upon our country and society at large.

The New York Sun says, leaving out the estates of men like Astor, Stuart, Goelet, and a few others, it is safe to say that nine-tenths of the real estate of New York is mortgaged up to at least one-half of its assessed valuation as that was fixed three years ago.

SPEAKER ANDERSON.—Immediately before the adjournment of the house of representatives, Speaker Anderson said:

The leading measures of the session, and which will mark its character for a long time to come, are the revenue bill, and that to settle and compromise the public debt. To the consideration of and perfecting these bills, the best thought and talent, the most earnest and patriotic purpose of the two houses has been diligently and faithfully devoted. If they shall accomplish the object intended, in redeeming the good name and honor of the state in maintaining, in successful operation, its great systems of justice, and of charity, without imposing intolerable burdens on the people, it will mark a happy era in the history of our loved commonwealth. I hope, and believe, that when it is considered that our debt, as now compromised, is within our power to pay, that honor preserved is immeasurable, that the larger part of this burden of debt is represented by great highways of inter-communication which are perpetually increasing our population, developing the resources of our territory in minerals and agricultural products, augmenting the old and creating new sources of wealth and binding together in bonds of closer union the interests and the affections of the people, these acts of this assembly will be hailed as the beginning of a great and beneficent change, continually expanding into a happy fraternity.

He concluded as follows:

I hope that a goodly number of those who have constituted this house, will return again as members of the next legislature. It is certain that all of us will not meet again. It is this feeling which casts an air of sadness over this occasion. But the attachments we have here formed and the pleasant associations connected with our official labors at this capitol, I trust may abide with us and be retained among the treasures of the heart.

And now in tendering to you again my grateful acknowledgment for your favors, and my best wishes for your individual health and happiness, I proceed to the performance of the only duty which remains to me, by announcing as I now do, that the house of representatives of the state of Alabama stands adjourned, sine die.

A Tin Bonanza.

Los Angles (Cal.) Express.]

The Temescal tin mines are located 24 miles southwest of Pomona, in San Bernardino county, and are among the richest tin mines in the world. For the past ten years these mines have been but little worked, because of almost endless litigation arising from a disputed title to so valuable property. A wealthy Amsterdam company, that has been and is now engaged in importing tin into the United States to the extent of $14,000,000 per year, has recently bonded the Temescal tin mines from the various claimants to the amount of $50,000, and on the first day of May, 1876, the money is to be paid, and the various titles will be passed to and vested in the Amsterdam company.

These are the only tin mines yet discovered in the United States, and are very rich, assaying as high as 18 per cent, while many mines in England are worked to profit that yield 4 per cent of metal. Arrangements are being made for commencing active operations on a grand scale at an early day. As soon as practicable after the 1st of May a force of 500 miners will be put to work developing the mine and taking out the ore.

MARDI GRAS IN MOBILE.—All our Mardi Gras excursionists returned home, on the Steamer Emma and Victoria, Saturday and Monday last, delighted with their trip, and especially pleased with the imposing display, and generous hospitalities of Mobile.

Never, in the history of Mobile, have there been so many visitors in the city, at any one time. All were amply repaid for the trip and the pleasant memories of Mobile, and the Mardi Gras of 1876, will live for years and years. May our glorious Gulf City grow and prosper, and become more and more the pride of Alabamians.—Tuscaloosa Times.

The new St. Patrick's cathedral, in New York, is 322 feet long, 97 feet wide in the transept, with a transept 172 feet, an elevation of 100 feet from the floor to the crown point of the clear story. The walls have been built, and they are now putting on the roof. The cost of the cathedral will probably be in the neighborhood of a million dollars.

The Japan Mail states that a recently completed census of the Empire makes the population 33,300,675, showing an increase of $189,850 since the last census was taken, three years ago.

MOBILE DAILY TRIBUNE

SUNDAY,.....March 12,1876.

For the Mobile Tribune:

MR. EDITOR.—I am disposed to give you, as conductors of an influential paper, all credit for sincerity in dealing with the public and with quantum suf. of gallantry when speaking of women. So I must tell you in all candor, and in justice to yourselves, that I do not believe you were quite sincere in your fling of this morning against the sex—"Hang the wife, and let the fool man go" I am quite sure you feel sorry for Belknap. I confess myself to that weakness. But I feel sorry for his wife, too—therefore, I would not hang her, nor would you, if you could. I would have you confess, gentlemen, that you let that facile pen run not with a virtuous indignation, and thus, out of sympathy for the poor man, let fall your condemnation upon the poor wife. But, my dear sir, I fear you are somewhat in error in another place. You attribute all the scandalous corruption at Washington to the extravagance of the women. Doubtless that has something to do with it—but it is a remote influence. At all events such extravagance is not the only nor even the principal cause. It may be one of the causes. And I admit that, if extravagance in female adornment was not allowed, much would likely be saved in other directions: the fine house, the magnificent furniture, the recherche dinners, the splendid balls and evening parties, the fine turnout of coach and blood horses, a fat coachman and a gigantic footman, with all the etceteras of high life! Let us not charge the woman with everything false and meretricious—for has not the husband his pleasures, his grand company, his big wine bill and percuiance his little game? Yes, even so! But the whole system is false—it is a wretched perversion and a foul lie. That is surely a lie which is not founded in truth and good faith. So, all such displays without the most abundant honest means to support them, are foul, mean and fallacious!!

Indeed, Mr. Editor, the whole thing of Washington society—and I fear of much other society—would be characterized by Carlyle as a sham. Which very expressive term means in the Carlylean vocabulary a fraud, an imposition, a mere vulgar make-believe. And if we but add a little c to the word we make it indeed a veritable sham to all the mere pretenders who assume airs and found pretensions or (as Paddy would say) "just nothing at all at all."

But I fear I am becoming caustic and uncharitable. I will not only But language shall by no appreciable act augment the bad condition of things in our country, but with humanitarian views of a true philanthropist, indicate some remedy. For everybody is surely interested in any movement aimed at a people, and is bound as far as the ability may go, to set himself or herself, with antimantine firmness, against the boosting evils which are developing their hideous proportions amongst us. You gentlemen of the press must act in this good work; you must provoke us all to good resolutions. There must be created amongst the people of this country a common sentiment against abuses of all sorts. The women will do their part.

MARY BEE.

Judge Taft, the new Secretary of War, has accepted the office, and is now in Washington.

A physician of some eminence—Dr. I. G. Atwood—in New York, died a few days ago from an overdose of chloroform. He took too much of his own medicine.

Fires are now very common in all parts of the country. The property is sold to the insurance companies. It is an easy way of disposing of it, but the penitentiaries have wide doors, and can let the men who thus convert their estates and stocks into cash.

It is unpleasant to doubt the trust-worthiness of men—so-called. But how can one help it just now, when the exposures of their rascalities are so numerous?

Make honesty respectable. That is what is to be done.

One of the most curious things that we know of is stated in the following despatch. It shows the great progress that we are making in rascality.

CHICAGO, March 9.—It is ascertained through affidavits of numerous persons in this city, that an organized company, which has its headquarters in Buffalo, New York, was gotten up expressly for furnishing witnesses and purchasing of juries, to any part of the country to run cases and give such testimony as was desired to bring about a certain end. Said association has its ramifications through Chicago, New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Cincinnati and other cities where there are regular agencies. A corps of detectives of lawyers and private and public detectives were connected with them. It is understood this matter was presented to the grand jury here today.

The Cycle.

The Cycle pleases us very much. The number yesterday contains much interesting matter; but, what is more valuable than that, is the earnest frankness which characterises its articles. One, in all honesty, may differ with it in opinion; and that is something that ought to be tolerated, it wisdom day not inhere in those who choose to set themselves up as censors.

We like dissent. From it comes truth. There is no other means of getting at it. We must encourage it, and make independency of opinion respectable—not having every man running about the streets hanging to the coat-tail of some other person. Although we should object to an ignorant man's putting himself in a pulpit, and defining the Scriptures for us. We should object to that.

But there are certain civil (and moral) duties which every man can understand. Men of craft sometimes tell us that there are mysteries which require a politician to define. This is an instrument which the demagogues conjure with.

The man who understands the duties which he owes to his family is a man fit to help to govern his state.

This, however, is running away from our theme: that is the Cycle. It is worthy of the public regard More than that it is not possible to mention.

The lady who is responsible for the well-written communication into to-day's paper, signed "Mary Bee," is referred to a short piece, giving an account of an interview with Gen. Sherman in respect of the last great scandal at Washington.

In our ungallant remark concerning the matter, we meant an application to society at the Capital. That is sui generis. It is human nature under great temptation, and our lady writer will believe that we hold the opinion as only relating to that particular phase of it.

Where the men are dishonest, the women, who are somewhat imitatives are sure to be no better.

We hazard this assertion at a venture.

We also assert that in those communities wherein the women are true to themselves, there will be true men to applaud, respect and honor them.

The women make society. Without them, there can be nothing good in it. With their gentle enforcement of what is good and true, men who do wrong will be outcasts.

Nearly all of what is called "society" at Washington is nothing but "shoddy." Compare its condition with what it was a half century ago, and you will find that women now flock after meretricious purposes. You will find a struggle there of each of them to excel all the others—not in the high virtues which make the sex worthy of what is called "chivalry," but in the desire for meretricious display.

This is one of the chief evils of the place, where the ambition seems to be, as it was in Venice, not to do evil, but to conceal the doing of it.

Sodom suffered many centuries ago. It was cursed, and it was extinguished. If all our country were like that bad place, we should expect annihilation—but perhaps, by the direct interposition of the Almighty, but from its own natural decay.

There is in that city of "magnificent distances" what tempts every person who has some of what is called virtue for sale. It is put up just like a commodity at an auction. The highest bidder gets it. People—men and women—who have this virtue for sale flock thither, and there they sell it—some for good dinners and great show, and some for chaises and fine apparel.

But there is no use in describing this condition. There it is, like a good photograph—showing what looks pretty enough, but is naked, and every feature and form of it are exposed. We are sorry because of its lack of decent drapery.

Theatre.

We desire to say some kind words of our theatre.

It is a pleasant place to go to.

The gentlemen who are ushers in it are very attentive to all persons.

A lady auditor is sure to have a gentleman attending to what she desires in the way of seats.

There is no confusion—only the enforcement of decency, which has never been violated that we have seen.

That is something worthy of regard.

The plays have been put on the stage with an elegance superior to any management that we have seen since the conclusion of the war.

There is no "hitch" in the stage management. There is nothing gross or offensive in the plays. Sensational a good deal some of them are; but that is what the public requires.

The ladies of the stage, we have no doubt, are ladies everywhere.

They are pretty enough, and skilful enough in their parts to charm the susceptible hearts of the spectators—that is the young ones, whose love, after all, is much more honest than that of us who have travelled through life with—broken hearts.

Most, if not all, of this carefulness on the stage, is due to the skill and watchfulness of Messrs. Roig & Pike.

At least this is what we suppose. The gentlemen have not told us so; but one can logically draw conclusions from facts that he sees every night.

To-morrow night the "Wallace Sisters" will begin an engagement. They have great skill, if one may judge from the reports from other papers. At least, the chief lady is pretty, if the pictures about the various places in the city can be taken as a correct representation.

TELEGRAPH

FOREIGN.

LIVERPOOL, March 11.—The Cotton Brokers' Association yesterday heard the result of the investigation concerning the dealings of its members with the absconded brokers. Five members were severely censured for dealings with Messrs. Munn and Hurst, compelling the firm of Wm. Peers & Son, without sufficient enquiry. The president of the association said if they had not from time to time assisted the firm, which was known to be in a critical condition, it would have collapsed long ago, and these scandals would have been avoided. The Courier says the meeting was large and excited, and there was a decided expression of opinion that the committee had not gone far enough in effectively censuring. Similar views are also expressed on Change.

LONDON, March 11.—The landwehr, of Dalmatia, are called out for service on the Herzegovinian border.

Japan has declared war against Corea.

Class, Brent, alias Clarence Rivers, charged with forging £4,000 worth of bills on the Falls City Tobacco Bank of Louisville, Ky., appeared in the Bow-street police court. The detective exposed that the prisoner had practically admitted his guilt in a conversation. Brent was remanded.

A land slip occurred last night at Cont, a small town on the Rhine, in Northern Germany, caused by the recent heavy rains. Eight houses were buried and 26 persons killed.

The Times has a leading article on the exposures of official corruption in America, and after a review of the facts as they appear here, it concludes: "On the whole, we cannot but feel that even though the investigations or prosecutions now pending should prove futile the impression on the public mind must be that a nice sense of honor and propriety does not prevail in the official world of the United States."

PARIS, March 11.—The chief of the French cabinet is president of the council, instead of vice president. MacMahon will no longer preside at the cabinet.

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 11.—Officials The Turks lost sixty Redifs and fifty four Nizamis, near Muratovizza. The insurgents' loss is far heavier.

BOMBAY, March 11.—The Serapis, with the Prince of Wales and suite on board, sailed from this port for Malta, with a series of grand receptions is awaiting His Royal Highness, and also at Lisbon. The Prince of Wales is expected to reach Portsmouth about the 20th April.

DOMESTIC.

CHICAGO, March 11.—There was a tornado from Quincy to North Iowa. Hazelgreen, Wisconsin, a town of 1,000 inhabitants, mostly lead miners, is almost totally destroyed. Forty-one were killed outright. Later reports give the names, and reduce the number killed to forty. Twenty-six buildings were destroyed.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Mr. Canfield is quoted that he has information that will form the basis of one of the largest investigations of the session. The war, the postoffice and justice and interior departments are involved. Canfield had a consultation with the chairman of the committee of expenditures of these departments lasting two hours. The investigations will be joint of the four committees.

Congressman Lord has gone home.

A representative of young Beardsley knows that the certificate attached to his appointment by Hays on record in the department is faulty.

The Times' special says Kellogg will appoint Governor Warmoth senator to break the combination which exists between Warmoth and Pinchback.

MOBILE DAILY TRIBUNE

LOCAL NEWS.

OPENING OF FRASCATI.—The grand opening for the Centennial year will commence today and Frascati will be in its glory during the afternoon and dazzle with splendor at night. The Conception street cars will make regular trips to Frascati after two o'clock in the afternoon. The usual refreshments will be provided, which include beverages, plain, mixed, exhilarating and intoxicating, together with the tempting sandwiches and other edibles, which are provided for the Frascati campaign.

Captain W. H. Merritt, at his usual auction sale tomorrow will sell a fine, gentle family horse, fully warranted.

PLANTING POTATOES.—Peerless, early rose, peach blow, Chili, Red and Russets in store and for sale low by Owen Farley, 64, 66, 68, 70 and 72 Government street.

Right Reverend Bishop Quinlan will deliver a lecture for the benefit of the Catholic Educational Society at the Cathedral next Tuesday evening. Subject—Church and State.

There are many suffering mortals who need the services of a dental surgeon. The most skilful member of that profession in Mobile is Dr. R. A. Savage, over Cavthen's drug store, corner Dauphin and Conception. Prices reasonable.

Estimate the week's rations and go to Owen Farley's big grocery, on Government street, early tomorrow and buy a whole week's supply. He will sell at prices that will tempt you always to buy a week's supply in advance. Try it once.

If there is any article in the line of groceries, provisions, feed for animals, and stimulants for feeble humans that Owen Farley, at his big store on Government street, does not have, he will quit advertising and close up his business. He keeps everything in this line.

It will be seen by a notice in another column that Mr. Robert Lemoine opens Bellevue to-day, where first class liquors and refreshments may be had. Bellevue always has had the reputation of being a cosy place, and under Mr. Lemoine's administration it will be more popular than ever.

It was very lively last night in front of and inside of Owen Farley's store. His sidewalk illuminations enable customers to see just what they are buying, and they purchase very largely of provisions and vegetables which they buy cheaper at Owen Farley's big grocery store than in the Southern Market.

The fleet and popular low pressure steamer Annie, Captain H. C. Baldwin, will make an excursion today to Montrose, Point Clear and return, leaving the slip between Conti and Dauphin streets, at nine o'clock this morning. An opportunity is thus afforded to visit the Saratoga of the south and witness the progress of the new hotel there.

Passing along Dauphin street yesterday morning, the reporter looked in at the establishment of the Singer Sewing Machine Company, of which Mr. N. Crane is agent. To be seen there then were parts of about seventy-five sewing machines of patterns other than the Singer, which were to be broken up and sent to the foundry for old iron. The idea was to make room for, with the sale of the Singer sewing machines, nor with the sale of spools of thread, of various colors, qualities and numbers, nor of the needles that are used in sewing with the Singer.

There will be some very charming music on the occasion.

The subject is one of special interest at this time—"Church and State." It will be treated, we have no doubt, with care and skill, and the Protestant population ought to desire to know what this excellent and learned prelate has to say in regard to it.

The purpose is to benefit the "Catholic Educational Society." The success of that will hurt no one. It won't bite anybody.

COMING TO TO FRASCATI.—All the world and the rest of mankind will go to see Paul Boyton today at the Arlington jetty. Gentlemen, and ladies with their escorts, who want to enjoy a little of the pleasures of Frascati can walk up from Arlington after the aquatic exhibition is over and wander in the gardens of Frascati or sit under the roof of the coliseum or some of the other buildings out there till nine o'clock at night and then come up on the street cars. We mention this for the benefit of those who want to participate in double enjoyments this evening.

WALKS AROUND TOWN.

At two o'clock yesterday morning the kitchen of a house next to the corner of Conti and Bayou streets was on fire. It was extinguished by the fire engines. Incendiarism is suspected.

The closing cotton quotations of the Board of Trade, yesterday were: Low ordinary 7¼@7¾; ordinary 9; good ordinary 10½; low mudding 11½; mudding 12¼; good mudding 13;

According to the Board of Trade reports, the cotton receipts yesterday at all ports were 8,229 bales: New Orleans 3,269, Galveston 1,068, Norfolk 940, Mobile 761, Savannah 482, Charleston 438.

Those in want of guns, rifles, pistols, pocket cutlery or fishing tackle should go to F. L. Gelbke, 14 Dauphin street, who is selling off his large stock at reduced prices. Great bargains can now be obtained there.

The noon cotton report of the Board of Trade yesterday was: "Market firm. Good demand and light supply on sale. Generally held ¼ and ¼ higher. Sales about 500 bales." Closing report: "Sales today 2000 bales. Market closed firm. Good and general demand."

Mr. Fr. Frank the famous confectioner, corner Dauphin and Claiborne streets, understands his business thoroughly, and as a result, his stock and fancy candies and his general confectionery are just exactly what his customers want. Buy of him.

The youngest saddlery in Mobile is that of L. M. McKinney & Co., 11 North Water. They are practical manufacturers and make a specialty of certain lines of work; and are also wholesale and retail dealers in every style and quality of saddles, harnesses, collars, bridles, whips and halters, and offer for sale every article of saddlery and harnesses at the lowest prices.

The famous stationer of No. 5 North Water street, Mr. J. K. Randall, whose house was established forty-five years ago, is popular with merchants in other lines of business and with others who go there to buy only small lots of stationery. His stock is large and his prices so small as to prompt those who have been there once to go again to Randall's when they are to obtain bargains.

The card of Messrs. Hodgson & Lightfoot, attorneys-at-law, No. 5 South Royal street, which appears again this morning, reminds us to say that this new law firm are safe legal advisers, who will promptly attend to the interests of their clients, and will conduct all cases entrusted to them with that fidelity which ensures a successful issue.

Before their removal from under Odd Fellows' Hall to their present location, corner of Franklin and Water streets, the firm of Ira W. Porter & Co. was noted for the extent and variety of its stock of general and house furnishing hardware. They have added largely to their stock, which embraces everything in that line of foreign and domestic hardware. They keep largely in white pine doors, sashes, blinds, and wood mouldings.

Of the wholesale grocers in this city none stand higher than Mr. Jas. McDonnell, of 9 and 11 North Commerce street. His extensive sales and large daily sales compel him to to replenish his stock every few days and it is, therefore always fresh. Mr. McDonnell deals largely in country produce and staple provisions, which he sells at competing prices, and every article of his stock of groceries is sold at the bottom figures.

The wholesale grocery and liquor house of Martin Horst is located at the corner of Conti, Commerce and Front streets. Staple and fancy groceries and provisions and the purest wines and liquors are embraced in his stock. A pioneer in the wholesale liquor and Kauffman lager beer trade, Mr. Horst has now become the agent of the Cincinnati Star Bottling Company, of whose goods he always has a large stock on hand at the lowest prices.

Messrs. Preston & Stetson, manufacturers and wholesale dealers in boots, shoes and hats, possess peculiar advantages for the supply of boots and shoes, as the centre of the boot and shoe trade and can take advantage of manufactures in that market at all times. Their house in Mobile was established in 1840. Their manufacture at close figures and are thus enabled to sell at the lowest prices.

At the grocery house of A. A. Voss & Co., 36, 38 and 40 South Commerce street, can always be found a fresh and carefully selected stock. They sell goods of the first quality at the most reasonable prices, and, therefore, give full satisfaction to their customers. Tois firm are also dealers in and manufacturers of naval stores and thus give employment to hundreds of working people in the turpentine regions of Baldwin and Mobile counties.

CLOTHING! CLOTHING!!—John Mispley Dauphin street is selling out at cost his immense stock of clothing.

GROCERIES AND FRUIT.—Mr. J. B. Chigazola, who deals largely in groceries and will deal extensively this year, at the southwest corner of Dauphin and Dearborn streets, in fruit of his own production, becomes a sort of public benefactor. Notwithstanding Mr. Chigazola's barn in the country, oxen, farming utensils, hay, etc., were recently burned by an incendiary, his fruit trees are uninjured. And unless some untoward accident shall occur, his fruit crop will be of customers with the finest and freshest fruit from his depot in this city, such as peaches, pears, plums, etc. He has always on hand a fine and carefully selected stock of choice family groceries, feed, etc. He also deals largely in foreign and imported domestic fruits. Mr. Chigazola will deliver goods in all parts of the city free of drayage. Give him a call and learn by practical observation, the advantages of purchasing at his house.

Messrs. Ober, Anderson & Co., at the Commerce street mills, have just received 25,000 Maine bricks, 750 barrels F. A. Star, 150 barrels Grand Tower and 100 barrels St. Landry flour. The proprietors of these mills deal extensively in meal, grits and feed of all kinds, including corn and oats in sacks and hay in bales, which they sell to retail dealers at wonderfully low prices. A busy scene is presented at the mills of this firm during their operations of grinding from Monday morning to Saturday night and a large amount of corn is converted into meal, grits and bran. They have a habit of taking advantage of the market and buying large lots of corn at very low prices, which enables them frequently to undersell other dealers. Their sales at the Commerce street mills are large, and their production of meal and grits also very large. Mr. F. P. Andrews is the general manager at these mills, and under his administration everything goes along with clock-work regularity. Visit the Commerce street mills and buy.

C. W. Gelbke's beer saloon, corner Government and Royal streets, has been beautifully ornamented lately. A magnificent sign hangs over the door leading to the gentlemen's reception room and is an admirable attraction. Western beer five cents per glass. Wines, liquors, etc., of the purest quality. Don't forget the sign, King Gambrinus.

Strangers visiting the city and our own citizens, who want to buy anything in the line of furnishing goods, should be sure to go to Hatton's, southeast corner of Dauphin and Royal, who has a large stock at small prices. Go to him to buy an umbrella for a rainy day, or a fancy necktie for the centennial season.

Pincus, corner Royal and Dauphin, sells fashionable clothing of durable fabric at the lowest prices. He has a large stock of furnishing goods, embracing everything in that line for men and boys.

The present proprietor of the Battle House, Major F. L. McGowan, manages it with remarkable success. The steam elevator which he has put in enables him to rate the floors and establish prices from $2 to $4 a day.

Selling off to close business, all of our best calicoes at 7 cents a yard at retail, and all other dry goods at prices to insure their immediate sale. Store for sale.

P. H. PEPPER & CO.

The Mobile Jockey Club will have three days' races commencing on the 30th instant. Liberal purses will be given. There are twenty horses now on the Magnolia course in training.

PANORAMA OF THE BIBLE.—The panorama of the Bible will be on exhibition at Odd Fellows Hall tomorrow and Tuesday and on each day there will be a matinee at twelve o'clock, an exhibition at half-past three (to afford an opportunity for school children to visit it,) and an exhibition commencing at eight o'clock in the evening. As this panorama will be on exhibition here only two days more, those who have failed to see it should avail themselves of the the last opportunities. Over 9000 feet of canvas are unrolled, and some of the finest views are presented of places made memorable in sacred history. One hour of their study will make a stronger and more vivid impression on the mind than weeks of reading. Do not fail to see the panorama of the Bible.

JUSTICE MCCOMICK.—W. B. F. Bates and Ben White were arrested for obtaining a gold watch and $18 in greenbacks from Emma Owens. They were held to bail in the sum of $500 each to appear before the city court to answer to the charge of obtaining money and the watch under false pretences. Bates gave the bonds and White is in jail in default of bail. Both the accused are colored. The pretence was that there were criminal charges against the Owens which they would report if she would give them the watch and money.

THE WEATHER YESTERDAY.—The wind blew, at 6:51 o'clock yesterday morning, 18 miles an hour at Indianola and 0 at Mobile. The temperature was 67 at Mobile, highest 72 at Key West, lowest 54 at Augusta.

At 3:51 o'clock yesterday afternoon the wind blew 16 miles an hour at Key West, 12 at Mobile and Montgomery and 18 at New Orleans. The temperature was at Augusta 80, Key West 78, Mobile and Montgomery 76, New Orleans and Savannah 74, Galveston 72, Corsicana 44.

Information was received here yesterday that a norther was blowing over Galveston and Indianola and storm signals were ordered up.

THE WALLACE SISTERS.—Of the Wallace Sisters, who will entertain Mobile citizens and visitors at the theatre to-morrow and Tuesday evenings, the St. Paul Pioneer Press says:

Miss Jennie is a most excellent actress, possessing real dramatic ability, and she enacted the double role of the poor neglected street girl, and the darling daughter of an aristocratic family, in the most bewitching and truthful manner, completely enlisting the sympathies of her auditors. She is pretty, naive, and original, and capable of portraying characters of much greater difficulty. Minnie was very fine as the noble hearted, but neglected printess' devil," and showed that she had studied the characteristics of the convenient little devils, who are always good and true, and who always turn out just as she did, the possessor of a large but long concealed fortune. She is, perhaps, the prettiest of the trio, a splendid pair of black eyes, decorations which printers always delight to honor. Maud, who appears as the wicked, kindhearted, nondescript negro woman, is said to be lovely, but showed neither beauty under a thick coat of lampblack, and reeled off a string of exaggerated Ethiopian sentiments which took in the house in a state of convulsions.

RIVER NEWS.

The only arrival yesterday was the steamer Hale, Captain Otis, from McLaren's Landing, with 112 bales of cotton, 4 sacks of cotton seed, 300 staves, a short list of sundries and a few passengers.

The John T. Moore went out for Selma and Montgomery with a splendid freight and about thirty-five passengers. The D. L. Tally, of Frank Stone's Grange Line, went out with an immense freight for Pickensville, including immense quantities of lumber, and a large number of passengers.

There will be no departure tomorrow.

The Mary from Montgomery, and the Emma No. 2, from Tuskaloosa, will be in tomorrow morning probably. They will both be due then.

JACQUETTE AT THE THEATRE.—Tomorrow evening the Wallace Sisters, Jennie, Minnie and Maud, supported by a full metropolitan company and grand orchestra will appear in the touching and beautiful romantic drama of "Jacquette." The Omaha Republican says of this play:

Last evening witnessed as fine an audience in the Opera House as has gathered there in the Opera House as has gathered there in many a day. The Wallace Sisters were on the bill, and their fame had preceded them. Whatever of clear and masterful merit could be in a crowded house, they had; whatever of worth there was in the play or the acting the audience had: for there was never a truly nor halt. With clock-like regularity the play progressed from beginning to end, gaining in interest with each act and culminating in a denouement that sent the audience home delighted with the performance, and ready to swear by the dashing Jack, the heroine of the drama.

It is a play full of impossible situations, yet so well acted, so elegantly costumed, so charmingly set to music, and acted with such vigor that the improbabilities are lost sight of, and the audience settle down to the enjoyment of such scenes, beguiled into enjoyment even against their own will. Critcism has no chance in a race with "Jacquette."

At the clothing and furnishing goods house of Brisk and Jacobson, 56 Dauphin, the rarest bargains may be secured in the purchase of a full suit of clothing or

WASHINGTON, March 6.—The community has only partially recovered from the shock occasioned by the Belknap exposure. It was one of those strokes coming so suddenly and unexpectedly that leave a person bewildered, scarcely able to react or realize. But the enormity of the crime and the awful moral of the matter are beginning to be appreciated, and people are wondering what is coming next. A certain class of Democrats have been about to-day exultant and boastful, predicting that this is but a shower before a terrible storm; but while such occurrences shake public confidence, it is trusted that the administration may have no more crimes to bear. Belknap betrayed his party, his President, his friends and himself; and no one here has a word of apology for him. "Let him suffer," every body says; "he has had our confidence, that he did not deserve, and we can not afford to give him our protection." No one feels so indignant as the President. To him Belknap owed all his advancement and prosperity, and so much more heinous was the betrayal. The President is more indignant from the fact that to the last moment Belknap deceived him, and their last communication was a deception on Belknap's part, as the President said to-day to a friend: "I have heard it said frequently that if I had no other virtues, it could not be said of me that I did not stand by my friends. But my friends must not try my forbearance too far." Last evening the President sent for a distinguished member of the Illinois delegation and talked very freely with him for about an hour or more, and told him the story of Belknap.

"On Thursday I had just finished my breakfast," said the President, "and was opening some letters in the drawing-room, when Secretary Bristow was announced. It was only a little after 9 o'clock, and I wondered why he came so early; but I invited him into the room, and we talked for a time over some matters referred to in my mail. After a time the Secretary said, 'Mr. President, there are some very sad stories in circulation about one of your Cabinet.' I told him I had not heard anything. The Secretary said they were dreadful stories, almost too bad to be believed. I inquired what they were, and the Secretary began to tell me, when in came Belknap and Chandler. Chandler looked very sober, and Belknap was changed so that you would hardly know him. He looked as if he had not slept for a week. I got up and shook hands with him, and asked him what was the matter. He went on to tell me, in an incoherent way, about the Congressional investigation, that it was going to damage him very much, and he said he had written his resignation and brought it with him. He took out the letter and I read it. I said to him that I would regret very much his leaving the Cabinet, for I had confidence in him. At that he burst into tears and took hold of my hand. I asked him the nature of the investigation, and his manner more than the words of his reply showed me that it was something of an unusual character. I understood that he was expecting an investigation that he could avoid by resigning; that the facts it exposed would not damage him so much as his wife. He spoke of his dead wife, too. I told him that he had a great many friends, and they would help him out, but he said it was impossible; that he had shouldered all the blame and would be ruined. He insisted that it would save me and the rest of the Government a great deal of trouble if his resignation was accepted. I tried again to induce him to wait awhile, but he said he must go before the committee that morning and wanted to tell them he was no longer an officer of the Government. So I wrote him a letter accepting the resignation, and, after thanking me for that and for what he called my kindness to him in the past, he went away with Chandler. Then Edmunds and Morton came in and they told me the whole story. I could not believe them, and sent a messenger for Bass, who, I understood, was a member of the investigating committee." The President said that if he had known the whole truth he would not have accepted the resignation as he did but would have suspended Belknap till the investigation was over. He was never so astounded in his life. There was no member of his Cabinet in whom he had more confidence. The Illinois gentleman suggested that he felt like having Belknap tried by a drumhead court-martial and shot, and the President replied that no one could feel worse than he did. After hearing the truth of the matter the President was so unsettled in mind that he was totally unfitted for business. His friends say they never saw him so completely unnerved. All the afternoon he spent with his son Ulysses walking down on the bank of the river back of the White House. Talking seemed to relieve his mind, and he spoke very freely to several gentlemen who called upon him.

A Letter by Dr. L. Pierce.

The Methodists of North Carolina (says the Montgomery Advertiser) proposes to celebrate the Centennial of Methodism in that State at Raleigh, commencing on the 12th of March inst. Bishop McTyeire is to deliver an address on the founders of Methodism. Dr. Lovick Pierce, having been invited to be present, responds in the following characteristic style:

"I take it for granted my North Carolina friend did not know I had lost my voice, so that I am seldom able even to pray in the family. I have made but one outstanding appointment in two years; but filled other men's places nearly every Sabbath. And now, as to North Carolina, how glad I would be to be in at this Centennial jubilee. I was born in Halifax county, North Carolina, near Roanoke river, March the 14th 1875. So you see, my 92d birth day will come off the last day of your centennial celebration. I was removed to South Carolina when a child, was raised in Barnwell District; heard my first Methodist sermon in August, 1801, by James Jenkins; was awakened under it, and converted in August, 1803; admitted as a traveling preacher in the South Carolina Conference in Charleston, Christmas week, 1804, and traveled Great Pee Dee Creek circuit in 1805.

That was the nearest I ever got to North Carolina, although half of it was in the conference. They stuck me down in Georgia as a young preaching elder in 1809; so I have given sixty-nine years out of my ninety-one to the ministry to dear old Georgia. South Carolina got from 1805 to 1808; Alabama, in Montgomery, 1843, and in Mobile 1843. All the balance here.

They still keep me on the effective list—the greatest honor of my life. It is what I have been—and not for what I am now. My dear native State has only got a few picked up sermons. Raleigh, I think, got one or two small editions in 1840. But I can hope, by the time the second centennial comes round, she will be all Methodists. I am now getting afraid of taking that so high.

Stand night travelling badly—cannot take care of myself. But I am bent upon fulfilling my place next May as one of your fraternal messengers to the M. E. Church general conference at Baltimore."

A Famous Woman.

When the news of the rower Hamill's death was flashed through the country, ten or eleven influential journals announced simultaneously that his niece of life was over. Some other papers alluded to the deceased as a gentleman and a sculler. The singular unanimity on the part of so many papers shows how hard up the biographers were that day. They were all in the same boat, as it were.

The largest organ in the world is in Albert Hall, London, and was built by Henry Willis, in 1870. It contains one hundred and thirty-eight stops, four manuals, and nearly ten thousand pipes, all of which are metal. The wind is supplied by steam power. Thirteen couplers connect or disconnect the various subdivisions of the organ, at the will of the performer.

The Andover (Pa.) Iron Furnace sold during last month, it is said, over one thousand tons of iron for 82 dollars less on a ton than the cost of production.

Arrested for Forgery.

We are pained and shocked to hear that Col. Jules Andrews, of Enterprise, was day before yesterday arrested for forgery. The amount of money involved said to have been appropriated by him is reported at $6,000 in gold, entrusted by Mr. Spencer, an elderly gentleman living near Paulding, entrusted to him to be safely deposited in Mobile, Ala. It is what I have been—and not for what I am now. My dear native State has only got a few picked up sermons. Raleigh, I think, got one or two small editions in 1840. But I can hope, by the time the second centennial comes round, she will be all Methodists. I am now getting afraid of taking that so high.

Stand night travelling badly—cannot take care of myself. But I am bent upon fulfilling my place next May as one of your fraternal messengers to the M. E. Church general conference at Baltimore."

A Famous Woman.

When the news of the rower Hamill's death was flashed through the country, ten or eleven influential journals announced simultaneously that his niece of life was over. Some other papers alluded to the deceased as a gentleman and a sculler. The singular unanimity on the part of so many papers shows how hard up the biographers were that day. They were all in the same boat, as it were.

The Grand Duchess Maria, whose death in St. Petersburg was recently announced by cable, was a remarkable woman in many respects. From her youth she showed wonderful intelligence and an uncontrollable temper, which only the despotic nature of her father proved capable of mastering. She was the eldest daughter of the Czar Nicholas, who is said to have been passionately fond of her; yet the violence of her nature seems to have caused him more than once to whip her with his own hand. She was the terror and despair of all her governesses and teachers; yet when she became of age she showed more erudition than any of her preceptors, and was the most liberal woman in granting pensions to all of them. She was too indolent to become a good musician or painter herself, but she was one of the best connoisseurs of music and painting in her country. Her physical development was unusually precocious. At fifteen years of age she looked already a woman; and when at twenty she was going to be wed to the Duke of Leutchenberg, who enjoyed the reputation of being the handsomest man in Europe, those who assembled at the wedding ceremony were so struck by the stately appearance of the young Duchess that in a few months her name became far and wide throughout Europe the synonym for womanly majesty. She outshown her own mother in the palace, not to speak of her sisters, and when she showed herself during her travels through the capitals of Europe she totally eclipsed Queen Victoria, so much admired at that time, and who, though they were both of the same age, looked by the side of the Grand Duchess Maria like a mere school girl. Upon the death of her first husband she contracted a morganitic marriage with one of her father's guardsmen, who was also celebrated for his herculean build and a remarkable manly beauty. The Czar, who was very angry on learning of this marriage, expelled the Count from the service, and ordered his daughter to take a trip abroad. By and by, however, and as the lady did not show any disposition to give in, the father reconciled himself with her, and acknowledged the marriage though he never consented to make the acknowledgment a public one.

The Ice Supply.

It is stated that although the crop of ice this season will be much less than usual, there will not be the scarcity which most persons feared. The Knickerbocker Company is bringing ice to this city over seven railroads, from the ponds in the interior. It has fifty-five barges, with a capacity for 45,000 tons of ice. These are sent to New Haven, Bridgeport and other places, at which the ice is delivered from the cars, and are then brought back to the city.

Ice is also brought from Massachusetts from ponds in Shaker Village, near Southwick and in East Hampton. At Shaker Village ice twenty-four inches thick is now obtained, and it is thought that the work here can be kept up until 1st of April. Ice is also gathered from thirty points on the Hudson and Rockland Lakes. Last year the whole crop was obtained in seven or eight days, and all the ice-houses of the Knickerbocker Company, having a total capacity of 900,000 tons, were filled by the 1st of February. This year the work was not begun until the 8th of February.—N. Y. Bulletin.

Arrested for Forgery.

We are pained and shocked to hear that Col. Jules Andrews, of Enterprise, was day before yesterday arrested for forgery. The amount of money involved said to have been appropriated by him is reported at $6,000 in gold, entrusted by Mr. Spencer, an elderly gentleman living near Paulding, entrusted to him to be safely deposited in Mobile, Ala. It is what I have been—and not for what I am now. My dear native State has only got a few picked up sermons. Raleigh, I think, got one or two small editions in 1840. But I can hope, by the time the second centennial comes round, she will be all Methodists. I am now getting afraid of taking that so high.

Stand night travelling badly—cannot take care of myself. But I am bent upon fulfilling my place next May as one of your fraternal messengers to the M. E. Church general conference at Baltimore."

A Famous Woman.

When the news of the rower Hamill's death was flashed through the country, ten or eleven influential journals announced simultaneously that his niece of life was over. Some other papers alluded to the deceased as a gentleman and a sculler. The singular unanimity on the part of so many papers shows how hard up the biographers were that day. They were all in the same boat, as it were.

MOBILE DAILY TRIBUNE

TUESDAY,.....March 14, 1876.

Winter came back yesterday. It will go away to-day or to-morrow.

We made two big "bulls" yesterday; but, being of Irish extraction, we have inherited a tendency towards that direction.

The residence of Col. P. T. Sayre, near Montgomery, at Verbena, was destroyed by fire last Saturday. Nearly every thing in it was consumed, including "a fine library." It was partly insured.

Mr. White of this state—so called—has done something wrong. At least the president has withdrawn his nomination as Chief Justice of Utah. White is now somewhat black in consequence of this melancholy accident.

The state militia, by act of the legislature, is to be organized as our division of eight brigades, having one major and eight brigadier generals. The governor has appointed J. T. Holtzclaw major general, and John H. Higley brigadier General for the first brigade, that of the Mobile section.

Dana, who has been nominated by the President as Minister to England, has not yet been confirmed by the Senate. There are charges against him that require investigation. One of them is that he was convicted in 1869 of stealing some copyrighted notes of a law book—known as "Wheaton's Laws of Nations." Fudge! They are getting over-fastidious at Washington.

The state election of New Hampshire is to be held to-day—Tuesday. The partisans are looking for it with some solicitude—every village that has a vote now making a great show in the party papers. The "Hog Wallow Masticulator" is sought. It gives the returns—40 votes for Jerubbaal Goodenough, and 31 for plain John Smith. The long name beat the short one. The parties were running for constable in Hog Wallow.

Our county members of the legislature have returned home, and, although they did an immense amount of work and most of it, we have no doubt, good work, they don't look as though they had been starved in Montgomery. We may say, also, that the Mobile representation was specially wise and worked with great diligence, and their influence in the councils was in a ratio with the taxes which is collected in Mobile for the state's uses.

We have received the first number of an eight page paper, dated Cornelle, called the "Journal of Progress." The conductor of it is Prof. Stelle, who has written much of what seemed to be interesting and useful agricultural matter for the Mobile Register. He does exalt the bottle Citronelle—thinks that that region is just the place that people who don't want to be sick and die ought to go to. A doctor there is unknown. There is no use for him. He would starve before "you could wink."

Much of this, we have no doubt, is true, for if they had theatres and masked balls, and such things, there would be no reason for purposes of health to run to Saratoga, or Long Branch, and similar pretentious and arrogant places.

The paper is full of very interesting matter, and is furnished at the pitiful price of sixty cents a year. It is to be published monthly.

Carpet-Baggers, &c.

We had better drop this word from our vocabulary, and it would also be well to let "scalawag" stay within the dictionaries.

And for a very simple reason: that as they are now handed about, they are doing harm.

The real "carpet-bagger" is a person who goes through the country picking up any "inconsidered trifles" that fall in his way. We have nearly got rid of him. When he comes to settle among us, he ceases to be a carpet-bagger. Doesn't he? We want this kind of carpet-baggers—just as many as we can get. We are constantly inviting them in one column of our papers, and persecuting him in another—the two standing side by side, and both being neutralized by the stupendous folly.

The predilections naturally engendered by the war were some excuse for this; but the war—that is the fighting part of it—is over—has been over for more than ten years—time enough, one would suppose, for a return to sanity which discovers that prejudice or persecution is not what is to educe out of our land the wealth that requires skill, labor and numbers.

Under the condition of 1866, and thereabouts, we were all "rebels," and not many of us yet repent for what we were then prior to that time. Perhaps it is better as it is. The ways of Providence are very mysterious, but not a bit more mysterious than the ways of the politicians.

Let us look into this a moment. Of course, the conquerers of the South could not with any wisdom make the conquered its officers; and the result was the sending hither of the "truly loyal" to fill all the offices that were within the control of the government. No doubt many of them were adventurers, but of no purpose, except to increase "their stores." That was also natural. A conquered country is a field from which the "bummers" steal. It is, however very sorrowful to know that the stealing is not confined to us poor wretches here within the South. We have not got much that will tempt a heroic rogue—except, perhaps, in the way of railroads—and the result is that the chief stealing is done at the North, and rogues do it good, and in grand style. Unfortunately for us, we have to help to "pay the shot." That is bad; but how can it be helped?

The "carpet-baggers" and the "scalawags" took care of themselves. They got what was going. There are very few of us who would not have jumped at an opportunity to get it.

Until a profound sense of public virtue shall have become fixed among our people—until the citizen who has no chance of stealing shall exercise the power, that, by ballot, he has, shall refuse to use it for the making of nurseries of rogues, there can be no hope of reform or the immeasurable evils that confront us every day and destroy the appetite of every person who has—nothing to eat.

We want true men at the head of all our affairs. Otherwise, we shall have to pay more for the cost of government than it is worth.

In the South, we desire to have new-comers—not officeholders or office-seekers. We have enough of the latter—something too much of them. We want to force out of our soil the riches which lie within it.

And we cannot bring these persons as long as strangers are called "carpet-baggers," nor can we infuse harmony among our people while the word "scallawag" is put on the man who is living and striving among us—for what? Why his own comfort—real or imaginary.

This is the great evil of the time, and it ought to be removed as soon as possible. That is if we desire to see this state and our other Southern states running rapidly to prosperity.

Disraeli.

The Galaxy for March has an article headed "Vivian Grey Grown Old."

"It is beyond doubt," remarks the writer who is Justin M'Carthy, "that Mr. Disraeli is not growing into a lovely old age. He was very handsome once upon a time, and even when very elderly retained the striking and picturesque appearance which one sees to attract all eyes. Now, when he throws his head back on the arm of the bench behind him, his face seems as worn, yellow, waxed and mummified as that of the Wandering Jew might be supposed to be by this time. His voice, however, is as strong as ever. Age has not taken him, as Othello did his unreasoning Turk, by the throat."

We recollect seeing two pictures of Disraeli. The one was taken when he was about twenty-one years of age. It showed a young person that a school-girl would have instantly fallen in love with. He was clad with a wonderful degree of daintiness. On his feet were what used to be called "pumps"—his hair looked like that of a belle—his hands were covered with gloves that were amazing in their costliness, and the most delicate lace ruffles halt covered them.

It was a charming young man, and he was going to visit that charming woman, Lady Blessington.

The second picture was that taken a couple of years ago. The old gentleman was in his coach, looking as if life had lost all its charms. He was then without personal adornments. The rings on his fingers had been laid aside. The hat he wore was of what is called the "stove-pipe" fashion—very ugly, as every one knows who walks about our Mobile streets.

But that is not much. The dainty costume had given place to a simple and plain one. That became the eminent gentleman; but it was not that which attracted attention. The worn-out look made the picture interesting, when contrasting it with that of his youthful life, and yet, we have no doubt, he has a wiser head on his shoulders than he had in that long-time ago.

What a pity it is that men and women will get old—and then not to be content in their old age. Age brings with it wisdom. If it could bring in the same degree love, it would be pleasant to be very old.

There is not a happy man under the canopy. We have heard of one, whose story is told by Walter Scott, and that was of an Irishman, who had no shirt to his back. "Content is rich and rich enough." Pat had this, and he didn't care about the shirt. Perhaps, he was what is called "tight."

Disraeli, although he has attained the highest position that is possible for a British subject—honored by his queenly Mistress, and respected by all the party that he is so potent a member of—is not happy. That is, if the picture be a true representation.

We have no great admiration for any of this gentleman's books. We have read some of them with a labor like that Sisyphus; but a man who has risen as high as he has, among a people that accepts nothing but merit for great trust and distinction, must be of no ordinary mental capacity.

The theatre on Sunday night was crammed to hear and see Messrs. Whittle and Bliss. On the stage were several well-known representatives, as it were, of each of the various Protestant churches. The Catholic, of course, was not there, although we saw several of that faith in the audience.

The performance was very interesting. First, Rev. Dr. Burgett delivered an elegant prayer—the audience rising. Then followed some appropriate music from Mr. Bliss, and succeeding that was another prayer, when the sermon, or lecture, began. Mr. Whittle is evidently an earnest man and familiar with scriptural texts. He seems to be what we should call a universal Protestant.

That is, he takes the general Protestant view of the Scriptures, and gives no heed to the sectarian views which divide the churches in matters which are not essential to any man's salvation. In short, he evidently desires to succeed in making Christians, without regard to the particular form that they may assume.

His text was: "The Wages of Sin is Death," and he applied, and illustrated, it in various ways. The advice that he gave, especially to young men, we hope will not be like seeds sown in stony ground, where most of them never fructify. If a few grow into the making of fruit, much will be accomplished. The husbandman will not then have thrown away all his labor. We are certain that this will be the result of the work of these gentlemen. The great thing in religion is to make it stick; but it it be only temporary in its influence, it will do good—for if a man be pious for a day, he has one seed which may ultimately grow into a form of beauty. The wickedest man may pray, when surrounded by difficulties. Some of this kind have been on shipboard when the vessel was supposed to be sinking. Then, we do they thought the Archenemy was catching at their souls, they fell down on their knees and prayed. The vessel escaped destruction; and they returned to their evil ways; but, there was in that prayer seed something that might grow.

Who knows?

An earnest, heart-felt prayer is religion of the best kind: that is if it be not merely formal. The duty of life is very simple. We express it, not literally, in this form: do unto others as you desire them to do to you. Why, if there were nothing in the Good Book but this, it might be considered a divine revelation—for it comprises the whole duty of men in their intercourse. If properly obsered, it will make the highest form of Christianity—for if a man be true to his fellow-man, he must, in the nature of things, be true to God.

The forms of religion are needed to gather influence for good. They are not the essential elements. They are used for the castigation or encouragement of the heedless, the indifferent, or those who may seem to be incorrigible.

All our subscribers are so good that we shall not be able to instruct them in this recondite matter.

The meeting at the theatre was not, as far as we could see, in any way a sectarian one. The "converted" as they are called, were not instructed to join any particular church. The object appeared to be to direct the serious attention of the audience to the necessity of some religion. At least—from the manner of it—this was our conclusion.

But we are beginning to preach; and that is not our profession.

So we shall stop right here.

The bill for the admission of New Mexico as a state passed the United States Senate last Friday. Vote 35 to 15.

Something new and useful, for which agents are wanted in every city and town throughout the state, can be seen at the hardware store of Caleb Price, northwest corner of Conti and Water streets. The invention is simple and its use is a necessity in every household. Mr. Allingham will explain it at Mr. Price's store.

The noon cotton report of the Board of Trade yesterday was: "Market firm. Active demand, light supply. Sales about 1500 bales." Closing report: "Sales today 2500 bales and 2000 Saturday evening. Market closed strong and bare of cotton. Market opened active and firm, but closed quiet. Limited supply, restricting operations."

Minnie Pail, once a variety actress in Mobile, now a variety actress in New Orleans, did not like to be annoyed by Nicholas Boulas who had been in the habit of following her and at length entered her residence 16 Jefferson street, when she shot him in the left arm with a revolver. Minnie was arrested and locked up, and Boulas was sent to his residence.

At Bull's Head, on the St. Stephens road, about three miles from Mobile, Sunday evening, the pistol was used between William Cleveland, jr., and Perry Ryals. Mr. Cleveland was seriously and perhaps mortally wounded, while his opponent escaped with only one or two scratches. There had been a previous difficulty between the parties and they met to have a fight.

The city treasurer cremated yesterday city scrip of various issues, to the amount of $11,309 30—of the issue of 1875, $10,000; of the issue of 1873, $1,299; of the issue of 1865, $10 30. The scrip was burned in the presence of Alderman Smith and Councilman Kirkbride of the ways and means committee, the mayor and the city auditor. The whole amount of the issue of 1873 that has been burned is $189,177 50, and $75,000 of the issue of 1875.

THROUGH THE STATE.

Lose no time in getting in potatoes, beets, carrots, parsnips, radishes and lettuce.

There are about two hundred hands at work on the Alabama and Chattanooga Railroad just below Carthage.

Cattle are cheap. A yoke of oxen and a wagon sold at auction on the first instant at Columbiana for $27 50.

The tannery of Z. D. & Z. H. Carroll, in Pickens county, makes leather of a superior quality in the short time of thirty days.

The Cedar Bluff Grange has offered a perse of $20 to the member raising the best acre of corn, and the same amount for the best acre of cotton.

Chufas are not only an excellent substitute for chestnuts, but they will produce more food for swine and poultry than anything ever introduced. They are largely raised in the interior.

The Cherokee Advertiser has already heard of commission merchants boasting that they would buy the next crop of cotton for ten cents a pound. The Advertiser advises farmers to plant less cotton this year.

The Carrollton West Alabamian says many of the farmers have already commenced planting corn, while others are busy as bees preparing their grounds and reconstructing fences.

W. W. Boasley is about to enter on the publication of a new paper at Moscow, to be called the Hornet, the first number of which will appear on the 19th instant. It will be likely to sting somebody.

A little negro boy in Green county was thrown from a mule he was riding, and his foot becoming entangled, was dragged six miles through the woods until his body was entirely torn to pieces.

The Shelby Iron Company have chartered a vessel at Pensacola and will ship five hundred tons of pig iron to the eastern markets, via that route. Twenty-four car loads were shipped on the first instant and the balance was to follow as fast as cars could be obtained. Why did not the Shelby Iron Company charter a vessel at Mobile?

The farmers of Pickens county are busy ploughing, and with marked zeal. Ginning is about over, cotton sold, and the sunny smiles of last spring have returned to the hardy visages of the country boys, who merrily plough, grub, fence and haul by day and often after the sun has gone down.

Old Red mountain in this state, there is a perpendicular bluff of solid iron ore, thirty-two feet high and several hundred feet broad. It is in contemplation to cut off a section of this bluff and transport it to the Centennial Exposition. It will have to be got out in manageable pieces of course; but these can and will be re adjusted on reaching Philadelphia, so as to correctly represent the entire unbroken section of ore. It will represent but a few feet, longitudinally, out of the one hundred miles of such ore covering Red mountain for that distance and yielding 53 per cent. of metal.

MOBILE AND OHIO RAILROAD.—The New Orleans Picayune of Sunday states that last Friday evening in chambers Judge Woods heard an application to file a bill in the district of Alabama on the part of Messrs Kesterton and others, of New York, with the intent of displacing the present receivers of the Mobile and Ohio Railroad Company, Messrs. Duncan and Elliott. Mr. Andrews and Messrs. Lasbrey and Aroni and B. F. Jones appeared for the motion, and Judge Jno. A. Campbell and Chas. E. Whitehead, Esq., for the defendants. After a lengthy argument Judge Woods finally granted the application.

THE AQUATIC EXHIBITIONS.—The final and farewell aquatic exhibitions of Captain Paul Boyton, off Arlington last Sunday were very well attended considering the blustering winds and cool weather, consequent on the norther that visited us after the rain of Saturday night and Sunday morning. Great numbers of people went down to Arlington and saw Captain Boyton make his fourteen experiments in the life-saving dress. They suffer'd some from the chilly winds, but were delighted with the exhibitions, which were a perfect and entire success.

MAYOR'S COURT.—In this court yesterday morning, Major Hartel presiding, Hilary Johnson, for a drunk, fined $2 50. Job Dunder, colored youth, arrested as a dangerous and suspicious character, was sentenced to thirty days work for the city. Frank Sibley, for disorderly conduct, was fined $5. Syivester Jones, while on a drunk, used vile language in a Spring Hill car. Fined $5. Tom Tay lor, colored, drunk and down, was fined $5.

MUNRO'S LOOK.—This domestic drama, written by Jno. Brougham, will be produced by the Wallace Sisters at the theatre this evening. Of it and them, the Memphis Avalanche says:

That the drama elicited a very universal satisfaction was abundantly demonstrated by the enthusiastic recognition which greeted all the many brilliant situations with which the piece is replete, and where all the talented company abundantly preserved their laurels by graceful, artistic and thoroughly realistic conceptions and impersonations of the several parts for which they were individually cast. It would be invidious to particularize. Miss Jennie Wallace, the beautiful impersonator of the heroine, gave an exhibition of first class realization of character. As the humble street "waif," or the petted belle of society, she has the truly artistic faculty of adapting herself completely to the situation. She was ably supported by the little sisters, Minnie and Maud, who very acceptably sustained the characters of Toby Dick and Cleopatra, and the assistance of their company and superb orchestra rendered the performance exceedingly entertaining.

CIRCUIT COURT.—In this court yesterday, Judge Toulmin on the bench, several cases of no special interest to the public were disposed of. The suit for $5,000 against Mingis and Maud, who very recently sustained the characters of Toby Dick and Cleopatra, and the assistance of their company and superb orchestra rendered the performance exceedingly entertaining.

THE Cedar Bluff Grange has offered a perse of $20 to the member raising the best acre of corn, and the same amount for the best acre of cotton.

Chufas are not only an excellent substitute for chestnuts, but they will produce more food for swine and poultry than anything ever introduced. They are largely raised in the interior.

The Cherokee Advertiser has already heard of commission merchants boasting that they would buy the next crop of cotton for ten cents a pound. The Advertiser advises farmers to plant less cotton this year.

The Carrollton West Alabamian says many of the farmers have already commenced planting corn, while others are busy as bees preparing their grounds and reconstructing fences.

W. W. Boasley is about to enter on the publication of a new paper at Moscow, to be called the Hornet, the first number of which will appear on the 19th instant. It will be likely to sting somebody.

A little negro boy in Green county was thrown from a mule he was riding, and his foot becoming entangled, was dragged six miles through the woods until his body was entirely torn to pieces.

The Shelby Iron Company have chartered a vessel at Pensacola and will ship five hundred tons of pig iron to the eastern markets, via that route. Twenty-four car loads were shipped on the first instant and the balance was to follow as fast as cars could be obtained. Why did not the Shelby Iron Company charter a vessel at Mobile?

The farmers of Pickens county are busy ploughing, and with marked zeal. Ginning is about over, cotton sold, and the sunny smiles of last spring have returned to the hardy visages of the country boys, who merrily plough, grub, fence and haul by day and often after the sun has gone down.

Congress.

Nothing of much interest has been determined in Congress. That difficult question concerning gold and currency is there, but it is a perplexing subject for the party leaders to manage. It is quite likely that they may give it the go-by until after the presidential election. The Democrats as well as the Republican members are very much troubled about it, and it is probable that both sides will let it alone for the present. There will be much talk in respect of it—but this will lead to nothing, but the transferring of it to the next Congress.

Perhaps, this is the part of wisdom, for when in doubt in this kind of business, it were, perhaps, better to go along slowly. In the game of whist, when in doubt, trump. Whether this is applicable to the game of politics is what we have not sufficient knowledge, to answer accurately.

The number of deaths in Montgomery last month was 25—whites 8, colored 17.

New Orleans has an advantage over the West. It has got "crooked" cotton. Messrs. Bellocq-Noblom are accused of it. Their case is now before a court, but no definitive conclusion in respect of it has been given.

TELEGRAPH

DOMESTIC.

NEW ORLEANS, March 12.—This morning at three o'clock the ship Majestic, Captain Gibbons, loading for Liverpool, with 3,500 bales of cotton on board, was struck by lightning, and the cargo set on fire and more or less damaged to the extent of $50,000. The damage to the vessel is $600.

NEW YORK, March 12.—Daniel Drew has gone into voluntary bankruptcy. He says his liabilities will probably amount to $500,000.

A cable dispatch from London announces that Lord Aylsford's wife has eloped with the Marquis of Blandford, eldest son of the Duke of Marlborough. Lord Aylsford was called home from India on urgent affairs some time ago.

A London dispatch says the steamer California, from Glasgow for New York, has returned to Queenstown with her machinery damaged.

A special to the Times, dated St. Louis 11th, says a special dispatch from San Antonio, Texas, states that the men who have sold most of the post tradeships in Texas are Gen. John M. Hedrick, of Ottumwa, Iowa, at present Collector of Internal Revenue of that State, through his agent at Leighton, who was sent out to Texas in the spring of 1871. A claim agent of Washington city is also mentioned in this connection.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 13.—Engine No. 25 of the Indianapolis, Bur ington and Western railway exploded in Union depot at 12:20 this morning, and Engineer Moore, of Cincinnati, Hamilton and Indianapolis Railroad, instantly killed. The west end of the depot was partly demolished, and it is possible that others may be found in the ruins dead.

ST. LOUIS, March 13.—Accounts of the tornado which passed over part of Northeastern Missouri Friday say the little town of Novelty, in Monroe county, was entirely demolished, two persons killed and twenty wounded, the hindrances and drawbacks that hourly interpose between the visitations of justice and their separation, and you have as general an idea of a chancellor prince as of him who committed to prison the heir apparent to the British crown.

In the diversity of his characteristics his honor is still more remarkable. The spontaneity of his ideas are as wonderful as the chaste diction of his writings. The capacity of his pen in the researches of his labors is sufficient to inspire the fullest amount of assurance, that the proverbial delays are to him so many unfriendly scapa'ntances. In the furtherance of the overthrow of vexed and tumultuous irregularities, he more than once gave occasion for alarm. He disregards times, and seasons, and occasions, by declaring that at all times, occasions and places, the court, in his par-on, is always open, and his discretion unslumbering and undebated.

His exposition of a case to a jury is, perhaps, of all others, the most marvellous demonstration of painstaking and attention. It was when thus engaged that we realize with what unusual vigilance he watches over the life of the case, and displays that remarkable faculty of analysis so characteristic of his mind. In this task his attentions from the technical requirements of written and constructive law to the science of the human understanding, are so full of reasoning alike relief to the perplexed twelve, as to inspire them with reverence for the wisdom that forestalls their doubts. The most minute and apparently irrelevant circumstance is candidly seized with the necessary qualifications, and personal or give them validity, and the reasonable bar is often the barrier against active legislation, is easily discovered if it at all exists.

The opinions of the court have already excited attention and are now esteemed the best source from which professional advancement can be derived. McDonell, 3 shocks, 6 bills wheels 15 boxes glass 10 pkgs mdse Murphy, 1 bdl 3 boxes of these treasures of reference are known and widely appreciated, being models of learning, inquiry and incessant application. As each volume appears more and better chronicle of the doctrines of Aylesbury and Coke are worthily upheld in the trenches. The Egyptian losses were heavy but their victory was complete.

Hon. William B. Woods.

The New Orleans Picayune has been publishing an interesting series of "bar sketches." The very last is of Hon. Wm. B. Woods, judge of the United States circuit court, which is appended:

The galaxy of the profession in the variety of appearances hastens forward as the approach of the learned expounder, whose characteristics are so varied as to monopolize all that I attribute to the best intellect that adorns the southern circuit. The equity of the law as I take it, rather than its insufficiency, is the key note of its ailment exclusively belongs. The quiet conscience he wields the influence of the consentaneity, to vindicate the purposes of society, the perogatives of the monarch. The nature of station is the safeguard and the arena loyalty of the triumphs is the forum. I have thus outlined the essential requisites of a great lawyer, and have learned from his own lips the purposes of his exalted station—to bring swift and sure justice to the door of every man.

The above are outlines of his rank, bearing no title but the great-ess of his character, and the praise which the profession shall vouchsafe in no story, set him apart and above his surroundings, and I have to regret him from this sentence while I add this mite as the forerunner of his public history. The judiciousness of his opinions, his ancestry equal in character to the fame of eastern civilization, may well approve him in the picture I portray; and if omissions as to his great qualities make me guilty of indifference it is only because of my own incapability. The splendid ornamentation of his genius; the rapid profusion of learning and the refinement that bespeaks his training; the vigor that so seas onably refreshes the results of his laborious study, are as titles to a higher nobility than the jealousy of our institutions are willing to concede—and to all those his public protestations against

Theatre.

There was a large audience at the theatre last night; and it was pleased. Those "Wallace Sisters" are right charming young ladies. We mean that they are charming in person, and in their dramatic skill. The gentlemen in the play we shall not compliment. Compliments are for ladies, not gentlemen. The piece was excellently performed by all the characters. To-night a new piece is to be represented, with the three attractive ladies in it. A young man will not lose any pleasure in seeing it. Perhaps he may lose his heart, but that may be not much.

The Bishop's Lecture.

The lecture at the Cathedral to-night of Bishop Quinlan will no doubt attract a large audience. It will have three specific merits.

First, the lecture itself on an extremely interesting, and constantly growing importance in this country.

Secondly, there will be some admirable music on the occasion, and,

Thirdly, the purpose is one of charity. To this, our people, without distinction of sectarianism, have generally responded with admirable liberality. We are sure that will attract some of them.

But there is more interesting matter than that in the case—what a learned prelate has to say in respect to the "Church and State."

There is now a cognate question, as between Germany and Rome.

If the Bishop will explain how and why there are dissensions in this respect he will enlighten, if not convince a great many persons who are ignorant, but want knowledge on the subject.

Many persons in preparing potatoes for cooking pare off a thick slice from the surface instead of digging out the eyes. The skinning process is all wrong, as the strength of the vegetable lies near the surface, the starch growing less abundant as the center is approximated. The best way is to scour them well, and either bake or boil them with the skins on.

A young lady in Chicago has been assisting her father in his drug store. The other day a prescription for a sick baby was sent in, the young lady filled it, and next day the baby's father went down town to buy a coffin. The lady had used arsenic instead of soda, and when remonstrated with by her father unconcernedly answered: "Well, pa, we had no soda, and arsenic was the nearest shade that matched.

In the House of Commons (at London March 10,) Mr. Bourke, in an address to the House, denied that the United States Minister, Schenck, had resigned his position as Minister to England, in consequence of any representations made to the United States authorities by the English government.

He entered a car door. When the brakeman came inside and took a key out of his pocket, unlocked the stove, put in some wood, and locked the stove again, he asked him what he locked the stove door for The brakeman shut his left eye, and said he locked the door so the fire couldn't go out.

The Elmira Advertiser says a doctor in that place removed a tape worm "from a lad that was ninety-six feet long and had over eleven hundred joints." Well, a boy as long as that ought to have eleven hundred joints.—Utica Herald.

A profane young person describing the looks of a newly arrived M. C. from the far West as he appeared at the Washington depot, says: "He looked as if he had come all the way across the continent on the railroad track of a quilt."

Don't.

Don't throw dust in your teacher's eyes. It will injure the pupil.

Don't worry about the ice crop. Keep cool, and you will have enough.

Don't boast of your pedigree. Many a fool has had a wise ancestor.

Don't write long obituaries. Save some of your kind words for those living.

Don't publish your acts of charity. The Lord will keep the account straight.

Don't mourn over fancied grievances. Bide your time, and real sorrow will come.

Don't be too sentimental. A dead heart properly cooked will make a savory meal.

Don't ask your pastor to pray without notes. How else can he pay his provision bill?

Don't ask the Lord to keep your garments unspotted." He isn't running old clothes.

Names of the Mississippi.

General J. H. Simpson has in his possession a manuscript letter, of an old date, addressed to him by Frantz Mayer, president of the Baltimore Academy of Natural Science, in which he gives the names he remembered to have seen in the course of his reading applied to the Father of Waters by the Indians, Spanish and French. Mr. Mayer adds in his note that it would be well to record them for preservation, probably to be augmented in number by other students of American history. The following is Mr. Mayer's list:

Indian names—Micho, king of rivers.

Namosi-sipon, Fish river.

Missee-seepe.

Malbouchin, according to Iberville.

French names—Riviere de St. Louis, River de Colbert, Mississippi.

The Venice Ptolemy of 1513 lays it down, or at least marks a river without a name at the site of the embouchure. Orbus Typus, 1515; Pinedas, May, 1518; other Ptolemys, 1525. Cobeza de Vacs saw it in 1528. De Soto crossed it in June, 1541, and died in Louisiana, on the west bank of the Mississippi river, opposite the mouth of the Big Black river, May 21, 1542.—St. Louis Republican.

Go to Texas, young man—go immediately. The sooner you go the sooner you will get back and settle down contented in your good old native state.

Cotton.

From the New York World, 11th inst.

The speculation in cotton has for a week or more been of the most excited character, attended with a considerable advance in prices, especially in contracts for future delivery. There had been a sharp decline, under the large receipts at the ports (which are now 530,000 bales over the previous crop) and the rapid decline in Liverpool, where there was a fall to a fraction over sixpence for middling uplands, touching the lowest point since the late civil war. But this decline was watched with nervous eagerness by parties who were determined to purchase freely whenever it should become apparent that the market had "touched bottom." The "bull movement," as it is called, has been a little weakened at times by the free receipts at New Orleans and Memphis; but it has derived support and encouragement from the fact that stocks are now but little larger than one year ago, notwithstanding the large receipts at the ports, while the quality is not so good, and consumption has undoubtedly been increased by the lower prices of cotton goods. The Chronicle thinks that possibly the lower prices may diminish the acreage planted for the next crop but this will probably not extend beyond a few localities. The crop of East India cotton promises to be smaller than last year, and this fact adds to the difficulty of estimating the future course of prices.

The Moon and The Weather.

The notion that the moon exerts an influence on the weather is so deeply rooted that, notwithstanding all the attacks which have been made against it since meteorology has been seriously studied, it continues to retain its hold upon us. And yet there never was a popular superstition more utterly without a basis than this one: If the moon really did possess any power over the weather, that power could only be exerted in one of three ways—by reflection of the sun's rays, by attraction, or by emanation. No other form of action is conceivable. Now, as the brightest light of a full moon is never equal in intensity or quantity towards that which is reflected towards us by a white cloud on a Summer day, it can scarcely be pretended that weather is affected by such a cause. That the moon does exert attraction on us is manifest—we see its working in the tides; but though it can move water, it is most unlikely that it can do the same to air, for the specific gravity of the atmosphere is so small that there is nothing to be attracted. Laplace calculated, indeed, that the joint attraction of the sun and moon together could no stir the atmosphere at a quicker rate than five miles a day. As for lunar emanations, not a sign of them has ever been discovered. The idea of an influence produced by the phases of the moon is therefore based on no recognizable cause whatever. Furthermore, it is now distinctly known that no variations at all really occur in the weather at the moment of the changes of quarter, any more than ordinary times. Since the establishment of meteorological stations all over the earth, it has provided by millions of observations that there is no simultaneousness whatever between the supposed cause and the supposed effect. The whole story is a fancy and a superstition which has been handed down to us uncontrolled, and which we have accepted as true because our forefathers believed it. The moon exercises no more influence on weather than herrings do on the Government of Switzerland.—Blackwood.

Half the people who are making this uproar over the exclusion of the Bible from the public schools couldn't tell on their own responsibility whether the book of Genesis was written by St. Paul or Hamlet.—Danbury News.

MOBILE DAILY TRIBUNE

WEDNESDAY,....March, 5, 1876.

Jefferson college, Philadelphia, sent forth last Saturday 146 doctors of medicine. That was the number of graduated students.

It is said at Washington that Gov. Kellogg has appointed ex-Gov. Warmoth to fill the place in the U. S. Senate that Mr. Pinchback lost. The only question is as to the legal right of the appointment. The Senate can settle that.

There is rascality outside of the United States. The Banquede Belgique, at Brussels was recently robbed of 6,000,000 francs by one of the clerks of the institution, Mr. Kinnit, called Secretary General of the institution. He was arrested at Queenstown before he could get on a steamer to fetch him to New York, where there are no thieves.

A Golden Goose.

Senator Sharon of Nevada, was banqueted at the Palace Hotel in San Francisco recently. More than half of the guests were millionaires, and the remainder were to be, immediate danger of poverty. The bills of fare were engraved on solid silver dug from the Comstock lode, and were retained by the guests as souvenirs of the occasion.—Exchange.

It is also said—but the newspapers do not always make themselves as truthful as the multiplication table—it is also said that Sharon's coal scuttles are of solid gold—not washed over with some deceptious yellow device, but the real thing. Our Mobile rich people never waste on coal scuttles what is now fourteen per cent. above par. They give the gold to the poor, and find more useful scuttles in that more useful metal, iron, of which immeasurable quantities may be got in the interior of this state.

A rich man ought to be generous; but even he ought not to make a fool of himself by wasting that which would carry comfort to the poor, who "are always with us."

Riches sometimes take wings. This is from the good book, and much heed ought to be given to what it says.

The wealthy Senator may understand this, if he waste his substance in the very reprehensible way he now seems to be doing.

The "whirligig of time." He ought to think of that.

Some small towns of the North—in which term we include all the States not of the South—the Republicans have gained victories—increased their majorities; and, as this is the year of the Centennial and the quadrennial national hubbub, we must look for wonderful narratives in the newspapers.

Both parties are now in travail.

If the party in power will throw them off, by convicting the rogues, it will relieve itself of a great load.

Christian, in the Pilgrim's Progress, had a large pack on his back. It was sin. He was no better than he ought to have been, when he started out. Perils he met at every step, but, little by little, the burden became lighter, and it finally fell from his shoulders. He got across the river which separates good from bad, and was happy.

Let the administration do as Christian did, and the party may get across the river.

What is to be let on this side of it is not for us to forecast, or vaticinate.

We only know that it is possible to see that there is evidence of a return to political virtue; or, rather, to that respect of the people for that kind of virtue. It is not much, at best—but it will go far to restore the country to something like what one, in private life would call the decencies.

The Democratic party has its troubles on hand, and the chief of them is the financial matter. That is full of trickery, but the people—not familiar with the intricate business, cannot see it, and won't be made to see it, although they will finally have to pay for the knowledge which they are certain to receive from experience.

The ballots of Hon. Courtship in the engagement or seige, the proposal is the assault, and matrimony the victory.—Exchange.

Whose victory? The metaphor has a limp; but it serves our purpose. Two individuals—a man and a woman—are struggling to get into close communion. They don't go to fighting. They try each to please the other; and each obtains a victory—for there are two victories in the case. The first business, after success, that lies before them, is to please and help each other. Without this desire, we begin to think would have been wise if it had been applied to our political relations. The husband may break the household all to pieces, and all that is within it, or he and his wife may dishonor it; but they must, after all, dwell together; and that decree makes each party understand that divorce would be ruinous and, as the political doctors say, that is not now possible.

But, if it were possible, is it desirable? We think not.

At all events, we two, North and South, are joined together, and those who have the power declare that there shall be no divorce.

Well, one must submit to power; and when this is understood, why it were folly to resist it. What, then, is the best to be done?

Each to attend to his own business, and try to make himself prosperous by labor of some kind—not any kind of stealing. We have had something too much of that.

In submitting in this way to the inevitable, there is no yielding of any principle that a person may cherish in relation to political rights.

We have a profound belief in what is called "State Rights." We believe that a state has logically, from this postulate, to go any way that its people direct it.

We believe in the right of revolution.

But we also believe that what is abstractly right is often concretely wrong.

It was a lack of knowledge of this simple fact that made the leaders of the Confederacy plunge us into the late war.

There were few of the temperate men who would use their influence to stem this headlong current. The hotheads and indiscreet threw among our people their ideas, and, as there seems to be a fighting disposition among our young men, they went into the war with a vim—not caring for the motives of those who precipitated it.

All of us had to follow the example, and the result is now before us. Peace, success would not have finally bettered our condition.

This is of the past. Let us see how the future can be made to serve the comforts and happiness of the innumerable throngs of innocent little children that are growing up around us.

Here, now young man, you who have nothing to do—and, perhaps, wouldn't do it, if you had it—you are a man, or one may suppose so from your habiliments. It is your business to protect these little chaps and little girls—to feed and, if necessary, to fight for them.

You must do this—for, unless you have this manly purpose, you had better join the "innumerable throngs" that go down to the rivers and drown themselves, or hang themselves, or jump from high places in order to break their miserable necks.

One of the things which most vex us—and, really, is what leaves one without hope of the future of the country—is the apparent indifference to our political affairs of most of the "boys," so-called, who are just as thoughtless on this subject as the shoes they are wearing out.

From this there can come no citizenship that is worthy of respect.

The stability of a republic or this country is called—is in the individual character of its men and women.

If the government fail, or be corrupt, it is due to the lolly, or indifference, or its men and women. For the whole is an aggregation of the parts, and is the representation of them, as a photograph is of an individual.

At a meeting of the members of the Loyal League that was held in New York on the 9th inst. a series of resolutions was adopted. One regarding Belknap's case says that the welfare of the Republican party demands a thorough investigation into the conduct and condition of every branch of the public service, so that all who have abused the public trust may be exposed and punished." Another demands that the delegation from the State National Convention shall be unpledged and free to choose from all candidates—for the President should be a reformer as well as a Republican, and above suspicion of sympathy with those who have made the name of the party a reproach.

The club, it is said, is opposed to a third presidential term. In other words, opposed to Gen. Grant, as we construe it.

The cold weather of Sunday night produced ice at Memphis and elsewhere this side of that place, and it was feared that it would hurt the prospect of fruit. We have had some of it here, but mild no harm—perhaps good.

Recently a lady, named Adams, living about two hundred miles above New Orleans, on a Mississippi plantation was burned to death by carelessly handling a kerosene lamp. It was broken and the oil igniting fired her clothing.

From the accident the life of her husband was also destroyed. He was sick and the lady rushed to him with her dress in a blaze. In endeavoring to help her, he was badly burned, and shortly afterwards died. They were very respectable people, and had numerous friends.

TELEGRAPH

BOSTON, March 14.—The shoe factories of Cay & Easton and S. H. Lane, together with a number of outbuildings, at Rockland, Mass., burned last night; loss about $15,000.

NEW YORK, March 14.—A cable special states that Harmens and Rollins, the parties who negotiated the forged bonds of the California and Oregon and New York Central railways, were arrested in Paris and sent to Brussels, at which place the negotiations took place, and are now in prison there.

JACKSON, Miss., March 14.—The senate by a vote of 32 to 4, found lieutenant governor Davis guilty as charged in the articles of impeachment. One colored and five white republicans in the affirmative, and four colored in the negative.

FOREIGN.

LONDON, March 14.—The gale of Sunday last was very violent and destructive around the entire coast, and numerous shipping casualities are reported. An unknown brigantine was seen to founder off Portland at midday, and all hands were lost. The sea was running tremendously high, and it was impossible to send assistance.

The telegraphs throughout the country are still deranged, and communication is slow and difficult. The weather continues unsettled in France, and telegraphic communication was deranged on Sunday by storms. In Paris roofs, chimneys, and trees were blown down or carried away, and numerous casualties are reported, some of them fatal. The damage in districts which were flooded by the rivers is great in consequence of the gale, and numbers of undermined houses along the Seine were blown down. The gale was also severe on the French coast.

We shall us not to mournful numbers
That you must economize,
For the firm will bust that slumbers,
And neglects to advertise."

PLANTING POTATOES.—Peerless, early rose, peach blow, Chili, Rad and russets in store and for sale low by Owen Farley, 64, 66, 68, 70 and 72 Government street

The Mobile Varieties tomorrow night the sword combat between Manager Hippler and Eddie Woods, will be an exciting incident in the drama of the "French Spy."

Whittle and Bliss, the evangelists, now in Mobile, are going to Montgomery. The Young Men's Christian Association of that city have had a meeting to make arrangements for their coming.

The Old Folks' Concert at the theatre next Monday evening will attract a great number of people there. The boxes will be sold to the highest bidder next Friday at 12 o'clock, at the Cotton Exchange.

If there is any article in the line of groceries, provisions, feed for animals, and stimulants for feeble humans that Owen Farley, at his big store on Government street, does not have, he will quit advertising and close up his business. He keeps everything in this line.

Messrs. Thomas & Couch have presented to the Tribune a few mammoth sweet potatoes that came from the plantation of Dr. Horn, Kemp's Landing, on the Bigbee river. They are immense in size and look as though they are of superior quality, but it is suggested that it would take almost as long to boil them as it would take a little mule to nag a big woman to death.

The approaching fair of the Mobile Agricultural, Horticultural and Mechanical Society, will be the occasion of the publication of two papers, both daily—one The Fair Gazette by W. E. Mickle, the other Our Fair Gossip by DeBree. If advertisers want to reap a rich autumn tage during the fair, they should commence with the public through the columns of the Tribune.

MAYOR'S COURT.—In this court yesterday morning, Mayor Hartel presiding, Charles Walker and Jack Foster, colored, arrested for a fight on the street, were fined $2 50 each. John McCardle, a sailor from the Tombawanda, drunk and down, was fined $5. William Jones, arrested on complaint of his wife Minerva, for assault and battery with intents to kill her, was fined $20 or 20 days. Caesar Davis, a colored boy, stole a lot of clothing from the residence of Mr. I. D. Spear Jr., and was sent to jail in default of $500 bond for his appearance at the city court for grand larceny.

TESTIMONIAL FROM TUSCALOOSA.—The Tuscaloosa Times reports that at a meeting of the passengers of the steamer Emma No. 2, held on board, on her recent passage from Mobile, in which the ladies participated, Mr. J. C. Foster was called to the chair and Dr. A. Byrd was requested to act as secretary. The following resolutions were offered and unanimously adopted, and Mobile papers are requested to copy them:

Resolved, That the thanks of the passengers of the steamer Emma on her recent trip to Mobile, to attend the festivities of the Mardi Gras are due to Capt. Van Gunnison and his officers for their untiring efforts in so greatly contributing to the comfort and enjoyment of all on board, during the entire passage, and that this slight testimonial is offered as an expression of their grateful appreciation of the gentlemanly courtesy and kindness extended to them.

Resolved, That they will long hold in remembrance the pleasant recollections connected with the trip. And each party is their earnest hope, that the company in whose service Captain Dunnison is engaged may always have its steamers commanded by men who combine skill and efficiency as officers, with these rarer qualities of the gentleman, so necessary to the model commander, and so characteristic of the captain and officers of the Emma.

Resolved, That their acknowledgements are likewise due to the committee and members of the Mystic Societies of Mobile, for courtesies extended to them, while guests of that city, and especially for the rare feast of fun and intellectual pleasure, afforded on the day and night entertainments given by the grand pageantries of King Felix and the members of the Mystic Orders.

Resolved, That not the least part of the enjoyment of their trip is due to the Uniformed Amateur Orchestra, for the very popular music which they so cheerfully and freely discoursed, and that it is the sincere wish of all who have been participants of that pleasure, that the gentlemen comprising the orchestra, may long continue the organization, and add the charms of sweet sounds to many a Mardi Gras.

MAYOR'S COURT.—In this court yesterday morning, Mayor Hartel presiding, Charles Walker and Jack Foster, colored, arrested for a fight on the street, were fined $2 50 each. John McCardle, a sailor from the Tombawanda, drunk and down, was fined $5. William Jones, arrested on complaint of his wife Minerva, for assault and battery with intents to kill her, was fined $20 or 20 days. Caesar Davis, a colored boy, stole a lot of clothing from the residence of Mr. I. D. Spear Jr., and was sent to jail in default of $500 bond for his appearance at the city court for grand larceny.

WALKS AROUND TOWN.

The next great event in Mobile is the firemen's parade, on the 9th of April. It will be a grand demonstration.

Just now there is a lull in the news market, and reporters are put on their muscle to find an item for publication.

L. E. Brooks will sell tomorrow at half past nine o'clock, flour, potatoes, soap, candy, pickles, dry goods, tin ware, crockery ware, etc.

Theatre-goers will have a rest during the remainder of this week. But there will be two dramatic performances at the Mobile Theatre next week.

The cotton receipts at Mobile since September first have been 335,976 bales, against 302,573 bales during the corresponding period the preceding year—an increase of 33,403 bales.

It was not $1,030 of the Slough lease of city scrip that was burned last Monday, as reported in the Register. The amount was only $10 30. It would be difficult to find $100 of that issue.

According to the Board of Trade reports, the cotton receipts yesterday at all ports were 11,201 bales: New Orleans 5,281, Galveston 856, Mobile 730, Norfolk 612, Charleston 607, Savannah 1,523.

Hamerson, at the Opal restaurant, next door to the post office, obeys the injunction to feed the hungry. He feeds them with tempting viands at moderate prices for a single meal, by the day, or week or month.

The state militia has been formed into one division of eight brigades by a recent act of the legislature. John H. Higley, of Mobile, has been appointed by Governor Houston brigadier general of the first brigade.

There is only $125,000 of the city scrip of 1875, signed and unsigned, unburned. But little of it is in actual circulation, though it is manipulated in such a manner that almost all the city taxes and licenses are paid in this scrip.

If the papers will come forward and do their duty, every current obligation of the city will be paid in greenbacks, and there will be no need of hermetically sealing the city scrip of 1875, to be used in emergencies as collateral to borrow money on.

The ginger champagne and lemon beer champaign will shortly open, and Thompson, the manufacturer of these exhilarating but not intoxicating beverages, from his depot, Conti street, opposite the Campbell House, is prepared to fill all orders of retail dealers.

The noon cotton report of the Board of Trade yesterday was: "Market quiet and firm at yesterday's prices. Fair demand and light supply. Sales about 500 bales." Closing report: "Sales today 1200 bales. Market closed quiet and steady. Fair demand."

Mr. Bonney died because she did not "make an effort." Will the city tax collector make an effort to collect all the taxes due and thus crowd out the city scrip, or will he fold his hands supinely and let the opportunity pass to make himself a reputation and a name?

Months ago, Councilman Perryman made a rose-colored speech in the board, giving a glowing idea of the surplus of greenbacks that would be in the city treasury before the first of January, from the collection of taxes. But the taxes are uncollected, city scrip is unburned and greenbacks have not found their way into the city treasury.

The steamer Grand Republic will be completed about the 20th of this month, and will be the largest ever built in this country or Europe to navigate an inland river. Her freight capacity will be equal to 15,000 bales of cotton, and she will be able to carry 400 first cabin and 600 deck passengers. She will run between St. Louis and New Orleans. She is not needed to run on the Alabama river.

The industrious and indefatigable reporter of the Register has been making a crusade against cows that roam on the streets of this city. Will he unite in a similar crusade against those first premium nuisances, the goats, that dodge into gardens and destroy graying vegetables, into grocery stores and eat up the wrapping paper, and are always on the alert to do something to arouse the angry passions of those on whom they depredate?

The onions known as the English multipliers are wonderfully prolific. Sometime ago the writer of this paragraph bought a quart of the sets and planted them, the representation being made by Prout's principal salesman that from that quart few bushels would be produced. Five hundred bushels would be a nearer estimate for they grow and multiply without limit, and a separation and replanting of half a dozen onions multiplied from one can be made immediately. The bulbs are not large, but the flavor is excellent, and they will continue to grow all the year round.

JUSTICE LOOMIS.—Wright Evans had Bob Tunstill arrested for taking and unlawfully withholding the watch of Evans. The watch returned and fined one cent and costs.

Selling off to close business, all of our best calicoes at 7 cents a yard at retail, and all other dry goods at prices to insure their immediate sale. Store for sale.
P. H. PEPPER & CO.

CIRCUIT COURT.—In this court yesterday, Judge Toulmin on the bench, several cases of no publici interest were disposed of. The cases in the call for today are: Strauss & Co. vs Kelly, Scoutt vs Snow, Lee et al vs Gray et al, Velasco vs New Orleans, Mobile and Texas Railroad Company, Ketchum vs Hatton, Barney & Co. vs Donovan.

JUSTICE MCCORMICK.—John McDuffie was brought before Justice McCormick yesterday, charged with shooting Thomas Fischer, on the 14th of February, with intent to kill. Held in $1000 to await the action of the grand jury.

McDuffie has had Jabez Fincher and another party arrested for threatening to kill him, but the examination did not take place yesterday.

THE WEATHER YESTERDAY. The wind blew 14 miles an hour at Indianola yesterday morning at 6:51 o'clock and 6 at Mobile. The temperature at Mobile was 46, highest 62 at Galveston, lowest 43 at Montgomery.

At 2:51 o'clock yesterday afternoon the wind blew 14 miles an hour at Indianola and 6 at Mobile. The temperature was at Indianola 63, Montgomery 67, Augusta, Galveston, New Orleans 65, Mobile 64, Savannah 62 and Corsicana 55.

THROUGH THE STATE.

There was a slight frost in Montgomery Monday morning.

Under the act of the legislature, to form the state militia into one division of eight brigades, the governor has appointed the following officers: Major General—J. T. Holtzclaw, of Montgomery—Brigadier Generals—John H. Higley, Mobile county, first brigade; Geo. P. Harrison, Lee county, second; John Bolling, Butler county, third; Charles L. Scott, Wilcox county, fourth; James J. Robinson, Chambers county, fifth; M. L. Stansell, Pickens county, sixth; W. H. Edwards, Blount county, seventh; Wm. A. Johnson, Colbert county, eighth.

The Wilcox Vindicator, of which Brigadier General Charles L. Scott is editor, says there is no denying the fact that Camden is slowly, but surely improving. It concludes an article thus: "Let us one and all go to work, and by buying cotton, giving glorious county fairs, inaugurating Cymbeline clubs, elicit the admiration and command the respect of all our neighbors abroad and make even our big sister, Mobile, jealous of us."

The case of Col. Jules Andrews, of Enterprise, charged with a forgery, and embezzlement, came off in a preliminary examination before Justice Boyd yesterday. Andrews, having upon the advice of his attorneys, Evans & Jennings, waived an examination and was required to give bond.

Andrews gives for explanation about what became of Sumner's money, that he deposited it with John H. Garner to be deposited with some banking house, and brought Garner's receipt for it. Sometime afterward, the money not being under his control as Sumner's friend, he was in Mobile, and Col. Lan Holland, his cousin and brother-in-law, having a knowledge of the fact, requested him to turn it over to a house which he named, to be by them deposited to his credit, he of advantage to him (Holland) in some way. He consented and permitted Holland to do as he wished about it, whereupon he went to Mobile, and Spencer's son was with him. He wanted to draw a hundred dollars of the money. Holland was hunted up and said the managing man of the firm was at Spring Hill and nothing could be done until he came in.

Afterwards, Holland came to them and said that he had been busy in Mobile, and handed Spencer the $100 he wanted and what purported to be a new certificate of deposit by the said firm, which young Spencer took. Since that time, as (Andrews) had nothing more to do with it and had heard nothing further upon the subject of the money until he was arrested last Wednesday. The city court is sitting in Mobile, and it is probable the prosecutors are procuring an indictment against him there, and he will be extradited to Alabama.

A REMINISCENCE OF WHITTLE, THE EVANGELIST.—A recent number of the Nashville Union and American contained the following interesting allusion to one of the gentlemen who is arousing the religious zeal of the people of Mobile at this present time:

An incident well worth narrating, which occurred at the close of the war, has been brought recalled once more to mind. Rev. Joe (Tap) Cheatham, went to Montgomery, Alabama, to rejoin his wife and sister-in-law, who were boarding at Mrs. Micou's, in that city. Captain Whittle, of General Smith's Confederal corps, was at that time in the city, and boarding at the same place. Major Cheatham and family found themselves without money enough to come home on, nevertheless were then very scarce and difficult to get in the south. Their situation came to the notice of Captain Whittle, who generously furnished them free transportation in ambulances from Montgomery to West Point. The kindly office was deeply appreciated and was recalled to the minds of the ladies upon the occasion of the recent coming of Mr. Whittle, the evangelist, to Nashville. Mrs. Cheatham called on him and found him to be the same Captain Whittle. It is needless to speak of the pleasure the meeting gave on all sides.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

At the regular weekly meeting of the board of aldermen last evening, President Smith in the chair, the following members were also present: Andrews, Atkinson, Bester, Bruce, Chamberlain, Craft, Gater, Hanns, Kennerly, Mallon, Muldon, Smith A. H., Smith D. E., Turner, Voss, Walsh.

Report of city assessor showing the collection of $2,257 20. Referred to ways and means committee.

Report of the city auditor showing receipts and disbursements for the month of February. Receipts $34,365 75. Disbursements $17,502 17—surplus of receipts over expenditures $16,863 57.

A communication from the city auditor was read.

Report received and filed, and referred to ways and means committee.

Report of board of health. Received and filed and referred to the hospital committee.

Communication from health officer relative to proposed scavenger ordinance, intimating the necessity of speedy action thereon. The chair ruled that this should come up under the head of new business.

Papers from the common council were concurred in.

On the report of the ways and means committee adversely to the petition of Patrick Mee to be released from the burdens of a license tax for peddling from their carts, received and filed by the common council, action was postponed one week, on motion of President Smith (Alderman Gates having been called to the chair.)

The petition of C. Elsava for the return of taxes, paid on real estate which she never owned, received and filed at a previous meeting of the board of aldermen, went to the council and was there referred to the ways and means committee. Action of the council, concurred in.

The hermetically sealing of city scrip resolution of Councilman Perryman, adopted by the council, non concurred in by the aldermen, came up from the council, which body adhered to its former action. Alderman Muldon moved that this board adhere to its former action of nonconcurrence. That motion prevailed.

A motion was carried that the communication from the board of health be postponed one week.

Alderman Muldon regarded the communication of the city auditor as a document of an extraordinary character, and as encroaching on the province of the mayor. It was clear to his mind that all communications of that character should come from the head of the municipal government. He objected to the declaration of the bankruptcy of the city by an officer of the city government, at this period, when the mayor and the committee have not exhausted the means of obtaining money to meet the May interest. He moved a reconsideration of the action of the board on the report, and it was so modified as to receive and file, and not publish the account paying communication, and not refer the report.

Alderman Muldon offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the city engineer be requested to report at once to the mayor, alderman and common council, whether or not there be any encroachments on Water street (south of Monroe street to its southern terminus) by which the lawfully established width of said Water street, is in anywise changed, and if such encroachments do exist to report the names of parties encroaching and the encroachments; and if any encroachments exist in other streets, to report the same.

The resolution was adopted.

President Smith called Alderman Bester to the chair and moved the repeal of the resolution declaring that no petitions for reductions of assessments would be received by the boards.

He assumed that the resolution was a bar to the consideration of applications for reduction of assessments erroneously made. He alluded to the discussion on this subject that had taken place in the common council, and said he did not concur in the opinion expressed there that only the court of assessments had the authority to act on these matters and that the two boards were without authority in the premises. He maintained that the boards had authority to act on these petitions, and that the resolution excluding the applications for reduction of assessments worked an injustice.

Alderman Gates said he was originally in favor of the resolution, but now he favored its repeal.

Alderman Muldon maintained that the resolution did not preclude the application for reduction of assessments erroneously made. He moved that the consideration of the motion to repeal the resolution be postponed one week.

President Smith (on the floor) accepted the motion to postpone. He wanted to get the matter into such shape as to have no bar against the right of petition for redress of grievances. He suggested the appointment of a joint standing committee on grievances, to whom petitions of this nature shall be referred.

The motion to postpone one week prevailed.

The board then at twenty minutes past nine o'clock adjourned.

The Bishop's Lecture.

We shall not attempt even to give the conclusions or the premises of it. It was a thoughtful discourse without the least harshness. There was nothing in it that any Christian could not have listened to with pleasure, because of its calmness, mildness and freedom from anything like sectarian polemics.

The music was admirable.

RIVER NEWS.

The steamboat fleet at the wharves early yesterday afternoon consisted of the D. M. Bayby, Emma No. 2, Mary, Lotus No. 2, Hale, Maggie C., Victoria and Peerless. The R. E. Lee was then lying at the foot of Charleston street.

The Mary, for Selma and Montgomery, went out last night with a good freight and a large number of passengers.

The Atlanta, of Frank Stone's Grange line, for Pickensville and intermediate landings on the Bigbee, went out last evening with an excellent freight and several passengers.

The Emma No. 2, of Frank Stone's Grange Line, arrived about half-past one o'clock yesterday afternoon, with fifteen passengers, 292 bales of cotton, and a long list of miscellaneous freight.

The W. S. Mok, from Columbus, is due today.

The only departure announced today is the Emma No. 2, of Frank Stone's Grange Line, Captain Gunnison on the roof and Mr. A. P. Dorgan in the office. She will leave for Tuskaloosa at five o'clock this evening. Her state rooms are very comfortable, her saloon spacious and as for freight she could pile up the contents of several wholesale grocery and provision establishments and then have lots of room to spare.

A French journal thus relates the romance connected with the marriage of Lamartine: The lady was of an English family named Birch, and very wealthy. She fell in love with the poet from reading his "Meditations Poetiques." She was slightly past the bloom of youth, but still young and fair. At last she saw Lamartine in Geneva, and her love became a part of her very life. Not long after this she was made acquainted with the fact that the poet was suffering from the embarrassed state of his pecuniary affairs. Miss Birch wrote to him a frank and womanly letter, acknowledging her deep interest and profound respect, and offering him the bulk of her fortune if he was willing to accept it. Of course Lamartine could not but suspect the truth. Deeply touched by her generosity, he called upon her, and found her not to be only fair to look upon, but a woman of a brilliant literary and artistic education. He made an offer of his hand and heart, which was promptly and gladly accepted; and in after years Alphonse de Lamartine owed not more to his wife's wealth than to her sustaining love and inspiring enthusiasm.

The Export of Cotton Goods.

The Boston Journal states that the success of the exportation of cotton goods manufactured at Fall River promises to become permanent. About 15,000 pieces of print cloths, or one-eighth of the production of Fall River, are now exported weekly. The first goods sent were the 26 inch, and the demand for these goods is so steady that they are now selling them at higher prices in England than they get for 28-inch goods at home. There is also an English demand for 32, 34 and 36-inch cloths—a description of goods so little used in this country that it will require an alteration of the machinery now in use in order to make that kind of cloth. In other States and cities of New England, manufacturers are busily preparing for the production of cotton goods of every description for foreign markets. The exports so far under the revival of trade have been exclusively to England, while the more extensive and nearer markets have not been approached.

WASHINGTON, March 11.

If rumors had only form and color, instead of extremely uncertain sounds, one might fancy himself looking through an exaggerated kaleidoscope which some strong hand was whirling with amazing rapidity. A cluster of most interesting statements appears; you are wondering at its grouping of apparent facts; you are beginning to form positive opinions when presto! change! another bewildering collection is before you! Dazzled and startled, you only realize that the facts are essentially the same, but so differently arranged that you would hardly know them.

Having seen a few more whirls you are quite ready to turn away disgusted, closing your eyes for rest and wishing you hadn't looked at all; since the mocking phantoms of all you have seen are still dancing before those inner eyes which you cannot close.

Last week no pitiful was too dreadful, no anathema too severe to be pronounced against Gen. Belknap and his wife. That precious investigating committee was a band of dauntless, self sacrificing men; Mr. Clymer had previously put aside all the common notions inspired by years of intimate association and friendship; he had held down every impulse of gallantry and chivalry because a wrong must be exposed, and he expected a grateful country would wreathe his handsome head with laurels never worn in any other way; though most eagerly envied.

But that strange kaleidoscope had kept up its fascinating whirl, and somehow matters do not look precisely as they did when so much printer's ink was used in tremendous head lines, and editors begin to wish they had used adjectives less liberally too. Indignation has given place to pity; men begin to find that quotation from the first chapter of Genesis exceedingly trite, and women, thinking of the terrible distress and anguish resting upon a sister's head, feel a mist gathering over eyes that have been dry and hard, so they too are slowly coming to wonder if either had not been too hasty and judgment too swiftly spoken.

developed many rather curious facts. It certainly placed the committee in a most unfortunate position. They had before them a witness who swore to most damaging statements; they received his testimony; its record was duly made, and then before the ink was dry upon its writing, they allowed him to go whither he pleased, and he pleased to go to Canada, whence it will at least be very inconvenient to bring him, should an impeachment trial be actually commenced. Again it appears that the Republican members of that investigating committee never attended one of its meetings till they were called upon to read the proof of a report about to be made. They had been officially notified concerning the days and hours when its sessions were held, but investigating the pet officials of one's party is never a pleasant task, so you see Messrs. Dunford and Bass were conspicuous by absence. For Mr. Bass there was sufficient excuse. His health is extremely delicate; the slightest exertion exhausts him and he does not add to imperative regular duties one straw of effort. Mr. Dunford gave no excuse whatever, but he made a long speech to defend himself from seeming to acquiesce in Mr. Marsh's flight. It is really very amusing to see how many motives a man may have when fifty or a hundred of his party suggest that he ought to remember certain things.

Yesterday there was an explanation by Mr. Bass of his position, though it it seemed cruel to force him into any action. This was met and denied by Messrs. Clymer and Blackburn, making a very interesting scene for the galleries; a very exciting one for all the parties concerned and adding much to the bitter partisan feeling on both sides of the House. Before this latest sensation affecting the whole country, even the Beecher scandal dwindles into insignificance and "Probabilities" is an utterly forgotten individual. All our feelings are harrowed to the last degree and a cessation of news would astonish us far more than any fresh revealings:

Gen. Belknap has been brought before the Police Court, has waived examination there and has been held to bail in the sum of $25,000. The stories concerning the wealth he has amassed are mere fabrications. He has nothing and Mrs. Belknap declares she has but very little. Life will be a hard battle hereafter to those who have been so surrounded with luxury.

THE HAWAIIAN TREATY

has occupied a great deal of Congressional attention. The leading members of the House indorse it thoroughly; the gentlemen from the Pacific coast are most anxious that it should pass, and Judge Allen, "His Majesty's Envoy Extraordinary, Minister Plenipotentiary, Privy Counsellor and Lord Chief Justice, etc., etc." is extremely nervous. When the name of this gentleman was read, with the long string of titles, it raised a little breeze of laughter, since Judge Allen himself is an extremely small man, physically, and then the flight of more than seventy years has done so much to shrivel and dry his original proportions that it reminded us of the Dutchman's reason why a dog should wag his tail. Don't you remember it? He said "der tog was der biggest; if der dail had been der biggest, it would have wagged der tog," and really it seemed as if Judge Allen's title were much better able to carry him than he was to carry the title.

Judge Kelley turned the whole thing into supremest ridicule, making us all laugh, and forget while we were laughing, the soberer facts stated in preceding speeches. The speech which has attracted most attention, and carried the most weight was that of Gen. Leavenworth, of Syracuse, N. Y. The General is widely known in his own state, having filled many important positions, but this is his first term in Congress and new members are not apt to receive much notice while uttering their first speeches. When Gen. Leavenworth rose, however, his tall figure and his manner at once drew all eyes. Those out of range brought their chairs within listening distance, and interest never flagged while he clearly pointed out the advantages to be gained by the treaty. The effort was the more remarkable since the gentleman had no notes whatever, depending entirely upon his memory for facts

THURSDAY,.....March 16, 1876.

At Meridian last Monday night a fire broke out on High street, in a house owned and occupied by H. Banford, which was consumed.

The block of pure silver, weighing 4200 pounds and valued at 64,000 gold dollars, has been received at New York from Mexico, to be exhibited at the Centennial among other contributions to that show.

Superintendent of New Orleans Police, Col. Loan, was assaulted on Tuesday, a little after midnight, by Capts. Flanagan and Schreiber, both of the police. Pistols were drawn and fired, but no person was hurt. The two officers were arrested and taken to a calaboose.

A fire in the village of State Line (Miss.) last Saturday, destroyed one-half of the business part of the place. It began in the restaurant of Scarbrough, and extended on both sides. The store of Rich & Fulgian and that of Dr. Hamrick were consumed. Some of the property in them was saved. There was no insurance on any of the buildings. On the stock of R. and F. there was a small policy. The fire was the result of carelessness.

Several masked thieves on the 12th inst., entered the house of James Crosby in New Jersey, and carried off $20,000 in U. S. bonds and $10,000's worth of silver ware and jewelry.

Among the art treasures recently brought to light at Pompeii is a silver altar, on which were deposited two silver cups and spoons, the latter of which are precisely similar in form to those now in use.

The proof seems to be indisputable that Mr. Hays, M. C. from the fourth Alabama district, sold a West Point cadetship to a Mrs. Beardsley of Utica, New York, for her son. The price was $3,000. The Judiciary Committee of the House of Representatives is investigating the affair.

They are beginning to get near the right in Congress. Last Monday, Mr. Cox, of New York, (with a pseudonym of "Sunset,") offered resolutions to show that the states are not a unit, and that Washington is not the centre of an empire. They comprised a few ideas of the old time; and, strange to say, they were adopted by a vote of 150 to 42.

So, you see, there is some hope of political salvation.

The Methodist, a leading journal of that denomination, after investigating the subject finds "that the strongholds of Catholicism in this country are located in our most enlightened and progressive communities. For instance, the State of Massachusetts has more Roman Catholic sittings—130,405—than the twelve Southern States of Alabama, Arkansas, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, North and South Carolina, Virginia and West Virginia, Tennessee, Texas and Mississippi, which have 105,365 Roman Catholic sittings. Massachusetts and New York have a Catholic population of 401,700, and the sixteen Southern States, 401,110. The electoral vote of Massachusetts and New York is 48, while that of the sixteen Southern States is 136. The State of Illinois has more Catholic sittings than twelve Southern States, and only 21 electoral votes as compared with their 93. These figures show what rapid strides the Catholic religion is making in States formerly famous for their Puritanism and staunch Protestanism."

The explorations in the case of General Belknap do not seem to have injured the Republican party in the state of New Hampshire—for it is supposed, as the present writing, that it has carried the general officers and a majority in both branches of the Legislature.

This, perhaps, is due to a returning confidence in the party, because of an apparently resolute purpose of the administration to ferret out the rogues.

Partisans are almost universally prejudiced.

We have seen this exemplified in Mobile. The old Whig still clings to his old party strifes. He may like the individual, but he has no love for the Democrat. He thinks that he has no place to go to at present except the Conservative Democratic party.

If Henry Clay were to leap into life again, he would rush for this. We wish he were alive, and in full, manly and mental vigor.

We wish that Daniel Webster were alive.

And also that J. C. Calhoun were alive.

But, after all, what could they do? Not much at present, except to inspire men with a love of country, and thus restrain the evil tendencies of our politics.

They died too soon.

But they had served their day and generation; and if here to-day, it is not unlikely that they would have small influence—for they stood by the principles of the past, while the generation is running very rapidly beyond their ideas of government.

When one looks back to their time, it is wonderful to see the change. Then there were party dissensions, but they were mainly on subjects that we should now consider of small importance: namely, state rights, tariff, national bank. The first has been nearly cleared out. The protective tariff, it is likely, we shall be in favor of, because the time is coming when we shall be in a position to get some benefit from it. We have now a thousand —more or less—national banks.

New England may turn again to what we were, and be in favor of free trade. It has always been in favor of sailors' rights—for it found profit in it.

The fact is, the whole country is likely to turn topsy-turvy, and the equator may get to the North Pole, and we shall be here in Mobile wallowing in December snows.

And then our orange trees will be killed, and we shall never more have figs. Pigs may be numerous, and also pork, and, we may predict, have plenty of pig iron.

By that time, however, some of us will be in heaven, or in purgatory. At any rate, it may be said that a great many of us will not be troubled by cold weather—unless we attend more carefully to the religious duties of life.

John E. Scales, a real estate broker at Hoboken, went to Europe the other day, leaving liabilities amounting nearly to $500,000. Before going he assigned his valuables to his wife.

The great sensation at Washington is the increasing evidence that all—or nearly all—the post-traders on the frontier have been bought their places at Washington from the War Department. There are more than two hundred of them. Gen. McCook—an old and esteemed soldier, who has much knowledge of the frontier and interior service—has expressed the opinion that these frauds have been the rule for years, and that they are universal.

One has a weakness for the weather, and it is because it is constantly present. It never leaves us, although it makes leaves—not this spring, we hope, to be nipped in the bud—that is before the leaves escape from their calyxes.

There are signs that we shall have a fruitful fruit season. One weather-wise man cast of us has predicted that there will be a great abundance, and our husbandmen are diligently working to get out the earliest crops of every kind.

We hope that they may have success in this, for it is a very large factor in the prosperity of Mobile.

We are two or three weeks ahead of the great centres at the west and the north. Just as one approaches the tropics, he finds the earlier growth of everything—including the men and women—and the rapidity of transport by railroad almost annihilates time, as the telegraph does.

From this there will come much profit and population. There need be no fear of over-production, although, probably, competition may in places overstock the markets. A combination among our gardeners, in order that each one may understand what the others are doing, would no doubt be of much benefit to all of them.

The following advertisement lately appeared in an English newspaper: "A plain forte to be sold, genuine Broadwood by a lady about to leave England in a rosewood case of mahogany castors."

Nym Crinkle of the New York Sunday World relates an anecdote illustrative of American vulgarity, which, if it be not true, is yet a useful satire: "A Boston lady once told me that she happened to be in Florence when there was an extraordinary assemblage of Americans there buying Apollos and Venuses; and such was the peculiarity of their taste that a new trade sprang up, and one morning she was surprised to see a hawker going about the streets carrying a basket of plated ware, and singing, broad as English, 'Here's your nice fresh, silver-mounted, fig-leaves, all sizes! Here they are, O.

TELEGRAPH

CONCORD, N. H., March 15.—Returns from 215 towns and wards give Cheney 36,899, Marcy 32,595, Kendall and scattering 332. Last year the same towns gave Cheney 34,553, Roberts 33,620, White and scattering 642. Republican net gain of 3,333. Representatives elect from 219 towns and wards: republicans 169, democrats 152—a democratic net gain of 9. But meagre returns have been received on the vote on the constitutional convention, but it is undoubtedly carried.

NEW YORK, March 15.—Geo. A. Merwin & Co., proprietors of the State Coffee and Spice mills, have suspended; liabilities $30,000. The nominal assets exceed this sum.

The United States Reflector Company, connected with Jacobson & Co., have also suspended, with liabilities exceeding $100,000. Assets considered good.

MEMPHIS, March 15.—The residence of General Gideon Pillow was sold at Sheriff's sale yesterday. There was no competition. The residence, probably worth $5,000, was bought by a gentleman for $35 and the valuable library by another person for $11, and both presented to Mrs. Pillow.

CINCINNATI, March 15.—The election yesterday was to decide whether the city would issue $6,000,000 bonds in addition to the $10,000,000 already issued to construct the Cincinnati Southern Railway. The returns from 49 out of 51 precincts give 11,126 in favor of the measure.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 15.—Tallant & Co., bankers of this city, state that checks drawn by them on the National Bank of the State of New York, will be paid by Drexel, Morgan & Co., and that Tallant & Co. will not be affected.

FOREIGN.

PARIS, March 15.—The Seine is still rising and is now above the high water mark of 1872. The Ponte des Invalides bridge connecting Quai D'Orsay and Quai D'Orsay is threatened with destruction, and all traffic over it has been prohibited by the authorities.

BERLIN, March 15.—Nearly all the telegraph lines in Germany were prostrated by the storm.

LONDON, March 15.—The weather continues boisterous and the telegraph lines are still deranged. The Standard's Berlin telegram says that in consequence of the damage by the recent hurricane steps have been taken to lay subterranean telegraph lines between Halle and Berlin, and hereafter all new telegraph lines will be laid underground.

A severe storm has prevailed in London and almost generally around the coast during the past 24 hours; it was particularly violent on the coast about the western part of Cumberland and northern part of Lancashire. Many ships thereabout have sought a haven after losing all their anchors, the much damage has been done to farm buildings, produce, etc.

Today is "pay-day," the last and most critical of the fortnightly settlement. The stock exchange is disturbed and excited, and a feeling of uncertainty and anxiety prevails. Six failures have already been posted, all trifling but one, that of Wm. Upward, stock broker, which is believed to be for a considerable amount. Further failures are considered certain. A number of failures are also reported at Glasgow and Liverpool stock exchanges, but it has not yet transpired whether these will have any serious effect here.

3 P. M.—Two additional failures have just been posted in the stock exchange, and business is almost nominal, settlements absorbing attention. The changes in the prices of different securities and shares do not show that there is any excitement, though they are mostly downward. Still further failures are expected, but none of any very great importance.

The Belgrade correspondent of the Ruskimarket declares that Greece has offered to form an offensive and defensive alliance with Servia and Roumania. The Servians are convinced that Russia, although temporarily co-operating with Austria, cannot; for her own interests, permit Austria to occupy Servia. The Servians therefore disregard Austrian menaces, and they are preparing to take the field against the Turks, and unite the whole Servian race.

A dispatch from Ragusa to the Times says the arrest of Ljubobratics produced great excitement in Dalmatia, and threatening demonstrations were made in Bernace Zara, where he was sent to sign for internment.

and dates, and yet he is more than seventy-three years old? A more charming specimen of the old-time courtesy and refined breeding we do not know and we were so delighted with his speech we envied those who might go and tell him so, congratulating him on his success. The treaty will probably pass the House, though among Southern men there is a great degree of opposition.

The Committee on appropriations, have prepared and presented their report, advising reductions in nearly every official salary. There will be exciting talking when the matter is thoroughly brought forward. Gen. Garfield who knows so much more of this matter than anybody else is absent just now; Mr. Wheeler another most prominent gentleman has been sorely bereaved by the loss of his most excellent wife and this sorrow so eclipses all other considerations that he has not yet appeared in his seat. Hard money declined to abate a bit of its hardness before the blandishments of its opponents who have been trying seductive arts, and Prof. Seelye has prepared an exhaustive speech, which he proposes to deliver very soon. His known culture and careful consideration of the subject will entitle his opinions to unusual weight. He is one of the few men in political life to whom no stain has ever attached, while socially he rests under the scriptural woe, prophesied for those concerning whom every one should speak well. One feminine scribbler gushing over his perfections numbered among them his rare smile, declaring it was "like that of a girl of sixteen!" Did you ever? The good Professor is fully six feet high, an unusually manly man in every way and where the similitude to a girl of sixteen is found, I am puzzled to guess. I'll leave you to think about it.

Washington Society Life.

As we have said this startling disclosure has loosened the thousand tongues, and the town is full of rumors. We have been reminded of a strange circumstance that came to us some two years since. We took from the carrier, one day, a letter—an anonymous letter—that read as follows:

"You are aware no doubt, that you have enemies, but do you know that at this time there is a combination of them determined to ruin you? Two women having high positions are plotting against you. Now, these women are not to be feared if you know all about them. I will tell you. One of them made a fortune out of Secor claim and the French arms; the other out of George P. and the French arms. In the War and Navy Department Buildings are the proofs of their evil conduct. If you will make the acquaintance of Mr. —— he can put you in the way of getting copies of these papers, and the publication will silence two of the worst women in Washington."

This is but part of the letter; the rest of it is made up of the vilest slanders ever put in circulation. We do not generally pay any attention to anonymous letters, but the one we have quoted in this has attracted our attention and we preserved it. We did not make the acquaintance suggested nor did we endeavor to procure the papers to which our anonymous friend referred. But not long after an attempt was made to burn the old Navy Department buildings, and remembering the hint given us in the anonymous letter, we published an editorial headed, "Arson as a Fine Art," in which we spoke of the chimney attempt at arson as indicating the female mind. Not long after we received a second letter, evidently from the same source. It read:

"You have scotched the snake, not killed it, and by not following my advice you have lost a golden opportunity to finish for good your enemies. This is not the last fire, nor are these people the kind of people to give up without a desperate effort to save themselves."

Again followed matter unfit for publication, evidently designed by the writer to provoke us to attack the two ladies she charged with wrong-doing.

Not long after this second letter another effort was made in the Navy building. This was followed by a third and then came an unmistakable attempt at arson in the Winder building, where many of the archives and records of the War Department are preserved on account of the fire proof character of the structure.

About 10 o'clock at night the watchman on duty discovered a dense volume of smoke issuing from one of the rooms of the basement. Immediately, before he could give any alarm, a column of flame burst out and shot up through the grated openings in the corridor of the fourth story. The fire, by the merest accident, was confined, or rather confined itself, to the one room. It burned out as suddenly as it kindled, and was under control when the engines reached the locality.

An inspection revealed the facts, first, that petroleum had been used to saturate the shelves, books and furniture of the room. The odor was quite strong, and the manner in which the flame had shot out and then subsided, indicated beyond a doubt the mineral oil we named. Secondly, the windows on the north side were found open, so as to give a sufficient draft.

But further investigation revealed the pleasant fact that the incendiaries had mistaken the room, and through accident selected that next adjoining the one in which the most valuable documents had been filed.

We found afterwards that these anonymous letters were scattered very generally over the city. There was no doubt but they emanated from the same source. But the most startling fact that was subsequently developed was that the authoress of these troublesome missives was herself the wife of a Secretary of the Cabinet.

Mrs. Belknap's Brothers.

From the Chicago Tribune.]

A gentleman well known in this city, intimately acquainted with the family of Mrs. Belknap—the Tomlinson's—tells how it was that General Belknap made the acquaintance of his first wife and her sister, Mrs. Bowers, his present wife. During Sherman's campaign in Georgia two of Mrs. Belknap's brothers, who were both in the Confederate service, were captured, and, as prisoners of war, placed under charge of General Belknap, as Provost Marshal. The sisters visited him to intercede for the paroling of the brothers. It does not appear that they succeeded, but in 1870, when one of the young men was a clerk at the Spencer House, Cincinnati, and the other was traveling for a wholesale house, one of them received the appointment of post trader at Fort McDowell, Arizona, said to be at that time the most profitable trading post at the disposal of the Secretary of War and as to which one of the Tomlinson brothers said they expected to make $110,000 a year out of it. The appointment of an ex-Confederate to this position connected with the army excited no little comment at Cincinnati at the time, and there was talk of some jobbery connected with it—especially as without it people were at a loss to account for the appointment since one of the Tomlinson brothers, who shared in the profits, besides being an ex-Confederate, was reported to have killed three men at Harrodsburg, Ky.

The same gentleman recounts an incident illustrative of Belknap's character. During the war Belknap and some of his command boarded a Mississippi steamer coming up from Vicksburg. The boat was so crowded with passengers that the tables at meals had to be set and cleared away about a half dozen times, and passengers had to wait sometimes two hours for their turn at the table. One morning, about nine o'clock, Belknap, after having waited a while, exclaimed, "By G—d, nobody shall have breakfast until my officers and myself get ours." He called a squad of soldiers into the cabin to stand guard over the waiters with orders to see that nobody but Belknap and his party were served, while the ladies and gentlemen on board waited.

The best company and the worst mingle with outward show of cordiality. The most fastidious of gentlemen, whose thorough good breeding is inherited from two centuries of gentle ancestors, and with whom elegance is a second nature, bends over the hand of a Congressman's wife who has not yet learned that a verb must agree with its nominative case, and that the nose is not one of the organs of speech; while Lady Clare Vere de Vere gives her arm to a red-faced legislator with a dyed moustache who fitted himself for Congress by keeping a liquor shop. If any personal qualifications are necessary for admission to the first circles at Washington, it would be hard to define what they are. Good manners are not required, nor good education, nor ready speech. Official title is a passport, but even that may be dispensed with. A reputable moral character is not needed, for prisoners undergoing trial for felony attend the festivities of the White House, and a notorious thief holds his head quite as high as a blue-blooded ambassador. Anybody with decent clothes is good enough for a guest, and anybody with money enough to give a ball becomes a leader of fashion.

When a young lady said to her fellow" the other night, "sleap year," he just remarked that he couldn't his mother would be looking for him home.

MOBILE DAILY TRIBUNE
FRIDAY,.....March 17, 1876.

26,000,000 gallons of whiskey were produced for the latter six months of last year. This is what the tax was paid on. How much "crooked" was made, heaven alone can tell. Of this amount nearly one-half—10,422,950 gallons—was made in Illinois. Missouri reported only 14,563 gallons.

We have some information in respect of Boss Tweed. A young gentleman tells us that he is in the crater of Vesuvius—not dead but stirring up the coals to put on the heads of the other fellows who stole only a little.

This may be true, but it has not been authenticated by the despatches.

We thought that the man was in Mobile.

Perhaps he is, but it is possible that he may be in the crater.

The Weather.

The weather yesterday was delightful. The children, and their mothers, and the young ladies, and the men, were out taking from it the enjoyment that it offered to all persons who love what is good. The rose-bushes looked glad. The grass everywhere lifted up its head. In short, all nature seemed to rejoice for the genial day, but said nothing. It doesn't talk much anyhow, but it shows its love by silence. That, perhaps, is a sign of love and gratitude, unless a woman be on hand. Then much talk is useful. It may be deceptive, but the woman understands this, and can herself do something in the talking way.

But it is delightful to see the trees throwing out their leaves. It seems to us like watching the growth of a little child—for that, in another form, is like the beautiful trees, and the flowers and all kinds of plants, now, by the warmth of Spring, are exposing their beauties to the sun, and not asking any one's praise or flattery.

This is very lovely to those persons who love these things, and will go among them and try to talk to them. They have no sound, but they give us, in inaudible voice, gentle lessons that serve for good.

They do not cheat any person. The rose gives its perfume, and asks nothing for it, except a little culture. The fruit tree asks nothing but this, and if not cultured, it brings nothing. Perhaps becomes an incumbrance, and is cut down and cast into the fire.

We would preach a sermon, but that would not please anything, except the flowers and the trees. We should like to have their suffrages, for they are lovable and worthy of love.

The Forger.

One of the papers has this paragraph:

When the Boston forger gets back from London, everybody will be ready to say with Solon Shingle: "After Winslow, how do you do?"

Boston is preparing to welcome back her fugitive Winslow, and he is willing to come. He says he would rather be in a Boston jail than in a Dutch palace. There is something exceedingly beautiful and touching about this home feeling that characterizes absent Bostonians.

It has been intimated to us that Winslow once dwelt in Mobile—for a time." But we don't claim him. Let Boston get him, and keep him as one of her jewels.

It is very interesting to observe the resignation of rogues like Winslow, when the hand of the police is put on them. It is really touching, and in over-tender hearts there are aspirations that the thief may, by some ingenious contrivance, be able to escape from the toils that have got him.

We should let the man go, for he is a goose. He stole, and ran to Europe.

He is not an experienced thief; and for the reason that he had not studied extradition laws. If he had done that with some degree of intelligence, he might have lived in Holland; but he seemed to have a desire to see what curiosities there are in London; and there he was interviewed, and is now coming back to Boston.

Moral—Great thieves ought to study law.

St. Patrick's Day.

To-day, the 17th inst., is St. Patrick's Day—an anniversary which has had its observances for a very long time. Wherever there are some sons of Erin of St. Patrick's faith, there will be found men who give honor to the memory of the Saint.

According to D'Aubigne, he was born about the year 372, of a British family, and was named Sucoat. His birth-place was Bonavern, (now Kilpatrick,) on the banks of the Clyde, not far from Glasgow.

His history, as given by the author, is very interesting. It exhibits great piety and a resolute manhood. His parents removed to Armorica, (Bretagne) and while he and two of his sisters were playing near the seashore some pirates captured and took them to Ireland, and they were delivered over to a petty chieftain of a pagan clan in Ireland. Sucoat was sent to the fields as a swineherd. He was then about sixteen years of age, and religion fell on him. He was rescued from slavery and restored to his family, and afterwards, with a religious zeal that was stayed by no obstacle, he returned to Ireland and went among the heathen, and instilled into them a knowledge of the scriptures. From this began a change which finally brought Ireland to Christianity, and subsequently made it the seat of the most advanced learning of the civilized world. Her schools were famous all over Europe. Rome had none superior or equal to them.

The pseudonym St. Patrick was bestowed on him by the church, and by that name he is known to all history and all Irishmen.

The ceremonies to-day in memory of this great man will no doubt be worthy of the occasion—for its good to keep alive memories of the kind. To forget what is virtuous in the past is not the way to make the present generation emulate that virtue.

Boss Tweed has dropped out of the public mind. The detectives, however, are quietly looking for him, and they, you know, go to their work without much clatter. They don't blow their trumpets.

The Belknap business has usurped the place of Tweed. He (Belknap) is now the party newspaper figure head. He is the Colossus of Rhodes—a great metallic giant—looming up above the glimpses of the moon. We suppose he got gold for his purposes.

Gold, we think, is a metal, although it has been a long time since we saw it. We assume it to be a metal. Having no time to refer to our works on metallurgy, the reader will pardon us, if we are stating what is not true. Ignorance here is not bliss.

In the last word, we have no reference to the Evangelist now in the city. A great many people might suppose that it is an allusion to him. This would be an error which would give us pain, and whittle down some of our self-respect.

But, to be graver, there is nothing so painful to a man who loves his country as the exposure, or even the suspicion, of the public and private frauds which meet one's eyes in every newspaper.

Men hitherto in great businesses are now making themselves bankrupts, and, it is supposed, keeping for themselves what will remain for the enjoyment of luxuries.

We know nothing about it, and only judge from what we see published in the journals.

There is not an honest man within the United States.

This seems to be a very "sweeping" conclusion.

Well, we do not know much about it, and accept newspaper authority. Every person familiar with the subject knows that newspapers never tell untruths.

More especially is this true of party newspapers. They do nothing but the best for their own side; and that is not reprehensible. To do one's best is to do what is right and proper.

The party in power is accused of all kinds of malfeasance. It is retorting, by accusing the opposition with all sorts of the same thing, and is provoking proof of it—or seeming to provoke it. Eminent men of the Democratic party are arraigned in the party newspapers.

Nothing, we believe, but to wait for evidence. Accusation is not proof; and as this Centennial year is to be one of lying, an honest man must distrust, and demand proof.

We know something of the influence of party prejudice. Even the men who, we seemed to think, were rogues, on better acquaintance, are found to be honest gentlemen.

Isn't this strange? that a man whom you looked upon with anger, for not being in accord with you, and whom you almost hated—isn't it strange that you should find, ultimately, that he had a perfect right to have his own opinions in all matters of public or other policies?

It is quite strange to look back to these things. And now some of us are on the stool of repentance for the folly, in the excitement of the time, that we committed.

The past ought to bring to the present its lessons.

But there is a new generation, and that has no sense of experience.

Men learn of themselves. That is what is called experience.

And the experience of the father given to the son is just a vast amount of knowledge thrown away.

The boy must get it for himself, and it thus follows that there is no storehouse gathering up the treasure of experience.

There is only one thing in these times that shows progress. That is the mechanical.

The moral is not advanced an inch. Just as our progenitors were so are we with all the passions, temptations to rascality and other things.

We are sorry because it is not otherwise.

Some of us would desire to be sure that stealing is disreputable.

We cannot get to that desirable condition until good men shall say that stealing is not reputable.

We are not sure that there are good men enough within the country to control the rogues.

But they ought to be active and do their best.

Save the bodies of men. Every man has his own soul to save.

Let us see, if by a little effort, it is not possible to find what is good and not be, as most of our men are, covered with a shell of ignorance or prejudice.

Look for the knaves. Distrust them.

In other words: let every man think for himself, and not be to tied to the coat tail of any other man—making himself a mere machine for other's uses. That betrays a lack of manhood.

Temperance Hall.

The Annual Commencement of the Medical College of Alabama was celebrated last night at Temperance Hall.

There was a large audience present, with a great many ladies in it.

The prayer which introduced the ceremonies was delivered by Rev. A. I. Drysdale; and it was brief and elegant and appropriate to the occasion. That was followed by an address from Dr. W. H. Cunningham, of Louisiana, who told the graduates, in brief and clear language, what their duties as doctors are. His words, we are sure, had the effect for which they were intended.

Following that was a long address from Dr. Cochran. Most of it was about every thing, except the subject in hand. As Hamlet said of Polonius, it was tedious.

But the audience thought that it was tolerable, and not to be endured.

It had more length than breadth, but there were ideas in it, although by no means new ones.

After this discourse, there was music, and then the presentation of diplomas to the new doctors. This was done by Dr. Anderson in the quiet, graceful way that is his custom.

This ended the ceremonies, which were very interesting to those persons who went to hear—and not show themselves, or to be amused for a couple of hours.

The list of graduates we shall get for publication to-morrow. They won't spoil by a day's delay.

LOCAL NEWS.

If there is any article in the line of groceries, provisions, feed for animals, and stimulants for feeble humans that Owen Farley, at his big store on Government street, does not have, he will quit advertising and close up his business. He keeps everything in this line.

THE WEATHER YESTERDAY.—About one o'clock yesterday morning, there was a heavy shower of rain, which was preceded by vivid flashes of lightning and audible peals of thunder. But it did not clear off cold as usual, and some people regard this as an indication that the cold weather is over.

The wind blew 24 miles at 6:51 o'clock yesterday morning at Indianola, 18 at Galveston, 15 at Key West and 6 at Mobile. The temperature at Mobile was 60, highest 75 at Key West, lowest 38 at Corsicana.

At 3:51 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the wind blew 7 miles an hour at Mobile and 12 at Montgomery. The temperature was at Key West 83, Augusta 75, Montgomery 67, Galveston and Indianola 61 and Corsicana 58.

THE CITY SCRIP.—The ordinance in relation to the city scrip of 1875 provides for the issuance of $200,000, but it was to be issued only in exchange for and to replace the city change bills of 1873. Only $156,397 of the scrip of 1875 has been created, leaving $111,397 outstanding. Of the change bills of 1873, $189,177 10 has been burned, leaving $10,822 90 outstanding, nearly all of which is presumed to have been lost, worn out or destroyed.

The exact state of the city scrip of 1875 is this: $75,000 has been burned; $13,000 is in the hands of the treasurer that has never been issued; $10,000 of current receipts is in the hands of the treasurer; $4,000 is now on pledge as collateral for money borrowed to pay the November interest on coupons. This aggregates $102,000, and leaves in general circulation or in the hands of brokers, to be used to pay licenses and taxes with $97,400.

It is municipal authorities will nerve themselves up to the duty of declaring that not another dollar of the city scrip shall be paid out, and destroy the $23,000 in the hands of the treasurer, it will not be long before nothing but greenbacks will come in for city taxes and licenses.

The collections for the months of January and February, paid into the city treasury, amounted to $58,000. The disbursements for current expenses are less than $20,000 a month. Let the city authorities take the bull by the horns now, and all the financial transactions of the city government will speedily be made in greenbacks. Brokers and tax-payers will then no longer profit by speculations in city scrip.

FRIED POTATOES.—A great deal of good material is wasted for want of proper cooking. Food which might have been made delicious with little trouble, often comes upon the table coarse and almost uneatable. Of all the vegetables which suffer from ignorant handling, potatoes are the most ill-treated. Day after day, people are expected to eat boiled potatoes, watery and half done; baked potatoes full of imperfections and also watery; mashed potatoes, "soggy," and tasteless, and fried potatoes, cut thick, swimming in grease, and as detestable to the eye as they are abominable to a well trained palate.

The real Saratoga potatoes are easily prepared and are delicious for breakfast or lunch. The first thing necessary for preparation is the purchase of a small appliance of wood and steel which somewhat resembles a carpenter's plane. This article is known to hardware dealers, house keepers and grocers as a "potato cutter," a "dried beef cutter," or "cabbage cutter," as it is used to cut all these things. It costs only 50 cents, and very easily and neatly shaves the raw potatoes in slices almost as thin as paper. A handful of these slices is thrown into boiling lard, and as soon as they are nicely browned they are to be removed with a skimmer, care being taken to drain off every particle of the hot fat. They should be salted immediately, and kept in a hot dish by the fire until the right quantity has been prepared for the meal. The dish must not be covered, for that would make them fat-soaked. Potatoes cooked in this way are daisty as they taste, and are very quickly made ready with the aid of the excellent little "cutter."

WALKS AROUND TOWN.

The bark Maggie Vail was cleared yesterday by A. J. Ingersoll & Co., for Havre, with 1339 bales of cotton, weighing 687,106 pounds, valued at $87,035.

Visiting New Orleans, go to the City Hotel, of which Messrs. Watson & Mumford are proprietors. They know how to keep a hotel, and they do keep a good one.

At Thompson's restaurant, opposite the Campbell House, those nice salt oysters are still disposed of at ten cents only. It is the cheapest place in the city to get them.

According to the Board of Trade reports, the cotton receipts yesterday at all ports were 60,000 bales: New Orleans 2,165, Norfolk 1,043, Galveston 937, Mobile 365, Charleston 348.

The advertisement in another column gives the programme of the approaching Magnolia Jockey Club races. They will be interesting and exciting, and some of the finest stables of the country will be on the grounds.

For the enjoyment of a good dinner, go to Hamersen, at the Opal restaurant, next door to the post office. He knows how to cater for the most fastidious epicure. Board by the day, week or month.

The coon cotton report of the Board of Trade yesterday was: "Market quiet, firm and unchanged. Fair demand and light supply. Sales about 400 bales." Closing report: "Sales today 1000 bales. Market closed quiet and firm. Fair demand. Offerings light."

The reporter of the Register, who made a racy running sketch of a debate in the council on Thursday night of last week, was mounted by President Quigley last night. Other members of the council came to his assistance and the liberty of the press is maintained.

In the common council last evening, the action of the board of aldermen refusing to adopt Councilman Perryman's resolution to hermetically seal the city scrip, was concurred in. The reign of the city scrip is about over, to the sorrow of brokers and speculating tax-payers.

RIVER NEWS.

The Wm. S. Holt, of Central Line No. 2, went out last evening for Columbus, with all the freight she could stagger under and a few passengers.

The Jno. T. Moore, from Montgomery, is also due this morning.

The little tow steamer Bandy Moore, of Central Line No. 2, Captain J. G. Stewart, will go out this evening at five o'clock, for the advertised points. She is one of the fastest boats on the river, and will go through at almost railroad speed. The Bandy Moore can stow away a large amount of freight and give good accommodations to a few passengers. For freight or passage apply on board.

At the office of Spaulding & Foster, steamboat agents, may be seen a perfect picture of the Bradish Johnson which has recently been bought at New Orleans by the late owners of the Lulu D, and will be put into the Bigbee river trade. Her owners will go to New Orleans after her in about ten days, and she will be here in ample season to convey passengers to and from Arlington during the progress of the agricultural fair. The Bradish Johnson is a side-wheel steamer. She is 180 feet long, 33 feet beam, 31 feet floor and 6½ feet hold. She has two 20-inch engines, with five feet stroke and 3 boilers 28 feet long and 40 inches in diameter. When light, the Bradish Johnson draws three feet of water. Her cabin is 150 feet long and 14 feet wide, and she has two bridal chambers, elegantly furnished. Pipes for introducing cold water run through the cabin and into each state room. The capacity of this new candidate for public patronage in Alabama is 1500 bales of cotton.

COMMON COUNCIL.

At the regular weekly meeting of the common council last evening, President Quigley in the chair, the following members also answered to their names: Andrews, Brous, Danner, Lyons, McCaw, Perryman, Smith—8 and the entire board.

Papers from the board of aldermen were concurred in, including the action of the board on the resolution of Councilman Perryman providing for hermetically sealing the city scrip of 1875.

The communication of Auditor St. Paul was read.

The following resolution offered by Councilman Smith was adopted:

Resolved, That the communication of the auditor to the city boards, concerning the proper financial policy of the city be returned to him, with notice that this branch will call for information on such subjects when they desire it from him.

The amendment of Councilman Danner to the resolution of August 5, 1875, relative to the burning of city scrip was taken up and withdrawn at the request of the mover.

Councilman Smith submitted an ordinance to provide a remedy for the relief of tax payers, who have failed through unavoidable accident to have the assessments on their property corrected, under existing ordinances.

Action postponed one week.

The following resolution offered by Councilman Smith was postponed one week:

Resolved, That it be referred to the committee on laws and ordinances to enquire whether the auditor of this city is agent or attorney for claims of say kind against the city, and if so the facts of the case, and whether the same is consistent with the relations and duties of the auditor.

Councilman Danner offered a resolution in reference to the condition of the track of the New Orleans and Mobile Railroad through Commerce street, which was adopted. The object of the resolution is to compel the repairs of Commerce street by the railroad or to provide for taking up the track.

President Quigley called Councilman Perryman to the chair, and said he rose in question of privilege. We have, he said, an official paper called the Mobile Register, of which John Forsyth is editor. It is paid for the publication of the proceedings of the municipal councils, but it publishes unofficially tirades of abuse and ridicule of members of the boards. In the issue of last Friday the local department of that paper ridiculed himself personally, and as there has been too much of this kind of ridicule, he proposed to have it stopped. He regretted that the leading paper of the state should lend its columns to the publication of articles ridiculing members of the council. The people regard all the publications in this paper relative to the two boards as official.

The reading of the objectionable article was called for and it was passed over to Councilman Danner to read. It was a running sketch of the debate in the council on Thursday evening of last week on the question of receiving petitions for the reduction of assessments. The conclusion of the sketch and in which the part objectionable to President Quigley occurs was as follows:

Finally President Quigley—who cannot see a fight without trying to make it free to all and calling Councilman Smith to the chair "pitched in with a vim on the most rigorous side of the enforcement of the existing rules. But Councilman Broun would not be put down, and taking advantage of the sympathies expressed by his colleagues, argued that their very best intentions were defeated by the very fact of no petitions at all being received, and therefore, its merits being left in the dark. Here Councilman McCaw proposed a "mezzo tersio" or "tertium moyen," as those Frenchmen say, and the oil being poured on the troubled waters made the storm subside—at least in part—and finally the council, having thoroughly and ably considered the whole subject in all its bearings, determined to defer action till further enlightened upon the law of the case. Councilman Perryman in the meantime remarked that if it be true that the court of assessment possess powers from which no appeal lies to the boards, he would be in favor of revising the whole legislation.

After the reading of the article was concluded, President Quigley resumed the chair.

Councilman Perryman said he regarded the article as a piece of pleasantry, which all night enjoy. Councilman Anderson alluded to the reports of proceedings in the mayor's court as humorous in their nature. He thought the article that had just been read was a piece of pleasantry. Councilman McCaw said his attention was called to the report before he had seen it, and regarded the allusion to himself as an intimation that a certain class of Frenchmen came before the court.

The opinion of the remaining members of the council seemed to be that President Quigley had made a mistake in regarding a humorous report of a debate in which he participated, as a personal reflection on himself.

There being no further business before the council, the president declared the board adjourned till next Thursday evening.

Last Wednesday about 3 o'clock in the morning a coal oil lamp exploded in New Orleans and set fire to the house; but no great damage was done. The fire got no headway.

THROUGH THE STATE.

The hammer and the saw are again heard at Birmingham from early morn until night, and many improvements are being made.

Four thousand, two hundred and seventy-one emigrant tickets, says the Columbus Enquirer, "have been sold at the office of the Western Railroad of Alabama, and two hundred at that of the Mobile and Girard Railroad, making a total of four thousand four hundred and seventy-one since December 1st. Of this number hardly one hundred and seventy-five are whites. This vast number has been taken from a region whose radius is fifty miles. Their absence has the effect of putting many whites in the field, and causing a less area of land to be better cultivated than was ever before known in this section."

GENERAL TOM THUMB.—Next Tuesday and Wednesday evening, General Tom Thumb is assisted by his wife and her sister, Minnie Warren, will give an entertainment at the Mobile Theatre. The Geelong, Australia, Advertiser, of July 4, 1870, says of the little general and the ladies:

Seldom have we seen the streets more crowded than they were on Saturday afternoon. A stranger seeing so many people gazing down Moorabool street would have thought they were watching for the approach of the Duke of Edinburgh, or some other royal personage, instead of a public performer. Hundreds waited outside Mack's Hotel to see the little general and the ladies descend and take their seats in their miniature barouche, and at the entrance doors to the Mechanics' Institute there was quite a living avenue through which the "illustrious strangers" had to pass to gain the stage. The hall, at both the afternoon and evening performance, was crowded to excess, scores of ladies being glad to obtain standing room. Tonight they will appear at Steigitz, but it may be stated that they will return to give two nights' performances at Geelong in the course of six weeks or so.

CIRCUIT COURT.—In this court today, Judge Toulmin presiding, the following cases are on the list for trial: Rennekamp & Bro vs Dege; Riley vs Alexander, et al; Cummings vs Bruce, Anderson & Co.; Hudson vs Wickersham; Brady vs Augustin; Kimball vs DeBardeleben.

MAYOR'S COURT.—In this court yesterday, Mayor Hartel presiding, Robert McKay, for disturbing the peace, was fined $5. John Hall, an impecunious individual, who had the temerity to ask somebody to give him something to eat, was arrested as a vagrant. He explained that he was on his way to Pensacola, where he expected to get employment in the navy yard, and then he was released.

There is a dairy farm at Point-Reyes (California) of 45,000 acres. There are 3000 cows on it. The making of butter is its speciality; and large profit is derived from it.

BALTIMORE, March 16.—At Woodstock, Shenandoah county, Va., yesterday, the coroner's jury, investigating the cause of death of the victims of the narrow-passage bridge disaster, on the Harper's Ferry branch of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, Monday night, March 6th, rendered a verdict that they came to their death by the breaking of the narrow-passage bridge, and tant the said breaking of the bridge was caused by the unsoundness of the timbers in the bridge.

An Exciting Incident.

From the Oswego Times.]

Last evening, as the passenger train from Charlotte, on the Lake Shore road, was coming to this city, under the direction of Conductor Day, a peculiar smell was noticed by Mr. F. P. Eagle, who was a passenger on board, and on looking around he discovered that a strange appearance of stupor had come over all the passengers. His suspicions being aroused, his action was prompt and energetic. He rushed back in the coupling and found a suspicious looking character who occupied a seat in the rear end of the car. He lit upon him at once and discovered in his possession a curiously-constructed tin can, and demanded to know what he had in it.

"Coffee," said the fellow with the utmost effrontery.

"I'll coffee you," said the Oswegonian, as his olfactories took a full dose of the anæsthetic, which was fast escaping.

"Here, conductor! Dick! Help! Up with the windows! Seize the rascal! We are all being chloroformed! It's the same fellow who chloroformed and robbed a whole passenger train on the Michigan Central road!"

The now thoroughly aroused passengers sprang from their seats, and the windows were put up and the doors thrown open instanter, and as the train moved along there was enough of the pure sterling air forced through the car to counteract the effects of any quantity of the stupefying ether.

The culprit was seized by Mr. Eagle and Conductor Day, and his "can" was found to contain enough "coffee" to have stupefied a dozen or more passengers.

A vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. Eagle by the grateful passengers, who felt that they had been saved from robbery, if not worse evils, by his remarkable self-possession and prompt measures.

Alex. Stephens is convalescent. He is getting better too. He can't draw under the bottom brace of a door without scraping the buttons off his vest.

Memorial.

To the Honorable, the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States in Congress assembled:

The memorial of the General Assembly of the State of Alabama. The attention of the Honorable Congress of United States is respectfully called to the great importance and necessity of opening to navigation the lower part of the Coosa river, so that steamboats and other water crafts may navigate same from Rome, Georgia to the Alabama river and to the Bay of Mobile, thus opening up an outlet by a cheap water route to the Gulf of Mexico for a large scope of country of great richness in the products of its soil, in the inexhaustible mines of coal and iron and forests of the best timber now virtually shut out from the commerce of the world. The attention of your honorable body is further called to the face of the Improvement already made by the Government of the United States on the Coosanaula, a tributary of the Coosa river, to make same navigable the distance of one hundred miles above Rome, while the Coosa river is by nature navigable for the distance of about one hundred and sixty miles below that point, and thus making with the Coostanaula an aggregate distance of navigable water, shut in and running through a country of vast riches in every material resource, and yet without an outlet by water to the sea by reason of the shoals and falls from Greenport to Wetumpka, Alabama, in the Coosa river. The removal of these obstructions to easy and safe navigation of that river has been reported by competent civil engineers of the United States to be both feasible and capable of being done at comparative little cost to the Government; but as yet no adequate measures have been put on foot to accomplish this great work. The national importance of the work is so obvious that it would seem unnecessary to use argument to convince your honorable body of that fact. The Gulf coast will always from its exposed situation invite attack from our enemies in times of war, but with this river open to navigation our armies and the Gulf coast and our navy from the harbor of Mobile could be furnished with inexhaustible supplies of the very best material for war. Coal and other supplies for our navy could be furnished in the Bay of Mobile in quality equal if not superior, and at terms more economical than at any other port in the Union. But besides this direct national interest in this work as a means of a common military defense the very large and highly important commercial interests involved cannot be successfully denied, and your memorialists trust will not be overlooked by the Honorable Congress of the United States.

This great work though susceptible of being accomplished by a comparatively small outlay of money, yet in the present impoverished condition of our State and our people it is entirely out of the reach of our ability to accomplish it.

Your memorialists, by way of impressing your honorable body with the importance of this great enterprise as a work of material importance, beg to call attention to the following from the late Gen mod Gr. Mathew F. Maury. In speaking of the Coosa river, he said: "There is at present natural navigability from Mobile up the Alabama river to Wetumpka, on the Coosa; here the ledge which crops out to form the Muscle Shoals of the Tennessee, interrupts navigation, and forms a portage of 130 miles, after which the river again becomes navigable, and steamers ply on it regularly thence to Rome, Georgia. A canal over from the Coosa to the Tennessee would open an inland communication between the Chesapeake Bay and Gulf of Mexico, that would be the utmost importance in war."

"As a great national work, both commercial, political and defensive, in its aspects, this fact seems not to have made a lodgment in the public mind, viz: that if this great Southwestern route were completed on the scale, and in the same manner now suggested, there would meet at Gunter's Landing two inland and national water lines, as useful in peace as in war—one from the Gulf of Mexico via the Alabama and Coosa rivers, through a steamboat canal of not over thirty miles long, to the Tennessee. The other through all the western tributaries of the Mississippi, above and below the mouth of the Ohio, thence up the Tennessee to the Holston at Saltville, and thence by rail and water through Virginia to Hampton Roads."

Your memorialists, therefore, most earnestly and respectfully pray your honorable body at an early day to take this important subject under consideration and that you will make such appropriation and inaugurate such measures as may in your wisdom be necessary to accomplish the desired object at the earliest possible day, and your memorialists will ever pray.

Approved March 8, 1876.

Live Within your Means.

Live within your means. This is a good rule for office-holders and business men generally. When the man of moderate income endeavors to live as expensively as a man of wealth his future can be easily written: a life of embarrassments, periods of anxiety, burdensome debts, a desperate struggle to keep up appearances, ultimate bankruptcy, and a red flag to notify the neighbors that the sheriff is master of the situation. One main thing in the honesty of the present age springs from this foolish practice of imitating the style of others. The man of a thousand a year wants to live equal to the one who receives five, he in turn aspires to make as big a show as the one who receives ten, and the receiver of ten labors to keep pace with the one who counts his income among the fifty thousands. Is it any wonder that so many fail in business or forfeit by their misconduct the confidence of friends? We must come back to our old fashioned way of living, and this can be done only by obeying that injunction, Live within your means. Life is altogether too short to destroy its enjoyments by taxing soul and body to keep up false appearances. Contentment comes with moderation; mental suffering and keen anguish with extravagance. To the young man just starting in life, we say, live within your means. To the man of business to convince your honorable body of that fact. The Gulf coast will always from its exposed situation invite attack from our enemies in times of war, but with this river open to navigation our armies and the Gulf coast and our navy from the harbor of Mobile could be furnished with inexhaustible supplies of the very best material for war. Huntsville Independent: An old man named T. J. Connally, familiarly known as "Jeff," living near Warrenton, in Marshall county, got up early on Sunday morning, the 5th inst., went out into an old smoke house on his place and hanged himself. His body was found soon after he left his house, but life was extinct. Strange to say, his feet were resting on the ground.

The cause of this rash act seems to have been debt. He had mortgaged his property, and failing to make a crop sufficient to meet his debt, and being of that his property would be sold, it so preyed upon his mind that he preferred death to the living torture. His life had been a failure. He was above sixty years of age.

Mrs. Cartwright, widow of the Rev. Peter Cartwright, the noted Methodist preacher, died on Monday at Peasant Plains, Iowa, aged seventy-six.

MOBILE DAILY TRIBUNE
SATURDAY,.....March 18, 1876.

Last year there were 30,709 deaths in the city of New York—an increase of nearly 2,000 over the previous year.

Small pox is prevailing very generally in Pensacola. Among the recent deaths by it are those of Mr. Thos. Bobe and one of his children. Another of the latter was not expected to recover. The disease was mostly among the colored population. Would Mobile quarantine be useful in the case?

The act "to regulate liens of mechanics and other persons," passed by the recent legislature of the state is published in full, by authority, in the Montgomery Advertiser.

It contains twenty-five sections, and, of course, is very long.

We should like to publish it for the benefit of the mechanics, very few of whom take the Tribune.

The trip of Booth, the actor, to the South was very successful. He came under the management of Mr. Ford, of a Baltimore theatre. In the journey there were fifty-two performances, and nine characters represented: namely, Hamlet, Othello, Richelieu, Richard the Second, Lear, Shylock, Wolsey, Iago and Pescrho. He came no farther South than Montgomery. Mobile might have filled his houses, and certainly New Orleans could have done better; but we suppose these places were not in the programme or conditions of the party when it set out.

Shower of Fish.

In Bata county, Kentucky, on the 3d inst., a heavy rain fell down mea. Two or three acres were covered with it. There were no clouds and the wind was not strong enough to blow sad cut up bullocks. The savants were attracted by the news, and they investigated the flesh, and concluded that it was mutton, and not beef. And now these learned men are puzzling their heads in regard to this wonderful phenomenon: that the sky rains mutton, and not beef.

How the sheep got up there and were cut into small pieces so as to rain down, is what puzzles us.

The so-called meat is now undergoing chemical investigation, for the purpose, we suppose, of discovering whether it came from the moon, or by peculiar atmosphere combinations the gases in the air were not turned into the form of mutton.

What is not possible is not possible. And whether this was possible or otherwise, is what one would like to know, and find the reason of—and also the gratuitous mutton. A great many people prefer good beef; but, in the absence of that, they can take mutton.

We implore the powers to send to Mobile this rain of beef or mutton.

This is literally true of the reports that come from Bath county, with the testimony of many citizens and some professors of reputation—not much skill, we suppose, and a good deal of credulity.

Well, in the condition of the public mind—or no-mind—which accepts these fables for truth what is it not possible to prove?

If this case the story is accepted. The whole of Kentucky is on fire. The people there think that they are exceptionable, and heaven is giving them mutton, without the interposition of the butcher, who has a very wicked habit of asking for his pay.

We are in hopes that this rain will come to Mobile. It would bring with it blessings which the butchers could not appreciate.

The procession yesterday of our Irish brethren in honor of the memory of the great and good man St. Patrick was very pleasant to those of us that love the place of our birth. This is a love that lasts a man all of his life, if he have within him any qualities of love. He is a brute, without them.

And because the Irishman, here in the United States, far away from his natal soil, remembers it, and, perhaps, has relatives dwelling there, it does not follow that he forgets the duties which he owes to the country of his adoption.

Let him honor the traditions of his native land. That honor is worthy of all respect.

In America we have no traditions. There are men now living who were witnesses of the inauguration of the act which separated this country from the control of Great Britain. Whether that was good or not is a question which must be left for the solution of the future.

We are not certain about it, as its consequences seem to appear now.

But the Irishman has a long past before his eyes—running back much more than a thousand years, and he does not like the way that his country has been controlled by the imperial power. He will not forget this, and because he is not like any other man within the British dominions. Neither English, nor Scotch, nor Welch is Irish. They are entirely different in all essential respects, and among them there can be no harmony, except by submission.

Well, the Irish are not submissive. They can hardly make compromises. Their greatest man, Daniel O'Connell, tried this. He got occasionally on the "ragged edge" of treason. His enemies wanted him to fall over it, but he was too wise for them. They could only accuse him in their news papers, and couldn't find any means by which they could hang him, or send him to a penal colony.

He was a great man and accomplished great good for his countrymen. Like Dean Swift, he loved Ireland, but was not fool enough to knock his head against the granite walls of the British empire.

Gen. R. W. Healy was nominated for conrumation as U. S. Marshal. His name was subsequently withdrawn, and George Turner, esq., nominated in his place, and confirmed by the Senate.

Why Gen. Healy's name was withdrawn does not appear in any information that we have.

The New Hampshire Election.

The Republicans have carried the election in New Hampshire for governor, the Legislature and the council.

The vote is not full, but it is estimated that the majority for governor will be two or three thousand, and a majority of some twenty or more on joint ballot in the Legislature.

In 1874, the Democratic candidate for governor (Weston) was elected by a plurality of 1465. There was a temperance candidate running at the time, who received 2100 votes. So there was not a democratic majority.

In 1875, Cheney, who was chosen at the recent election, had a plurality of 172, over Roberts, the Democratic candidate. A temperance candidate (White) received 792 votes, and, of course, Cheney had no majority.

If he have two or four thousand majority (as it is reported) there is evidence that the republicans have made gains. In the past it is fixed, that nearly all of the independents who voted for a temperance candidate were Republicans.

The whole vote of the state in 1874 was 71,851, when a Democrat was elected governor. In 1875, the whole vote was 79,206, when a Republican was elected to the office.

New Hampshire, since 1852, has had only five Democratic governors. In 1855 and 1856 it had two governors of the American (or Know Nothing) party.

All the rest (twenty-one) were in opposition to the Democrats.

The first state election held this year was that of New Hampshire. The next will be that of Connecticut, on the first Monday of April. All the states have their elections this year—none later than in November.

So the reader can see how great the partisan efforts will be by the local contests to impress the public for the presidential election.

The New York Tribune, of the 13th inst. says: "The Virginia and Tennessee Air Line Railway Company, continuing its sharp competition with the coast line steamship companies, on Saturday reduced its rates from New York to the following scales: First, second and third class freight to Atlanta, 25 cents per 100 pounds; fourth and fifth class, 20 cents. The rates to Selma and Montgomery have been reduced to 30 cents per hundred pounds for first, second and third class, and to 25 cents for fourth and fifth class. These are the distributing points for freight going to New Orleans, Mobile, Eufaula, etc., and the charges to those places will be reduced in proportion."

The Memorial to Congress for the improvement of the Coosa River, adopted by the recent legislature of the State, will be found on an out side page.

It is a very important subject to a large scope of this section of the country, and is of special interest to the city of Mobile.

Those of our citizens who have influence at Washington ought to move in the business with alacrity.

TELEGRAPH

DOMESTIC.

NEW YORK, March 17.—The Bank of the State expects to resume business this week, perhaps tomorrow.

The Times's money article, speaking of the failure of the bank of the State of New York, says: "It seems that the vice president ran the institution apparently in his own interest, and that of his immediate friends, with sublime indifference to the interests of depositors and stockholders. He made loans and allowed order-drafts which no bank officer should have countenanced."

Herald money article says: The cause to sell out which always seizes speculators for easy accounts on the development of an unexpected financial disaster, set in with full force yesterday on the bank failure becoming generally known, and would undoubtedly have produced disastrous results had not Gould and others come to the rescue, and by heavy purchases checked the decline, and even turned the market upon the upward tack. Bankers express the opinion that the failure will not effect the banking business generally. The failure did not cause much surprise in banking circles. George W. Duer president of the suspended bank has been ill some time, and the institution was managed by Richard Patrick, vice president, in his absence. Besides banking Patrick has other business interests both here and in California, and was supposed to be very wealthy. He had loans from the bank aggregating $230,000, and Smith & Girvan, malt dealers, and friends of Patrick's had received loans to the amount of $875,000. Other loans were also out to the extent of $30,000.

NEW YORK, March 17.—A suit has been brought in the supreme court of this state by the Union Consolidated Mining Company of Tennessee against Julius E. Rahl, its former superintendent, charging him with defrauding the company in the course of ten years out of $1,275,000, and charging his brother, Charles Rahl, former secretary, and John Thomas, who was president until last November, with conniving at and aiding in the frauds of the first named defendant. The method of the alleged frauds is asserted to have been thought what is known in England, and to some extent in this country, as the store system, by which claims are paid from the company's store in merchandise instead of cash.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—Witnesses have turned up who admit of receiving five, seven and ten thousand dollars for their personal influence with the secretary of the navy to secure the payment of old claims, but no part of these fees ever reached the secretary or members of his family. The committee may convict the secretary of bad conduct in the transactions with Ward and gun-bursting experiments, involving the unlawful use of at least $2,000 of government money.

District-Attorney Dyer, Ex-senator Henderson, Colonel Broadhead and others will be summoned by the committee to testify regarding Babcock's abstraction of official documents.

Kilbourne will succumb. The investigation will cover Grant's purchase of property from members of the pool. Ex-Secretary Belknap, Judge McArthur, of the supreme court of the district, and Ex-Congressman Eldridge are involved.

Secretary Bontwell, during his administration, ordered a subordinate to balance a discrepancy of $200,000,000 found in the book. Half a million was expended for the benefit of mail contractors on one line, and comparatively useless mail line in Montana, during Cresswell's administration.

The sentiment of the republican caucus yesterday was for a fight over the reduction of 10 per cent. of force and 20 per cent. in pay; and also against any reductions in the consular and diplomatic list not already passed the house.

General Peck will testify that four traderships were taken from him and given to persons more or less connected with the ring.

LONDON, March 17.—There was a seven hours' excited debate over the Queen's title, finally a motion for going into committee on the bill was adopted by 305 to 200.

Dispatches say an alliance of Servia and Montenegro was decided upon yesterday.

After regular business of the hour, yesterday, there was renewed distrust among stock operators and a general relapse in prices. Two failures occurred this morning, but the liabilities of each are small. Business is restricted and house railways depressed by the large qualities of stock thrown on the market in consequence of the late failures, but foreign securities are stronger and in most quiet cases better prices were realized.

PARIS, March 16.—2:30 p. m.—The Seine and the Marne are both higher than they were yesterday, and the plain, from Maisons Alfort to Villeneuve St. Georges, is one immense lake. Boats traverse the valley from Villeneuve to Choisy. The senators and deputies representing Paris have voluntarily devoted two months' salary to the relief of the sufferers. Five hundred houses were abandoned on Wednesday at Nogent-Sur-Marne.

BAYONNE, March 17.—Fever has broken out in the hospital among wounded Carlists.

SINGAPORE, March 17.—Intelligence is received here announcing that the expedition of Malcampo, governor general of the Philippines, against the Sooloo pirates has been successful. It is stated that the Spaniards lost 500 men during the operations.

SIERRA LEONE, March 17.—The war at Cape Palmos is about ended. The latest fighting was three weeks ago when the Grebos attacked the town of Topmun and were repulsed with heavy loss. The United States frigate Alaska arrived at Cape Palmos, and the captain was instructed to arbitrate between the Liberians and Grebos. There was to be a meeting on the 26 of February when it was thought a treaty would be signed. Mr. Roberts, ex-president of Liberia, died at Monrovia on the 24th of February and was buried with military honors next day.

The St. Patricks of New Orleans yesterday turned out in large force and in handsome style. They d appropriate honors in memory of the Saint.

The new capitol now building at Albany, New York, it is supposed, will cost $12,000,000. Five millions have so far been spent on it.

LOCAL NEWS.

The list of letters remaining in the post office yesterday is unavoidably crowded out of this morning's Tribune.

PLANTING POTATOES.—Peerless, early rose, peach blow, Chili, Red and russets in store and for sale low by Owen Farley, 64, 66, 68, 70 and 72 Government street

A company of five gentlemen will leave Rome, Georgia, on or about the 15th of May, in the minature steamer Wanderer, and will make the trip to Montgomery, Mobile and New Orleans.

If there is any article in the line of groceries, provisions, feed for animals, and stimulants for feeble humans that Owen Farley, at his big store on Government street, does not have, he will quit advertising and close up his business. He keeps everything in this line.

MAYOR'S COURT.—In this court yester day morning, Alderman Muldon presiding, Harry Jones, colored, arrested as a dangerous and suspicious character, was discharged. Louise Stanard, colored, for disorderly conduct in beating a 4 years' old child, was fined $5 or days. Joe Edwards, colored, arrested for vagrancy, was sentenced to five days' work for the city.

Spanish ship Joaquin Serra was cleared yesterday for Barcelona, with 1800 bales cotton, weighing 905,892 pounds, valued at $118,285 02; 1000 barrels rosin, valued at $1,817 94, and 800 staves valued at $112 80—total value of cargo, $120,218. 28. Norwegian bark Henrik Ibsen was also cleared yesterday by Classen & Co., for Hungo, Finland, with 1236 bales of cotton, weighing 620,074 pounds, and valued at 76,000.

It is not safe to stamp letters the way post office clerks do it. As Mr. Pickett Coleman was stamping the letters in the Montgomery post office for the mail last Tuesday morning, an explosion took place the moment the stamp came down on one of them. He was considerably scorched about the eyelids and face and monstrously frightened. It is thought the letter contained some wafer caps.

MOBILE VARIETIES.—This evening the statue scene, as represented by Lizzie Whalen, will be repeated; the exciting sword combat, in the French Spy, between Addie Woods and Manager Hip gone will be a spirited contest for the third time; songs and ballads by Lizzie Whalen and Addie Woods; jig, clog and other dances by Sisson and Durand; Ethiopian and Dutch delineations by Dick Roberts; songs and dances by a new artist. The variety of novelties will be very great and unusually attractive, and the only place of amusement in the city will be crowded by those who indulge in the enjoyment of cheap and harmless Saturday night entertainments. New stars next week.

ST. PATRICK'S CELEBRATION.—The celebration and procession of the various societies, announced to observe St. Patrick's day as implicit believers in the patron saint are accustomed to, was in every respect a perfect success yesterday. The societies presented a handsome appearance as they marched along the streets "wearing of the green." The Tribune was honored with serenades which were highly pleasing to its attaches. The services at St. Patrick's church were solemn and imposing. The day was concluded by dinners provided by the societies for their own members and their guests, in which latter representatives of the Tribune were included. It is hoped that the day will be as pleasant next year as it was yesterday.

Some gentlemen of the St. Patrick ceremonies wound up last night with an elegant supper at the establishment of Messrs. Smith & Dugan. There was everything at it, except meat. That is prohibited during Lent. The wines were excellent, and the toasts and speech es were good enough for the occasion. To say who, under the inspiration of the moment, delivered speeches or toasts were to do what ought to be kept private. All of this was good enough, but the public in general has no right to know anything about it.

We know that there were good fellowship and kindly feeling exhibited on the occasion—although one gentleman had the temerity to say that St. Patrick was a Presbyterian. That would be no objection if it were true. A great many other nations claim him, but we like to be sure that he was a native of the British Isles, and the proof of that is sufficient to satisfy any one who is not demanding what does not belong to him.

WALKS AROUND TOWN.

Hot coffee, five cents a cup, at Thompson's, opposite the Campbell House.

If you want the choicest pickles in barrels, or by the measure, go to Owen Farley, Government street.

A set of Hatton's shirts jewelry, at the low prices he fixes on each article, would be an economical purchase at any time.

To obtain bargains in furnishing goods, go to Hatton's and examine his large stock, corner Dauphin and Royal.

Look in the display windows of Pincus, and select a suit, flannel undergarment, a vest, neckt'e, or an elegant hand kerchief, and then buy the duplicate.

The closing cotton quotations of the Board of Trade, yesterday were: Ordinary 9@9½; good ordinary 10½; low middling 11¼; middling 12½; good middling 13 4-16@13¾.

Cotton seed meal is very nutritious for milch cows, and that is why Owen Farley buys it in large quantities, and sells it to suit purchasers, at his Government street grocery.

To get a drove well put down, go to Young Brothers, corner Dauphin and St. Emanuel, who do that class of work much cheaper than it is done by anybody else in Mobile.

Emporie kid gloves, the best in the market, of all colors, and the Reynier (Imperial calf) gloves, fashionable and snsep, at Hatton's, southeast corner Dauphin and Royal.

One of the specialties of Hatton, furnishing goods dealer, southeast corner Royal and Dauphin, is neckties, of which he has a full line, of the latest and most fashionable patterns.

When visiting New Orleans, go to the City Hotel, Watson & Mumford proprietors. Central, liberal, tables abundantly supplied, lodging rooms well ventilated and prices moderate.

Gas fixtures sold and gas fitting done by Young Brothers, corner Dauphin and St. Emanuel, who are also plumbers, and are prepared to execute promptly all orders in that line.

The cotton receipts at Mobile since September first have been 338,479 bales, against 308,563 bales during the corresponding period the preceding year—an increase of 34,916 bales.

The Young Brothers, corner Dauphin and St. Emanuel, are agents for two or three patterns of cooking ranges, the best of which is the Stag's Head range, superior to any now in use anywhere.

For your Sunday supply of groceries and provisions, go to the family grocery store of Walter Crosbie, southeast corner of Dauphin and Jackson streets. Stock carefully selected. Prices low.

According to the Board of Trade reports, the cotton receipts yesterday at a ports were 10,945 bales: New Orleans 4,266, Norfolk 1,220, Mobile 1,064, Galveston 921, Charleston 567, Savannah 454.

"Prepare for a rainy day" is an admonition that has become a proverb. It is no better way to do it than to go to Hatton's, southeast corner of Royal and Dauphin, and buy an umbrella. Stock is large and prices small.

It is not yet too late to plant potatoes Pic value of the crop depends very materially on the variety of the potato the is planted. Owen Farley, 64, 66, 68, 70 and 72 Government street, has the peerless, early rose, peach blow, Chili, red and russets.

The noon cotton report of the Board of Trade yesterday was: "Market quiet and unchanged. Demand light and sales about 250 bales." Closing report: "Sales today 1000 bales. Market closed quiet and unchanged. Moderate demand and light supply."

One of the most desirable residences near Mobile, just outside of the city limits is offered for sale. Dwelling large and comfortable. A fine young vineyard and orchard, with a great variety of fruit. Price $3750, one-third cash, balance in one and two years. Apply to G. M. Burwe, Tribune office.

Another reason is presented why vessels should come to Mobile to load. In 1870, the Spanish ship Joaquin Serra cleared from this port with 1775 bales of cotton, weighing 893,848 pounds and she has cleared from other ports since with about the same cargo. Yesterday she was cleared by C. LeBaron, esq., with 1800 bales, weighing 905,892 pounds, being 5000 pounds more than she has ever carried before and in addition she carried 1000 barrels rosin and 800 staves—in all an equivalent of about 2100 bales of cotton. Bronn, Marston & Co. compressed the cotton, Manuel Blakely was the stevedore.

RIVER NEWS.

There was no departure yesterday.

The D. L. Tally, of Frank Stone's Grange Line, with Captain Frank Stone in command, arrived yesterday morning from Pickensville with thirty passengers, 386 bales of cotton, 1010 staves and a long list of sundries.

The steamer Jno. T. Moore, Captain P. O. Foster, from Montgomery, came in yesterday morning with 35 passengers, 125 bales of cotton, 195 sacks of cotton seed, 52 stacks of cedar and a fair list of sundries.

The cotton is that after this trip the D. L. Tally will be laid up awhile and the Victoria will be put on in her place.

The iron steamer Jno. T. Moore with her popular officers on the roof and in the office, will go out this evening at five o'clock for Selma and Montgomery. She took on a large freight yesterday and will go out with a big cargo and a large number of passengers this evening. Spaulding & Foster agents.

The D. L. ally, of Frank Stone's Grange Line's, having splendid passenger and large freight capacity, will back out this evening at five o'clock for Pickensville and intermediate landings, with Captain Frank Stone in command. Spaulding & Foster agents

The little iron steamer Bandy Moore, Captain Jas. G. Stewart, will back out this evening at five o'clock for Columbus and intermediate landings on the Bigbee river. For freight or passage apply on board.

SEEING STARS.—Every journalist has seen stars quite frequently during his connection with the press. Some of them were seen in the Register of yesterday morning, as the signature to a proxy article nearly a column in length, that contains as many incorrect statements as there are paragraphs. It is easy to expose all the errors and downrights falsehoods in the article, by quoting from the record to prove the correctness of every assertion that was made in the Tribune in reference to the city scrip; to quote Councilman's Perryman's expression of the opinion that the collection of the city taxes would pay the interest on the November coupons and leave a surplus of $70,000 greenbacks in the city treasury on the first of January; to show that the early withdrawal of the city scrip from circulation was arranged at Washington by J. Little Smith on one side and the internal revenue commissioner on the other; and that there was an agreement with or pledge to bankers of Mobile to retire the city scrip at the earliest possible period.

The publication of denials in the council proceedings from the mayor will sustain all the assertions made in these columns in reference to the city scrip. There being no space for its publication this morning, an article will appear tomorrow morning, which will compel the champion of the city scrip to declare that he has seen stars.

GENERAL TOM THUMB.—The little general, together with the little Major Newell, Mrs. Thumb, and her sister, Minnie Warren, will entertain the people of Mobile at the theatre next Friday and Saturday evening. The Bangalore, British India, Herald of December 10, 1870, compliments those little folks in this wise:

We were glad to notice the other day that General Tom Thumb and family and public career has not weighed heavily on either his body or mind. He is just the same joyous, lively little man, as when long ago he drew crowded audiences to look on his diminutive figure and listen to his pleasant entertainments, and time at all events has dealt far more kindly with him or than with others of his age long life to him. Of Mrs. Tom and Miss Minnie it is difficult to speak too highly. The ladies are simply charming, and the self-possessed, womanly manner in which they speak, sing and act is perfection itself. Judging from their pleasant features, enlivened in the gentleman by a dash of humor peeping out every now and then (record only, we should think that a happier little family could not anywhere be found from China to Peru, and we need not say they have our heartiest good wishes for their success in India.

THE WEATHER YESTERDAY. The weather was delightful yesterday morning, though it seemed cooler during the day, owing to the north wind that swept down upon us. The wind, at 6:01 o'clock yesterday morning, blew 10 miles an hour at Indianola and 9 at Mobile. The temperature was 46 at Mobile and Montgomery, highest 76 at Key West, lowest 41 at Corsicana.

At 3:51 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the wind blew 10 miles an hour at Mobile and 20 at Montgomery. The temperature was at Key West 83, Indianola and Savannah 68, Galveston and New Orleans 67, Mobile 66, Augusta 64, Corsicana and Montgomery 62.

The clothing sales of Pincus, the famous dealer, northeast corner of Dauphin and Royal, are made on Saturday at remarkably low prices, whether the purchaser buys a single garment, or a full, fashionable suit. The salesmen at this house make only correct representations as to the quality of the goods, and the prices are established so low that the closest buyer is perfectly satisfied.

Hatton is the shirt king of Mobile. He has a large and carefully selected stock and sells at these astonishing low prices: Six shirts for $9 00 (open back or front) six for $10 50, six for $12 50, six for $16 00. The quality of the goods is excellent and the work so faithfully done that the seams do not rip, nor the buttons come off.

The Opal restaurant and hotel, next door to the post office, is conducted on the European plan. Guests may dine and wine there and sleep elsewhere, or they may take lodging rooms there and dine where they choose. Hamersen aims to be polite and courteous to all.

The M. D's.

At the commencement of the Medical College of Alabama held at Temperance Hall last Thursday night, the degree of M. D., was conferred on the young gentlemen whose names are as follows:

Bascom H. Vaughn, Texas; James E. Wofford, Louisiana; Albert B. Carruth, Mississippi; Erastus Wheeler, Mississippi; Oliver E. Parker, Mississippi; Jesse C. Weaver, Mississippi; D. Milton Goodner, Alabama; Frank O. Norris, Texas; Luther E. Wynne, Mississippi; Noble M. Reagan, Texas; John A. Lovett, Louisiana; James W. Abernethy, Mississippi; John D. Sloan, Texas; William Paton, Alabama; William H. Cunningham, Louisiana.

In conferring the degree Dr. Anderson, on the part of the faculty, made honorable mention of Drs. Lovett and Carruth the the former of Louisiana, the latter of Mississippi.

CIRCUIT COURT.—Judge Toulmin on the bench, the case of Faustina Velasco against the New Orleans and Mobile Railroad Company, resumed from Thursday was concluded yesterday. The jury brought in a verdict for the plaintiff in the sum of $8000. The plaintiff alleged that he was knocked down by a train that was backing up near the depot in this city, February 26, 1875, without giving a signal of any nature that the train was in motion. At the time he was walking along beside the track.

The motion docket will be taken up today.

A summary statement of the imports and exports of the United States (of which Mobile is a component part) for January last, compared with the corresponding month of 1875, corrected to February 29, 1876, prepared by the bureau of statistics at Washington, has been sent to the Tribune.

According to the manifest of the schooner Farmer, she brought here from New Orleans "2,000 bondel sirn tate." It has always been understood that the orthography of the English language puzzles those not accustomed to writing or speaking it.

On Palmetto street, second door west of St. Emanuel, a fire was discovered Thursday night. It was extinguished by policeman Peters.

Ex Governor Groome, of Maryland, and Mrs. Groome are at the Battle House. They have come south on a bridal tour.

Selling off to close business, all of our best calicoes at 7 cents a yard at retail, and all other dry goods at prices to insure their immediate sale. Store for sale.

Arab Dexterity.

The following anecdote is given by M. de Brussiere as an illustration of the adroitness and audacity of the Arabs in some of their thefts. An Arab introduced himself by creeping on all fours, like a quadruped, into the tent in which one of the Beys was reposing, and carried off his clothes and arms, with which he attired himself. Quitting the tent very early in the morning, and assuming the manner and haughty carriage of the chief, whom he felt asleep, he so imposed upon the attendants by his appearance, that they led forth their master's horse, which the Arab mounted and rode off without creating suspicion. An hour afterward the servants were surprised at hearing the Bey proceeding from the tent, calling for assistance. The latter was still more astonished than his servants at the boldness and adroitness of the thief appeared to him totally incomprehensible.

After several weeks spent in fruitless endeavors to discover the author of the robbery, the bey announced a free pardon to whomsoever would acknowledge in what manner his arms had been removed from under the pillow on which he slept. Some days afterward the identical Arab presented himself before the bey, and reminding him of his proclamation, motioned him to recline on his couch and remain silent, while he should explain the mode by which he effected the robbery.

The Arab then again dressed and armed himself as before, left the tent, and again deceived the domestics, who brought out for his use a valuable and favorite horse, and, moreover, handed him a most magnificent pipe, supposing as the time they were wanting on their master. During the whole of this scene, the bey, who saw what was passing, was convulsed with laughter; but his merriment was soon checked when his protege re ently made off, at full gallop, with his weapons and baggage.

Some little excitement was created at the post-office last night by the explosion of a letter and the severely burning of Mr. Comegys, the clerk who was cancelling the stamp at the time. An examination showed the letter contained wafer caps for toy pistols. Rather dangerous mail matter.—Montgomery Advertiser.

English the Language for Science.

It remains for science to choose some modern and living language, says the New York World, which shall be its vehicle by preference, and in which its literature shall be mainly stored away. M. de Candolle argues that English must be the language, in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, French—the language of polite society—began to succeed Latin in the vehicle of scientific communication. It was simple and clear, and the French were the controlling people of the continent in arms, manners and literature, but since then, as de Candolle says, "the scientific centre of gravity had advanced from the south towards the north," and the chances were in favor of the English because it is a composite language, containing an equal measure of Latin and German words; it is grammatically simple, clear, strong and flexible. As a compromise between German and Latin, it ought to be the half-way and meeting point of the naturally hostile Latin and German race, while not unattractive to the Slavonic races. As a growing tongue it is sure to out-strip any other in the race for control of the world. On February 5 the wholesale merchants of San Francisco held a meeting and voted that "whereas the discount on silver has reached such a magnitude as to require some united action, therefore resolved that hereafter we will not receive silver in payment of accounts due, and bills hereafter sold, in larger sums than provided by law, except at the ruling rate of discount when payment is made." And the same paper in which these resolutions appear denies on its editorial page that "silver has become almost as common as rag money and at a discount not much inferior" in other words, that the paper currency of the United States has continually risen in value as compared with gold, while silver has somewhat depreciated.

When anybody asks you why ladies require such a large amount of pin money, refer them to the following figures: There are now eight pin factories in the United States, which make about 47,000,000 pins daily. In addition to these, the importation of pins reaches 25,000,000 sally.

The recent trial in St. Louis has brought out the story of the old Frenchman who had been tried for theft and acquitted. As often as the offense was thrown up to him he would reply: "Ze peple (the people) he say 'yes,' but ze court-house he say 'no.' Aha! By gar!"

The word "police" is derived from the Greek Polis, a city. The word "peelers" originated in Ireland, when Sir Robert Peel was Secretary of the Island, and established the armed constabulary force who were nicknamed "peelers."

Law and Justice.

A somewhat remarkable case has just been decided in England by Chief Justice Coleridge and two of his associates. A man bought a first-class ticket from London to Scarborough, and on the back of it these words were printed: "Issued according to the company's regulations and to the conditions in the time-tables of the respective companies over whose lines this ticket is available." But the train did not start at the time announced, and failed to make its advertised connections. The passenger lost the train he wanted to meet at Leeds, and, finding he would have to wait three hours for another, procured a special train to his destination, which he reached an hour and a quarter after the time he was due. He paid for the train and then sued the company for the extra expense. The county court decided that the company must pay for the special train, and now on appeal the high court of justice has reaffirmed this decision. This court decided that a railway company is bound to carry passengers according to its time tables, and is responsible to them for losses sustained by all unnecessary delays. This decision, rendered by the most eminent judge on the English bench, will have great weight in this country as well as in England, and will form an important precedent.

THE CHUPA.—A correspondent of the Southern Cultivator, writing from Henry county Alabama, says of the chufa:

As to their fattening hogs, I cannot speak from experience, as I have always had them in the same field with ground peas, but I know they will make more bushels per acre than the ground pea. Year before last I measured the nuts from one row, planted carefully, and the calculation for an acre, and the result was 98 bushels per acre, on land that would not have made more than 3 bushels corn per acre. If the land is good there will be one mass of nuts from one row to the other; therefore they should be laid by early and cultivated shallow. They will do to gather or turn hogs on by the first of October. The best way to keep the nuts for seed is to put them in a tight box as soon as gathered, and bury it in the ground. Keep them damp and warm and you will have no difficulty in getting a stand. I look upon them as an important crop for those who have their meat house at home. If we expect to be independent and above the reach of panics, we must have our meat houses under our control.

Resumption in silver coin ought to be easy enough, for silver is getting to be a drug in all the markets of the world. On February 5 the wholesale merchants of San Francisco held a meeting and voted that "whereas the discount on silver has reached such a magnitude as to require some united action, therefore resolved that hereafter we will not receive silver in payment of accounts due, and bills hereafter sold, in larger sums than provided by law, except at the ruling rate of discount when payment is made." And the same paper in which these resolutions appear denies on its editorial page that "silver has become almost as common as rag money and at a discount not much inferior" in other words, that the paper currency of the United States has continually risen in value as compared with gold, while silver has somewhat depreciated.

When anybody asks you why ladies require such a large amount of pin money, refer them to the following figures: There are now eight pin factories in the United States, which make about 47,000,000 pins daily. In addition to these, the importation of pins reaches 25,000,000 sally.

The recent trial in St. Louis has brought out the story of the old Frenchman who had been tried for theft and acquitted. As often as the offense was thrown up to him he would reply: "Ze peple (the people) he say 'yes,' but ze court-house he say 'no.' Aha! By gar!"

The word "police" is derived from the Greek Polis, a city. The word "peelers" originated in Ireland, when Sir Robert Peel was Secretary of the Island, and established the armed constabulary force who were nicknamed "peelers."

SUNDAY, ... March 19, 1876.

The new revenue law of Alabama is in eleven chapters, and occupies fourteen of the long columns of the Montgomery Advertiser. The sections and subdivisions are innumerable. We have no doubt that it embodies much wisdom; but to reduce it to any manageable size is not possible for us.

The liabilities of the derelict bank, entitled the Bank of the State of New York, are not much over $2,800,000. The amount of its assets is not mentioned in what papers we have seen. The bank wants an extension of sixty days, so as to show at the end of that time—we suspect—that the assets are—nil.

In Memory.

We copy the two following notices from the Cycle of yesterday. For Mr. Nasou we have a very high regard, and would do much to relieve him of any pain; but he is a philosopher, and knows very well that death is the inheritance of all persons, and that there is some consolation in the thought that, as the Creator has made death universal, there must be benevolence in the decree. For He cannot inflict pain without good among all his creatures, whether they are stationary, like the trees, or crawl like the worm, or walk as do we bipeds of the human race. Death is a translation to something better than the terrible passions which here tempt us on all sides.

Well, then, how to reach it in faith and in the doing of "works meet for repentance?" That is what every man and every woman must study for themselves.

We have no advice to give in this respect.

The death of Mrs Knight, announced elsewhere, shrouds many hearts in sorrow—some of them, no doubt, in an anguish upon which it is not piety to intrude. But we may at least give expression to the sincere sympathy felt by one of his old associates in journalism with the afflicted father, our friend Reuben Nason, Esq.

The deceased was a lady endowed, by the concurrent witness of all who knew her, with the loveliest attributes both of mind and heart. Those who loved her have all the consolation that can be bestowed by the memory of a gentle, pure, and lovely life and a holy, happy death. She had been a consistent, faithful christian, and one of her friends writes that, among her last whispered words, were those appended to the notice of her deceased "Thy loving kindness is better than life."

This is graceful. And so is the following, which is in regard to the death of Mr. Livingston. That gentleman, we supposed, until we saw his death announced in the papers, was in Europe.

From him we received a letter dated N. York, and it was full of joyousness—nothing in it to indicate that Death was about to take him by the hand.

He had his faults. Who has not got them?—but under all of them was a current, ever-flowing, of great good. He was a pious man—not in any degree fanatical, or sectarian—had his own faith, and it was a generous, manly, truthful one.

He has gone to his reward. We shall all have to do this, after awhile. Happy the man who can "wrap the drapery of his couch around him, and lie down to pleasant dreams," and wake up to find them realities.

Robert McLean Livingston whose death we announce to-day, was born in Charleston, S. C., in the year 1809, and came to Mobile in 1833. He was at one time successful and prominent in business i. e., but for many years had been contending against reverses and disasters.

He was possessed of fine talents, which had been enlarged and adorned by liberal culture and much travel and observation of the world.

He was, among intimate acquaintances, a very agreeable companion, gifted, not withstanding some faults of temper, with a genial disposition and much conversational power.

We have said that he struggled with adversity, and he struggled gallantly and nobly, never losing heart, and never forgetting that he was a gentleman and a Christian. Falling into comparative oblivion—as men who fall into adversity generally do in a commercial community—he was never reduced, never despondent, never forgot his selfhood, never sullied his honor, never "went about doing good" to the last day of his life, defiant of time and misfortune, and earnestly striving to be useful to his country and his fellow-men, in the service of his God.

Mr. Livingston was at one time U. S. Consul at Manchester in England. He had been in New York for some months previous to his death, and left there, less than two weeks ago, ill of the disease of which he died a few days after his return home. He was buried from St. John's Church, of which he had long been a member, on Thursday afternoon.

About Pork.

There is some apprehension that the "hog crop" will be short this season. According to statistics in the York Bulletin, (usually a very reliable paper,) in 1875, the whole number of slaughtered swine was 37,949,220: this year it is 25,774,201.

But no mention is made of the weights of these numerous hogs. It is probable that the numerical, and not the avoirdupois, has been taken. We shall, we susp. ct, have a pork ring.

A bale is a bale, and the freight on a bale is not taken by weight, and so some cunning fellows will put six hundred pounds in a bale. It is a little difficult to handle, but it can be put on a steamboat, or a railroad car, without much trouble.

Paid a custom weigher, and he is supposed to have an opportunity to make it more. It is a small mode of cheating; but are not all of us sinners?

The storm of night before last (says the Montgomery Bulletin of Friday evening) caused the Cahaba river to rise so rapidly as to cover the bridge at Warrior, on the South and North Railroad, with water three feet deep. The track was also washed up between Cullman and Blount Springs, the trains not being able to get closer together than ten miles. The train due here last night did not arrive until half past three this morning.

All the papers are saying that St. Patrick was born in France; or rather, one paper stated that, and all the rest copied it. It is a "false fact," as Lord North once said, in a speech in the English upper house of Parliament. The Saint was a Scotchman. The proof of this is nearly, if not quite, conclusive.

But it doesn't make much difference anyhow. He was a very good and great man, and ought to be kept on English soil. Within that we include both Ireland and Scotland.

The two great parties are now much troubled with the currency question. They don't know what to do with it.

Every man wants gold. Silver is becoming a drug, and we see no way of getting out of the muddle of the numerous antagonistic opinions on the subject except one: that is to believe in greenbacks—backed by the government. If that is not pretty good security, as good as gold, there is nothing worth having.

No man in Mobile refuses a greenback. If he had ten pounds of gold dollars in his pocket, he would desire some persons to give him paper in exchange for it.

It is possible that there will come a disposition to repudiate this money, but prior to that, we shall have to repudiate the bonds which are so largely held in Europe and elsewhere, without the bounds of the country.

A heathen is the man who robs his own family. Let us rob the foreigner, if we are meditating some rascality of the kind. Isn't the imprimatur and stamp of this great government equal to what it authorises, and has gone to much expense and trouble to print?

Why even here in Mobile, the security of the city on its small paper is not distrusted. It has no general circulation; but among us it is seemed and considered equal to the credit of the United States. Why? Simply because sensible people know that it will be redeemed, and that it has purchase in it.

For our own part, we wish that gold might be abolished. Silver is now not worth much more than tickets. The mines are giving out too much of it. This will ultimately be the case of gold. Then what are we to do? Have no currency? No! Get a good government, and repose with confidence on its honesty. This is the secret of success.

TELEGRAPH

DOMESTIC.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—The Signal Service observer at Barnegat Inlet reports a steamer sunk at 9 o'clock last night, five miles north of that station and a mile and a half from the shore by coming in contact with a three-masted schooner. The schooner sailed north this morning. The sea is too rough to go to the wreck to ascertain her name.

NEW ORLEANS, March 18.—Wash Rockwell was shot and killed by R. Desposite.

FOREIGN.

LONDON, March 18.—It is feared the British ship Lake St. Clair, Capt. Coffey, from New York, January 19, for Glasgow, and the British bark Walton, Capt. Shields, from New York, January 20, for London, have been lost with all on board.

The Liverpool breadstuffs circular says the tempestuous weather and heavy rain and sleet have caused general complaint from the country districts. Not only are the chances for sowing interrupted, but weeks may elapse before the land can be got into condition again. Farmers' stocks of wheat are shortening, shipments from abroad are light, and with a generally revived demand, English and advanced sambling per quarter this week. Foreign on spot and on coast are also rather dearer, sellers to-day obtaining an advance of 1d per quintal on white, and from a penny to two pence on red. A fair business has been done in corn, dry parcels of American being a shade dearer. The Mark Lane markets in London show some improvement and prices have occasionally advanced. Yesterday wheat was a shilling per quarter dearer at the leading exchanges, including those of Birmingham, Bristol, Maidstone and Slow. Last week's imports of wheat, barley, oats and flour were moderate, showing a decrease from the previous week. The supply of maize is heavy, being 149,655 quarters. Last week's deliveries of English wheat, barley and oats scanty. The continental market is slowly advancing. At Paris, on Wednesday, wheat rose a shilling, and at Antwerp, Amsterdam, Hamburg, Berlin and Marseilles sixpence; in Mark Lane to-day, factors ask a shilling advance on wheat, especially foreign, and business is checked thereby; however, transactions continued; restricted English is two shillings higher than a fortnight ago. Flour steady. Other staples unchanged, though prices are stiffening. Spring seeding operations have been much delayed by the winds and floods of the past two weeks. Business in the stock exchange was almost stationary during the afternoon toclose. Another failure was announced this evening, making twenty-one on settlement. No more can now be declared in connection with this account; so the worst is over. There was a slightly better feeling in home railways at the close, but there were no buyers and no recovery in prices. Foreign securities continued steady.

PARIS, March 18.—M. Louis Blanc has decided to take his seat in the chamber of deputies for the 12th arondissement of Paris.

An arch of the railroad bridge over the river Isle gave way under the pressure of the flood. A passenger train crossing was precipitated into the river, the carriage dashed to pieces, and the passengers all crushed to death or drowned. Thirty corpses have already been recovered.

The programme of the ministry is as follows: Ten or twelve of the most objectious prefects and sub-prefects will be removed in a few days and be replaced by men sincerely resolved to serve the republic, selected and particularly calculated to attract the support of the middle class. The remaining officials to be carefully examined, and those who interfered in elections, through political passion, to be dismissed. Others who acted under orders, or through error, to be removed to other departments. After these changes as, surances will be given to officials that they have nothing more to fear.

MADRID, March 18.—In the Cortes, Thursday, Senor Castelar made a four hours' speech, in which he criticised the policy of the ministry generally, chiefly on its course on religious questions. He declared that Ultramontanism had created the civil war.

HAVANA, March 18.—Several plantations were burned in the District of Colon, and troops have been sent to punish the insurgent incendiaries.

VIENNA, March 18.—The Servian Ministers seem to favor immediate war. The pretension is aggravated by continuous raids of Turkish troops on the Servian frontier. The Austrian representative at Belgrade had another interview with Prince Milan Thursday, and urged him to make a binding declaration in favor of peace. The Prince asked for a few days' delay, as he could not trust the pacific assurances of Montenegro. He said the Montenegrins entered into action he could not possibly be behind, and preparations for war with all the more necessary, as the Turks were again concentrating on the Servian frontier. Long cabinet councils are held daily.

The parties have not yet been able to find how the South stands in relation to the national financial question. Sam. Reed, however, seems to be in favor of "resumption" That is a great factor in the case.

LOCAL NEWS.

CLOTHING!—John Maguire Dauphin street is selling out at cost his immense stock of clothing.

There was much cold weather yesterday, for the season, but it will do no harm. We shall—have Spring on us, with a jump from Winter.

It is reported that the Centennial people, like Oliver Twist are asking for more. They want another half million, but it is not likely that they will get it.

Go early tomorrow morning and buy your week's supply of groceries, provisions and vegetables of Owen Farley, at his mammoth grocery, Government street.

On the freight manifest of the New Orleans and Mobile Railroad yesterday this item occurred: "24 live niggers to Freeman Saunders & Co." It is presumed that a freight car was hired to transport them.

Selling off to close business, all of our best calicoes at 7 cents a yard at retail, and all other dry goods at prices to insure their immediate sale. Store for sale.

P. H. PEPPER & Co.

The New Orleans observances in honor of St. Patrick's day were more imposing than usual, and there was not the slightest indication of a riot on the occasion. Every thing passed off in good humor.

Having received the latest styles of Mme Demorest's cut paper patterns for spring and summer, I am prepared to fill all orders, both for city and country

MRS. E. HERMAN,

CIRCUIT COURT.—Judge Toulmin on the bench. The motion docket occupied the time of this court yesterday. An argument on a demurrer, commenced yesterday, will be continued tomorrow and no cases will be tried then.

We might get tight,
On some dark night and walk along by the cistern at King's pump and fall in on account of the dangerous condition of that cistern. The street commissioner will please read, ponder and act.

JUSTICE PAINE.—THE BULL'S HEAD SHOOTING.—John M. Brown, charged with being an accessory to the shooting of Cleveland near Bull's Head, on Sunday of last week, was discharged. Ryan was held in $500 bail to appear before the city court to answer to the charge of shooting Cleveland with intent to kill.

MAYOR'S COURT.—In this court yesterday Mayor Hartel presiding, Sarah Leonard, arrested on complaint of Frankie Taylor, charged with disorderly conduct, was fined $10. Tom Burke and Dick Malone, arrested for obtaining goods from one Hasbeck under false pretences, were released on their agreement to pay the complainant 70 cents for beer said cigars. The case was charged with disorderly conduct, was discharged.

FIRE.—Yesterday at about half past one o'clock an alarm of fire warning from Dane's stable, caused by the burning of the roof, of a shanty, opposite Burden's mills. The fire is supposed to have caught from the sparks flying from the chimney of the mill. The firemen were, as usual, prompt on the ground, "Mechanics' No. 7 having the first water on the fire. The loss truck of No. 5 broke down on Dauphin, between Warren and Dearborn. Cause—axle gave way. All these old shanties on that block ought to be burned or torn down, as they are a disgrace to the city.

GENERAL TOM THUMB.—On Friday and Saturday evenings of this week and Saturday next, General Tom Thumb, and his company of little people will give entertainments at the Mobile Theatre. The London Times, in 1872, said of them:

Many a lady of fashion, even court circles, may wellenvy the graceful bearing of Mrs. Tom Thumb and her wee sister, Miss Minnie Warren, for the great variety and magnificent richness of their dresses, to say nothing of the more than princely display of diamonds of the first water, which an outlay of the thousand pounds sterling has secured these charming little ladies from the great republic. But handsome is he who handsome does," is the the true old proverb, and all who witness the performances of these most captivating miniature ladies, aided by the heroic General Tom Thumbsand the inimitable Major Newell, will unite in saying that their entertainment is as surprising and delightful as it is bewitching and extraordinary.

ICE AND BEER.—The Mobile Ice Company is bound to do a good business all the year round. It supplies with ice all the steamboats that ply between Mobile and other points. It supplies with the Pin Beer and also saloons and private families. Its ice carts penetrate every street in the city where there is a grocery store and it is obtaining new customers every day. Their supply of ice is situated inexhaustible and they are never out of the best of the Pin Beer, whatever emergency may arise. An extending business requires additional means of transportation, and they have added to their vehicles a new two horse wagon especially to deliver beer to customers, that is a novelty in its construction and the admiration of those who have seen it. The great success of the Mobile Ice Company in both branches of its business is attributable in a great degree to their liberality in advertising, and the untiring energy of their agent Mr. Geo. W. Lyons.

RIVER NEWS.

The only arrival yesterday was the little iron steamer Bauly Moore, of Central Line No. 2, from Aberdeen, with 602 bales of cotton, (1 bale more than the Tally and Jno T. Moore brought), a short list of sundries and a few passengers.

The D. L. Tally, of Frank Stone's Grange Line, went out this evening for Pickensville with a good number of passengers and a splendid freight.

The Jno. T. Moore backed out for Selma and Montgomery, last evening with a large number of passengers and an excellent cargo, though she could carry more freight if it had offered.

The Mary, from Montgomery and the Atlantis, of Frank Stone's Line, from Pickensville will be in tomorrow morning. The Emma No. 2, from Tuskaloosa, is not expected till Tuesday.

The iron steamer Bandy Moore, J. G. Stewart master, of Central Line No. 2, will leave tomorrow evening at five o'clock for Columbus, Pickensville, Vienna, Warsaw and Gainesville. She will put freight through with almost railroad speed and carry a limited number of passengers very comfortably. For freight or passage apply to W. Johnson, agent.

BRADBURY PIANO FORTES.—Two more of those elegant Bradbury pianos just received at J. H. Stow's 102 and 104 Dauphin street. Also a magnificent assortment of other grand from the world-renowned manufactory of Chickering & Sons.

Six new arrivals of the celebrated Peloubet & Pelton organs, admired by all who see and hear them. Sold on the instalment plan if desired. Every instrument warranted five years.

Frascati, popular under the administration of Martin Horst, will be open today from and after two o'clock, p. m. The Conception street cars will run to Frascati regularly every Sunday. The indications are that the wind which had a grand blow out yesterday will subside today, and that a ride to Frascati will be pleasant. The nicest beverages, choicest edibles and bowers of bliss in shady retreats.

FEED, FEED, FEED.—J. H. O'Hara the well known feed dealer has constantly on hand hay, corn, oats, bran, cotton seed and cotton seed meal, at low prices. Mr. O'Hara has a spacious store which he keeps well filled to supply the wants of his customers. All goods will be delivered to any part of the city free of charge for drayage No. 32 and 34 South Commerce street.

At the clothing and furnishing goods house of Brisk & Jacobson, 56 Dauphin street, the rarest bargains may be secured in the purchase of a full suit of clothing or a single article of furnishing goods. The reputation of this firm stands deservedly high for fair and honest dealing, and their customers are always treated with such consideration that they go back again to get good fits and better bargains.

Get ready for the races of the Magnolia Jockey Club, which will commence on the 22th instant and will continue three days. The track here is not like that at New Orleans, where a heavy dew will make it muddy, but the races will go on unless there is a hard rain at the time.

THE REPORT OF THE GRAND JURY.—The grand jury of the city court submitted at a late hour last evening their customary report, of which we make an abstract:

During their session they have examined 224 witnesses, acted on 122 cases and found 78 indictments. They have examined the county jail and county poor house, both of which are in excellent condition, kept in a cleanly manner, and the inmates properly cared for.

THE CITY AUDITOR.

From the proceedings of the common council, February 15, 1868, folio 293, we find how the office of city auditor was created, and what were the duties as defined:

The following report of the committee on ways and means, establishing the duties of the office of auditor, and selecting F. L. Owen to be auditor, was ordered to be filed:

MOBILE, February 5, 1868.

The duties of comptroller or city auditor shall be as follows:

He shall keep his office in the municipal buildings, occupying therein, a part of the council chamber, and devote all of his time to the duties of his office.

He shall keep a regular set of books in which fair entries shall be made of all things pertaining to or done in his office. He shall also be required to make out the monthly pay roll.

He shall examine and verify all accounts, past and present, rendered and to be rendered by the several offices of the city government and report thereon; also all claims against the city

He shall make himself acquainted with all the details appertaining to the several departments of the city government, in order to give such information thereof to the mayor and to the boards of aldermen and common council, or to the joint committee of the same when called upon by them and more particularly to work under the direction of the committee of ways and means. He shall carefully preserve in his office all books and papers delivered to him by virtue of his office, and deliver over to his successor in office or to the board of common council, all books, papers, accounts and properties belonging to his office. He shall perform all the duties prescribed by the city ordinances or bylaws, and perform generally all duties, under the direction of the mayor or committee on ways and means, which committees of accounts are accustomed to perform.

He shall receive such compensation monthly as has been fixed or may hereafter be fixed by the corporate authorities, and shall give a good and sufficient bond, in the sum of $5,000 for the faithful performance of his duties.

It is now quite seriously contemplated by members of the two boards to abolish the office of the city auditor, as being no longer necessary to conduct the municipal affairs. It is certainly to be hoped that the office will not be abolished by any hasty action, though the lopping off of that and all other salaries that can be dispensed with is demanded by an economy which must be rigidly pursued.

THE CITY SCRIP.

In the Tribune of last Thursday an article on the city scrip was published, making certain statements, the correctness of which a star writer in the Register, who appears in the dual role of champion of Councilman Perryman and City Auditor St. Paul, denies.

To confirm the correctness of the statements made in these columns, the records of debates and official papers are produced.

Before the scrip of 1873 was issued, in exchange for the city scrip of 1873, Mayor Hartel proposed to burn $10,000 a month of it, and the boards sustained him without a dissenting vote, as will be seen by the following official report from the Tribune of August 6th:

At a regular weekly meeting of the common council, on the 5th of August, the following communication from the mayor was received:

I would respectfully report that the new issue ordered by your honorable boards, is arriving from day to day and is being rapidly prepared for the counterplated exchange.

The faith of the city is pledged for the retirement of the new warrants [city scrip] and in view of the general expectation that some steps should be made in the direction thereof, I would respectfully recommend the adop tion of the following:

Resolved, That the city treasurer is hereby directed to destroy by fire, in the presence of the mayor, the city auditor and one member of the committee on ways and means, within the first five days of each and every month, beginning with the months of October, 1875, ten thousand dollars of the new issue, executed under the ordinance approved June 11, 1875, and that said destruction by fire be then continued from month to month, until the entire issue shall be retired.

It may be objected to that this proceeding may embarrass the city, but upon inquiry into the actual condition of our finances and the revenue likely to be collected, I think you will be satisfied that now is the most opportune time to fulfil our pledge of redemption.

The new issue becomes in effect a series of short bonds, payable each month, and not interfering in any way with any pledges made under the funding act, as that one only requires a sinking fund in the latter part of 1876.

The communication was received and filed and the resolution adopted without a dissenting vote.

The next important movement was that for the collection of city taxes, in which Councilman Perryman took a conspicuous part, as a member of the ways and means committee and of the council.

At a regular weekly meeting of the common council, August 26th, a report was submitted from the joint committee of ways and means, to prevent the depreciation of the city scrip, which concludes as follows:

The tax list now in the hands of the collector shows that there is now due $278,220, which is more than enough to retire all of the city scrip in circulation and pay the current expenses of the city for the balance of a full suit of clothing or a single article of furnishing goods. The reputation of this firm stands deservedly high for fair and honest dealing, and their customers are always treated with such consideration that they go back again to get good fits and better bargains.

Get ready for the races of the Magnolia Jockey Club, which will commence on the 22th instant and will continue three days. The track here is not like that at New Orleans, where a heavy dew will make it muddy, but the races will go on unless there is a hard rain at the time.

TODAY, SUNDAY.—Feast of St. Joseph. Services in Father Dennaud's church as usual on Sundays. Father Downey, S. J., preaches at half past seven p. m.

THE REPORT OF THE GRAND JURY.—The grand jury of the city court submitted at a late hour last evening their customary report, of which we make an abstract:

During their session they have examined 224 witnesses, acted on 122 cases and found 78 indictments. They have examined the county jail and county poor house, both of which are in excellent condition, kept in a cleanly manner, and the inmates properly cared for.

We would, therefore, offer the following resolutions:

Resolved, 1st, That the tax collector is hereby instructed to enforce the collection of taxes within the next thirty days.

Resolved, 2nd, That after that time a penalty of one per cent. per month, as authorized by law, shall be added to the amount of taxes due and continued at that rate until said tax and penalty are paid.

Councilman Perryman, in support of the resolutions, said the prompt collection of the taxes would retire the city money, pay the expenses of the city for four months and leave $20,000 greenbacks in the treasury. On the first day of January city licenses would be due and from them a revenue realized.

Councilman Danner moved that the report be received and the resolutions adopted.

Councilman Perryman said: in addition to the $278,000 due for this year's taxes, there is about $100,000 of old taxes due the city.

The motion of Councilman Danner that the report be received and filed and the resolutions adopted, was carried with only a dissenting vote.

This sustains what has been said in these columns about the belief expressed by Councilman Perryman.

On the 8th of February last, at the regular weekly meeting of the board of aldermen, a communication was received and read from the mayor, vetoing Alderman Atkinson's resolution relative to a suspension of the burning of the city scrip of 1875.

Alderman Muldon offered a resolution that the communication be received and filed and the veto of the mayor be sustained. This motion prevailed.

I herewith return, without my approval, the repeal of the resolution approved August 11, 1875, authorizing and directing the city treasurer to destroy by fire ten thousand dollars of the new city issue monthly for the following reason:

The city stands committed to its withdrawal from public circulation by its understanding with the commissioner of internal revenue, made, through Hon. J. Little Smith.

A special committee, at the requ at of your honorable ways and means committee, when city scrip was at a heavy discount, waited upon nearly all our banking institutions and informed them that by reason of the gradual and sure monthly retirement of ten thousand dollars, that it was a good investment and some parties were induced by their confidence in the assertions of the committee, to add in restoring the city money to its present diminished rate of discount.

For these reasons, if there were no other serious objections to this danger ous exercise of money-making power, I think that the retirement by burning is old outdone.

There will never be a better opportunity to rid our home business of this incumbrance than during the current year, when the

The Undying Flame.

A wedding of a very romantic character occurred in this city yesterday morning. It was the consummation of a courtship of thirty-four years ago—a happy consummation of youthful love—showing how incurable are the wounds invisible that love's keen arrows make.

Dr. Joseph R. Smith, now on a visit to Louisville, is a wealthy merchant and influential citizen of Elyton, Alabama. When quite a young man he loved a young lady in another State, and in return received the most undying assurances of her affection toward him. But fate intervened. Circumstances of a peculiar nature prevented their union, and, after the first pangs of disappointed love were passed, both were married and went their respective ways with their companions. A few years later they lost sight of each other, but never forgot their youthful attachment.

The lady married a gentleman named Kilpatrick, with whom she moved to Missouri. A few years ago her husband died, and about two years ago Mr. Smith became a widower.

A few weeks ago he resolved to take a trip north in search of the boyhood sweetheart, whose place of residence was unknown to him. His first stopping place was Louisville. Arriving here in the early part of last week he took a room at the Fifth Avenue Hotel and commenced looking after some business among the merchants.

Two days after his arrival, while looking over the hotel register, Dr. Smith, to his great surprise, read the name of Mrs. ——— Kilpatrick from Missouri. He sought an interview at once, and for the first time in thirty-four years beheld his old-time sweetheart. The rest of the story is of necessity brief and already anticipated.

At nine o'clock yesterday morning, Dr. Smith and Mrs. Kilpatrick quietly left the hotel in a back toot, and drove to Crescent street Methodist church, where they were married in the presence of a few friends, who had gathered there by an invitation of the groom, Rev. Dr. Young, pastor of the church, performing the ceremony. The parties then returned to the hotel, where they will remain a few days and then return to the Southern home.—Louisville Courier Journal.

TUESDAY.....March 21, 1876.

The death of Placide Forstall is mentioned in the New Orleans papers. He was eighty years of age, and had been conspicuous in the affairs of the city's commerce.

The British steamship Octavius, was recently captured near the island of St. Thomas by a Spanish gunboat. She was laden with arms and ammunition, and towed to Porto Rico.

Hon. S. S. Cox—a very intelligent member of Congress—was, at the last accounts, much ill of pneumonia. We hope that he may recover, for he is a very useful and interesting representative.

Those foreigners are sending over so many things to represent their respective countries at the Centennial. Last Thursday a steamship, bearing with it from Spain one thousand packages for exhibition at it, arrived at New York.

Not much progress has been made in New Orleans in regard to "crooked" whiskey. The grand jury is in session, and it is carefully looking for it. Last Saturday J. McWhorter and L. W. Eaton—charged with conspiracy—were put under bond.

James S. Prestidge, of the commercial firm of Prestidge, Graham & Co., New Orleans, who recently killed Major W. D. Hawkins, was sent back to jail last Saturday, without bail to answer before the Superior Criminal Court. The examination was before Judge Evans.

The block of Mexican silver, sent from Vera Cruz to be exhibited at the Centennial, is to be stored in a safe. It weighs 4,200 pounds. We should suppose that it might be left on a New York wharf, with no danger of disappearing. But it may not so—for the thieves will steal anchors weighing 10,000 pounds, when left exposed to temptation. Why an anchor weighing 1000 pounds was once stolen from a wharf in Mobile; and this city is small compared with that of New York.

In matters of city affairs we have no feeling—hate no man who is engaged in them; but we have the great, respectable and really lovable desire to see them carried on with honesty, and wisdom.

We have no objection to the seeing of any man within the corporate limits getting all he can from an honest administration of his office.

But, as stealing now is a part of the general government, we shall declare that we, of this small corporation, may set an example of honesty to it.

For the parts make up the whole. We seem to be quite certain that all our officers are honest, but there may be strifes among them as to what is proper in this regard; and it is for the wise men to lay down a law in this respect. The citizens will accept it, although there may be differences of opinion in regard to it.

Let it be done in all decency, and let the good men insist that it shall not be done otherwise.

There are true men in both of our municipal boards—men who would wrong themselves—and feel it—by hurting their constituents. Let them look to the responsibility of their places.

In this, we do not mean to leave in inference that any man in office is doing wrong—only to indicate that there is a vast amount of suspicion running about the country, and a tendency to distrust everywhere.

The ease and rapidity (says one of the papers) with which the Boston forger, Winslow, was captured, while fleeing from justice, is another illustration of how nearly as one the whole civilized world now is, and how closely it approaches to being one organism for certain definite ends. There is hardly a nook or a corner to which a criminal can retreat with assurance that he will not be dragged from it by the officers of the law. He is absolutely hedged in. Almost before he is out of port the telegraph has signaled his flight, so that when he arrives at a place where a few years ago he would have been in security, he is collared by a policeman and presently sent home again. Probably, before a decade shall have passed we shall have extradition treaties with all governments, and th s render it almost a miracle for a fugitive from justice to escape its clutches.

And yet, while all this is true, it does not check the persons, without moral honesty, from the temptations of stealing.

While saying this, it may be observed that there ought to be no great trust of money, or the means of getting it, in the hands of men.

Winslow had the trust of the men whom he stole from, and we have no doubt that a hundred—perhaps a thousand—who are in trusts are meditating some method of theft.

Why, in some places of large trust, there is no desire for subordinate honest men. There is a desire for tools, and, of course, plenty of this kind of men can be found.

We have seen this fact portrayed in the general service, and we are sorry that we are obliged to believe that it runs down from the top to the bottom.

The extradition laws ought to be made universal—for then a thief could hardly run away without being brought back to answer for his crime.

And the result would be of great moral influence on the big rascals, although, perhaps, it would not restrain the smaller fellows, who cheat in a small way, and never get enough to pay their way to any country which harbors thieves, by having no extradition laws.

A thief will steal, under the temptation of a desire for luxury, or for the purpose of making a fortune which gives luxuries.

This is what tempts men. Poverty is, in some sort, considered a crime.

Well, it amounts to that, when respect in life is only to be got by luxuries.

Who pays for these luxuries? The poor fools who take no note of the government, either national or state, have to pay for them.

This is all of it, and nothing more of it is needed.

As our readers know, Mr. Davis, Lieut.-Gov., of Mississippi, and Mr. Cardozo, Superintendent of Education of the state, have resigned their places.

These officers are under impeachment for some kind of mal-administration that we are not familiar with.

Mr. Lamar delivered a speech recently in Congress in the case of Gen. Belknap. Mr. Blaine seemed to think that, because he resigned, there was an end of the business; but Mr. Lamar proved, it there be anything respectable in the U. S. Constitution, that he could not escape by that process—showed that the courts of civil jurisdiction have a right to take charge of rascals who, thinking they have a shelter in the resignation of the places which they have used for nefarious purposes, can escape the penalties that are due to those who use their influence to cheat.

This cannot be true, for, if it were, Gen. Belknap might have stolen the spoons from the President's table, or his wife's diamonds, and held them in safety, after the presentation of a letter of official resignation.

This kind of legal and moral ecapability from crime is to offer a reward for its perpetration.

And that is not good for our people.

Catch the rogues, whether at the head or foot, and expose them, and appeal to the people for the approval of it.

What the party names of the rascals are is of no possible interest to those of us who have no opportunity of stealing. We have to punish, and it is wisdom to discover the reason why. Perhaps, we are all rascals. Happily for the souls of all of us, we are not put to temptation.

It comes to what is of most importance. Does the resignation of Mr. Belknap, or of Mr. Davis, or of Mr. Cardozo relieve each of them from responsibility? As far as the first named person is concerned, Mr. Lamar has shown its fallacy, by citations from the U. S. constitution. Well, then, how is it in regard to the constitution of Mississippi? Does that charter allow a derelict officer to re-ign, and by that means escape the punishment which can only be found by a process in the civil courts?

The commencement of the Medic l Department of the University of Louisiana was held last Friday. T ere were fifty graduates, only one of whom was from Alabama. Twenty-three were of Louisiana, thirteen of Mississippi, two of Virginia, eight of Texas and one of Florida.

The weather on Sunday night and yesterday morning was not delightful.

It blowed on Sunday night and shook houses, and made people afraid. That was exciting; and that is what we need. We want stirring up. A storm can do that, and, in apprehension, may bring people to their knees and pray. That also is good.

It did blow "good" There is no doubt about that, but did no great harm. It made the atmosphere wholesome—good for the children, and not hurtful to the adults.

Capt. Ben Lane Posey is making a very interesting paper of the weekly Rosita Index. He is writing up the virtues of Colorado in an extremely interesting way—telling all about its mining wealth and agricutural productions. We should like to go out to that state, if it were not so cold.

A newspaper of this kind is of substantial value to any community, and, what gives it special merit, is that it has no partisan politics—the bane of the country and the source of more follies among men than are produced by their vices.

Mrs. Taft, the wife of the new United States Secretary of War, is described as follows:

She is a most cultivated lady, highly accomplished, with a decided predilection for belles-lettres. She is remarkable for her exemplary piety and her active benevolence. She is constantly engaged in works of charity, and her removal to Washington will be a serious loss to the poor of Cincinnati, in whose cause she has unceasingly labored. Although wealthy, Judge and Mrs. Taft have always preferred a simple style of living, and have never cared much to enter into gay society. They have three sons, one of whom is married and has children.

The Rascalities.

The revelations of fraud at Washington are wonderful. Mostly in the universality of them.

Those have been frauds in government matters from the beginning of the world—for men entrusted with power—and many of them seek it for the opportunity which gives them the means of stealing—are not a new thing in the history of any country, but the stealing in this country is wonderful—almost admirable. It mounts up to the heavie.

There are now ten of the committees of the present Congress appointed to investigate these miserable frauds. They seem to be trying to do their work for the benefit of the whole people—for the most poverty-stricken man has some interest in seeing them exposed, so that, hereafter, we may have some hope of escaping from the thieves who seem now to be controlling the wealth which comes into, or ought to come into, the Treasury Department.

We only judge from appearances. Perhaps we may be wrong; but this is the Centennial year, and ought to be thought of with calmness and discretion—for it may make the character of the next Centennial, although it is not probable that any of us will live to see it.

RIVER NEWS.

The steamer Mary, Captain John Quill, from Montgomery, arrived about one o'clock yesterday morning. She laid too about an hour and a half in consequence of the storm. The cotton has nearly all been brought out on the line of the Alabama, river, and hence the Mary came in with only 183 bales. She brought a total assortment of sundries and about fifty passengers, some to make through connections with the New Orleans and Mobile Railroad that leaves at 4:10 in the morning. The Mary had a rough time coming down, but the vicilance of Captain Quill surmounted all obstacles.

The Atlanta, Captain Hiram B. Johnston, of Frank Stone's Grange Line, arrived at a late hour in the morning from Mobile's Landing, with 264 bales of cotton, several beef cattle, a good list of sundries and thirty-five passengers. She had a peculiarly rough night of it, but Captain Gubuilson was there, and all was safe.

The fleet little iron steamer Baudy Moore, Captain J. G. Stewart, 6t Central Line No. 2, with a good freight of merchandise and plantation supplies, darted out like a projectile from a solumn mist yesterday afternoon for Columbus and intermediate points. Before this she was put to the Address of its readers, the Baudy Moore will be ever so many miles up the river, though she does not runrast as a carrier pigeon flies.

Today, the Eunns No. 2, from Tuskaloosa, will be due. But she will not bring in a very heavy cargo of cotton.

This evening at five o'clock, sharp, the elegant steamer Mary, the pride of the Alabama waters, with Captain John Quill on the roof and Mr. Jimmy Quill in the office, will cast off her lines, when she will start on several pleasure jaunts, and take her departure for Selma and Montgomery. As the most comfortable place there windy and boisterous days is in the saloon of the Mary, which is heated by steam, and the state rooms opening out of that saloons are cosy and nice and warm, it follows that the Mary will have a good many passengers today, who find it cheaper to travel on her than to stay at home. Already freight has begun to go down to the Mary and she will go out with a full cargo. Spaulding & Foster agents.

One of the most popular river men on the Bigbee is Captain Ham R. Johnston, of the beautiful side wheel steamer Atlanta, of Frank Stone's Grange Line. She is announced to leave at five o'clock this evening for Pickensville, and intermediate points. There is no more comfortable steamer in that line than the Atlanta, and no more capable steamboat captain walks the roof than Captain Johnston. The popularity of himself and his clerk are sure to attract both passengers and freight, and large quantities of merchandise and plantation supplies will be added to the cargo that will took on board yesterday. Spaulding & Foster agents.

The Selma Times reports that during the twenty-four hours ending the evening of the 18th instant, the Alabama river rose about six feet.

We direct the attention of house-keepers to co. extensive auction sale in the store under Odd-Fellows Hall, Royal street tomorrow, March 22nd at 10 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. of a very large stock of crockery, glassware, cutlery, plated ware, lamps, chandeliers, bronzes, wall pockets and jewelry. Also a fine collection of oil paintings, chromos, etc. etc.

WALKS AROUND TOWN.

The wintry winds yesterday penetrated through ordinary clothing and men with overcoats and gloves were cold.

It is a curiosity to visit the work factory of Mr. Antonio Febre, No. 46 Dauphin street, where all his work is done by machinery.

Mobile has had a few fires lately, but nothing like that at Charleston yesterday morning, where the loss was half a million dollars.

Mr. Foote told the mayor yesterday that the weather was unconstitutional. The mayor responded that he thought it was a zephyr or two out of the way.

The cotton receipts at all ports since September first have been 341,579 bales, against 305,198 bales during the corresponding period the preceding year—an increase of 35,382 bales.

The reporter will try it once more. He wrote it the other day that J. M. Ladd & Son's sawmill is located at Magazine Point, two miles from the city. The printer put it ten, eight miles too far out.

During the storm of Sunday night, the chimney of Mrs. Gresé's residence on Lafayette street between Dauphin way and Spring Hill road, took fire. The fire was extinguished. The alarm box 73, at west ward station, failed to work.

The noon cotton report of the Board of Trade yesterday was: "Market firm and unchanged, with a good inquiry and holders very firm. Sales about 500 bales." Closing report: "Sales today 1500 bales. Market closed firm and advancing. Good demand and holders still in their ideas."

While Mobile is suffering under a sea son of cold weather, there is an eruption at Mount Vesuvius. The lava flows towards Pompeii, and a column of vapor from the summit reflects the flames beneath. It is not stated whether Boss Tweed has come up in this eruption, though it has been stated that he went down the crater the other day.

To the Board of Trade the Tribune is indebted for an interesting pamphlet relating to the United States International Exhibition at Philadelphia, which opens on the 10th of May and closes on the 10 h of November; gives the origin, rise and progress of the work, description of the buildings, and is illustrated with maps, views and ground plans.

Whether the cold wave that swept over us yesterday came from Memphis, where ten inches of snow fell during Sunday night, blocked the street cars, and delayed all the railroad trains; or from Macon, Georgia, where snow fell to the depth of four inches, or from Aberdeen, Scotland, where railroad trains have been blocked by snow thirty four hours, six own trains being blocked on the Caledonian Railway alone, and one train not having been heard from since Friday, on one out of the interruption of telegraphic communication, readers of the Tribune may determine for themselves.

MAYOR'S COURT.—In the court yesterday morning, Mayor Hurtel presiding, Tom Thomas, colored, who arrived here from Pearl river, Saturday, with $6 in his pocket and his wife by his side, drank too much bad whisky, got noisy and was arrested. He promised not to do so any more if the mayor would release him this time, which he promised he would do if the chief of police found his story was correct. Joe Long for abusing his wife, who has been separated from him for years on account of his cruelty, was fined $10. Micheiette Sonon, drunk and disorderly and abusing an officer, was fined $5. Christopher Nolan, for violating market order, for stealing flowers from an enclosed lot, were sent to the city cours for trial under bonds of $200 each. George Evans, arrested for larceny from Joe Thorpe's was arraigned, but his case was continued to have an important witness summoned. Jim Long, arrested Saturday night with a sack of old copper on his shoulder, which he said he bought in Meridian, was remanded till the truth of his story could be ascertained.

The Wildest of Wild Nights

A GALE AND A RAIN STORM

The night of Sunday, the 19th of March, 1876, will long be remembered as one of the wildest ever experienced in Mobile. The day was cold and gloomy. Rain commenced to fall lightly before one o'clock, and one hour afterward, just at the time when the Conception street cars were announced to, commence their trips for that delightful Sunday resort, Fracati, the rain came pouring down.

There was not only rain and wind, but lightning and thunder; and the streets were deluged with water. Even Dauphin street was overflowed, in the vicinity of Solomon's grocery store, and there was water every where.

An hour's gale, with the wind from the southeast, threatened to inundate the front of the city with waters from the bay. The schooners and steamboats that were lying along the line of the wharves were ungently tossed about, and their paint was rubbed and their gunwales scratched. But just as preparations were being made by some of the wholesale dealers on the river front, to remove their goods to upper floors, the wind suddenly chopped round to the west or southwest and that danger of overflow was averted.

During the storm of the night, a hot wave was distinctly felt by several persons, who reported it y-st-day. It came with the southeast winds.

The wind, from whatever direction it came, blew with great violence during the night, attaining at one time a velocity of forty miles an hour. Three inches of rain fell during the night's storm, which is an unusual fall for so short a period.

More people listened to the rain and wind in Mobile Sunday night, than in any night for years. It jarred houses, slammed blinds and opened doors; but did no damage other than to blow down fences here and there all over the city; one conspicuous place being on Royal, corner of St. Michael street. Awnings were ripped up and signs blown down. The brick wall of Eslava's warehouse, corner of Eslava and Royal street, was prostrated by the force of the wind and the power of rain.

No material injury was sustained by the shipping at our wharves. But the fleet of vessels that were lying down in the bay, waiting for cotton, must have had a hard night of it. Up 6 to o'clock last evening nothing had been heard from the fleet down there.

The wind blew with great velocity all day from the northwest, and it was so cold that it penetrated through the warmest clothing. Everybody declared that it was the coolest slice of winter that they had experienced this season.

It came very inopportunely for the "Old Folk's Concert" at the theatre, much to the regret of those who hoped to see a crowded house. Considered from the noblest and most beautiful weather.

As there was ten inches of snow at Montpilie and snow along down the line of the Mobile and Ohio Railroad as far as Macon, Mississippi, where four inches fell, there are fears that vegetation will be seriously damaged along that line. Though the thermometer was down to 41 in this city, yesterday afternoon, not much apprehension of a frost or a freeze last night was felt here.

GENERAL TOM THUMB.—The Tasmanic Times, published at Hobart Town, said June 18, 1870, of the Tom Thumb company that will give matinee and evening performances here next Friday and Saturday:

"This talented Lilliputian troupe took their farewell of Hobart Town yesterday morning, with feelings of no small regret. They departed from Mr. Hartzen's Ship Inn, in their own carriages, about nine o'clock in the morning, their departing was witnessed by a large number of persons who had called to pay the little gentleman and gentlemen their last respects. May their shadows never grow less, and may they ever have with the same success, the same warm friendship, and the same kindly feelings which they met with here. We only hope that in other countries they will be received in as warm and friendly a manner as they have been here. And we hope that the troupe will again pay a visit to Hobar Town with whom citizens they have contracted a lasting friendship and by whom they will speedily be forgotten. We, in conclusion, wish them, in the countries they are about to visit, the same success which they have enjoyed here.

ROBBERY.—Sunday night, during the gale, some thief or thieves entered the house of Mr. Wm. E. Hawkins, situated on Eslava street, between Dearborn and Wilkinson, and abstracted from the pockets of that gentleman's pants, $27 in greenbacks. One of the thieves, after he had taken the money he found in his pants pockets, ran his hands under the pillow, which awoke his wife who, with remarkable presence of mind, jumped out of bed and ran after them. But they were too smart for her, and got away through another yard before she could get a glimpse of their features.

In reference to a paragraph in the Tribune about the condition of the cistern at King's pump, Street Commissioner O'Callaghan explains that the repair of fire cisterns in the city is under the special jurisdiction of the joint fire engine committee and that he has called the parti-ular case to the attention of that committee three weeks ago. It is a pleasure to publish this explanation, which confirms the previous impression that the street commissioner was rigidly faithful in the performance of his duties.

NEW YORK, March 20.—It was ascertained yesterday that the vessel sunk off Barnegat by collision with the Adelaide J. Alcott was the brig Frank Clark, belonging to Maine. She was bound from St. Thomas for New York with a mixed cargo. She went down in six fathoms of water, carrying to the bottom the captain, Tom Merton, and wife, and also the line mate, Simpson. All others on board effected their escape. The A. J. Alcott was bound for Virginia light, and struck the brig a little aft of the forward rigging, and in twenty minutes the brig sunk low forward, her stern remaining above water all night. The brig was in charge of second mate. The collision occurred about 5 o'clock in the evening, the night was very dark and the sea at the time running pretty high.

MEMPHIS, March 20.—Since 7 o'clock last evening, up to 7 o'clock this morning, twelve inches of snow have fallen, and its still snowing. The streets are in a terrible condition, and no cars or trains on all the railroads centering. Such a snow storm was never witnessed before; the one of last March, which was unprecedented, only measuring about eight inches. Fruit is not known how this storm extended.

CHARLESTON, March 20.—A fire broke out this morning at 2 o'clock, on the corner of King street and Hasell alley. There being no water in the neighborhood, and the wind blowing a gale from the southwest, the whole block from Columbus to Lancaster, on the east and west sides of King street, was soon destroyed. About 7 a. m. the fire crossed Line street, the sparks and embers being carried by the gale three-quarters of a mile up King street road, and the houses, fences, and farms along that road were burned. The scenes on the streets are heartrending. Bands of negro rioters sacked every house to which they could gain admittance. Later in the morning Mayor Cunningham took command, and some order was restored. Hundreds of persons are homeless and penniless. The loss is at least half a million; very little insurance reported. At 10:30 a. m. the fire burned itself out. The boundaries of the burnt district are on the south, Columbus street and Rogers alley; on the north, the Race Course; on the east, South Carolina Railroad, and on the west, St. Philip and Percy streets.

Buffalo Bill (says the Montgomery Ballatin) has been getting himself in trouble if we believe the following:

"A few weeks ago he went to Texas, and after being there awhile, the sheriff of Young county attempted to arrest him, when he resisted. The sheriff and he drew their weapons at the same moment and fired together. The sheriff's shot took effect, but Buffalo Bil missed his mark. He grasped a rifle, however, and fired, the shot piercing the heart of the sheriff, killing him instantly. Buffalo Bill, though badly wounded, made his escape."

The above particulars we gather from a Texan paper, but we do not believe it to be Mr. Cody. There is an outlaw in Texas, who has assumed the title and for whose arrest is offered a reward of $10,000.

A newsboy was passing along the street, when he chanced to discover a purse of greenbacks. He was at first inclined to conceal it, but repelling the unworthy suggestion, he asked a venerable man if it was his. The venerable man looked at it hurriedly, said it was, patted him on the head, gave him a quarter, and said he would yet be president. The venerable man hastened away, but was arrested for having counterfeit bills in his possession, while the honest newsboy played penny-ante with his humble quarter and ran it up, to $2.62. Moral: Honesty is sometimes the best policy.

Cashmere shawls are a mere drug in India. When Wales visited the Maharajah, the tent outside the house was made of cashmere shawls, and the rooms of the house were carpeted and the walls draped with them, while the dias and the canopy were stounded with those of the most beautiful pattern and immense value. It was better than an opening day at a spring bonnet grab.

"Les Chevaliers de la Patrie" is the title of a new drama just produced in Paris, based upon incidents of the war of secession. The principal characters are Abraham Lincoln, Stonewall Jackson and an English peeress, and the cause of the rebellion is represented to have been the imposition of a tax on absinthe by President Lincoln—Piccayune.

There are—this will astonish you—24 ocean cables, ranging from 500 miles to 3,300 in length in use, besides which there are 71 less than 100 miles long, and 40 between 100 and 500 miles in length.

It is said in one of the northern papers that Gen. Belknap—late Secretary of War—built a pine fence about the military prison at Leavenworth which cost only $100,000. A stone fence would have been more durable, and would not have, in all probability, cost more. Perhaps pine was more convenient, and there was no stone.

THE DORLON TERRAPIN FARM.—We return our thanks for some very fine specimens of the salt water terrapin, fresh from the farm of Mr. Mulford Dorlou, which is on Cedar Point in this county. Some months ago we published an account of this new industry, and it was the first notice of it taken by any of the papers. Some persons thought that it was a hoax. We know something more about it than was told in the first description of it, and, by request, have refrained from too much exposure of the methods by which Mr. Dorlon has made a terrapin farm, and how there is a demand, at the North, for all he can cultivate. New York, we believe, has got a prior right to all that he can possibly furnish, and so none of his goods comes to Mobile.

But it ought to come, for it is a very delicious thing, in the form of soup. That is the only way that we have tried it. The gopher is susceptible of much gastronomic excellence—either in soup or otherwise. Green turtle soup, and the steaks of that big sea animal are tolerable, but this salt water terrapin beats both of them.

Pensacola News.

The Pensacola Express of last Saturday has much interesting matter concerning the "ancient city." It we were arrogant—puffed up with pride—we should call Pensacola provincial.

This is the word the New York papers use, in referring to all the states, cities, &c., that are littler than itself. It wants to be as London is to England, or as Paris is to France.

Pensacola has a future. We are sure of this. If the lands near it were fertile, or it had rivers with some productive husbandmen on their margins, there would be no doubt of that future; the railroads are now supplanting the rivers, and ten years from the present moment, they will make them useless, except on these like the Mississippi and those of Alabama. It is not possible by any art to destroy the value of these—for they can beat the railroads in every thing, except rapidity of transit. Contiguous to the banks of the rivers lie the most fertile lands; and the steamboat business would be at an end if every farmer had a road him a good deal more for freight. The only advantage he would have is in getting to market earlier than by boat; and that, it is likely, would not compensate him for the extra expense.

The Express says:

> Pensacola is the natural outlet for the immense iron and coal fields of Alabama, lying as it does, directly south of them, and the time is not far distant when capital invested in the iron, coal and and minerals of our sister state, must of necessity look to this point for the distribution of their products. When that time arrives, and it is not far in the future, a direct railroad connection will be made from Pensacola to Selma, opening up the rich mineral wealth of Alabama, to pass through our gates to all parts of the world.

> Our people are are after that "rich mineral wealth." When the Grand Trunk road shall have been built, we shall do this coal and iron business—at least, the greater part of it: but when is that to be built? Perhaps, after Pensacola shall have got the "set" of the trade. Then the ancient city is likely to be in the place which Mobile ought to occupy.

> It is very difficult to get back a trade which has been diverted into new channels. A customer lost finds his way to some dealer who pleases him better; and once there, he can be held by the means which skilful merchants know how to use.

> At the present moment we think that no city can be found in which better trades may be made than here in Mobile. Our people are getting rid of the luxuries. They have, no doubt, a desire for them; but they are satisfied now to reach for the comfortable, and so they are selling their goods at just that small margin of profit, which leaves them a residue that will save what is absolutely necessary to carry on a trade, and to have the reward that is due to industry and the adventuring of capital.

From the Express we copy the following paragraphs:

> We noticed standing on a side track of the P. & L. railroad, two cotton cars, upon inquiry we found they were being fitted up as refrigerators for the transportation of fish for the Pensacola Ice Company. Red Snappers, Pompeno, and other fish of the Gulf are being sent by this company to Louisville, Cincinnati, St. Louis, New York and other cities north in these cars. The trade is rapidly increasing, so fast indeed, that all the orders received cannot be filled, and Pensacola is no longer a place where, as in "good old times" mullet could be had five for a dime.

> The small pox in the city is still on the increase, and as the Express stated two weeks since, is in a fair way to become an epidemic. Mayor Jones has issued a proclamation urging the necessity of vaccination, and states the City Physician will vaccinate all who are unable to pay free of charge. This is the only means of staying the disease known to medical science and it is the duty of all to see that they, and all under their control, are vaccinated.

> The Bristol, England, telegraph of March 9th, says the steamship Somerset, from New York, landed the crew of the bark Columbine, from Pensacola for Cronouck, which was abandoned, in a sinking condition. The Columbine was loaded by Hyer Bros.

Gas.

There is a bill before the New York legislature for the purpose of regulating the price of gas. It refuses legal sanction to it, unless it be of sixteen candle illuminating power. It graduates the prices according to the population of towns and cities which emit. The minimum of price is two dollars a thousand feet, and the maximum in towns containing less than five thousand inhabitants is three dollars.

The bill has not been passed, and the New York World thinks that there is no probability of its passing.

There are a dozen schemes on foot for the purpose of substituting something for illuminating purposes cheaper than gas. They can, no doubt, be found, but is it likely that they are, at the best, only a little cheaper, but not so convenient, and, perhaps, more dangerous in general use.

The Weather.

Yesterday was one of the coldest days of the year. It is said that there was ice about the streets. We saw some tender vegetables that were nipped, and looked crest fallen; but not much, we suppose, will come of that, for the dear creatures will presently again lift up their heads, and find the sun embracing them and making them fruitful.

The cold, as far as we of Mobile are concerned, is only a set-back—not, as we have seen, destruction. It only retards a premature growth, as one ought to do with little children.

The mothers love their children—think them cherubs—and will put them forward when there is nothing to be got by it, except the pleasure that a farmer may find in the forcing of his vegetables. The frost may come along, and he has to put his seed down again. The little forced child dies. The parent is sorry, and it is all because it was forced into a premature condition—the poor little thing driven to lessons, when it ought to have been playing, and the mother or father not thinking of the responsibility of this kind of murder.

Well, or course, they think of it as of self-gratification—not so acting at all, that by their self-lness, the little child goes to its coffin—leaving the parents to weep, without knowing that they are guilty of murder.

This, however, is not got much to do with the beans, and tomatoes, and things of that kind, but between them there are relations of similarity, and it is well that the reader think of it, and study to see how it is.

TELEGRAPH

DOMESTIC.

BOSTON, March 21.—The supreme court overruled the exceptions in the case of Thos. Piper, convicted of the murder of Mabel Young, in the belfry of the Warren-avenue church. Piper will be sentenced.

FREEHOLD, N. J., March 21.—The schooner M. M. Weaver, Capt. Walter F. Worth, from Green Creek, L. I., went ashore two miles south of Sandy Hook. She has gone to pieces and all hands are lost. The wreckers tried to save them, but without success, losing all the boats which they attempted to launch. The number of the crew cannot be ascertained.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Scott Smith, correspondent of the New York Post, is at the bar of the house for refusing to give his author of the story that Pendleton paid money to Mrs. Bowers.

General B. F. Butler has been subpœned by the committee on war department expenditures.

Nine inches of snow at Little Rock. The heaviest snow of the season throughout Ohio.

The wharves and houses are destroyed and three schooners ashore at Pascagoula, and a man was lost from one of them.

Lake Ponchartrain is higher than since 1871, and twenty miles of the New Orleans and Mobile road is submerged.

The signal service observer at Long Branch reports to the chief signal officer that there were four cabin doors and a figure-head picked up on the beach this morning. Nothing else heard from.

The signal service observer at Sandy Hook, reports that the M. M. Weed, of Green Creek, Long Island, is the name of the schooner reported ashore last evening. She went to pieces during the night; all hands supposed to be lost. No bodies yet recovered.

The observer at Long Branch reports that there is a schooner with bowsprit gone and sails flapping water-logged five miles southeast of that station; can see no one on board; sea heavy, wind northwest, with a velocity of 25 miles per hour.

In the senate a committee of conference was asked on the West Point appropriations.

The diplomatic appropriations bill was reported with a number of amendments.

It is stated that the senate committee of foreign affairs have agreed to report adverse to Dana's confirmation.

Butler, before the war expenditures committee, offered to relieve Smith from pledges of secrecy. Butler knew nothing; he carried on the investigation on his private account for his own purposes; had his suspicions, but nothing tangible; thought it strange that Pendleton should have his fee cut up, and the amount received by Mrs. Bowers should fit one of the parts.

FOREIGN.

LIVERPOOL, March 21.—The little bill has passed the House of Commons. Mr. Disraeli said it was certain the Queen would not assume the title of Empress of England under any circumstance.

The News has the following details from Madrid: King Alfonso was received with real enthusiasm. On leaving the Church of Atocha, revived the troops. The march past occupied six hours. A procession with banners inscribed "Catholic Unity" was prevented from entering Porto Del Sal and the prohibition much applauded.

MADRID, March 21.—There are 140,000 strangers in the city, and as high as $250 was paid for a balcony on the route. There are thirty triumphal arches.

ROME, March 21.—Prince Doria is dead.

PARIS, March 21.—The chamber of deputies has annulled the election of M. Mallarte, from the department of Haute Loire, because of a miscount of the returning officer. This is the first election that has been annulled. It is stated that the Congregation of Rites have reported against the canonization of the Jean of Arc. The office of the Republique Francaise was broken into by burglars and robbed of 55,000 francs.

LOCAL NEWS.

CLOTHING! CLOTHING!!—John Maguire Dauphin street is selling out at cost his immense stock of clothing.

CITY COURT.—The criminal term of this court will be opened tomorrow and prisoners will then be arraigned.

Selling off to close business, all of our best calicoes at 7 cents a yard at retail, and all other dry goods at prices to ensure their immediate sale.
Store for sale.
P. H. PEPPER & CO.

PLANTING POTATOES.—Peerless, early rose, peach blow, Chili, Red and russets in store and for sale low by Owen Farley, 44, 65, 68, 70 and 73 Government street.

The fleet of vessels in Mobile bay rode out the gale of Sunday night without damage or collision, though the ship George Hurlbut dragged her anchors about a mile.

MAYOR'S COURT.—In this court yesterday morning, Councilman Quigley presiding, M. Cassaby and Frank A. Virgilin for disturbing the peace, were fined $3 each. James Byrne and Wm. Denty had a mass with a restaurant proprietor. Fined $3 each. Tom Thomas, colored, who came from Fowl river, with $6 in his pockets and his wife by his side, and that got noisy drunk, was discharged on his promise to go back where he came from.

Dane's new stables will present a wider front on Royal street, narrower front on St. Michael and will not extend through to St. Joseph street as the old stables did. The walls are going up with considerable rapidity, and carpenters are getting the wood work of the structure in readiness to be put in the places where it is wanted. To widen the Royal street front, the old express office building is removed from roof to sill, sawed down by the machinery of stalwart workmen.

RAMBLES.—Dr. J. D. O'Donoghue, sergeant of the signal service here, sends to the Tribune the Weekly Weather Chronicle, published at Washington, containing a general summary for the week ending Saturday March 18:

The amount of rain, or rain and melted snow for that week averages about as follows in the various districts: St. Lawrence valley, 1.25 inches; New England, 1.05; Middle Atlantic States, 0.90; South Atlantic States, 0.40; Eastern Gulf States, 1.55; Western Gulf States, 1.25; Lower Lake region, 1.35; Upper Lake region, 1.20; Ohio valley and Tennessee, 3.00; Upper Mississippi valley, 1.17; Missouri valley, 0.70; Minnesota, 0.61.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

At the regular weekly meeting of the board of aldermen last evening, President Smith in the chair, the following additional members were elected to their names when the roll was called: Bestor, Oates, Kirkbride, Mallon, Mighell, Mulloy, O'Connell, Smith A. H., Walshin-ton.

On motion of Alderman Mighell the board took a recess of ten minutes. In the meantime came in Aldermen Hanna and Kennerly.

At eight o'clock, the roll was again called and only the twelve members already named were found to be present—12 had no quorum.

The president then announced "the board stands adjourned for want of a quorum."

THE COURT HOUSE DELUGE.—During the storm of Sunday night, the watchman at the court house discovered a leak through the ceiling of the second story and through the ceiling of the hall on the power floor. It evidently came from the tank, which it was supposed had overflowed. The watchman went over to Mr. T. Manser, one of the county commissioners, and called that gentleman for counsel and advice. The tank was not full; it was found on investigation, by six or eight inches. Mr. Manser returned home. And still the water dripped through the ceiling faster and. Mr. Manser was again called an hour or two afterward. Again it was ascertained that the tank lacked six or eight inches of being full, but the water was coming through the ceilings all the same. The conjecture was that the wind forced the rain up under the slates of the roof. But the true cause of the leak was a mystery.

The principal damage was confined to the ceiling and walls of the library, though the ceiling in the lower hall was damaged to some extent. Fortunately the books in the library escaped injury as the water trickled down the walls, and through the ceiling some distance from the books.

When the court house was built, the tank was supplied by two water pipes, but to carry off the waste water there was only one pipe. The abundant supply of water Sunday night, when the rain fell in torrents, crowded the pipe much greater than usual, and the surplus water undoubtedly found its way into the interior of the building.

WALKS AROUND TOWN.

Clean beds, well ventilated rooms, and quiet location, Thompson's lodging rooms, old court house building, Court street.

The closing cotton quotations of the Board of Trade, yesterday were: Good ordinary 10¾@11; low middling 11¼@12; middling 12¼@13; good middling 13¼.

There were three clearances here of vessels loaded with timber and lumber yesterday—one for Bordeaux, one for Cape Haytien and one for Brazos Santiago.

The Montgomery Journal wants George Turner, the newly-appointed United States marshal, to give up his Mobile home and make his headquarters at the state capitol.

It is under the usual price, but the quality of raw oysters for tea cents that are supplied at Thompson's restaurant, opposite the Campbell House, is just as good as the best.

The cotton receipts at Mobile since September first have been 341,793 bales, against 305,425 bales during the corresponding period the preceding year—an increase of 36,367 bales.

According to the Board of Trade reports, the cotton receipts yesterday at all ports were 8,525 bales: New Orleans 3,925, Norfolk 943, Savannah 480, Mobile 214, Charleston 132, Galveston 48.

The thermometer was down to 31 at 6:51 yesterday morning, which was only three degrees higher than the lowest temperature of the season. The temperature has on one occasion, February second, been down to 28.

All the little people in the town are getting ready to attend the entertainments that will be given by General Tom Thumb and his wife, her sister Minnie Warren and little Major Newell. They will be unique and interesting.

Hamersen, at the Opal restaurant, next door to the post office, tenders the hospitalities of his establishment to hungry mortals, of whom, of course, he expects a large number will have been expected. Whether purse is not depleted after the dinner is eaten.

These cold nights, it is very convenient to know where one can sleep in a comfortable room where all the conveniences of a home bed chamber are to be found. The place is at the Opal, next door to the post office, where Hamersen is the presiding genius.

The cold snap created a sudden demand for fuel; and coal, coke and wood were in such demand, that dealers could not supply orders with their usual promptness. Charcoal venders took advantage of the situation and advanced their prices.

There is some comfort in riding in street cars that are closely shut up during the cold days, while it makes outside travel all over to sit in the draft of open front doors. Drivers, as a rule, are very careful of the comfort of their passengers, though there is an occasional exception.

The track of the Conception street railroad to Francis and Arlington is in excellent condition and the only thing wanting to make rides to these down the bay points desirable is warmer weather. The Frascati season will shortly open.

There is no impressible conflict between the several departments of the city government, but then there is a lack of perfect harmony in the municipal building and among the municipal officers. Some officials have one policy and some another, each directly opposite to the other.

At the store under Odd Fellows' Hall will be sold today at ten o'clock and at half past seven p. m., a large stock of crockery, glassware, plated ware, lamps, chandeliers, brackets, wall pockets, jewelery, fancy goods, etc. Also two hundred fine oil paintings and chromos. These goods, which are very fine, must be sold at any price.

There was a block frost yesterday morning and ice a quarter of an inch thick coated the water that was standing outdoors in barrels and tubs. Water was also frozen in cold rooms. It is not known that fruit was damaged at all by this slight freeze, and the surface of the ground was not frozen to the damage of ambitious vegetation.

The noon cotton report of the Board of Trade yesterday was: "Market strong. Good demand and poor selection. Sales about 500 bales. Sellers asking advanced prices." Closing report: "Sales today 2500 bales. Market closed quiet and firm. Good demand."

A fine house owned by Mr. Schimpf, and occupied by Mr. Mantz, a German market gardener, about five miles from the city on the St. Stephens' road, was destroyed by fire Monday night. Nothing was saved, not even the clothing of the inmates.

This side of Deer Park, yesterday morning, while the passenger train of the Mobile and Ohio Railroad was passing over a switch that had not been locked, the switch flew and threw off all the passenger cars except the Pullman. The passengers were conveyed to Okolona and came to Mobile on the accommodation train.

RIVER NEWS.

There was no arrival yesterday.

The Emma No. 2, from Tuskaloosa, passed Demopolis yesterday morning with 600 bales of cotton and will be in this morning.

The Mary, Captain John Quill, for Selma and Montgomery, went out last evening with a light freight, but a fair list of passengers. Just now the Alabama river freight trade, up and down, is light.

The Atlanta, Captain Ham Johnston, of Frank Stone's Grange Line, backed out for Pickensville last evening with a very good freight and a few passengers.

The Emma No. 2, of Frank Stone's Grange Line, with Captain Gunnison on the roof, will cast off her lines at five o'clock this evening for Tuskaloosa. The Emma has fine accommodations for passengers, a large capacity for freight, and popular officers run on her. Therefore, she will have a good freight this trip.

The Bandy Moore did not go out Monday evening as was stated. She will hold over till Thursday and take the Holt's day.

GENERAL TOM THUMB.—Two night and two matinee entertainments at the Mobile theatre by General Tom Thumb and the other little folks will afford amusement for the people next Friday and Saturday. The Madras, British India, Standard of December 14, 1870, says:

> The first entertainment at the circus pavilion, Monument Esplanade, by General Tom Thumb's Troupe, came off on Monday evening last. The attendance was very full indeed, scarcely a seat being procurable after half-past eight p. m. Many were compelled to return home disappointed. We need hardly say that the entertainment was unexceptionable, that the audience from first to last were in a highly pleasurable state of enthusiasm, and the laughter and applause almost unanimous. It is unnecessary to enter into details here. Suffice it to say that Madras, we may add, India, has seen nothing like it, and is not likely to see anything like it again for a long time to come. Indeed, the entertainment is beyond description, and our advice to the public is to go and see and judge for yourselves. The house was filled in every part, and the expense was even more crowded than on Monday, and the entertainment was equally good. If any one of our readers wish for a short respite from the "blues," dums, debts, or dyspepsia, let him go to the circus pavilion.

THE WEATHER YESTERDAY. At 6:51 o'clock yesterday morning the wind blew 14 miles an hour at Galveston and 3 at Mobile. The temperature at Mobile was 31, highest 42 at Indianola, lowest 28 at Corsicana.

At 3:34 yesterday afternoon, the wind blew 21 miles an hour at Key West and 12 at Mobile. The temperature was at Key West 70, Corsicana 60, Indianola 53, Mobile 51, Galveston and New Orleans 50, Savannah 47, Montgomery 45, Augusta 41.

CIRCUIT COURT.—In this court, Judge Toulmin, yesterday, the case of M. E. Russell vs city of Mobile, was decided by a verdict for plaintiff in the sum of $1,000. The case of Cummins vs Bruce, Anderson & Co., was on trial when the court adjourned. The case is that of a discharged employee, who sues for the balance of a year's salary, having been discharged before the year expired. Damages are laid at $1500.

The call for today is: Ferryman vs Allen; Webb & Co. vs Deans; Robert vs Reig Grace vs Preston & Stetson; Underhill vs City of Mobile; Mobile Savings Bank vs Garner; Monette vs same.

WON'T YOU DIP?—The most disgusting habit among women is "snuff-dipping." It is disgustingly filthy. A Virginian, who has wandered into Alabama, writes as follows from Brush Hill, Perkens county, to the West Alabamian:

> We find a goodly number of the boys collected at a neighboring house where a levy of corn and bacon have also congregated, in full glee keeping time to the soul inspiring strains of an old fiddle. We were invited to one of these gatherings a short time since, and the way we enjoyed ourself was a caution, but, with due respect to the girls, I must confess that there is one thing they do that I cannot comprehend; viz: they have a stick chewed to a shaving brush on one end, salt stick they insert in a little tin box, and dexterously dip said little chewed end of said stick to the left superior and inferior molars anteriorly. Now that is a mystery to me what that little tin box contains; however, I was "in Rome," so I thought I must do as other folks if I had a mind to get a piece of a stick, the best I could find was a slender twig from the Jamestown weed, I next procured an old hacking box, and returning to the dance room, twig in mouth, I was greeted with a cordial welcome (I felt initiated) by one girl advancing, box in hand, who remarked to us "Mister, will you wallop your dodger?" Says we, "M-a-a-m," Says she, "wont you dip?" We responded that "we never dove," and said girl after giving her "dodger" a quick and mingled dive into the mysterious little tin box cavorted off to a young boy, who understood the business apparently better than we did, and that boy did then and there go through the operation of diving into the tin box. Well, our Jamestown stick had done its work. We began sticking around, we felt sick, and we retired.

WEDNESDAY,.....MARCH 22,

Southern Inter-Oceanic Railroad.

The Central Pacific is again advocating with all the eloquence of terrific snow slides, dangerous delays, etc., the supreme importance of a Southern trans-continental railroad. A road from Fort Worth to San Diego is now an absolute necessity. A correspondent writing us from Truckee, California, on March 9th, says: "The snow measured here this morning on the level 7½ feet deep. I have been informed by several persons who have just returned from the mountains, which we are to pass through, that it is fully 20 feet deep. In consequence we have been detained here two days, with prospects of remaining several days longer. A messenger has just returned from the snow sheds, 4 miles distant, who tells us that over one thousand feet of the same have been broken in by the avalanches. It is very fortunate for us that we are this far distant from the slide, and in a place where we can obtain the comforts of life for a fair consideration. A great number of Chinamen are employed to clear the track, who are assisted by nine locomotives, propelling an immense plow which looks like a large frame house moving in front of them. The foregoing was written partly this forenoon and the last sentence at 4 P. M. At 6 P. M. a notice has just been received that the coal is nearly gone and where to get more is the problem. Such delays are real misfortunes to many, more especially to the poor emigrants who have but limited means to battle with such detentions. At 8 P. M. No prospect of getting any further. You will hear from me again if it should be my good fortune to get through to my destination. That is, San Francisco. "B."

An exchange says American invalids have ceased to go to the Bahamas for their health. "They all go to Florida now, and there is a great deal to be said in favor of Florida. It costs much less to get all the invalids' bodies home from Florida than it used to from the West Indies."

"Just so!" it costs less to send their bodies home; but the true cause is that so many derived a benefit from the climate and their bodies go home alive and kicking.—Pensacola Express.

Death is the last thing a man should think of.

Bee hunters in Michigan have been unusually successful this year, and the supply of wild honey in market is greater than for many years.

Gold garter buckles, upon which there is a delicate spray of flowers, in stones of suitable color, or the owner's monogram, is the latest in that line.

A Kansas Judge has decided that a man and wife can go to any place of amusement on a ticket that says "admit one," as by law they are considered "one."

Between May 12, 1863, and Sept. 28, 1875, the Springfield factory issued 255,478,000 postal cards. Orders are now on file for five millions of the new style.

A man in Philadelphia has a postal card with over 4,700 words written upon it, and he expects to write 2,000 words more upon it, making making 6,700 in all. It is to be sent to the Centennial Exhibition.

A young Norwegian who was converted under Moody and Sankey's preaching, has returned to his own country and started a Sabbath-school, the first ever opened in the North of that country.

A Mormon in Provo, of whom Captain Codman tells in the Galaxy, is ninety-two years old and the father of sixty children, the eldest of whom is seventy years old, and the youngest sixty-seven years his brother's junior.

Nothing new about these pull-back skirts after all. In the reign of Edward II. (1307-27,) a monkish chronicle records that the ladies "wore such straight clothes they were constrained to have long foxes' brushes sewed within to hold them forth."

The agent of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company recently received a note from a citizen of New Jersey, which read thus: "My wife and I are anxious to have a birth on your steamer of the —th. Yours etc." To which he replied, "Come along, and we will do the best we can for you."

An ex-confederate of Williamsburg, Va., who signs himself "A Rebel of 1865, a Patriot of 1876," observing that the last monthly debt statement fixed the national debt at $2,000,244,981 25, has written to Secretary Bristow a letter inclosing twenty-five cents "to pay the last two figures."

A "sad story" comes from the wilds of Illinois to the effect that three orphan children of the late Augustus N. Dickens, brother of Charles Dickens, have been found there in such utter destitution that they have been taken into the home of an aged couple to prevent their being sent to the poor-house. As Eli Perkins tells the story, very likely it isn't true.—Evening Star.

"Papa, what's a safe?" "A safe, my child, is a charitable institution in which benevolent old people and orphans lay up their money, for the use of sickly burglars in paying boat bills at Saratoga." "What's a cashier?" "A cashier, my child, is a sign board established by amiable bank directors to point out the way into the safe?" "What's a detective?" "He's a burglar's brother in-law, and sits up boards with his nice pale one."

A Feminine Rascal and Feminine Spite.

The mysterious woman whom the Sergeant-at-Arms of the House had in close custody at Willard's Hotel, turns out to be Mrs. Gen. Roddy, of New York. She was examined by the House Committee on Naval Affairs last Saturday evening. It appears, upon inquiry in this city, that Mrs. Roddy, soon after her acquittal of the charges of having stolen a bracelet from Gen. Roddy, demanded trial of the action which she had brought against Roddy, Brooks and Everett, who had been indicted for conspiring to rob her of important papers and documents while in Chicago. District Attorney Phelps, however, entered a nolle prosequi, and the cases were dropped. It has since transpired that Roddy and Brooks have been for years past engaged in collecting what are alleged to have been bogus cotton claims. It is also claimed that they have been interested in a patent automatic pump, which, through influence in Washington, they managed to have placed upon nearly all the vessels in the navy. Mrs. Roddy was taken from her house in Hackettstown, near Jersey, last Wednesday, by the Sergeant-at-Arms, and appeared before the House Naval Committee and District Attorney last Saturday night. Her testimony is said to be important, and, in connection with the pump, implicates several prominent persons. Roddy and Brooks have been indicted in Washington on account of their connection with bogus cotton claims to the amount of about $60,000.

[Louisville Courier Journal.]

General Kiddoo's testimony yesterday exhonorates Mr. Clymer from the charge of lukewarmness in pursuing the investigation of Mr. Belknap, and shows that Mrs. Marsh is authority for the statements, which have passed through several mouths, relative to Mr. Pendleton and the Kentucky Central claim. It was Mrs. Marsh who reported that Mrs. Belknap gave her to understand that she had been a sharer in the proceeds of that claim—not to the extent of $70,000, however. Mrs. Marsh is the witness wanted, therefore, for she appears, from Kiddoo's statement, to have learned several important facts about the Kentucky Central claim from Mrs. Belknap herself. The two ladies are reported to be at variance; which may lead Mrs. Marsh, by a feminine instinct, to recall all Mrs. Belknap's confidences. If the Kiddoo trail can be followed not only to Belknap but to Pendleton the Democrats should not hesitate to pursue it as far as it goes, and fearlessly uncover whatever dishonor may lurk in the shadow of distinguished names.

The bill inflicting severe punishments on three card monte operators has passed the Iowa Legislature and become a law, notwithstanding the determined opposition of the gamblers, who not only tried to bribe some of the members but resorted to to stealing documents to delay its passage. Iowa hitherto has been the paradise of these gamblers, who were in league with the train hands, and thus defied detection. It is of record that the notor ous operator Jacinda Bill offered one company $10,000 a year for the privilege of "working" its trains, agreeing to confine himself to clergymen!

The Idaho World tells a story that seems almost incredible. One evening two years ago a party of ten of the prominent citizens of Idaho gave a reception at Boise City. Now not one is living, all having met with violent deaths. One was killed by an insane man, another preferred laudanum to political disgrace, another blew his brains out with a pistol ball, one was murdered and his body concealed among the rocks, one fell down a mine shaft 800 feet and was dashed to pieces, another was assassinated while walking along the street, one fell out of a wagon and received fatal injuries about the head, one was killed in Washington Territory and the last of the ten was scalped by Indians in Eastern Idaho.

THURSDAY, ... MARCH 23.

There is a scarcity of wood at Montgomery, and not much coal. The people of the capitol make themselves hot by giving much warm welcome to their guests.

An old citizen of Montgomery says that he has seen only "three similar occasions in March as we have experienced since last Saturday morning." The Journal reports this. We heard one of our old citizens say that he has never seen as cold weather in this part of the year as we have had the past three days.

The members of the whole municipality of Kentucky are coming on a Southern tour. They were to start last Monday—passing through Nashville, thence going to Birmingham in this state, thence to Montgomery, and then coming to Mobile, and hence to New Orleans. The trip is expected to last six days.

The whole number of persons in the company is thirty-two.

Various persons of foreign birth had a "reunion" in New York last week. Its purpose was to raise money for the relief of the exiles in New Caledonia, and the widows and orphans of the Communists who were slain in Paris in 1871.

As far as the charitable purpose is concerned the movement is estimable.

If it were intended to commend the acts of those Communists, it is detestable.

For, while the poorer people of France have been burdened with much oppression, and—driven by the upper classes with the spur—have given from their scanty stores what maintained them in luxuries—there is no excuse for the iconoclasm which destroyed works of art that men of all countries admired; and, what is more, those works have in part been restored to something like their original form. Whence came the cost of this restoration? Why from the hard-earnings of the families of the persons who exhibited the barbarism.

Now, we have excuses for the revolution which took Louis XVI. to the scaffold—for, in all probability, in its ultimate result, it accomplished what saved the country from outside interferences, which would have cost more in human life than the gentle, but imbecile, monarch was worth. The execution of his wife there is no palliation of. She could do no harm.

But anger was on foot. From the time of Louis, Le Grande, the privileged persons escaped every duty, by taxation or otherwise, which had been put on the people. They rose and threw this burden off. It was well-done, if it had not exhibited so many instances of inhumanity, but, under the great provocation, there was an excuse for them.

And, we have no doubt, the work done in those terrible days has accomplished much good.

The people of France, by that murderous revolution, discovered their power, and they will keep it.

The future is before them, and the influence which they can derive from this self-asserted power is not likely to be remitted to the hands of the classes which, in the past, had driven them to despair and death.

We do not believe that France is fit for what in this country we call republicanism; and we are not sure that we are fit for it. A master is necessary, and if one could find a good master, who would be true to his great power, he would be exactly the person whom we should desire.

The only trouble is in the finding of a succession of good masters. That is where the danger of entrusting one's happiness to a mere man lies.

The Weather.

From the Meridian Mercury, of Wednesday.]

A great and wide spread calamity has befallen the land in the unseasonable weather. Sunday morning there was ice, and it was probably cold enough of itself to have destroyed fruits and vegetables. The transition from fair weather to foul was rapid and decided. An eastern gale sprang up, and the afternoon brought a driving rain. The wind rose to a gale, and by night a furious wind and rain storm prevailed. Towards midnight it abated a little, the wind shifted around by the way of the west to northwest, and there was thunder and lightning, sleet and snow. On Monday morning house-tops were white with snow and sleet. There was a faint at fair at 9 to 10, and the sun partially shone out. The snow quickly melted and disappeared. But it remained cloudy and grew colder. After night the clouds dispersed and left a clear sky. Yesterday morning there was a wintry freeze—a hard freeze that would have done credit to mid winter. We have little heart to talk about it, and made little enquiry. We had no need to, for we know that all vegetation vulnerable is killed—gardens, fruits, everything. We have a faint hope that some fruits not in bloom have escaped. Gardens will have to be planted over and garden truck will be late. Wise farmers will plant their fields crops over again, and, for them the freeze may prove a blessing in disguise.

TELEGRAPH.

DOMESTIC.

GREAT FALLS, March 22.—The weavers have struck against a reduction of 12½ per cent. on their wages.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., March 22.—Six vessels are ashore in the lower harbor; they were blown on Gerrish's and Clark's islands, and one of them has her masts cut away. It was impossible to ascertain their names last night. It is feared these disasters have involved considerable loss of life.

A dispatch today says: About the same time of the wreck of the Attick Eaton an unknown schooner, apparently in distress, was endeavoring to keep off shore, but with the terrific wind and sea could not have done so, and nothing having been seen or heard of her since, it is feared she went down with all hand. Several fishing schooners in the lower harbor dragged their anchors and were driven ashore; wreckers have gone to their assistance. A schooner heavily loaded was seen to sway her masts to prevent going ashore, and was then not able to weather the gale and went on. She can now be seen in a precarious situation. Several other schooners are ashore, but none of their crews lost.

BOSTON, March 22.—The brig Hattie Eaton, of Boston, Capt. Jas. F. Cook, 23 days from Cienfuegos for Boston, went ashore during the storm of Tuesday at Gerrish's Point, Kittery, Me., and all on board perished except the first mate. Captain Cook was about 35 years old. Six other persons were drowned. The Hattie Eaton registered 345 tons, and her cargo comprised 362 hogsheads of sugar, 150 hogsheads and 48 tierces of molasses.

CUMMAQUID, Mass., March 22.—A three-masted schooner is ashore at Cut River. It was impossible last night to ascertain her name or condition.

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., March 22.—Several vessels and many lives lost. The severest gale for years.

The missing men from the wrecked vessels in the harbor have all turned up, and it is now believed not a single life has been lost. The total number of disasters is about 14. The J. H. Collins, Comet and Charles Allerton are sunk; the Willie L. Swift has gone to pieces, and others damaged.

ELKTON, MD., March 22.—Four hundred sporting men from Baltimore and Philadelphia, arrived last night and this morning, to witness the prize fight between two Philadelphia pugilists, Weeden and Cleary, which is to come off today near the State Line, between here and Newark, Del. Everything seems to have been quietly arranged, and the indications are that there will be no interference by the authorities.

CAPE HATTERAS, March 22.—The schooners Lottie Lee, from Philadelphia for Savannah, and the Shiloh, from South America with sugar, are wrecked and a total loss. The Shiloh lost two men. Wind blowing 72 miles, from the southeast. Another vessel was seen in a disabled condition, but also has drifted out of sight.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—Mrs. General Burton, to whom Butler refers as cognizant of the relations between Pendleton and Mrs. Powers, is known in the lobbies as Minnie White.

In the committee on the post-office department the investigation regarding straw bids and collateral irregularities is assuming an ugly look for Cresswell. Jewell is untouched beyond allowing pay from the department for political services.

The new steamboat bill allows the carriage of coal oil of 110 degrees in metallic cases, and of 150 degrees in barrels on deck or in the forecastle. Steam-out owners have knowledge of defects are liable for the full amount of loss, while innocent owners are still liable for the amount actually owned by them.

Congressman Burleigh writes in his charges against naval officials in regard to building of sloops of war at the Kittery Navy Yard, that the yard has undoubtedly been run in the interest of Senator Hamlin. The chief of the bureau of construction and repairs still has an opportunity to explain.

No postal cards will be in existence after April 1st, unless Jewell gets a $35,000 special appropriation.

The story of the safe burglary will be fully told by Whitney, chief of the detective secret service, who is indicted in connection with the affair. He is here from Coforday, and denies that he has been out of the country.

The committee on naval expenditures are developing facts which show that white Barlog Bros. were the custodians of the money of the United States, it was held for legitimate purposes; Jay Cooke, McCullough & Co. used it for all kind of speculations.

Captain Whitney, manager of the telegraph produced messages which have passed between Belknap and Marsh. Belknap telegraphed to Marsh: "Come here; some hitch in arrangement."

Evidence against Hays in the cadetship irregularity accumulates. When Mrs. Bearduloe got the $2,000 draft from her Utica banker, she told him the use she was to make of it.

Marsh and his wife are both here, and will be examined privately by the judiciary committee.

General Morgan reports favorable progress in the Spencer case. A connection between Spencer and Hinds was established, which Carpenter attempted to defeat.

The legislation this morning was unimportant.

FOREIGN.

PARIS, March 22.—The amnesty resolutions were introduced, and the government moved their urgency to disarm the irreconcilables. Ricard said, "We oppose the amnesty, but not the measures of individual clemency."

Congress.

The proceedings of Congress are of small interest. The investigation of Spencer was going on. That will be left to some time subsequent to the election for the presidency.

How to count the electoral votes for President was discussed. That has been before Congress for some time. Two sets of electors have disputed the authority, and the purpose of the congressional movement is to so fix it that the President of the Senate shall not have a right to determine between two conflicting claims of electors.

There is one way to fix it: and that is, if there be doubt, to cast out both of the claimants.

The Killing in Jackson Saturday Evening.

We get some information from a gentleman who was in Jackson on Monday about the facts of the killing of the printer Cary, by Jeff Bell, editor and proprietor of the "people's Defense" newspaper, on Saturday evening. The printer desired to throw up his situation and asked to be paid his wages which he considered due him. Bell went out, and meeting the editor, Mr. Bell, father of Jeff, told him about it, and he pulled the money out of his pocket and paid him. Going ready to start to the railroad depot, he saw Jeff Bell loitering about the Clarion office corner, and had a dread that he was meditating violence to him, and consulted Capt. Lake, of the Times. He advised him to go on his way, and have nothing to say to Bell. He followed the advice, passing the opposite side of the street from where Bell seemed to be in wait for him. Bell intercepted him by going diagonally across the street. He asked Cary what he had been saying about him. Cary did not speak, but turned his head towards him, and at that moment Bell fired at him. The ball passed through his neck, severing the jugular vein. Cary fell and died almost instantly.

THURSDAY..... MARCH 23.

LOCAL NEWS.

At the Mobile Varieties a new star will twinkle, Miss Kitty Davenport, a Mobile favorite. She will shortly appear.

The English multiplying onion is not affected by the frosts of this week. It grows and multiplies, notwithstanding the cold.

L. E. Brooks will sell at half past nine o'clock this morning, furniture, dry goods, tin ware, blankets, black and green teas, crackers, etc.

JUSTICE LOOMIS.—Maria Dudley had Albert Dudley, (her son) arrested for assault and battery. Fined one cent and costs. Peace bonds six months $50.

PLANTING POTATOES.—Peerless, early rose, peach blow, Chili, Red and russets in store and for sale low by Owen Farley, 64, 66, 68, 70 and 72 Government street.

General Tom Thumb, little Mrs. Tom Thumb, Major Newell and Miss Minnie Warren will entertain little folks and big folks at the theatre to-morrow and Saturday, day and evening.

It is quite likely that the damage to gardens by the frosts of two nights this week has been overestimated. Only extremely tender vegetables, of which there are not many, have been cut down.

As the days begin to lengthen, fences begin to strengthen. In various sections of the city, new fences are being built to supply the place of dilapidated fences that were too weak to sustain themselves.

The vegetable gardeners complain that they have suffered some from the frosts of Monday and Tuesday nights. The blossoms on peach trees do not wither, and a particularly beautiful rose on a conspicuous bush, on the route of the Conception street cars, looks as fresh and lovely as when it first bloomed.

Memphis, an interior town, with nothing like the natural advantages of Mobile, has received 637,000 bales of cotton this year and expects to bring the receipts up to 725,000. The cotton sales there yesterday were 5,100 bales. Memphis has a few more than Mobile ought to have more of them.

The house occupied by Mrs. Marks, on St. Michael street, below Conception, about half past six o'clock last evening, took fire from sparks from a chimney. Fortunately saw the fire, gave the alarm, and two or three men went up on the roof and got cold water on that fire.

CIRCUIT COURT.—Judge Toulmin on the bench. The case of Cummins vs. Brook, Anderson & Co. went to the jury who gave a verdict for plaintiff in the sum of $171 54. The case of Hudson vs. Wakeman was commenced, but not finished. The cases that have been set for trial and not reached will be in order today.

DISTINGUISHED GUESTS.—The board of aldermen and city officers of Louisville were in Mobile last night. They are making a tour, on the invitation of Bishop Louisville and Nashville and Great Southern Railroad, from Louisville to New Orleans, via Nashville, Birmingham, Montgomery and Mobile. They passed Monday night at Nashville, reached Birmingham Tuesday afternoon and spent several hours there and at Ormond. They arrived here yesterday evening and leave for New Orleans today. Two special cars were provided for these excursionists, under the charge of Conductor Rea. They will return home via Jackson and Humboldt.

THE WEATHER YESTERDAY.—Though the temperature was down to 33 at 6:51 o'clock yesterday morning, (two degrees higher than the previous day,) yet the cold was not so penetrating or uncomfortable as on Tuesday morning. The wind, at the hour mentioned, blew 15 miles an hour at Key West, 12 at Indianola and 8 at Mobile. The temperature at Mobile was 33, highest 60 at Key West, lowest 25 at Augusta.

At 3:51 in the afternoon, the wind blew 12 miles an hour at Galveston and New Orleans and 3 at Mobile. The temperature was at Key West 66, Galveston and Indianola 62, New Orleans 54, Corsicana 53, Savannah 52, Montgomery 51, Augusta 50.

The maximum temperature at Mobile was 57, the minimum 33, a range of 24 degrees.

FREE EXHIBITION.—Of the late J. Insco Williams' collection of fine oil paintings at Odd Fellows' Hall, today after ten o'clock.

There will be a matinee of the Williams panorama of the Bible today at 4 o'clock. Also an exhibition again in the evening at 8, at Odd Fellows Hall.

WALKS AROUND TOWN.

Some coal fires are cold, so are some coke fires. But it will be warm in July, and then cold fires will not be experimental.

There were indications yesterday afternoon of more moderate weather, which will be joyful to those who are short of fuel.

Let there be two or three Babcock fire engines in Mobile, and when there is a scarcity of water, they will do good execution in extinguishing fires.

The closing cotton quotations of the Board of Trade, yesterday were: Good ordinary 10¼@11; low middling 11¼@12; middling 12¼@13; good middling 13¼.

Several gentlemen from the north were at Montgomery Monday, who went up to look at the iron and coal beds, the products of which will be shipped via Mobile.

Mobile is just as much entitled to celebrity as Decatur and Cullman in this state, and yet there was six inches of snow in those places last Monday and none here.

The importance of the timber and lumber exports from Mobile is just beginning to be estimated. The trade here will rival that of Pensacola and exceed that of Pascagoula.

The cotton receipts at Mobile since September first have been 342,716 bales, against 305,500 bales during the corresponding period the preceding year—an increase of 37,216 bales.

According to the Board of Trade reports, the cotton receipts yesterday at all ports were 13,019 bales: New Orleans 6,921, Norfolk 1,206 Savannah 276. Mobile 925, Charleston 698, Galveston 456.

It is not yet too late to plant fruit trees, and every householder who has a garden, whether he owns or hires the premises he occupies, should do something this year in tree planting to enlarge the fruit crop.

The lateness of the season here may retard the shipment of early vegetables to the north and west to such an extent that the demand will continue a shorter period. It makes a big difference whether Mobile county has three months or one month the start of the west in tur early vegetable and fruit crop.

Alabama oranges and Alabama figs are superior to similar fruit from other sections. Along in the early part of the summer, when figs begin to ripen, they are delicious breakfast fruit. And then, late in the year, one can go to Owen Farley's and buy some of Colonel Pleas ant's Mon Louis oranges.

The noon cotton report of the Board of Trade yesterday was: "Market quiet and firm at unchanged prices. Fair demand and light supply. Sales about 1000 bales." Closing report: "Sales today 1000 bales. Market closed quiet and unchanged. Market opened firm with a fair demand, which at the close had developed off."

The Summer Nights' Concerts, invented by Professor Tannenbaum, for which he neglected to obtain a copy right, will be conducted at the Peasant this year by Professor Mischka. This musical gentleman was Tannenbaum's right hand man, and when any explanation or apology was to be made, he was deputed to do it. His clear, sonorous voice and distinct articulation gave him an advantage over Tannenbaum, when anything was to be said to the patrons of the latter.

Yesterday morning about seven o'clock an unoccupied story and a half building belonging to A. Vascovich, southwest corner of Cedar and St. Louis streets, was nearly destroyed by fire. No insurance. Loss estimated at $500. About eight o'clock, the roof of the kitchen of a building on St. Francis street, one door west of Conception, caught fire from the chimney. No. 4 put out the fire. Damage about $30.

The revenue law of the state, section 9, imposes a license of fifty dollars on drummers, commercial travelers or agents, who sell goods, wares or merchandise by sample. The payment of this tax to the state, evidenced by the receipt of any probate judge, shall exempt the party from payment of this license in any other county. The effect of this clause in the revenue law will be not only to exclude commercial travelers from other states, but to restrict the operations of solicitors for trade from the wholesale houses of this city.

The board of aldermen would have had a quorum Tuesday night, if the representative of the ninth ward had been permitted to take his seat within the bar. There may be doubts about the legality of his election, but then he certainly could vote quite as intelligently as the members generally do, and he would never vote against the interests of the city. The next time only one is wanting to make a quorum that member should be permitted to take his seat and participate in the deliberations of the board. The Tribune reporter will vouch for his perfect integrity.

Just now, business on the rivers is limited and the movements of arriving and departing steamboats are easy to chronicle.

The steamer Emma No. 2, of Frank Stone's Grange Line, from Tuskaloosa, arrived yesterday morning with about 30 passengers, 625 bales of cotton and a light freight of sundries. The W. S. Holt, Captain Whiteside, from Columbus, is expected in this morning.

The Emma No. 2, of Frank Stone's Grange Line, Captain Gunnison, backed out last evening for Tuskaloosa and Northport with a moderate freight.

The Emma No. 2 did not go out last evening as she was advertised to do. She took on a pretty large quantity of freight and holds over till this evening. Shippers and passengers will find the Emma just the boat to patronize. Spaulding & Foster agents.

Captain Finnegan did not go up on the Jno. T. Moore on her last trip, but the Montgomery Advertiser did not know it and in that paper of Tuesday last this paragraph appears:

The steamer John T. Moore, is due this evening from below. We can almost hear Finnegan's stentorian voice defying the billowy waves and wind storms.

The same paper of Wednesday says:

The steamer Moore was behind time yesterday, the first failure in this respect she has ever made. High water and adverse winds no doubt impeded her progress. She came up about 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

The little and fast iron steamer Baudy Moore, Captain Jas. G. Stewar, of Central Line No. 2, will dart out this evening at five o'clock for Columbus and intermediate points. She can take a little more freight than is already engaged and will carry a limited number of passengers. Wm. Johnson agent.

GENERAL TOM THUMB.—Tomorrow and Saturday the famous General Tom Thumb and the other little people who accompany him will give matinee and evening entertainments at the Mobile Theatre. The Galle correspondent of the Ceylon, Colombo, Observer, of January 15, 1870, says of the party:

We have been invaded here the last day or two by a small army of Lilliputians, or to put it in other words, we have been honored by a visit from the world honored General Tom Thumb, attended by his suite. His brilliant course from province to province and from city to city, and he has now arrived at Ceylon, where he will spend about a month prior to leaving by the next mail boat for Australia, where a large, rich, and hitherto unvisited territory awaits his arrival.

He is accompanied by his celebrated little wife, beauty, grace and accomplishments captivate all hearts." This little lady and her self-willed sister, Miss Minnie Warren, are indeed two pretty little ladies, remarkably well formed, quite graceful and full of fun in their manner. I guess them with their womanlike forms, and style of dress, their long sweeping trains, their jewelry, their hair dressed a la girl of the period, all seem so fit and proportionate that one almost loses the sense of their extreme smallness.

I can't describe the excitement caused amongst the native population here by these arrivals. Wherever the distinguished visitors went they were followed by crowds of natives in a state of the wildest jubilee, shouting, running, crowding, and generally making themselves a very great nuisance. A visit from the Duke of Edinburgh would not have created a tenth part of the excitement. No doubt the Cinghalese consider that "princes and Lords may flourish or may fade,

A breath can make them, as a breath has made,"

but then Tom Thumb is a special gift of nature that leaves all mere conventional distinctions far behind. However this may be, I know that they have been all day yesterday and to-day besieging the General Hotel in large crowds, trying to get a sight of the distinguished arrivals.

Tired of life and tax vexations of business embarrassments, about half past two o'clock yesterday afternoon, Captain John Rowalons shot himself with a Smith & Wesson seven-shooter. He was taken to the guard house, where his wound was examined by Dr. Scales, city physician. The ball did not pass through the person, but lodged somewhere. The wound was pronounced serious. As the wounded is a sailor by profession and entitled to the privileges of that institution, he was sent to the marine hospital for treatment.

MAYOR'S COURT.—In this court yesterday Councilman Quigley presiding, Anderson Sheppard, colored, for assault on his lady love was fined $2 50. Martin Gilgay, drunk and down, was picked up near the New Orleans Railroad depot, was fined $2 50. Robert Pippins, drunk and noisy, was fined $3.

If there is any article in the line of groceries, feed for animals and stimulants for feeble humans that Owen Farley at his big store on Government street does not have, he will quit advertising and close up his business. He keeps everything in this line.

SOME ORANGE TREE.—Our old friend, Conrad Hoffman, of Bay St. Louis, has the largest orange tree on the coast. It is said to measure three feet in diameter, and, that the circle which commences its boughs is sixty feet in diameter. The yield of fruit is represented as 3,000 annually, and the tree is described at present as being filled with ripe and green fruit and blossoms. Close by where this tree stands is a place where everybody except them "Jordan river peeples" can "rust" get the best in Conrad's shop.—Handsboro' [Miss.] Democrat.

Selling off to close business, all of our best calicoes at 7 cents a yard at retail, and all other dry goods at prices to insure their immediate sale. Store for sale.

THURSDAY,.....MARCH 23.

California Monsters.

Bayard Taylor, in his interesting work entitled "Home and Abroad," in a geographical account of the mammoth trees of California, thus describes the felling of one of the largest specimens of the Sierra Nevada:

After a steady labor of six weeks the thing was done, but the tree stood unmoved; so straight and symmetrical was its growth, so immense its weight, and so broad its base, that it seemed unconscious of its own annihilation, tossing its outer branches derisively against the mountain winds that strove to overthrow it. A neighboring pine of giant size was then selected, and then felled in such a way as to fall with full force against it. The top shook a little but the shaft stood as before; finally the spoilers succeeded in driving their wedges into the cut. Gradually, with great labor, one side of the tree was lifted; the line of equilibrium was driven nearer and nearer to the edge of the base; the mighty mass poised for a moment, and then with a great rushing sigh in all its boughs, thundered down. The forest was ground to dust beneath it, and for a mile around the earth shook with the concussion. The work was performed by two sets of hands with the aid of long pump augers. The tree was a mass of solid wood ninety feet in circumference, containing some 250,000 feet of timber; and according to the annual rings, its age was 3,100 years. The stump is now used for a ball-room and the trunk for a bowling-alley. Dr. Bigelow said of this specimen required thirty-one of my paces of three feet each to measure its circumference at the stump; and the mere felling of it cost, in California prices for wages, the sum of $550. As this of the sublime proportions of these wonderful fathers of the forests can be formed after seeing a man on horseback riding a distance of seventy-five feet through a hollow trunk, and emerging from a knot hole in the side.

Captain Patton, the famous pigeon-shooter, won the grand prize at Monaco this year for the second time. With his wagers he netted $30,000, and then lost the whole at roulette.

FRIDAY,.....MARCH 24.

Last Sunday morning there was plenty of ice about Montgomery. The whole prior winter seasons did not produce so much of it.

Our Washington letter this morning is very interesting, although we do not accept all the opinions that it expresses; but the world of humanity, like the ocean in a calm, would be stagnant, corrupt and pernicious, if there were no tumult of opinion.

Dana has been rejected by the U. S. Senate as minister to England. He was nominated by the President. The "upper" people of Boston are angered at this disposal of one of their pets.

The fact shows that there is something like revolt in the republican Senate. It won't do what it is told to do. That is bad.

Senator Gordon's recent speech is receiving praise from the Northern press. The New York Tribune says: "It was not a partisan harangue; it was a plain statement of notorious evils and a suggestion of practical remedies." The New York Post says: "It is discouraging to find Senators like Sherman and Edwards blinding their eyes to the necessities of the day, in an eager desire to prevent a political opponent from receiving credit for good intentions."

The singular season in all respects. The telegraph dispatches from London, dated last Monday, say that nearly all the railroads north of the river Tay, were blockaded by snow, that the Caledonia line was covered with twenty feet of it—that the telegraph lines were buried, and that the mail from Dundee to Leath, which ordinarily takes 40 minutes for transit, made its way within fourteen hours.

Come South, where, happily, we have no snow.

Schenck and Corruption.

Gen. Schenck, on his arrival at New York, last Sunday, was beset by any number of newspaper interviewers." He knows the tribe, and refused to give out much that its members desired. He said just a little. He thought it not proper to say anything before he reported to the government—whether he should return to England as minister was not what he would speak definitely of. "That would," as the New York World reports, "be decided by the course of future events."

The minister is suffering from grave charges. Like other men, who may be unable to show a clear record, he may sink out of sight, as far as public life is concerned.

There is trouble on foot in matters of this kind—for the House of Representatives, in its majority of Democrats, seems to be determined to go down to find where fraud or any other malfeasance has been committed by the servants of the public. Perhaps, in getting to the bottom, it may discover something that will hurt some of its own friends.

Well, let it, if it have an honest purpose, fetch it all out—for there is a doubt in the public mind—we mean that mind that wants no office, but demands honesty in office for the men who desire to command its suffrages. A party name will be of not much value.

The whole air is filled with voices of official fraud. The atmosphere in this respect, is surcharged, and honest men hardly know where to look for relief.

They have it in the ballot, if they use that little instrument with an honest discretion.

Some Debt.

It is stated by a man of figures that the total national debt of Europe and America is $25,000,000,000, and drawing interest. This, we suppose, includes the debts of nationalities but not those of counties and municipalities either in this quarter or Europe. For what purpose has this immeasurable sum been used? Mostly, we suppose, to find the means of cutting innocent people's throats, and making humanity miserable. It is the cost of human folly, or wickedness—the cost of misdirected ambition—a sort of Northwestern railroad business.

Joan of Arc, it is probable, will not be canonized. It is proposed that she shall be, but what is called the Congregation of Rites has made objections to it.

Cold? Yes, every where. Not only in America but all through Europe. Ice and snow were a drug in all England, France, Germany and everywhere else. We have not heard from Siberia or that place where the ships stop, when they go to the Arctic regions, the last place in their frigid work, Uppernavick. It is quite probable that there were cold weather, much snow and a good deal of ice at that place.

MR. EDITOR.—I like your article of today in regard to affairs in France. It has the merit of sound common-sense; but you lacked one thing, which is religion. For without that there can be no security for any government. The newspapers say discourse as much as they please about current events; but I can inform you, from my reading of what relates to the past, that no nation has prospered without a true knowledge of Jesus Christ, and making that knowledge a daily contraband of its actions. Therefore, my friend, as surely as any people who neglect this fundamental security for all that is of possible good. The French revolution and the Bartholomew massacres! What is there worse of religion—that is according to the teachings of Christ!

Our correspondent is right in his diagnosis, but he forgets that there is a great deal of human nature in every man—that bread and butter help much to make men pious. Without these comestibles, a good man may, driven by hunger, or the desire to see his wife and little children fed, go out into the streets and steal the first loaf of bread that presents itself to his view.

The act is not either legal or estimable—but it is human nature—of a loving heart almost breaking for the poor wife and the little children starving for food.

If we were on a jury where a case of this kind was tried, we should say let the man go, and then make a collection so that he should have bread for the morning.

As for the religion, why there is no religion among a starving, oppressed people. The animal wants supersede all religion. Between a paradise of the future, and a present loaf of bread to a starving man, there is not a doubt which will be chosen. In ninety-nine times of a hundred he will take the loaf.

And this illustration of the fundamental principle will furnish a sufficient explanation for the anger, and its resulting cruelties, in the great French revolution.

The people had not much religion, because they were oppressed—crushed down into the mere insignia of men—shadows of men—having the forms, but not much of the essential elements of men. They were chafing under the terrible wrongs that they had borne for generations—treated like brutes by those who stuffed them with religion, in order to fill their bellies with wind.

They revolted and they did right, except in their anger and cruelty. For that, as Sterne says, the recording angel will cry, but he will blot the record out.

The English courts have decided that a wife divorced from her husband for cruelty cannot sue him for damages. The judges held that the right to bring a civil action against each other, which was destroyed by marriage, was not revived by divorce.

The Weather.

LONDON, March 21.—There is several feet of snow in the south of England.

A collision on San Sebastian railroad in Spain, by snow storm on the 15th, resulted in the overturning of a train on the coast of the Mediterranean.

BOSTON, March 23.—New Port train was blown from the track. At Thatcher's Island the wind blew forty miles per hour. One hundred and thirty-three vessels were in sight yesterday, but none are visible now.

LATER.—Wind is blowing sixty miles per hour.

LITTLE ROCK, March 21.—A very heavy snow storm visited this city yesterday, the heaviest for years. Snow is on the ground to the depth of nine inches. Business is suspended and the trains delayed.

COLUMBUS, O., March 21.—Snow fell the heaviest to-day for some years. It is six inches on a level, and the storm continues.

CAIRO, ILL., March 21.—A heavy snow storm has prevailed here since noon—now 9 hours. The depth of snow is greater than has been known here so late in the season for thirty years. It has been freezing cold near all the time for forty-eight hours, and fears are entertained that the entire fruit crop is ruined.

OMAHA, March 21.—Passengers trains from the Westward that the snow fell between here and California is far greater than has been known for many years past. It covers almost the entire country. In many places the road bed is ten to twenty feet below the top of the snow. It has required almost superhuman efforts to keep the roads open at all. Not a train has yet fallen within the past month. Seven inches of snow fell last night and to-day, and is still falling, with cold northeast wind.

TELEGRAPH

DOMESTIC.

NEW YORK, March 23.—The recent kidnaping of the Spaniard Holgado is developing into a conspiracy to swindle a Cuban lady, Genora Fernandez, out of $31,000.

Seventy hundred barrels of Jupiter powder exploded in the northern portion of the city; four persons were blown to atoms and two others will die.

Gen. Roger A. Pryor started from Brooklyn last evening for Mississippi, having been retained to defend Governor Ames in his trial before the high court of impeachment.

UTICA, N. Y., March 23.—The Bank of Camden has failed for $55,000. It had a large number of local depositors.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—The World's special correspondent telegraphs that paper that the president, Ex-Secretary Borie, Fraud Grant and others are implicated in land transactions of doubtful honesty, in connection with the Denver and Rio Grande Railroad. Also, that the committee will be censured in the strictest evidence in the same case against Hays, of Alabama, to justify proceedings against him. The crooked features in the Bristow Kentucky mule case are becoming plainer.

The ways and means committee will, on Tuesday, hear from the iron and steel interest, and on Thursday from chemicals and colors, as affected by the new tariff.

The sub-election committee have had no meeting on Spencer vs. Morey from Louisiana.

FOREIGN.

MADRID, March 23.—Aprotest has been received from the Vatican against the article of the Spanish constitution sanctioning religious toleration. The protest declares the article violates the rights of Catholicism and annuls the concordat.

Fifty thousand troops will go to Cuba on the 30th.

The Sheriff of Mobile county and one of his deputies arrived here on we Saturday, on the steamer W. S. Holt, having in charge three prisoners, named, respectively, Harrison, Cox and Martin. The prisoners had been arrested by the Sheriff of Mobile county by authority of an attachment issued by A. W. Dillard, Chancellor of the Western Division, and the charge against the parties was that they had been guilty of a contempt of the authority of the Chancery Court for the county of Clarke, in that they had disregarded and set at naught an injunction from said court. The prisoners were accompanied by their attorney, ex-Judge John Elliot, of Mobile. After hearing the evidence the Chancellor decided that they were guilty of contempt and ordered Harrison to pay a fine of fifty dollars and be imprisoned in the jail of Mobile county five days; and Cox and Martin each to pay a fine of fifteen dollars or be imprisoned five days in the same jail.—Demopolis News Journal.

Jules Andrews, of Enterprise, who has been prosecuted for forgery and embezzling Spencer's money, has absconded and is lying out from a requisition by the Governor of Alabama, who wants him to answer the charges in an Alabama court.—Meridian Mercury.

Don Carlos has flooded Paris with circulars stating that he has not relinquished his claim to the throne of Spain—not vanquished, but awaiting his time to renew the contest.

FRIDAY,.....MARCH 24.

LOCAL NEWS.

It is thought that all—or nearly all—of the pencils harvested in New Orleans accused of the "crooked," will ultimately be discharged of their bonds and their supposed wickedness.

Selling off to close business, all of our best calicoes at 7 cents a yard at retail, and all other dry goods at prices to insure their immediate sale. Store for sale.
P. H. PEPPER &Co.

If there is any article in the line of groceries, feed for animals and stimulants for feeble humans that Owen Farley at his big store on Government street does not have, he will quit advertising and close up his business. He keeps everything in this line.

The New Orleans Bulletin of yesterday morning says that James A. Raynor and E. Morgan, trustees of the New Orleans, Mobile and Texas Railroad Company, filed a bill in chancery before Judge Woods on Wednesday morning against W. Van Ostern, transferee of the Mexican Gulf Ship Canal Company, for $25,000 damages to the railroad, occasioned by the gutting of a canal across the track some distance below the city.

RIVER NEWS.

The only arrival yesterday was the Wm. A Hall, of Central Line, No. 2, Captain G. H. Whitesell, from Columbus, with 144 bales of cotton, a small trip of sundries and a few passengers. The Hall will hold over for night leaves.

The only boat that went out last evening, was the little iron steamer Bandy Moore, of Central line, No. 2, for Columbus, with all the freight she could stagger under, including considerable lumber.

The D. L. Tally, of Frank Stone's Grange line, from Pickensville, and the Jno. T. Moore, from Montgomery, ought to be in this morning. They will both bring light freights of cotton.

The Emma No. 2, Captain Gunnison, will positively leave this evening at five o'clock, for Tuskaloosa and Northport. She has a large quantity of freight on board already, but will receive till the hour of her departure. She can accommodate a large number of passengers, and those who have been waiting to go to Tuscaloosa, by steam-out will gladly avail themselves of this opportunity.

GENERAL TOM THUMB.—Today, at the Mobile theatre, the little people, known as General Tom Thumb, Major Newell, Mrs. General Tom Thumb and Minnie Warren, will give a matinee and evening entertainment. The New Norfolk Mercury, of June 5, 1870, says of them:

On Friday morning, at half-past twelve o'clock, General Tom Thumb and company arrived at New Norfolk. A large crowd had assembled at the Bush Hotel, where apartments had been provided, to witness his arrival, and when Bob's coach drew up at the front of the hotel and the Lilliputian couple handed, they were received with loud and prolonged cheers.

Ever since it became known that the Original Tom Thumb was likely to visit Tasmania, the inhabitants of New Norfolk were anxious to know if he would visit the township; and when the flaming placards announced that "General Tom Thumb and Company" positively would exhibit at the Bush Hotel, of course everybody said "Yes," and it seemed to us as if every body did come even those who lived many miles away.

In the afternoon the room was crowded with country visitors, and well they were repaid for any inconvenience they may have been put to in coming from a long distance. If the feeling of the room were any criterion of admiration, it being quite impossible to distinguish articulate sounding room.

HOG PRODUCTS.—Messrs. Miller, Dolhonde & Co. of New Orleans, send to the Tribune their weekly circular, of the 21st instant. It discusses the hog products, as follows:

The packing at the north and east is behind that of last year, as the shipment of hogs from the western points to those places this season, show largely short of last year, which will go to show the general packing of the United States to be smaller than last year in every respect.

The foreign exports, from 1st November, 1875, to last week, are ahead of last year 3,000,000 pounds, and this is remarkable, notwithstanding higher prices for hogs and all kinds of products, with the exception of lard, which has been cheaper all this season than last, but now recovering, and will go much higher in the speculative feeling existing, and the increased foreign and domestic demands for that article, as also for the other products of the hogs. With the large decrease of the winter packing this season from this, and the heavy foreign exports likely to continue during the balance of the season, and the large amount of meat that was made in the south and spoiled early this season and could not be used for food, and thereby compelling the south to draw as heretofore for all her provisions from the west, and she must likely to be as much, if not more than previous years, we look for prices of provisions to advance materially yet during the balance of the season by the above causes, and the intelligent management and ability of western holders to control markets.

We also learn from experts to see material improvement also in the markets and prices of grain and flour.

THE COMMON COUNCIL.

At the regular weekly meeting of the common council last evening, President Quigley in the chair, the following members also answered to their names when the roll was called: Brown, Danner, Lyons, Perryman, Smith. Councilman McCaw came in and took his seat, while the clerk was reading the minutes of the last meeting.

The city engineer reported that he had examined Water street, from Monroe to Elmira, and found that certain encroachments had been made by private parties, and by the New Orleans and Mobile Railroad, the latter to the extent of more than nine feet at some points, and private parties to the extent of one inch and more.

Councilman Danner moved that the report be referred to the street committee with instructions to have the encroachments removed. This motion prevailed.

Report of city assessor, collections for the week ending the 18th instant $2,186,-50. Received and filed.

Report of city tax collector, collections of various amounts for 1873, $44 and $9 50; for 1874, $1899 65; for 1875, $6,018 60.

The committee on public grounds to whom was referred the communication of Williams & Glennon relative to the sale to the city of lands for additional burying grounds reported that the land has been sold to other parties.

The same committee reported an ordinance to set aside lots 174, 175, 176, 177, 178 and 179 in square 21 of Magnolia cemetery, for the sale of single lots at $3 each, including deed. The ordinance was postponed one week.

The street committee reported a resolution to increase the force of laborers on the streets. Postponed one week.

The joint committee of ways and means reported a resolution for the more prompt collection of city taxes, proposing a discount of five per cent. on taxes paid on or before May 15th. The resolution was adopted.

A communication from the board of officers of the Mobile Fire Department Association, inviting the members of the city government to participate in their annual celebration on the tenth of April, was read and the invitation accepted on the part of the council.

A communication was received from Councilman Anderson, of the fifth ward, tendering, for domestic reasons, his resignation as a member of this board.

On motion of Councilman Lyons, a committee of two was appointed to wait on Councilman Anderson and request him to withdraw his resignation. Messrs. Lyons and Perryman were appointed on that committee.

Action was deferred one week on several papers that came up under the head of unfinished business.

Councilman Smith submitted the following resolution, which was adopted, the only vote against it being that of Councilman Lyons. This is the resolution:

Resolved, That in order to meet the accruing interest on the bonds of the city, issued for its debt, under an act of the general assembly of Alabama, of March 9, 1875, and to provide for the sinking fund to be applied to said debt, the mayor of the city and chairman of its finance committee and Alderman Pepper and Councilor be and they are authorized to negotiate for and raise on the credit of the city, in such manner as to them may seem best a sum of money not to exceed seventy thousand dollars, and as necessary for the payment of such city orders or loans and interest, to hypothecate the receipts and means of the city now in the treasury or that may from time to time come into the same, that may not be required to defray the current expenses of the city, and that they file with the city treasurer a statement of the transactions made by them; and such transactions shall be valid and obligatory on the corporation, the mayor, aldermen and common council of the city of Mobile.

Councilman Brown submitted an ordinance, to action on which was deferred one week, providing

Section 1.—That in each and every month between the 15th and 20th days thereof, it shall be the duty of the city fire nurser, under the supervision of the mayor, the auditor and members of the committee on ways and means, or a majority of them, to destroy, by burning, such amount of the city scrip of 1875 as may be determined on by the mayor and chairman of the joint committee on ways and means to be a surplus beyond the current and obligatory requirements of the city treasurer. Be it further enacted,

Section 2.—That all ordinances or resolutions in conflict herewith be and the same are hereby repealed.

There being no further business, the board adjourned.

Immediately upon adjournment and before members had left their seats, President Quigley (all the members rising) made a neat speech of welcome to several members of the Louisville city government, who had come to the meeting of the council by special invitation and were semi-circularly seated between the councilmen and the fire on the north side of the council chamber. That speech was responded to by Hon. William Keye, a member of the common council of Louisville, and then our councilmen and their guests retired from the municipal building to enjoy elsewhere the flow of soul or such other liquid as each gentleman might fancy.

The Louisville officials present at the meeting of the common council last evening were:

Councilmen—J. A. Isert, William Keye, Joseph C. Gilbert, C. R. Rudd.

Aldermen—T. C. Brinley, T. W. Rankin; Dr. W. E. Miller.

City treasurer—Harry Woolford.

City engineer—R. T. Scowden.

THE LOUISVILLE EXCURSIONISTS.—The Louisville excursionists, who arrived here Wednesday evening, as stated in the Tribune of yesterday morning, leave Mobile on the four o'clock train this morning for New Orleans. They received attentions while here from President Quigley, of the common council, acting as the chief executive officer of the municipality in the absence of Mayor Howell; from officers of the Board of Trade and Cotton Exchange, and from others of our citizens. They visited the court house, Board of Trade rooms and the Cotton Exchange, and were much interested in what they saw of the resources of Alabama and what they learned of the natural advantages of Mobile to become the seaport through which Louisville shall reach the ocean. It is a matter of regret that their existing arrangements would not permit them to remain here longer.

By the report, elsewhere, it will be seen that they attended the meeting of the common council last evening.

Captain H. C. Baldwin, of the steamer Annie, tendered the use of that fine little craft to the Louisville excursionists yesterday or today; but they were obliged to decline the invitation to sail on the Annie down to the Eastern Shore or down the lower bay.

The sales under Old Fellows' Hall of crockery, glassware, plated ware, cutlery, lamps, chandeliers, brackets, wall pockets, jewelry, fancy goods, fine oil chromos and paintings, at ten a. m. and half past seven p. m. today, will attract multitudes of buyers, who know that every article put up is sold, no matter what the price. For other information see advertisement of Mr. Gottwals.

A pretty little humming bird ventured forth from his quiet and comfortable retreat (wherever that is) yesterday afternoon and sipped the wrecks of blossoms on a peach tree. He was lively and joyous.

Messrs. Whitbeck and Bliss are now in Montgomery getting large numbers of recruits from the sinners. Their meetings, both day and night, were crowded.

A few of the leaves on orange trees are wrinkled and discolored by the frost but the blossoms are by no means all killed.

There were again indications of a storm yesterday afternoon, but it may be a bright, pleasant sunshine this morning.

The rising of the tide cannot be yesterday during our rain, unless the course of the wind change.

MAYOR'S COURT.—In this court yesterday morning, Councilman Quigley prosecuting, Slocum Jarvis, drunk and down, was fined $3. Emma Cady, drunk and disorderly, was fined $5. George Evans, alias Collins, colored, for stealing harnesses from Joe Tuorpe's stable, was sent to the city court for trial. Bond $500. Jim Lang, colored, arrested with a sack of old copper was discharged, there being no evidence that he did not own same honestly by it. Philip Miller, a colored youth, for stealing a jar of candy from Mr. Gaussway's store on Dauphin street, was sent to the county jail for six months. Henry Taylor, a colored drayman, arraigned for stealing 65 cents worth of lumber, was released on his own recognizance, the court reserving its decision on the case.

THE WEATHER YESTERDAY.—It was cloudy yesterday morning and continued so during most of the day. At 6:51 a. m., the wind blew 16 miles an hour at Indianola, 14 at Key West and 8 at Mobile. The temperature at Mobile was 48, highest 65 at Key West and Indianola, lowest 38 at Augusta.

At 3:51 in the afternoon, the wind blew 24 miles an hour at Indianola; 19 at Key West and 15 at Mobile. The temperature was at Key West 73, Indianola 71, Galveston 69, Montgomery and New Orleans 64, Corsicana and Mobile 62, Augusta 61, Savannah 58.

CIRCUIT COURT.—In this circuit yesterday, Judge Toulmin on the bench, the case of Hudson vs. Wickersham, continued from Wednesday, occupied the whole day and will be continued today. The docket of cases already announced will follow.

CITY COURT.—The indicted prisoners confined in jail, were arraigned yesterday before Judge Semmes. Criminal cases were set for trial, to commence next Wednesday. On Thursday, the parties indicted, who have given bond, will appear before this court.

Geo. A. Arnold, No. 18 St. Francis street, is now in receipt of his spring stock of hats for men, boys and children. Elegant goods, large assortment, and low prices.

WALKS AROUND TOWN.

Gardeners will at once replant where the cold killed the growing vegetation.

Not a bale of cotton was received over the Mobile and Ohio Railroad yesterday.

There was a clearance yesterday for New York of 1210 bales of cotton, several sticks of cedar and several bags of the famous tuffentine chips.

Shippers of early vegetables from Mobile to the west are certain that their season has been shortened by the frosts and the freezes of this week.

Mr. Geo. Corbell, city editor of the Louisville Ledger, who was among the excursionists from that city, was welcomed at the Tribune office yesterday.

The appearance of strawberries in this market will be retarded by the late cold snap. The vines and fruit were so well protected that they suffered no materially injury.

Edwin Tardy & Co., have established a general commission business at No. 41 North Water street, and will give special attention to the sale of every kind of goods at private and public sale.

Rev. O. F. Sturgis preached at the Palmetto Street Baptist Church last night. There will be services at that church this evening and tomorrow evening at half past seven o'clock.

On the outside of today's Tribune, will be found a very interesting letter from our Washington correspondent. It contains a touching tribute to the memory of the late Mrs. Carl Schurz.

The closing cotton quotations of the Board of Trade, yesterday were: Good ordinary 10¼@11; low middling 11¼@12; middling 12¼@13; good middling 13.

According to the Board of Trade reports, the cotton receipts yesterday at all ports were 10,971 bales: New Orleans $ 649, Galveston 2,088, Norfolk 1,450, Savannah 888, Charleston 445, Mobile 362.

The noon cotton report of the Board of Trade yesterday was: "Market quiet and firm at unchanged prices. Fair demand and light supply. Sales about 1000 bales." Closing report: "Sales today 1000 bales. Market closed quiet and unchanged. Market opened with a fair demand, which at the close had dropped off."

John Rowland, who attempted to commit suicide Wednesday with a Smith & Wesson revolver, is in a critical condition at the marine hospital, where he was carried for surgical treatment. The ball which is supposed to have lodged in the spinal cord, has caused a total paralysis of his body from the neck down. He has no use of his hands or feet, though he retains the use of his tongue and his mind is perfectly clear.

There is a certain thing about all printing offices called "pi." Our foreman was unfortunate enough to fall in its clutches just as he was finishing up, and that accounts for the non-appearance of the Marshall Recipts' card. Also No. 194 on the Mobile and Montgomery Railroad and also the New Orleans Railroad train.

bill, even though it should create a serious division. The reduction in the salaries of House employees makes a great deal of grumbling; the committees are busy with investigations in all directions; General Babcock appears in connection with the sale of post traderships; Mr. Pendleton has effectually spoiled all his chances for a Presidential nomination; Robeson is busy looking after any possible tell-tale tracks in contracts which need covering; General Belknap's trial is at present very much of a dissolving view, though the meshes are said to be coming back and we are waiting in the attitude of expectancy for a new sensation.

MRS. GUMMIDGE.

Lamar on the Floor.

From the Cincinnati Enquirer.

I was standing on the floor of the House talking to some Ohio statesmen, when I heard a deep, bass, melodious voice roll out in full volume above the din and uproar, and immediately the confusion began to subside. I knew that a lion had begun to roar when the other animals began to be silent. I looked around the House in vain for the man who owned the voice. I could see no one on floor who seemed to be doing the talking, and I turned to Neal, of Ohio, for information. He told me that Lamar was talking, and pointed out a man with long beard and thick hair, sitting to the left of the Speaker's stand, lying back in his chair like a man trying to find four aces in a poker hand that only showed two blue pairs! He was explaining the reason why he had a note appended to the debates correcting a misstatement in his speech of the preceding day! He said a voice like a penny trombone, and yet he was so feeble to stand and address the House. This struck me as a piece of affectation, especially as I had seen him walking around the office of the hotel; I was amused at the style of the man and the evidence of sublime conceit that cropped out in every movement and word.

BY J. H. BALLENTYNE, THOS. B. LYONS.

A Pair of Orleans Thieves.

Detective Huthsing made a very creditable arrest last evening, and recovered upward of $4000 in money, stolen from a New Orleans house. The particulars or the robbery are not yet known in this city, the only information received being a dispatch from the chief of police of New Orleans to Chief McDonough notifying him to look out for James Little and William O'Malley, two boys, eighteen and sixteen years of age respectively, who were wanted for grand larceny. The dispatch gave a meagre description of the boys and stated the amount of the larceny at several thousand dollars. On Saturday night the detectives had the information, and last evening Detective Huthsing met two youngsters answering the description at the corner of Fourth and Pine streets. Ascertaining that the couple were strangers in the city he concluded to take them in. A third party who was with them attempted to interfere, but on being thus grather confidently into the middle of the street desisted. The officer started for the station with the boys, and when just opposite the old Globe office was suddenly attacked from behind by the man—a tall athletic fellow—who had been with the boys at first. Huthsing was staggered by a blow on the side of the head, but as both boys are light weights, he hung to both of their coats with one hand and went for his pistol with the other. The assailant seeing that the fat cop didn't fall and was getting his gun, scampered off and escaped. The two boys at the station gave the names of Kenny and William Ligit house, and claimed to be brothers. On being searched the little one turned up nothing, but the elder one had $10 in his pockets and eight $500 bank notes closely wadded up in one hand. They finally admitted that they were the boys wanted, and said the fellow who tried to rescue them, came through with them from Jackson, Mississippi. They came in on the Iron Mountain Railroad, and had only been in town a few hours when captured. They were immediately forwarded to the Four Courts and locked up for the night. They signified their willingness to go back without a requisition, as they have friends in New Orleans. This was a most fortunate and creditable capture for Detective Huthsing, who has been remarkably successful of late in working up important cases.—St. Louis Republican.

Silver Coin for Resumption.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—The Treasury Department will receive during the present week, from San Francisco, fourteen tons of silver coin, in anticipation of the period for commencing the circulation of silver. This will amount to $500,000. The amount of silver in the vaults of the treasury here at this time is more than $20,000. Orders were received at the department to-day for $120,000 fractional currency, and that amount will be shipped to-morrow to the various points from which the requisitions are made. There are $2,000,000 of fractional currency still in the vaults, though none has been printed since the middle of last month. Since that time the requisitions upon the Treasury and from Government offices requesting to be supplied with fractional currency have amounted to about $3,000,000. Several parties have visited the Treasury recently with various amounts of silver coin that they had been hoarding, wishing to have it exchanged for notes. The department has, in all cases, declined to make such exchange, the law declaring that this class of coin is neither redeemable nor exchangable, and is legal tender to the amount of $5 only. The amounts presented varied from $15 to $50.—N. Y. World.

Mr. Conkling is the choice of the Republican party of the state of New York for the Presidency. Of course the voice of that great state will have a potent force in the national convention.

It is stated that Senator Gordon, of Georgia, affects Thurman as the Democratic candidate for the Presidency.

Lieut-Gov. A. K. Davis.

From the Canton (Miss.) Mail.]

When the man whose name heads this article, was elevated by the Republicans of this state to the high and responsible position of Lieutenant Governor, the Jackson Pilot undertook to write a biographical sketch of him, and succeeded in getting off a story with little or no truth in it. We do not propose to write a biography of this unfortunate individual, who went up like a rocket and came down like a stick, but we will give a bit of his history that may be of interest to many.

Aleck was born about the year 1840 in the city of Jackson, his mother, Lizzie, being at that time a slave of the late Major Perry Cohea. Several years prior to the breaking out of the war, Lizzie, with her son Aleck and several other children fell to the posession of Miss Fannie Cohea, now Mrs. W. L. Davis of Memphis, but for some years a resident of Tippah and Marshall county. Aleck was always a bright, intelligent and industrious boy and man, and at an early age manifested a fondness for books, music and painting. When about 15 years of age he was sent to Holly Springs to learn the profession of a barber, and from that place he went to Memphis to ply his trade. During the war he was the servant of a mess of officers in the Confederate army and it is said was an earnest sympathizer with the South. He was on several occasions entrusted with important dispatches and papers, and more than once visited the enemy's lines and returned with important information. Aleck was always a favorite with his white friends and was petted and flattered; in fact his bondage was light and perhaps the happiest days of his life.

In conclusion we will say, that we have good authority for stating that Aleck is not the son of the gifted McClung. His mother, who is yet alive and still a faithful servant in the family of a grand-daughter of Major Cohea, says he is not. We have further authority for saying that his name is Aleck McNutt, this name having been given to him by Mrs. McNutt, who chanced to be at Major Cohea's residence the day that the subject of this notice was born, and having playfully asked Lizzie to let her name her babe.

Secretary Robeson.

It is reported in Wall street that when Secretary Robeson went into office, he borrowed $1,000 to make a presentable appearance, and that to-day he is worth not less than $2,000,000.

It is the firm belief of those who know what they are talking about, that millions upon millions have been squandered upon favorites by the Navy Department ever since the commencement of the war, and that the squandering or plundering is still in pleasant operation.

Let me cite briefly one case: A contractor who has had hold of the navy test for years, and who, two years ago, lived in a $7,000 residence, now lives in one that cost, with its surroundings, $141,000.

This place was built for him, not by days' work, and was nearly three years in course of erection. The furniture in it came partly from Paris, and cost $50,000. The stable, built near the residence, is valued at $20,000.

But this is not all. Said contractor, in addition to the above, has become the owner, since his connection with the Navy Department, of hundreds of acres of land and valuable buildings and stores, which he has either erected or purchased. Indeed, he is ranked as the wealthiest man in the country in which he resides, and that is not an hour's distance from the city. These are the facts, and they carry their own comments.—Baltimore Sun.

In the storm at Beauregard, (Miss.) last Saturday night, the Methodist Church, Beauregard Institute, Midway Seminary, owned by Mrs. Laird, and the African Church, together with thirteen or fourteen residences, were blown entirely down or badly damaged. No lives were lost, though all the residences were occupied at the time.

General Bragg has established a new colony in Texas. If he does not know what to plant in his vineyard, let him try "a little more grape."—N. O. Republican.

SATURDAY,.....MARCH 25.

There is some economical changes proposed for the Postoffice Department. A despatch in the New York World says: The sub-committee of the House committee on the Post-Office appropriations will propose an amendment to pay for the conveyance of mails on railroads, according to the space occupied, and not according to weight, as at present. They also propose to base the pay of Postmasters on a graduated percentage of the receipts of their respective offices and mail routes, by which a saving of $300,000 or $400,000 would be effected. The salary of the Postmaster at New York would be $6,000, and the salaries of the Postmasters at Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, Cincinnati and San Francisco $4,000 per annum.

French Industry.

France, (says the New York World) seems to possess more intrinsic vitality than any other country. Her recuperative energy is simply wonderful. Up to the day of the Franco-Prussian war, the population, if not declining, was at least not progressing; but statisticians have lately found that the effect of that war has been to augment the proportion of births. Dr. Benjamin Richardson says the same thing in connection with our Revolutionary war—that it not only made the marriage-bed more fertile, but diminished the proportion of accidents from childbirth. France has gone forward more rapidly in industrial lines of advancement than any other European country. A century ago bankruptcy and starvation seemed to be the inevitable destiny of the country. It was worse off than Turkey is to-day. Wheat-bread was unknown to the peasantry, and rich and fertile Normandy was a desert filled with cringing beggars. In 1788, Duke Charles, of Wurtemburg, wrote: "France is at the last gasp, and the most drastic remedies seem entirely in vain. The King is more than weak; the Queen addicted to every kind of dissipation, and justly odious to the people; commerce, agriculture, credit, all are prostrate." In 1795, bankruptcy was confessed; in 1795, she was at war with all the world; in 1802, had triumphed everywhere, and had 25,000 holders of government bonds. In 1830 these rentiers were 200,000; in 1860, 1,000,000, and to-day the Government has four millions of creditors among its own citizens. From 1815 to 1851 the cash value of the soil and agricultural improvements rose from 39,544,000,000 francs to 83,744,000,000, or 116 per cent., and the present estimate is 122,000,000,000 francs. In 1815 France had nearly 33,000,000 acres in cereals, increasing this area annually over 200,000 acres, until it reached 42,000,000 in 1855. In 1815 the wheat product was 112,000,000 bushels, and in 1873, 232,295,640 bushels, or more than double. France raises very nearly as much bread and meat as her people consume; she pays for much more than she buys with her exports of cheese, eggs, poultry, cider, fruit, &c. The annual value of the wine crop is about $400,000,000, and the annual excess of exports over imports amounts to three-fourths of this. France is a vast hive of nicely balanced industries, and puts a fine skilled labor value upon all that she imports—importing, as she chiefly does, raw material for manufacture and re-exportation. She buys coal and iron and some raw sugar and raw cotton and silk, but her silk exports are nearly as valuable as the cotton exports of Great Britain. Since 1860, when France secured Free Trade, her agriculture, commerce and manufactures have been immensely developed, and of late years has been increasing the quantity and line of her exports by sending goods in consignment to all the markets of the world. No country in the world, perhaps, produces so many different things for supplying the various wants of its own people as France; and there is no civilized nation that lives so regularly, steadily and comfortably within its own means, and lays by so much surplus income every year.

The Centennial exhibition of Philadelphia is provoking some comment and much censure. It is said that it is a mere mercantile speculation—that there is in it nothing but the Centennial greed for dollars.

This may be true; but if the rectangular city can make money out of it, what has that to do with us? The people are not dragging men to the show. They only invite them No one is obliged to go to it.

We are not quite sure that any man gives service without the hope of ultimate profit, in some form.

Well, the Philadelphia people are doing this in the great Centennial. They are making the best of their opportunities: that is money. What in the world is so good as money—something that will buy things, and pay debts, and bring us luxuries, if we desire them?

There is nothing, except this in the desire for good living, which means roast beef, and what ought to be brought on the table with it.

This is what the Philadelphia people desire, as, in all probability, our Mobile people desire.

But comes in here a fact of much importance. Although the proposition for the Centennial was the result of greed, it may be a good thing for us of Alabama to expose to view the wealth which this state has. What ever reasonable cost of this opportunity may be, is a cost put out with a sure return.

Gentlemen of wisdom and discretion have been chosen as state representatives to the exhibition. They deserve pay for their services, and will accomplish great good for the general welfare of Alabama.

The incipient motive of the affair is not to be considered. It is only how to make it useful to us. This is all.

But there seems to be a distrust among the New York people in regard to it—that the 800,000 population of the one will presently increase so as to over-ride the 1,200,000 of the other.

The course of trade is running out of its old ruts. Perhaps New York, after awhile, will be left with only one million of inhabitants—the two hundred thousand running to Philadelphia, which have made the city as big as it is. It has not great seaward commerce—only the products that grow from local industries—stimulated in every way to make property profitable. In this it has had great success, and may, after awhile, exceed New York in population.

In Mobile we might have this source of increase; but there is no one to set on foot the means to accomplish the purpose.

Without a cotton factory, we having been talking for a long while. Every person wants one; and resolutions, innumerable and eloquent, have been offered by persons in various meetings; but no money has been proffered. Can any meeting build factories by the passing of resolutions, and nothing else?

TELEGRAPH

DOMESTIC.

PROVIDENCE, March 24.—Dr. Gordon W. Briggs has been arrested on a charge of causing a fatal abortion on a young woman from Baltimore.

NEW YORK, March 24.—A cable dispatch announces the death of Paul Dahlgren, at Rome. Mr. Dahlgren was a son of late Rear Admiral Dahlgren, and about two years since was appointed United States consul-general to Italy.

PHILADELPHIA, March 24.—The general plan for the exercises at the opening of the Centennial exhibition on May 10th, has been agreed upon by the executive committee. The specially invited guests will be nearly as follows: The president and vice president, the cabinet, the supreme court, the diplomatic corps, the senate and house of representatives, leading officers of the army and navy, the governors of the states and territories and their staffs, the legislature of Pennsylvania and the board of state supervisors, the foreign commissioners, the centennial commissioners and the chief subordinates, the centennial board of finance, the government board, the women's centennial executive committee, the judges of the exhibition, the state centennial boards, and the officials of Philadelphia. This list is, however, subject to revision. As the exercises are to be held in the open air, it will be possible for a great multitude to witness them. At 10½ a. m. the persons invited having been conducted to their places, the women's centennial choir of musicians, conducted by Theodore Thomas, will play the national airs of all nations. The president of the United States will then be conducted to the ground by Governor Hartranft with a military escort. The following programme will then be carried out: "The grand march written for the occasion by Richard Wagner" invocation of the Divine blessing; original hymn by John G. Whittier; original cantata, words by Sidney Lanier, of Georgia, music by Dudley Buck, of Connecticut; brief presentation by the president of the centennial commission; reporting the exhibition to the president of the United States; an address by the president of the United States, which he will close by declaring the exhibition open; immediately the flags will be unfurled, the artillery will salute, the chimes in the towers and other great bells on the ground will ring, and the chorus of six hundred voices will render Handel's "Hallelujah;" the foreign commissioners will move to their respective assignments in the main building; the president of the United States, escorted by the commissioners and board of finance, and the invited guests, will enter the north doors of the main building and move, accompanied by music of the great organization, up the great avenue in such a manner as to pass by each national committee. The procession will then cross to machinery hall and walk down the main avenue to the centre, then at a signal from the president of the United States the enormous engine and its thirteen acres of machinery will be put in motion and the exhibition will be opened to the world.

CHICAGO, March 24.—The Rev. Philo Judson is dead.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—Detective Whitley testified that he used $150,000 in 1871 and 1872 and 1874, in ferreting out the ku-klux in North Carolina and South Carolina.

A $600,000 yearly irregularity in the public printing is being developed.

E. P. Smith, Indian commissioner, was $300,000 in arrears at White Earth Agency, which the Indian committee find he covered after becoming commissioner, using his official position for this purpose.

There is a growing disposition in both parties to take the currency question out of politics.

MEMPHIS, March 24.—Formal judgment in the case of Lieutenant Governor Davis, of Mississippi, has been pronounced, being removal from office and disqualification from hereafter holding any office of honor, trust or profit.

The number of cattle slaughtered and packed at Chicago during the past season is the largest reported in the last eleven years.

The Picayune of Thursday shows that 6,300 glasses lager beer were sold in Memphis on Mardi Gras day. Hugo Redwitz states that he himself sold 7,140 glasses of beer that Mardi Gras day. Well, the Crescent city has "taken the horns." A million glasses of the pleasant beverage were drunk in it that day—in all probability.

What a Poet Says.

One of the papers publishes the following poem of Whittier. It is apropos of the present condition of many men. It is full of charity—perhaps too much, although pardon for wrong does become a man—if the wrong be done by great temptation and through moral wickedness. As Mrs. Gummage says, we are all poor, weak, miserable creatures. The poetry is good, although there may be some disputation in respect of its moral:

So fallen! so lost! the light withdrawn,
Which once on me shone!
The glory from his gray hairs gone
Forevermore.

Revile him not the tempter hath
A scare for all;
And pitying tears, not scorn and wrath,
Befit his fall!

Let not the land, once proud of him,
Insult him now;
Nor brand with deeper shame his dim
Dishonored brow.

But let its humbled sons instead,
From sea to lake,
A long penance, as for the dead,
In sadness make.

Of all we loved, and honored, naught
Save power remains—
A fallen angel's pride of thought
Still strong in chains.

All else is gone from those great eyes
The soul has fled.
When faith is gone, when honor dies,
The man is dead!

Then pay the reverence of old days
To his dead fame;
Walk backward with averted gaze,
And hide the shame!

LOCAL NEWS.

PLANTING POTATOES.—Peerless, early rose, peach blow, Chili, Red and russets in store and for sale low by Owen Farley, in store 52 Conti street.

Geo. A. Arnold, No. 13 St. Francis street, is now in receipt of his spring stock of hats for men, boys and children Elegant goods, large assortment, and low prices

It will be seen by announcement elsewhere, that the steamer Annie, Captain H. C. Baldwin, will make an excursion trip to Point Clear and return today, leaving Dauphin street wharf at nine o'clock.

Tomorrow an article will appear in these columns, showing from the records the origin of the creation of the office of city auditor, and that his duties are simply those of clerk of the ways and means committee. Only that and nothing more.

One of the oldest printers in Mobile was Mr. James H. Thomson, long connected with daily newspaper offices in the capacity of foreman. His friends will regret to learn of his decease yesterday after a brief illness. Mr. Thomson had many friends and no enemies.

The sales of crockery, glassware, plated ware, cutlery, lamps, chandeliers, brackets, wall pockets, jewelry, fancy goods, fine oil chromos and paintings, under Odd Fellows' Hall, at ten o'clock a. m., and half past seven p. m. today, should be largely attended, as the goods are of the best quality and are sold at wonderfully low prices.

CIRCUIT COURT.—In this court, yesterday, Judge Toulmin on the bench, the case of Roberts Hudson vs M. D. Wickham, went to the jury, who, after an hour's deliberation, rendered a verdict in favor of the plaintiff in the amount of $3,266 65. No other business was done in this court yesterday. Today the motion docket will be taken up.

MAYOR'S COURT.—In this court yesterday morning, Councilman Quigley presiding, Ed. Ward Johnston, colored, arrested on suspicion of stealing hoop brass from Braston, Birney & Co.'s bucket factory, was discharged. Henry Washington, colored, for burglary and larceny, was sent to jail for six months for the latter offense, and was held in $200 bond to answer the charge of burglary before the city court.

MOBILE VARIETIES.—Manager Hippler has made the most commendable efforts to secure the best talent on the variety stage for his little place of popular amusement. A universal favorite is Miss Lizzie Wisler, who has a repertoire of lively songs that always entertain those who listen to her. Sometimes there is more in action than in voice, and her "Active Girl" is one of those gems. The frequenters of the Varieties, will learn with regret that the engagement closes tonight, but they will be there then to enjoy the Saturday night olio, in which the whole talent of the company is developed.

COMPLIMENTARY TO COUNCILMAN ANDERSON.—The following communication was yesterday addressed to Councilman Alexander Anderson, of the fifth ward, and signed by W. H. Wickes, city treasurer; Henry St. Paul, auditor; Jno. G. Sommersell, city clerk; W. H. Sarfield, city tax collector; Dick Asper, city assessor; M. A. Broun, city engineer; C. G. Sommersell, city porter; W. E. Jones, secretary, and W. F. Taylor, treasurer's clerk. The text of the communication is:

DEAR SIR:—Please withdraw your resignation as councilman from the fifth ward.

We, municipal officers, knowing the intelligence and zeal you have always manifested, and your knowledge of municipal affairs, feel that it will be very difficult to supply your place. In your official acts and all your intercourse, you have attached us to you with more than ordinary feelings of respect and love.

The acceptance of your resignation, therefore (aside from the detriment to the best interests of the city) would be the cause of much deep regret that we earnestly hope you can, without too great personal sacrifice, withdraw your resignation, and afford extreme gratification to

Very Truly and Affectionately,
Your Friends.

If there is any article in the line of groceries, food for animals and stimulants for feeble humans that Owen Farley at his big store on Government street does not have, he will quit advertising and close up his business. He keeps everything in this line.

CLOTHING! CLOTHING!!—John Maguire Dauphin street is selling out at cost his immense stock of clothing.

WALKS AROUND TOWN.

Hot coffee, five cents a cup, at Thompson's, opposite the Campbell House.

If you want the choicest pickles in barrels, or by the measure, go to Owen Farley, Government street.

A set of Hatton's shirt jewelry, at the two price set on each article, would be an economical purchase at any time.

Selling off to close business, all of our best calicoes at 7 cents a yard at retail, and all other dry goods at prices to insure their immediate sale. Store for sale.
P. H. PEPPER & CO.

The literary and musical entertainment of the Franklin Society has been postponed till Monday evening next.

Cotton seed meal is very nutritious for milch cows, and that is why Owen Farley buys it in large quantities, and sells it to suit purchasers, at his Government street grocery.

To get a drove well put down, go to the Young Brothers, corner Dauphin and St. Emanuel, who do that class of work much cheaper than it is done by anybody else in Mobile.

Laporte kid gloves, the best in the market, of all colors, and the Reynier (Imperial calf) gloves, fashionable and cheap, at Hatton's, southeast corner Dauphin and Royal.

Gas fixtures sold and gas fitting done by Young Brothers, corner Dauphin and St. Emanuel, who are also plumbers, and are prepared to execute promptly all orders in that line.

There was a belt of leaden clouds low down in the horizon last evening, which, after awhile, looked like the rippling waters of the ocean. It was a pretty and unusual sight.

One of the specialties of Hatton, furnishing goods dealer, southeast corner Royal and Dauphin, is neckties, of which he has a full line, of the latest and most fashionable patterns.

When visiting New Orleans, go to the City Hotel, Watson & Montford proprietors. Location central, tables abundantly supplied, lodging rooms well ventilated and prices moderate.

"Prepare for a rainy day," is an admonition that has become a proverb. There is no better way to do it than to go to Hatton's furnishing goods house, Royal and Dauphin, and buy an umbrella. His stock is large and prices small.

The noon dotton report of the Board of Trade yesterday was: "Market quiet and unchanged. Fair demand. Sales about 500 bales." Closing report: "Sales today 500 bales. Market closed quiet and firm at unchanged prices."

Ship Emily Augusta was cleared for Liverpool yesterday by Jas. H. & Jno. Wylie & Co., with 4,166 bales of cotton, weighing 2,115,748 pounds valued at $249,960, and six hundred staves, valued at $103—total value of cargo, $250,060.

It is not yet too late to plant potatoes. The value of the crop depends very materially on the variety of the potato that is planted. Owen Farley, 54, 56, 58, 70 and 72 Government street, has the peerless, early rose, peach blow, red, russets and Chili.

Moore, and leave for Selma and Montgomery this evening, with Captain Owen Finegan on the roof and Mr. P. J. Lyons in the office. She was receiving freight yesterday and will go out with a full cargo. THE TOM THUMB MATINEE.—The Tom Thumb matinee, at the Mobile Theatre today at two o'clock, will attract as many ladies and little people as can find seats there. From the opening to the close of the performances, mirth abounds and laughter rules. Tom Thumb, on the stage, is not just as funny as funny people can be, and at each entertainment they vary their performances so that there is no monotony in them. There are no vulgarities on the stage or off. Sly, but the entertainment is continuous from the opening to the close.

The house was full last night and everybody was delighted. The last performance today and will go out with a full house.

An examination was held yesterday morning by Coroner Harwell on the body of Wm. Scanlin, colored, found dead in Dooley's carpenter shop on Water, between Theatre and Church streets. He was employed there and slept there. The coroner decided that Scanlin died from causes unknown to him.

From Cedar to Conception street, Eslava is obstructed by paving stones on each side of the car track, placed there to be used for paving the gutters of that street along which they are now loosely laid. Some day there will be a serious collision between a street railroad car and a loaded team that has no room to turn out on account of these obstructions, and then the city will be sued for damages. The paving ought to be done at once.

A Queer Story.

The New York Spirit of the Times has some very interesting reminiscences of Charlotte Cushman, relating, among other things, this hitherto unknown episode in her life:

She fell in love with a young gentleman of Presbyterian family, who was singularly religious and who, moreover, strongly objected to the stage and to the theatrical profession. His family, wishing to break off the connection, endeavored to strengthen in every way his prejudice. They told him stories of the loosness of the lives of actresses, and, although they granted that Miss Cushman was a young woman of most exemplary conduct, nevertheless, they insinuated into his mind some cleverly imagined calumnies concerning her. To make a long story short, the engagement was broken off. We were assured that it ended in a rather tragical manner. The young man, our informant declared, was induced to go to Miss Cushman's hotel after one of her performances. He was shown up to a room where she was being entertained by some of her theatrical friends and mates at a rather lively supper party. The scene convinced him that the stories he had heard were true, that even this noble woman was not free from the levity of the rest of her profession. He rushed from the hotel and never would speak to or even see the lady again. Thus ended Charlotte Cushman's love romance. We think she was well rid of her Romeo, for he must, indeed, have been a weak-minded swain, and we recollect to have heard that this self same young gentleman came to a violent end. We were assured that he killed himself shortly after the supper-party scene, in a fit of insanity.

A dwarf, at an exhibition in London, told a lady that a certain Madame B., renowned for her beauty, had kissed him. "And you kissed her back, of course?" queried the lady. "No, indeed; I kissed her face."

SATURDAY.....MARCH 25.

The last news from Washington is of little interest. The bill to regulate the mode of the electoral vote was passed by the Senate.

There is a vast amount of rascality in office.

This may astonish the reader.

Where is it? he asks. Why an honest man's answer, "It is every where."

This is the conclusion that we have come to by means of newspapers and telegraph despatches.

But there is one thing in all the surfeit that may be spoken of in this way that may be said. Thus:

We believe nothing by telegraph, or otherwise, unless it be proved. We shall accept no newspaper or telegraph man's authority for anything that we cannot see before us.

In the case of Gen. Schenck, it is not at all sure that he was a fit representative of the U. S. in London, but we have seen no conclusive evidence to show that he was corrupt in his office. It is probable that he lent his name, when it ought not to have been lent.

The storm of partisan animosity has wafted him home, and that will be stormy this year, and many men of no reflection will be quarrelling and ready to get all the time into fighting-trim. Let these gooses keep their livers cool, and see that there shall be honest voting. That is what is most desirable.

The death of Mr. Thompson—one of the foremen of the Register's composing room, was tenderly announced in that paper yesterday. We knew the man by having employed him, and observed what was good in him. He was faithful to what he had to do. In all our observation we never saw or suspected anything in him which was not proper and honest.

This is the highest compliment that can be paid to any man. He performed his duties with care—felt the responsibility of them, and never gave excuses for any neglect in the doing of them.

This, that we are speaking of, was a long time ago; and since that long-time ago we have had no reason to believe that the dead man was not essentially a gentleman.

Now, let the printers give respect to the memory of Mr. Thompson. On the oraft he was an old member—bred in it—knowing it well—a little aberrant sometimes; but the good was underlying all the defections of his life.

Our sins all the time whip us. There are few men who have not been whipped by them. Let us pity ourselves, as we can best by repentance. That is the only way to be good.

Last Wednesday in New York the 5 per cent. bonds of Alabama were at 32, and the 5's at the same.

Gold in the same mart oscillated between 14 and 15 per cent. premium, inclining mostly towards the former figures,

We can find no quotations of silver. That seems to have dropped out of the market, and will presently be sold below par, for greenbacks.

This comes of too much of it. The mines are yielding more than there is use for; and it is not improbable that gold will fall into a similar condition.

Then we shall have to resort to diamonds, as a standard of value. But they are not a genius-creating metal. The fields in Africa have reduced their value; and now comes news that away out on the Pacific this valuable gem has been discovered in large quantities. Perhaps the news is what is called bogus—that a company of rogues have confederating to sell worthless lands—with innumerable diamonds lying about loose.

In London, and other large cities, a thing soon finds its extrinsic value. The following, from the London Spectator of the 4th inst., as quoted by the New York World, is interesting "in this connexion:"

"A discussion is commencing in the commercial world upon the fall in the value of silver, which is greatly affecting trade with the East and all persons interested in remittances from Asia. The Secretary of State to India cannot now sell bills much above 1s. 8d. in the rupee, a nominal loss of 4d. in 2s., or 10 per cent., and a real loss of half that amount, or a million and a quarter a year on the remittance, now in round numbers, £15,000,000 a year. The ultimate causes of this decline are the increase in the production of silver and the demonetization of that metal on the Continent, which are steadily sending down the price:

	Per ounce
1872, average price	60 5 16d.
1875, 1st February	54 5/8d.
1876, 1st March	54¾d.

The Cycle of yesterday questions the propriety of using the word "farm" in respect of the terrapin place or Mr. Dorlon. What call it? We are at a loss for a word, that will suit. We know what farm means. It is soil; and we suppose it is to get the most out of. The only difference is that the products are got from the water. Why not call the means by which they are got farmed

We mean not to be fastidious now about words, or their meanings. Some person may go to the penitentiary, if we construe words in the sense in which they are ordinarily used. We choose to enlarge the meaning of the word farm. We intend to make it applicable to the oyster business, and the cultivation of children, and everything else which grows anywhere, either under water, or about it.

Whatever is productive—coming from what we choose to call a farm—whether terrapins, oysters, or the shells which the little children pick up along the shore of the sea—will serve our purpose for the use of the word "farm." Webster, or Worcester, uses it not in this way, but hasn't any freedman a right to use words as he pleases?

The word was rightly used. If not, give us a better one. We need something to express what we called a "farm."

Well, it amounts to not much. Every day one finds some difficulty in the giving of expression to his thoughts; and it is from this that new words are constantly coined, and go, finally, into authoritative dictionaries.

Whether by laud or by water, we stick by the "farm." The lexicographers cannot whip this out of us; we are not like that man who swore the horse was sixteen feet high. We are open to conviction.

The Worship of Success.

Success is everything. King Alfonso and Don Carlos were fighting for the crown of Spain and, while the business was undecided, men who were not obliged to take sides stood aloof. Now that Don Carlos has run away to England, every one is throwing up his hat and bursting his lungs in honor of the king.

This is human nature. The successful man is worshipped. The general who gains a battle without merit is stuck upon a pedestal for men to fall down before. It is quite probable that there is no merit in either of them.

Isn't this true in all forms of society?

Yesterday we met a gentleman, who in the past of Mobile was noted for his kindly courtesy, his liberality and all those qualities which provoke esteem. He was full of all good qualities. But, unfortunately, he fell into poverty, and could not entertain the creatures who had often sat at his well-furnished table. Now, with all his generous and virtuous manhood, he is not of much account among the miscreants whom he had so often fed.

This is an illustration of the present kind of human nature. It is pitiable.

The Spaniards are now illustrating just this very phase, which is not of limitation, but prevails everywhere. Men worship the rising sun as the Persians do, but they give no worship to the setting sun.

And the result is simply this: to get and keep—to steal, if that be essential to the getting: and so stealing, now seems to be reputable.

Let us prey!

The storm of the last two days along the New England coast (says the New York World) has, as the despatches show, been attended with no small detention and damage to vessels, and even with some loss of life. At the same time the despatches tell an eloquent tale of the priceless value of the storm-signal system. Says the operator at Thatcher's Island:

"One hundred and thirteen vessels were in sight yesterday at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, which put to sea when the storm signals were hoisted. There are no vessels in sight now."

Horse stealing is common about Meridian, as we conclude from the Mercury of that city. Hanging is too good for the rascals. But most of them run away mounted.

Winslow, if he goes to the penitentiary, will be the third member of the Massachusetts Legislature there. Ex Senator Pond and ex-Representative Best, are already serving out terms there. It would be hard to tell how many ought to be there.

The business of the railroads for the month of February shows a gratifying increase over that of the corresponding month last year. Returns from seventeen of the principal Western lines show the aggregate receipts to have been $4,408,637 against $3,461,722 during the corresponding season last year—an increase of $946,865. The gross earnings of the same roads for January and February amounted to $7,357,731, against $6,030,064 same time last year—increase $1,327,667 These returns, it is proper to say, do not include any of the great trunk line.

Dr. Newman spoke, in a recent in a recent sermon, of "the sad funeral procession" which followed Abel to the grave. An irreverent woman in the audience nudged her companion and whispered: "Not such a large procession, but very select. None but the first families."

LOCAL NEWS.

Selling off to close business, all of our best calicoes at 7 cents a yard at, retail, and all other dry goods at prices to insure their immediate sale. Store for sale.
F. H. PUTZEL & Co.

If there is any article in the line of groceries, feed for animals and stimulants for feeble humans that Owen Farley at his big store on Government street does not have, he will quit advertising and close up his business. He keeps everything in this line.

The card of Messrs. Hodgson & Lightfoot, attorneys-at-law, 8 South Royal street, in this morning's Tribune, should remind its readers that this firm are safe legal advisers, who will carefully watch the interests of their clients.

Strangers visiting the city and our own citizens who want to buy anything in the line of furnishing goods, should be sure to go to Haten's, southeast corner Dauphin and Royal, who has a large stock at small prices. Go to him to buy an umbrella for a rainy day, or a fancy necktie for the centennial season.

Finest, corner Royal and Dauphin, sells fashionable clothing of durable fabric at the lowest prices. He has a large stock of furnishing goods, embracing everything in that line for men and boys, at the smallest figures.

Frascati, popular under the administration of Martin Horst, will be open today from and after two o'clock, p. m. The Conti street cars will run to Frascati regularly every Sunday. The nicest beverages, choicest edibles, delightful promenades, and cool and shady retreats.

The illuminated sales by Owen Farley every Saturday night of provisions, potatoes and cabbages, rival in amount the sales in the Southern Market, and the prices are admitted to be lower than the market people sell for. Remember, 64, 66, 68, 70 and 72 Government street.

At the clothing and furnishing goods house of Brisk & Jacobson, 56 Dauphin street, the rarest bargains may be secured in the purchase of a full suit of clothing or a single article of furnishing goods. The reputation of this firm stands deservedly high for fair and honest dealing, and their customers are always treated with such considerations that they go back again to get good fits and better bargains.

FEED, FEED, FEED—AGAIN!—IN THE HELD.—J. H. O'Brien has just received a large supply of choice white and black oats; also fresh western and western hay. White and mixed corn in store and landing. Send in your orders. They will receive prompt attention. All goods delivered free of drayage to any portion of the city from J. H. O'Hara's double store, Nos. 32 and 34 South Commerce street.

RIVER NEWS.

In the column of record of the movements of steamboats, hops, which is incomplete without mention of the departure of the Emma No. 2 Friday evening for Tuskaloosa and Northport, with a very respectable cargo.

The D. L. Tally, of Frank Stone's Grange Line, went out last evening for Pickensville, with an especially good freight for the season, and a large number of passengers. Captain Frank Stone did not go out on her, but she went out with the prestige of his popular name.

The Peirless, with Captain Corey Finnegan in command, steamed out of the slip last evening where she has been cosily floating several months, and carried a very fair car load of plantation supplies and machinery and general merchandize for Selma, Montgomery and way landings.

The Atlanta, Captain H. R. Johnson, of Frank Stone's Grange Line, will be in tomorrow morning from Pickensville, and so will the Mary, Captain John Quill, be in from Montgomery.

The Atlanta is advertised to leave for Pickensville next Tuesday, and the Mary will leave the same day for Selma and Montgomery. For freight or passage apply to Spaulding & Foster, agents.

THE WEATHER YESTERDAY.—It was a jolly bright day yesterday, and the ladies enjoyed the promenade on Dauphin street and the fresh goods palaces, and all other people were happy. At 6:54 a. m., the wind blew 16 miles an hour at Savannah, 12 at Key West and 0 at Mobile. The temperature at Mobile was 56, highest 75 at Key West, lowest 44 at Cincinnati.

At 3:54 yesterday afternoon, the wind blew 23 miles an hour at Indianola, 18 at Montgomery and 10 at Mobile. The temperature was at Key West 81, Savannah 79, Augusta 78, Corsicana 72, Galveston, Indianola and New Orleans 70, Mobile 68, Montgomery 80.

At the Mobile Varieties tomorrow evening, first appearance of the new star, Kitty Davenport. Other female artists are expected shortly.

WALKS AROUND TOWN.

The bark Sleipner was cleared for Bremen yesterday by Cleason & Co., with 1642 bales of cotton, weighing 818,298 pounds, valued at $95,000.

The closing cotton quotations of the Board of Trade, yesterday were: Ordinary 9¾; good ordinary 11; low middling 12; middling 13; good middling 13¾.

H. B. Pickel, 49 South Royal, burners manufacturer and dealer, makes the finest harnesses to order and does repairing cheaper than any other house in the city.

"The great Irish mocking bird" placarded on a rude cage in front of the restaurant of Smith & Dumas, bears a very striking resemblance to a sober looking owl.

It will be seen by advertisement elsewhere that Mr. Copley changes his location from Dauphin to St. Francis street, under the Battle House, sometime during the present week.

Go early tomorrow morning and buy your week's supply of groceries, provisions and vegetables of Owen Farley, at his mammoth grocery, 64, 66, 68, 70 and 72 Government street.

Sportsmen seeking bargains in guns, rifles, pistols and fishing tackle, should visit the gun and sporting house of F. L. Gelbke, 14 Dauphin, who is selling off at greatly reduced rates.

Rowland, the unfortunate man, who, tired of life, shot himself with a Smith & Wesson revolver, died at the marine hospital, where he was sent for surgical treatment. He was a native of Norway.

According to the Board of Trade reports, the cotton receipts yesterday at all ports were 10,434 bales: New Orleans 5,037, Norfolk 1,402, Galveston 946, Savannah 583, Mobile 567, Charleston 360.

The Magnolia Jockey Club races for a season of three days, will commence next Wednesday. Read the programme carefully. A boat will run to the new wharf daily, carrying passengers at fifty cents for the round trip.

The noon cotton report of the Board of Trade yesterday was: "Market firm and moderate supply. Sales about 500 bales." Closing report: "Sales today 1000 bales. Market closed quiet and firm. Fair demand, chiefly for better grades."

It is pretty clearly settled that it will be settled weather today and, therefore, a good day to ride down to Frascati in the Conception street cars. Every thing there will be lovely and the goose will not hang high for those who go down there with a little fractional currency in their pocket.

L. E. Brooks will sell tomorrow at half past nine o'clock a. m., furniture, groceries, dry goods, cooking stoves, crockery, tin ware, etc. At eleven o'clock a. m. he will hold an executor's sale of manufacturing stocks, blooded cattle, milch cows, buggies, furniture, oil paintings, etc., estate of W. D. Berrey.

Messrs. A. A. Voss & Co. are doing much to develop the resources of this state. Engaged in the turpentine business, they give employment to great numbers of people in the turpentine regions of Mobile and Baldwin counties. They are also extensive steamers and provision dealers at 36, 38 and 40 South Commerce street, where they sell at low prices.

At the corner of Front, Conti and Commerce streets are the extensive grocery and liquor stores of Martin Horst. He has a fresh stock of groceries and provisions, having only quite recently engaged in that trade. He has had long experience as a dealer in liquors, and is the agent of Kauffgauss's unsurpassed lager beer. He is also agent for the Cincinnati Star Lager Beer Bottling Company.

The hardware house of Ira W. Porter & Co., corner St. Francis and Water, contains everything in the line of imported and domestic hardware for ordinary wants. Builders' hardware a specialty. White pine doors sashes, blinds, wood mouldings, finished slate mantels. General southern agents for the Smith cotton gin, and Blalchley's improved cucumber wood pumps.

It should be the duty of somebody remotely or directly connected with the city government to elevate the paving just inside of the Dauphin and Conception street gate of Bienville square, where it is so worn down that there is a little pond of water, from two to four inches deep, every time there is a rain, just where one has need to step the foot. Men can jump it, but ladies don't like to do so.

PLANTING POTATOES.—Peerless, early rose, peach blow, Chili, Red and russets in store and for sale low by Owen Farley, 64, 66, 68, 70 and 72 Government street.

CIRCUIT COURT.—In this court, tomorrow, Judge Toulmin presiding, the cases already announced but not yet reached, will be the first to come up for trial.

The services at Palmetto Street Baptist Church will be continued during this week. Preaching every night at 7½ o'clock. All are cordially invited to attend.

In the barroom of P. Arata, on Commerce street, yesterday afternoon, a difficulty occurred among some colored men, one of whom was cut with a pocket knife. The parties implicated were promptly arrested.

The Tom Thumb matinee yesterday was a perfect jam, and there was a very good house at the theatre last night. The performances of these little people here have been a success pecuniarily and otherwise.

One of the lauinmerks of the city is Gliddon's blacksmith shop, especially conspicuous during political campaigns, but more famous as the place where general blacksmith's work is done with remarkable promptness and great fidelity and where the highest perfection is reached in horse shoeing.

At the time of writing this paragraph, the prospects are that the last Sunday in March will be the nicest day of the month. If so, multitudes will flock to Frascati to enjoy the hospitalities which Martin Horst, the proprietor, will prepare for them. Conception street cars will commence running at two o'clock, p. m.

One of the boys arrested at St. Louis with over $4,000 money stolen by him in New Orleans, belongs in Mobile. His name is James G. Little. He has worked for Mobile papers as carrier, folder, roller boy and pressman, yet he never had quite such a fat take here as he got in New Orleans. But he is "took" now and his newspaper career is ended for the present.

The popular, fleet and comfortable steamer Annie, Captain H. C. Baldwin, will make a notable excursion trip to Point Clear today, leaving the foot of Dauphin street at nine o'clock a. m., sharp. As she will touch the Dauphin street wharf on her return at half past two o'clock, p. m., passengers can enjoy a trip to Point Clear and have nearly all the afternoon at home.

The advertisement of Mr. Jno. R. Lassabe, corner St. Michael and Commerce streets, announcing large receipts of flour and provisions, should attract the special attention of city and country retail dealers. Mr. Lassabe receives goods so frequently that his stock is always fresh, and his prices are down to the current rates, sometimes, perhaps, a little below. He makes two specialties—1st, of provisions, 2nd, of flour. Retailers should remember this.

We congratulate our friends, Messrs. Ober, Anderson & Co., upon having secured the services of so competent and valuable a salesman as they have, in the person of Mr. Jasper J. Bozer, who was for many years connected with the late firm of B. A. Weems & Co. His long experience in the business, his obliging manners and sterling integrity of character cannot fail to give additional popularity to the widely known and highly esteemed firm with whom he is now connected, and his many business friends, appreciating the pleasant as well as profitable transactions they have had with him in the past, will not fail to hand him up in his new quarters.

There was much rain Friday. So above. The rivers were rising, and there was a belief that they would get out of their banks and overflow the lowlands. That is not much, except as it may increase the labor by replanting. Perhaps, that will bring its profits, for where the weather has taken its set, it is likely to stay there, and then the growth is rapid and safe.

The recent cold nipped some of tender vegetables about Mobile, and some not wise persons—amateur gardeners—pulled up the plants. A very foolish thing to do, for there was vitality enough in them to give them a vigorous life.

THE CITY AUDITOR.

The ways and means committee under the city administration of 1868 wanted a clerk. They devised a method of obtaining one by procuring the adoption of a report recommending the creation of the office of city auditor, defining the duties of the office, and selecting Mr. F. L. Owen for that position. It was provided in a part of one paragraph:

He shall make himself acquainted with all the details appertaining to the several departments of the government, in order to give exact information thereof to the mayor and to the boards of aldermen and common council, or to the joint committees of the same, when called upon by them, and more particularly to work under the direction of the committee of ways and means.

The entire report of the ways and means committee, made February 5, 1868, defining the duties of city auditor or comptroller, was published in the Tribune last Sunday. Its reproduction at this time is unnecessary.

Mr. Owen was selected by the ways and means committee because of his familiarity with financial matters and because it was believed the business public would have full confidence in his representations.

To show more clearly that the city auditor worked under the direction of the ways and means committee, it may be mentioned that Mr. Owen's annual statement of the receipts and disbursements of the city of Mobile for the year ending the 31st of December, 1869, was respectfully submitted to the committee of ways and means.

In 1870, an ambitious carpet bagger named Clark wanted to be city auditor. The republicans in the city administration would not consent to the displacement of Mr. Owen to make way for Clark. The latter and his friends promising that the republicans could carry the city election, procured the passage of an act by the general assembly providing for an election of municipal officers of the city of Mobile by the people, the city auditor being included among them.

Toward the close of the year 1870, under that election law, Martin Horst was elected mayor and W. T. Jennings was elected auditor, the latter running against the ambitious Clark. Mr. Owen went out and Mr. Jennings entered upon the duties of city auditor on the first day of January, 1871, to which office he was elected by a majority of 1871 votes over his competitor.

The report of Mr. Jennings, dated January 2, 1872, submitting reports of the financial operations of the city for the year 1871, and its fiscal condition at the time it was written, was addressed "To the joint committee of ways and means," which shows that he also knew under whose direction he was working.

Neither in city or state legislation is there a word, a line, a sentence or a paragraph defining the duties of the city auditor of Mobile. His whole duties are defined in the memorable report of the ways and means committee, February 5, 1868. The election of auditor by the people gives him no other powers than he possessed under the report to which reference has been made. And all attempts to establish anything to the contrary are founded on delusive ideas. The auditor is a clerk of the ways and means committee and he cannot elevate his office to a higher position, let him strive he may. He makes a good clerk.

BY STEAMBOAT TO THE RACES.—Captain Frank Stone having won an enviable reputation by the creation of a Grange Line of steamboats to do the bulk of the transportation on the Bigbee and Warrior rivers, persuading parties to send their cotton to Mobile who sent it to other points last year, has now turned his attention to a participation in the Magnolia Jockey Club races.

He will command the Victoria in her trips next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, leaving the Dauphin street wharf at half past one p. m. for the new wharf built expressly for the accommodation of visitors to the Magnolia race course. The Victoria will run specially for the fraternities of the ladies of Mobile who prefer that method of reaching the race course.

Tickets for the round trip fifty cents, for sale at Woodstock's saloon, Soto & Primo's drug store, and the office of Spaulding & Foster, steamboat agents.

Mr. S. P. Gray, the popular steamboat clerk, will administer the affairs of the office on the Victoria, and the captain and clerk will both do their level best to make all the passengers happy on these little excursions.

SUNDAY,.....MARCH 26

The Birth of St. Patrick.

BY SAMUEL LOVER.

On the eighth day of March it was, some people say,
That SAINT PATRICK at midnight he first saw the day;
While others declare 'twas the ninth he was born,
And 'twas all a mistake between midnight and morn;
For mistakes will occur in a hurry and shock,
And some blame the baby—and some blame the clock
That said it was time to be waking, when sleep was so sweet;
Till with all their cross-questions sure no one could know,
If the child was too fast—or the clock was too slow.

Now, the first faction fight in ould Ireland they say,
Was all on account of St. Patrick's birthday;
Some fought for the eighth—for the ninth more would die,
And who wouldn't see fights sure they blackened his eye!
At last both the factions as positive grew,
That each kept a birthday, so Pat then had two,
Till Father Mulcahy, who shows them their sins,
Said, "No one can have two birthdays but twins."

Says he, "Boys, don't be fightin' for eight or for nine,
Don't be always dividin'—but sometimes combine;
Combine eight with nine, and seventeen is the mark,
So let that be his birthday." "Amen," says the clerk.
"If he wasn't TWINS, sure our history will show—
That, at least, he's worth any two saints that we know!"
Then they all got blind drunk—which completed their bliss,
And we keep up the practice from that day to this.

A writer in the New York Times furnishes the following statistics of the wealth of the several religious denominations in the United States:

Methodist	$69,854,121.
Roman Catholic	60,985,556.
Presbyterian	53,265,256.
Baptist	41,608,198.
Episcopal	36,514,548.

There was a good deal of weather yesterday. There was also much thunder and lightning, and the good citizens had wet coats and feet, and, perhaps there will be sickness as a result. The wind was from more than one quarter, but it is an ill-wind that blows no one good. The doctors, probably, will get some benefit from this one; that is in practice, skill and labor. Nobody pays them, in greenbacks, but everyone is anxious to gratitude. That would be an admirable exchange, if it would satisfy the butcher or the baker.

The democratic convention of Pennsylvania, held at Lancaster last week, passed some admirable resolutions. They are full of all kinds of excellent sentiments—are strong in their opposition to all kinds of frauds by the officers of the government, &c. They say what is true enough, that this government is getting to be a "personal" government—which, we suppose, means that it is for the benefit, and nothing else, of the persons who control it.

The New York Republican convention was just as virtuous as that of Pennsylvania. It passed resolutions—full of sound sense—good to every person who wants to be well-governed.

But comes in here what men are beginning to know. That is, to put no belief in any party resolutions.

We are sorry that this is so, but it is true.

We understand the schemes and necessities of the parties. The sentiments are notorious to the general desire as to see them put into some form which shall relieve us of the belief that there are not more thieves than are working in the penitentiaries.

It is terrible to an honest man to read of the accounts of the wrongs that have been, and are now doing, to probity.

Perhaps, there is some ultimate compensation for this. It may be a long way off—too far to be of much use to us miserable sinners.

The N. O. Republican of Sunday has a long communication from Gen. Longstreet. Gen. Early has been criticising the strategy of the battle of Gettysburg, in which much censure has been put on the former. There is solmputation of lack of manhood, but, as we infer, only that of military skill on the part of Gen Longstreet.

For our own part we believe that there was no Confederate officer who lacked courage. As for military skill is concerned, they must fight it out as long themselves. We cannot tell the difference of a cannon that can throw a hundred pound shot four or five miles from one of the toys which are called pistols, and yet these latter are troublesome when they get within point-blank range.

We can hardly find any estimable reason for the numerous sharp criticisms of the officers of the late confederacy. That thing is dead. Brave men fought and died for it. Let it remain in its grave—a "demition dead body."

Somehow, it seems that Gen. Longstreet, after the war, chose to become a Republican in his political opinions, and he got a suspicious office from his party.

We shall not blame him for this, for he had a right to get it. If he have stole anything by means of his office, condemnation ought to follow.

That he was a brave and skilful soldier is not to be denied. The whole progress of the war showed this.

Well, let him have his political opinions, and get an honest subsistance in any way that he may chose to get it.

Soldiers of conspicuousness, it seems to us, are very much like the members of a grand opera troupe. There are small jealousies among them which create dissension, and make harmony inharmonious.

The civilian—having no knowledge of the technicalities of armies—is puzzled by this. Gen. Early and Gen. Longstreet may exhaust all printing paper in their discussions, and it is quite probable that the unlearned man will be just as wise as he was before.

The great soldiers of the past had no jealousies of this kind. Lee assumed the responsibility of what errors were made at Gettysburg. Stonewall Jackson would have assumed them, if he had been there and made them. In the revolution, Gen Washington never excused himself for any errors that might have been made. The lower officers often fell into dissensions; but they were interiors, although often skilful.

There is a great show to be made of it in Philadelphia.

Perhaps, the best show that it could make would be an honest office-holder, or a man who doesn't want an office.

This may seem seem to be a strange proposition for the exhibition.

In Washington, there is apparent a great desire to find an honest man.

Both parties are trying to find him. Perhaps he is not to be found there. A needle dropped in a hay stack is difficult to find.

If one desired to show that "in Adam's fall, we sinned all," there would be no better place than Washington to find the proof. It there goes about the streets wide open, and its hands, also, begging for alms, and stealing it, if there be no other way of getting it.

This year there is a president to be elected. There are two parties engaged in the business—and that business is only to see how much the one can overreach the other. This is all of it. There are valuable offices to be filled by the successful party, and these places—under the distresses of the times—are considerated. We should like to have one for our own uses.

Now see what it is proper for every good citizen to do. It is simple, if prejudice or greed shall be kept out of the way.

Here comes in this trouble: there is not an active partisan that does not expect something for it.

Two failures! The Mobile part of the house and Tom Thumb. It will, however, be a good while before either comes back to us.

The West Alabamian, published at Carrollton, (Ala.), says that the weather there last Sunday week was the coldest known since 1843.

The mayor of Milton (Florida) has issued a proclamation which puts off communication with Pensacola, where there is much small-pox.

We learn from the Pensacola Gazette that the Pensacola and Louisville Railroad has been sold again. This time, a gentleman named D. F. Sullivan, has bought it. It is thought that it will stick this time.

From almost every point of the compass comes news of snow and rain. Even some of the dykes of Holland have given way under the pressure of the water. Much distress is the result of all these calamities. Here in this section, so far, we have escaped them.

There was a destructive fire at Fernandina (Florida) last Friday. One account says that the loss was $150,000; another says that it was $50,000. The insurance companies, we suppose, will be able to strike an equilibrium between the two reports. They usually have that to do in affairs of this kind.

The emperor of Brazil will be in N. York city next month. It is said that he desires to travel without ceronemy; but Mr. A. T. Stewart has bespoken him and his wife, a grand entertainment. He can afford it, al though he thinks—poor man!—that it will bring him custom from Rio Janeiro.

The papers on the coast between here and New Orleans are full of news in regard to the storm of last Sunday. It blowed "great guns," but not much harm was done. Schooners and other water craf were driven from their moorings and started adrift—people were scared by the velocity of the wind, and all that, but nothing of great damage same of it.

TELEGRAPH.

DOMESTIC.

WORCESTER, Mass, March 27.—The damages from the flood will reach $100,000. In this vicinity six dams were washed away, and three stone arch bridges in this city were totally destroyed.

The damage to eastern Connecticut will reach several thousand dollars; seven lives were lost.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 26.—The flood on the Blackstone is causing great damage. At Woonsocket the mills and houses in some cases are partly submerged. On Clear river, at Burrillville, a general sweep of dams is causing damage. Heavy rains cause the swollen streams throughout the State. The Journal has a dispatch from Danielsville stating that the Quinebaugh Company's old mill is undermined and will probably be carried away.

NORWICH, Conn., March 26.—Twenty-five feet of the north end of the Baltic mill and 150 feet of the east end of the east bulkhead of the dam were washed away with 200 bales of cotton. The land washing down the canal filled it up and turned the current, thus saving the mill. The water covered the lower village, but did no great damage besides destroying the bridge. Four persons were lost while crossing the pond this evening. The damage at the mill will delay operations for three months or more.

SAYVILLE, L. I., March 27.—The steamer Great Western is badly stranded here, and will probably go to pieces.

NEW YORK, March 27.—The British steamer Great Western went ashore on a sand bar, off Astoria, L. I., about 7 o'clock Saturday night, when the storm raged heavily and a dense fog prevailed. She was from the Mediterranean for this port with a miscellaneous cargo, commanded by Capt. Wyndham, and sailed from Messina, February 26th via Palermo. The officers and crew, to the number of thirty souls, all saved. Wrecking vessels have gone to her.

A dispatch from Babylon, Long Island states that a large bark, name unknown, went ashore on the sands about ten miles below Fire Island light. No lives appear to have been lost, and there is some probability of the vessel being saved.

The schooner J. C. Thompson, laden with coal, was reported last evening as breaking up off West Hampton, Long Island Sound.

Accounts from all points in this vicinity report more or less damage by the storm.

WASHINGTON, March 27—There are $13,000,000 currency surplus in the Geneva award after paying all claims.

Dr. Lippincott, the husband of Grace Greenwood, has left his place in the land office for questionable transactions in connection with a $240,000 claim.

Treasurer New will be equally satisfied with Mr. Wyman, the present assistant treasurer, or Gilfillan, cashier, as his successor.

England delays the extradition of Winslow, the Boston forger, on technical grounds.

The Pacific Railroad Committee of the senate discussed the Southern Pacific road, and without action postponed the subject for two weeks.

FOREIGN.

ROME, March 27.—At the consecration of the Church of St. Paul, Bishop Littlejohn delivered a long address. Twenty-five English, Scotch, and Irish clergymen took part in the ceremony, the bishops of Peterborough, Gibraltar, and others, as well as Lord Plunkett and Rev. Messrs. Brooke.

RIO JANEIRO, March 26.—During the past fortnight, 536 yellow fever deaths have been reported.

The Emperor visited the theatre last night and was enthusiastically greeted en route there and on his return to the city thismorning. The steamer Hevillius is the centre of observation as she lies in the harbor decked with bunting. The Hevillius has been fitted out especially for the accommodation of the Emperor and Empress, who embarked today at 8 o'clock amid great popular demonstrations of attachment and loyalty. The shipping in the harbor was gaily decorated. Accompanying their majesties on board were the Princess Imperial and her husband, the Count d'Eu, and as the steamer moved from her moorings salutes were fired and cheer upon cheer given. In steaming out of the harbor the Hevillius ran into a transport of the Brazilian navy, badly damaging her; the H. rillius was not hurt and no lives were lost. The Emperor and Empress displayed great coolness and courage. They were both standing on the side, and after the collision the terrified passengers rushed aft to avoid being, as they feared, crushed to death, and in doing so jammed the Empress against the door of the cabin. From this unpleasant position a correspondent of a New York journal had the good fortune to extricate Her Majesty.

LOCAL NEWS.

PLANTING POTATOES.—Peerless, early rose, peach blow, Chili, Red and russets in store and for sale low by Owen Farley, 64, 66, 68, 70 and 72 Government street.

MAYOR'S COURT.—In this court yester day, Mayor Hurtel presiding, Abram Stewart, colored, who got crazy drunk Saturday afternoon, promenaded Front street and drew a knife on the arm of every white man's color, was fined $10. Lucien Billy, down and so drunk that he had to be carried to the guardhouse in a head cart, was discharged on his promise to leave the city and stay away two months. John Ball, colored, drunk and noisy, was fined $5. Pat Terrell, drunk and disorderly, was fined $5.

JESSIE LITTLE'S BIG GRAB.—Jimmy Little and William O'Meallie, who absconded from New Orleans some time since with $1100 stolen money, have been brought back to the Crescent City by Special Officer Pearson. Little, when questioned in his cell by a Picayune reporter, at first denied anything about the robbery, but afterwards acknowledged that on the evening of the 16th inst, while at supper at Mrs. Maddox's house, at the corner of Gaiseus and Constance streets, where he lived, he saw Mrs. M. go to the bureau in her room and take money from the drawer. He concluded that he was also entitled to some of the greenbacks, and slipping into the room, made a grab in the draw and ran off, not knowing how much of the money he had taken.

Special Officer Pearson brought back $3,400 of the $4,100 which had been stolen, $319 having been retained by the chief of police of St. Louis to defray the expenses of the accused. The travel ing expenses, besides what had been spent by the youths, left the balance of $3400, which the officer turned over to his superiors.

O'Meallie states that on the night of the 15th inst., he was in the act of going out of his father's residence, on the corner of Gaiseuse and Magazine streets, when he met Little, who asked him to go with him.

As he walked very fast O'Meallie asked him what was the matter, and he answered that he had some money, and wanted to go to the levee.

After leaving the keno room they walked about town all night, and embarked in the morning train for St. Louis, at which point they were arrested by the police a few hours after their arrival. Last Little rooted all expenses, but never got him a nickel.

RUNNING THE CITY SCRIP.—There is in the city treasury now $15,000 of the city scrip of 1875, and $150 of the city scrip of 1873. Besides that there is some $13,000 of the scrip of 1873, the issue of which is only to take the place of the city scrip of 1873, when that may happen to come in, if it ever does.

The right course and the only proper course for the city to pursue is to retire the city scrip of 1875 as fast as it comes in, either by burning or hermetically sealing it, as collateral for borrowing money. If the municipal boards will adopt a resolution prohibiting the payment of any more city scrip in defrayal of the current expenses of the city, it will not be long before greenbacks will find their way into the city treasury. But if the foolish policy prevails of paying it out every month for city expenses, tax payers will get hold of it as a discount, and back it will go into the treasury, to the utter exclusion of greenbacks.

The first efforts of the city authorities should be to so effectually retire the city scrip that it cannot get back into the treasury again. As to the payment of the current expenses of the city, about $17,000 a month, that can be provided for in some manner without the use of city scrip. But it would be better that city employes go unpaid three months than to perpetuate the scrip of 1875 as the only circulating medium known to the city treasury.

As the scheme now operates, unbroken packages of city scrip, bearing the figures made by the city treasurer of the amount in those packages, paid out for current expenses, are used to pay taxes with, and those unbroken packages are forced on the treasurer when money is forced over to him by the tax collector.

It requires only a little backbone to adopt the plan suggested in these columns of resolving to pay out no more of this city scrip, and it is hoped that the little backbone will support the boards at their next meeting, in the adoption of this salutary measure.

A gang of men were last week clearing out the well at the corner of Franklin and Madison streets, which once produced the purest water in the city. It had become unfit to drink and hence the work on it.

WALKS AROUND TOWN.

The bark Mondego, from Port Antonio, Jamaica, brought 350 bunches of bananas.

A heap of rain fell yesterday afternoon, but how much the reporter does not undertake to state except from the record of the signal observer.

Rev. Father Ryan is prostrated with an attack of congestion of the brain, at the Providence Infirmary. He is carefully attended by Sisters of Charity.

The cotton receipts at Mobile since September first have been 344,992 bales, again 4 207,424 bales during the corresponding period the preceding year—an increase of 37,568 bales.

The closing cotton quotations of the Board of Trade, yesterday were: Ordinary 9½; good ordinary 11; low middling 12; middling 13; good middling 13¼@13¾.

According to the Board of Trade reports, the cotton receipts yesterday at all ports were 13,702 bales: New Orleans 8,589, Norfolk 1,250, Galveston 1,292 Savannah 434, Mobile 980, Charleston 107.

Four men have commenced the work of repairing the fire cistern at King's pump. The citizens living in that locality are gratified at the promptness with which the work has been commenced and express the hope that it will be quickly finished.

The lower portion of Eslava street, where the loose rocks obstruct the drainage was "a sight to behold" during the hard shower last evening. The water covered the street and sidewalks, from fence to fence and it was utterly impassable for pedestrians.

The verdict in the circuit court yesterday against Jno. H. Stone and others, charged as common carriers for the value of certain goods mentioned in the report, surprised steamboatmen, some of whom declare that if verdicts of this nature are rendered steamboats may as well tie up.

The death of Albert Fabre, a journalist, is announced at New Orleans. A native of St. James parish, Louisiana, he was educated at Spring Hill College, and afterwards attended the courses of the university of France. He died almost in destitution.

Passing up Dauphin street, yesterday, opposite Phelan & Dolamere's dry goods store, the reporter heard one colored girl of a crowd of them remark: "Them flosh colored stockings over there are pooty." They were pooty, but then many were not black like the girl who praised them.

The noon cotton report of the Board of Trade yesterday was: "Market weak at Saturday's quotations. Moderate demand, with sellers disposed to meet buyers. Sales only 500 bales." Closing report: "Sales today 1000 bales. Market closed quiet and easy at quotations. Moderate demand.

Messrs. A. C. Danner & Co. are loading here the following vessels with lumber and timber: British ship Bonnie Dundee, 1026 tons, for Liverpool; Italian bark Amy for the Mediterranean; Austrian bark Guiseppe J., for Spain or Portugal; brig Marie for Germany. The latter is loading at Ladd's mill, being the first vessel loaded there.

Manager James Flynne who has been running an establishment in New Orleans similar to the Varieties at Mobile, will open the St. Charles Theatre in the former city on the third of April with a large combination company from New York, who will appear in variety sketches and dramas. The intention is to make the St. Charles one of the most fashionable theaters in New Orleans.

The British ship Magdala, from Liverpool for Mobile, chartered by A. C. Danner & Co. to carry a cargo of lumber, is a total loss. Danner & Co. had just received a cable telegram from the owners, who expressed some apprehensions for her safety, when they received a dispatch from New Orleans yesterday briefly announcing that the Magdala is a total loss, and that the captain had arrived in that city.

FOR THE RACES BY STEAMBOAT.—It was no thoughtful in Captain Frank Stone to arrange for running the Victoria from the Dauphin street wharf to the new wharf near the Magnolia race course at half past one o'clock every day of the races, that the public will warmly commend and liberally patronize him. The Victoria looks new inside and out, having been thoroughly overhauled since she has been resting from the river trade. Captain Stone will do everything to make the trip agreeable to the ladies and gentlemen each day, and the clerk of the boat, Mr. S. P. Gray, will lend all his efforts to the same end. It is expected that the Victoria will carry hundreds of passengers each day, the fare for the round trip being only fifty cents. Tickets may be had at Woodcock's saloon, at Soto & Primo's drug store and at the office of Spaulding & Foster, steamboat agents.

RIVER NEWS.

The reliable steamer Mary, never behind time; was ahead of time on her arrival this trip and got in about half past eleven o'clock Sunday night, with a pretty good number of passengers. Her freight of cotton was light, being only 154 bales, and her list of sundries, which included 15 sacks of cotton seed; was rather short.

The Atlanta from McLaren's Landing, arrived at a later hour with 163 bales of cotton, a short list of sundries,—and 26 passengers.

No boats are due today.

The elegant steamer Mary, now the finest boat that is running on the waters of the Alabama, with Captain John Quill on the roof and Mr. Jimmy Quill in the office, will cast off her lines for Selma and Montgomery at five o'clock this evening. Business is just now rather dull and Captain Quill does not expect a very big trip of up freight, but he will get all there is to be sent by river and will carry a lot of passengers, who like to travel on this favorite boat. Spaulding & Foster agents.

The Atlanta, of Frank Stone's Grange Line, with Captain Ham E. Johnston as master, is announced to leave for Pickensville this evening at five o'clock. The state rooms of the Atlanta are models of comfort her saloon is all that any man's fancy can paint it, and her freight capacity is immense. The popularity of Captain Johnston and his clerk ensures to the Atlanta good freights and lots of passengers all the time. Spaulding & Foster agents.

EXPERIMENTAL FIRE ALARMS.—The Louisville exonomists received some attention from New Orleans officials; but the most from Chief Engineer Tom O'Connor, who at a quarter past three o'clock Saturday afternoon, sounded an alarm of fire from box 151, followed by a repeated and general alarm for the purpose of calling out the entire fire department to show the chief engineer of Louisville and Mobile the activity of the New Orleans fire department.

Several accidents occurred to fire engines in their hurry to get to the scene of action. The third district Babcock engine broke down and one of its hind wheels was smashed to pieces. Mechanics steam fire engine No. 6 collided with one of the Magazine street cars, breaking off the door steps of the car. While the hose carriage of Fire Company No. 24 was rolling to the alarm, the horse slipped on the iron crossing at the corner of Canal and Bourbon streets, causing the iron shaft to run into the horse's, foreleg. The horse was so badly injured, that it is thought it will not be able to do any more service.

It is hoped that a similar experiment to show the chief engineer of Mobile the activity of the New Orleans fire department, will not be attended with similar disastrous results.

THE WEATHER YESTERDAY.—There were some indications of a rain yesterday morning, but not enough to warrant the substitution of an umbrella for a walking stick. But between three and four o'clock the rain began to come down in earnest and fell in heavy showers, accompanied with a tempest, the heaviest thunder and sharpest lightning of the season, till after seven o'clock. Streets were deluged in various sections of the city and street crossings puzzled pedestrians here and there and everywhere.

At 6:31 in the morning, the wind blew 16 miles an hour at Corsicana and 8 at Mobile. The temperature at Mobile was 56, highest 75 at Key West, lowest 46 at Augusta.

At 3:51 p. m. the wind blew 25 miles an hour at Corsicana, 20 at New Orleans, 15 at Galveston and Indianola and 10 at Mobile. The thermometer was at Key West 82, Indianola 78, Galveston 75, Augusta 69, Montgomery, New Orleans and Savannah 66, Corsicana 65.

CIRCUIT COURT.—In this court yesterday, Judge Toulmin presiding, the only case tried was that of H. A. Rice vs John H. Stone, Simon P. Gray and Sidney G. Coleman, claiming $250 damages for the failure to deliver a box of clothing, received by defendants at common carrier, at Gowen's landing on the Tombigbee river, shipped on the steamboat Clara, in 1874 or previous. Verdict in favor of plaintiff for the amount of $184. Today, cases already set for trial and not disposed of, will come up.

Tickets for the round trip of the Victoria, Captain Frank Stone, which will leave the Dauphin street wharf at half past one p. m., Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, for the new wharf near the Magnolia race course, may be had at Woodcock's saloon, Soto & Primo's drug store and at the office of Spaulding & Foster. Fifty cents only.

Shipments of cabbages and sweet potatoes by the car load were made yesterday to Nashville and St. Louis by our produce shipping houses. They sent off some of these last week.

AT FRASCATI, LAST SUNDAY.—The day was beautiful and the Bay Shore Rail road Company run a limited number of cars to that delightful retreat, Frascati, commencing at two o'clock. Everybody went who wanted to go, but the cars were more crowded than they would have been had the railroad management supposed so many people would ride out there that day. Ample arrangements were made by Martin Horst, the proprietor of Frascati, for the accommodation of the guests of the day and the occasion, and there was a great deal of enjoyment on the grounds. Next Sunday base ball clubs will go out there and establish a park.

NEW ORLEANS RACES.—In a notice of the coming races of the Louisiana Jockey Club, the New Orleans Picayune has something to say about one of our Mobile citizens, who contributes to the interest of races all over the country:

Capt. Cottrill has nominated his flying filly Ascension for this race, but it is extremely doubtful about her starting, as she is heavily engaged at the North, and it might impair her summer chances were she to run here. At least so we understand the Captain thinks, and as he has had considerable experience in campaigning, his opinion is worth something.

M. Forcheimer, 21 and 23 North Commerce street, wholesale grocer and dealer in western produce, is agent for the Cape Girardeau Union Mill Company flour. He is one of the largest dealers in the city, and has an extensive line of trade among city and country dealers.

At the Industrial Gardens on Lafayette street, between the Shell road and Dauphin way, may be found most beautiful flowers, which are included in a large and varied assortment of greenhouse plants. Celery and other vegetables, etc. Eggs from fancy poultry.

Terrapin Farm.

Allow me to congratulate you, Mr. Editor, on your very excellent remarks anent the proper signification of the word farm, in answer to the query of the Cycle. The latter seems not the recoguise the fact that conservatism is applicable only to such as are dead and crystalized—the Latin for example. Living ones, like the English, necessarily obey the law of change and progress. Johnson gives as one meaning of farm "to take on lease, at a certain rate, whether land or anything else that by care or collection yields an income." Webster and Worcester both give definitions of farming fully sustaining the Tribune's use of it. But allow me to inform the Cycle, that the terrapin farm of my esteemed friend, Mr. Dorlon is a farm, even in a very restricted signification of the word. It consists of a tract of high shell marsh, on part of which he has cultivated cabbage, lettuce, onions and perhaps other vegetables. This tract is ditched, fenced in and supplied with canals for irrigation; so it possesses every requisite to constitute it a farm. I would say further to the Cycle, that Mr. Dorlon farms large tracts of water in East and West Heron bays, plants them with oysters raked from the reefs and which he ships to Mobile in boats to be reshipped by rail to other cities. Such is the English language, whatever it was in days of old.

By the by, wonder if the Register has yet found out that the fig is precarious at Citronelle! Persons having a fondness for linguistic hair-splitting should keep well posted in the meaning of words, and it may be added that the hasty denial of facts is often injudicious.

The Daily Tribune.

TUESDAY,.....MARCH 28.

The Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer has given a dramatic description of Lamar. His attention was attracted to a "deep bass, melodious voice roll out in full volume above the din and uproar." He looked around for the speaker, and saw "a man with long beard and black hair lying back in his chair." This was the celebrated Mississippian, who, says the Western journalist, "had a voice like a pennyroyal bull, and yet he was too feeble to stand and address the House," and the correspondent "was amused at the style of the man," and puts on record his contempt of "the evidence of sublime conceit that cropped out in every movement and word." This is very graphic and makes interesting reading, but there are a few trifling inaccuracies in it. Lamar's voice isn't deep, it isn't bass, it isn't melodious, and it doesn't roll out in volumes. His hair isn't black and his beard isn't long, and he doesn't lie back in his chair to address the House, but stands up, and whatever self-conceit he may have he contrives to let less of it get to the surface and find expression in his movement than any man in Congress. These are small matters, to be sure, and the best of imaginations will make mistakes at times.—N. Y. World.

The following is from the Evergreen Star:

"On Tuesday morning last the dead body of an unknown man was found lying near the track of the Mobile and Montgomery railroad, about three miles below Georgiana, near Panther creek trestle. He had evidently been killed by the train the night before, having a large gash in the back of the head, and his clothing and other articles being scattered on the track. The name of Z. T. and M. Z. Davis was found on some of the articles."

WEDNESDAY.....MARCH 29.

The great swimmer, Boyton, has gone to Europe. He has gone on a steamship, not in his swimming gear.

A bill proposed to Congress for a re-organization of the army provides for an abolishment of the negro regiments.

New rascalities have been discovered in the New York Custom House. This is special news to the Picayune. The peculiar characteristic of them is not stated.

It is declared that there is no credit in Paris for gas. What a story! It may not be there of credit, but we give credit for it all about this country. That is, French gas.

The play of Julius Cæsar, at Booth's Theatre, New York, has been repeated one hundred times in succession. It is on the stage, with much scenic effect, and first-rate actors.

There is no doubt that the recent cold spell had a great deal of harm to the tender vegetables which ambitious gardeners wanted to get first into market. This is true especially of those a few degrees north of Mobile. There is a consolation, however. They can replant, and the result, no doubt, will be larger crops and better products.

There is much sympathy expressed for the failure of Daniel Drew—a man of great wealth at one time, and now getting near the time when he shall have to render up a final account. He is between seventy and eighty years of age, and much money is not what is necessary for him.

It is strange that few men get rich, until they have passed beyond the time of its enjoyment.

Mr. Editor:—I'll bet you or any other person a nickel segar that you or any other man can't name the next President. I have been studying how to find the man. I have use for him. In short, I am on the fence, waiting to see how the cat jumps.

QUIZ.

We refuse the bet. But we are certain that he will be a man, and not a woman. A bet of this kind we are ready to take for two nickel segars. "Plank up your money!"

The papers use what is apropos of our weather—a line that has been pretty well worn, but they will not quote it aright. "Winter lingering in the lap of spring," is the way the Register had it yesterday. The proper way is as follows: "Winter, lingering, chills the lap of Spring." The northern rascal is now staying among us, after having entirely worn out his welcome. He is good enough in his place—that is outside of a well-furnished table at Christmas—but not here in any man's house at the lower end of March.

The history of that rogue, Sheridan, who was arrested the other day in New York, will be found this morning on an outside page. Other accounts say that his forgeries alone amount to $21,500,000, in the shape of bonds. This is doing it in a heroic style. But his career, we imagine, is now near a close; although, like Tweed, he may be able to get off and hide himself. There is a difference, however. The former had some money at command. He had also a great many friendly thieves, who might be in a penitentiary, serving their country, if he were caught and would "squeal."

The New Revenue Law.

There is among some of the interior papers of the state a great deal of discontent expressed with that clause of the new revenue law which imposes a license tax on what are called "sidewalkers"—men who come from remote cities to sell by "sample" that is, exhibit specimens of their goods, and get orders for the purchasing of them.

The Nashville American has put this objection in about as profitable a form as it is capable of. As follows. Where the asterisks are, we omit a part of it.

"Two days before the adjournment of the Alabama Legislature, the revenue bill, containing a clause forcing drummers to pay $50 State and $25 county taxes, was passed, and signed by Gov. Houston. Although the Governor did not like the clause, he could not well veto the revenue bill.

* * * * * * * * * * * * The tax is simply an outrage upon all the merchants of other States who send drummers into Alabama.

It now costs Nashville merchants thousands upon thousands of dollars every year to keep up the drummer system. Through them the country merchants are enabled to purchase goods at low prices, without having to draw so much upon their purses for traveling and hotel expenses. As the merchants are benefited, so are the producers. If a drummer travels through forty counties in Alabama, the railroads derive a neat sum for his fare, the hotels for board, and the livery stable keepers for hire of vehicles. Should the law be enforced, it will cut off a very large trade from Nashville. Our merchants will be forced to discharge their drummers, who will thus be knocked out of good situations. Alabama business men will have to come to Nashville and buy their goods, and of course sell them at higher prices than usual, in order to make up the amount of expenses incurred. We are informed that New Orleans merchants will send a representative to Alabama with instructions to violate the law. Should he be arrested and imprisoned, the law will be tested. The Nashville merchants ought to follow the same plan in North Alabama—say at Athens, or Huntsville."

What are these "drummers?" The question is very easily answered. They are the "branches" of houses of men doing business in foreign states. That is all of it, and the answer in this respect is complete.

No man is now able to carry on business in Alabama without paying a tax for the privilege, but these people, as expressed in the above extract, desire to have a privilege which is not given, under the new law, to our own citizens.

We should prefer that there should be no tax on any man's business; but our legislators—under the stress of enormous debt—making taxation almost intolerable—found it necessary to put burdens on us; and, unless we throw off the debt, we shall have to bear them. Repudiation or endurance! We must choose between them.

Here is a paper in Nashville, prompted, no doubt, by business houses, which send their drummers running all about the country. They spend something in their progress—eat and sleep, as of course men must do. They hire horses, and pay livery stables, and all other kinds of persons who give them services.

It costs the merchants of Nashville thousands on thousands of dollars to keep their drummers running. One would suppose that they do this for charity's sake. It it be done for that purpose, why it shows a disposition that is worthy of regard.

But we question this. And, if it be done for profit, whence is the profit derived? Why, by nothing but branch houses of Nashville trading within the state of Alabama, wanting no taxes to pay when here we have to pay for a license for doing the most limited business.

For our own part, we wish that the cost of the license for this sort of branch trade had been doubled. It is too cheap.

We are sorry for the drummers who may be knocked out of good situations." If driven out this way, let them go to the west, and get farms, or come to Alabama and take hold of the handles of ploughs.

The Picayune.

At the head of the inside column of the New Orleans Picayune is the following: "Mrs. A. M. Holbrook, proprietor. Geo. V. Lloyd editor. Geo. Nicholson business manager." The lady's maiden name was Poyteavant. Her husband, Mr. Holbrook, died recently. She wrote much poetry, under the nom de plume of "Pearl Rivers," and what we have read of it indicates very great excellence. It is full of tender sentiment, expressed with elegance—speed and not in any wise weak, either in style or thought. We had come to consider her the equal in this art to any of our American poets, and much superior to some who have, perhaps, a wider reputation.

The gentleman who are associated with her have much skill in their vocations—have, indeed, been the active men in the management of the paper for a long time.

For the Picayune most of our people have had great respect from the time that, in a small way, it was begun by Messrs. Lumsden and Kendall. The latter acquired much reputation outside of his editorial career, by literary work—work well done, and worthy of regard. He was a very genial, handsome person—complete in manliness, and fond of fun, and full of the savoir faire. The paper, we have no doubt, will have a long and prosperous life. It has been in trouble, which one or two of its contemporaries tried to increase. Happily, as we infer, it has got clear of this; and now the lady's name, as proprietor, ought to give it much commendation to the public, not only of New Orleans, but every where else.

The Next President.

Down North there is a making up of the candidates of the two parties for the Presidency. On the Republican side are Secretary Bristow, of Kentucky, for the Presidency, and Adams, of Massachusetts, for the Vice Presidency. On the Democratic side are Gov. Tilden, of New York, for the former, and Mr. Lamar, of Mississippi, for the latter office.

The National Conventions will settle this matter; but it seems to us that either set of men is worthy of respect.

There are so many rascalities now being unearthed, that we are not quite sure that all four of the above-named gentlemen ought not to be in penitentiaries.

Ex-Gov. Lindsay, of Ala., at the last news was in very bad health from a second attack of paralysis.

Mr. Turnley writing from Gravelly Springs, Lauderdale co., in this state, says that at the last season, he made from one acre of land 22 bushels and seven quarts of corn. Of course, it was carefully cultivated. The fact is attested by persons who had no interest in deceiving.

TELEGRAPH

DOMESTIC.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—In the supreme court, Judge Waite delivered the decision in the Grant Parish case, which sustained the order of the circuit court, (Judge Bradley) arresting judgment upon the verdict, and the causes were remanded with instructions to discharge the defendants. Justice Clifford dissented. The Kentucky election case is also decided, adversely to the contestant's act. This was against two inspectors of election who refused to receive the vote of William Garner, an American citizen of African descent. Justice Hunt dissented. These opinions are very long and the arguments are too close for condensation.

The opinion was delivered by Chief Justice Waite. The offences provided for in the statute do not consist in the mere banding or conspiring, but their banding and conspiring with the intent of purposes specified. To bring this case under the operation of the statute it must appear that the right the conspirators intended to hinder was one granted by the constitution or laws of the United States. If it does not appear so the criminal matter charged has not been made indictable under the acts of congress. The opinion goes on to show the different rights of citizens of States and the United States. It is the duty of the state to see that its citizens are protected in the right to peacefully assemble for peaceful and lawful purposes. The constitution forbids the government from abridging this right. The right of bearing arms for lawful purposes must be seen to by the states; the constitution simply providing that congress shall not infringe its sovereignty. To protect lives and property is exclusively in the states. The XIVth Amendment prohibits the states from depriving any person of certain rights, but this adds nothing to the rights of one citizen as against another. The only obligation of the United States is to see that the states do not deny the right. The amendment guarantees that, and no more. The power of the United States is limited to the enforcement of this guarantee. No question arises under the civil rights acts, because there is no allegation in these courts that the wrong complained against the rights of citizens was on account of race or color. We may suspect that the race was the cause of hostility, but it is not averred. The whole charge as made is nothing more than a conspiracy to commit a breach of the peace within a state. It will probably not be claimed that the United States have power to perform mere police duty within the states. We are therefore of opinion that the allegations occur, the indictment is faulty in not specifying acts with sufficient particulars to enable the accused to prepare his defence. The conclusion is irresistible that these counts are too vague. Judge Clifford dissented from the opinion, not from the judgment, in the Grant Parish case. Judge Waite's opinion does not declare the enforcement act unconstitutional, but that counts of race and color must be averred in the indictment and established to secure a verdict. Exclusion or conspiracy to exclude white and blacks indiscriminately from the polls with no other motive than to prevent them voting is a crime, but does not come within the law. Whites and blacks alike must look to state laws, but where negroes who wish to vote the democratic ticket are prevented, on the ground that no negro shall vote the democratic ticket, while whites are allowed to vote, the enforcement act holds, and Federal courts can take cognizance. The same holds where the whites as a race are excluded from the polls, are intimidated by negroes because they are white. The motive for wrong must have its origin in prejudice against race or color, whether it be white or black, in order to bring it within the provisions of the enforcements acts.

Matt. Carpenter and Judge Black are quoted: "There was little in the force bill at first, and nothing in it now."

Senator West says regarding his reported position on the Southern Railroad, that as he was as much abused and as little understood two years ago, when he favored and secured the Jetties, he thinks he knows what is for the interest of Louisiana and is working in her interest.

PORTSMOUTH, March 28.—The brig A. Porter is ashore on White Island. She lost eight of her crew, including the captain.

FOREIGN.

LONDON, March 28.—In the House of Lords, Earl Shaftsbury said should the title bill pass to a second reading he would move an address to the Queen, praying her to assume a title more in accordance with the national history and loyalty of her subjects than Empress.

Advices received here today from India report that the steamship Jumna from Shelta has been wrecked in the Arabian Sea. She had aboard about 500 pilgrims, chiefly Persians, bound to Bushire. Three men, supposed to be the only survivors, have reached Hodeida.

GLASGOW, March 28.—Today the boiler of a locomotive attached to a construction train exploded, and five persons were killed and nine badly injured.

FOR THE RACES AT STRAIGHEAT.—The races of the Magnolia Jockey Club will open today at three o'clock. At half past one o'clock this afternoon, the Victoria, Captain Frank Stone, will leave the Dauphin street with passengers for the race, landing them at the new wharf at the Magnolia race course. Fare for the round trip only fifty cents. Tickets may be obtained at Soto & Primo's drug store, at Woodcock's saloon, at Peter Burke's and at the office of Spaulding & Foster, steamboat agents. Mr. S. F. Gray, in the office, will do all in his power to make the trip agreeable to all, especially to the ladies, while Captain Frank Stone, who knows how to win the public favor, will make himself more popular aboard ever by his successful efforts to please the people. Go to the races, on the Victoria.

MAGNOLIA JOCKEY CLUB RACES.—The heavy rain of Monday did no damage to the track, as it was followed by a strong northerly wind yesterday that rapidly dried up the mud and water everywhere. The season is a short one, lasting only three days, but then the races will be very spirited as the entries from day to day will embrace some of the fastest animals that ever glided over our race course. Undoubtedly the weather will be to unsplingly elegant today as to persuade all who take a pride in the explosive of fast nags on the race course, to go out to the Magnolia and witness the sports there. There is something grand and noble in the movements of the horse, when he enters into the spirit of a race and puts forth all his energies to come in ahead of his rivals and competitors.

The first race today will be a mile dash; purse $100—$70 to first horse, $20 to second and $10 to third.

Second race—One and a quarter mile dash; purse $125—$80 to first horse, $30 to second and $15 to third.

Third race—trotting—Best three in five; purse $100—$70 to first horse, $20 to second and $10 to third—for horses that have never beaten 2:45.

WALKS AROUND TOWN.

After gentlemen return from the races this evening, tired and hungry, the most sensible thing they can do is to go to the Opal restaurant and order one of Hamersen's best dinners.

The cotton receipts at Mobile since September first have been 345,691 bales, against 307,424 bales during the corresponding period the preceding year—an increase of 38,237 bales.

The fair of the Mobile Agriculture, Horticultural and Mechanical Society, which commences on the 25th proximo, ought to be the most successful ever held here. It can be made so.

According to the Board of Trade reports, the cotton receipts yesterday at all ports were 6,295 bales: Norfolk 1,015, Galveston 839, Charleston 823, Mobile 699, Savannah 639, New Orleans 484.

At Thompson's restaurant, opposite the Campbell House, the finest quality of raw oysters for only ten cents. For years, he has made oysters a specialty and he knows all about these bivalves.

The mouth of April demonstration by the firemen of Mobile will occur on the tenth of that month this year, as the ninth comes on Sunday. The firemen's celebration in 1876 will be worthy of the centennial year.

For the benefit of the ladies going to the races on the Victoria, Mr. Wilson, the proprietor of the Magnolia Hotel, will place carriages at their disposal, free of charge, to convey them to the ladies' stand.

The noon cotton report of the Board of Trade yesterday was: "Market quiet and easier. Light demand. Sales about 300 bales." Closing report: "Sales to-day 700 bales. Market closed quiet and easier. Moderate demand."

The ship William, Captain Journeay, arrived from Liverpool Monday with 1,932 sacks of salt, cleared yesterday for New York with the same cargo, there being no freights here. The stock of cotton not on shipboard is light, and but little is coming in.

The sugar crop of this section of Alabama is not very large at say time and has not diminished much the last year. The present crop of sugar in Cuba will make about 1,000,000 boxes, and is valued at $30,000,000 less than last year's crop. That is a big decrease in value.

The remains of William Partridge, an honorary member of Franklin Hook and Ladder Company No. 3, and an ex-member of the Gulf City Guards, third Alabama regiment, were buried in Magnolia cemetery yesterday morning.

The principal business of the coroner has been holding inquests on the bodies of little coloured children and adult coloured men and women, who died without the care and attention of a physician. A certificate from the coroner is required before a burial permit can be obtained, and hence the services of that official are needed.

The alderman of the fourth ward who never has failed to attend a meeting of the board, is no more punctual than the member of the ninth ward who is always on hand. If all our city legislators were engines changed to burn coal. In this way the speed will not be increased, but the time will be saved by not having to stop to take on wood. One tender full will last from Montgomery to West Point and return.

Policeman Cloman, during the storm of Monday night, found a colored woman on the steps of the custom house, lying in a condition apparently produced by intoxication. She was taken to the guardhouse, and there it was discovered that she was dead. An autopsy by Dr. Fowler revealed the fact that she died of rupture of the heart. The name of the deceased was Margaret Walker, about fifty years old, who lived on St. Michael street just above Conception. She was employed at the coffee stand of Mrs. Taylor in the market, and was on her way home when death suspended her travels.

RIVER NEWS.

There was no arrival yesterday, and no boat was due.

The Mary Lee put out for Selma and Montgomery with a very fair freight and a few passengers.

The next boats due are the Baudy Moore that left here for Columbus last Thursday evening, and the Emma No. 2, that left for Tuskaloosa last Friday evening.

The Bradish Johnson, from New Orleans, to run on the Bigbee, will arrive here about Tuesday of next week.

Lively Meeting of Aldermen

EXCITING DISCUSSIONS LAST NIGHT

At the regular meeting of the board of aldermen last evening, President J. Little Smith in the chair, the following aldermanical members answered to their names when the roll was called: Akins, Bestor, Cahill, Chamberlain, Craft, Gates, Hanna, Kirkbride, Kennerly, Miglieli, Muldon, O'Connell, Pepper, Smith A. H., Smith D. E., Turner, Walsh—18 in all, and more than a quorum.

The clerk read the minutes of the preceding meeting.

Report of city assessor, showing collections since last report of $1,778 90. Referred to ways and means.

Papers from the council came up.

Report of city assessor, collections for week ending March 18. Referred to ways and means by aldermen. Only received and filed by the council.

Report of city tax collector, received and filed by the council, referred to committee of ways and means by the aldermen.

Other papers from the council were concurred in, among them the resolution to return to the auditor a recent communication to the boards.

The report of City Engineer Brous in reference to curb cements on Commerce street came up. It was referred to the street committee by the common council. A motion to concur in the action of the council, was amended by a motion of Alderman Atkinson to refer the report to the mayor, requesting him to take immediate steps to have the curb cements removed. Mr. Atkinson explained that the street committee, of which he is a member, had no authority to remove the curb cements mentioned. The amendment was adopted.

The report of the market committee, from the council, recommending a discontinuance of the present water closet system in the municipal buildings, received and filed and recommendations adopted by the council, was concurred in.

Alderman Muldon moved a non-concurrence in the action of the common council in the adoption of resolution following fire per cent. discount on taxes of 1876 and previous years, if paid by the 15th of May, and offered the following resolution as a substitute, which he supported by a brief argument.

Be it resolved, By the mayor, aldermen and common council of the city of Mobile, That any person or corporation owing taxes to the city of Mobile for the year 1876, shall on payment thereof be allowed the following discount on the face of the tax bills so paid: for those paid within thirty days after the first official publication of the tax collector of his readiness to collect the taxes for the year 1876, a discount of five per cent.; and for those bills paid after the expiration of thirty days and within sixty days from said first official publication, a discount of two and one half per cent.

Alderman Muldon thought it would be unjust to those who have paid their taxes in the past, without the allowance of a discount to propose a discount of five per cent. to those who did not pay their taxes.

Alderman D. E. Smith agreed with Alderman Muldon, and maintained that delinquents had had the use of their money, which was worth to them eight per cent., and they should not now be allowed a discount.

Alderman Gates said the ways and means committee had this object in view: The collection of taxes from delinquents by offering an inducement to them to pay. The city administration has no power to force the collection of taxes and their policy was persuasive.

Alderman Atkinson supported the amendment of Alderman Muldon and maintained that if the original resolution was adopted, the tax payers of 1876 would hold back to have the advantages of the use of their money this year with the hope of paying their taxes at five per cent. discount next year.

President Smith called Alderman Bestor to the chair and opposed the amendment.

Alderman Pepper said the ways and means committee had done all they could to collect the taxes past due, and hence they now proposed a discount of five per cent as an inducement to delinquent tax payers.

Alderman Muldon defended the correctness of his proposition to confine the discount to the tax payers of 1876. The object of his amendment was to induce the tax payers of 1876 to come forward promptly.

Alderman Gates said the object of the ways and means committee in offering this inducement to delinquents, was to raise the greatest amount of money in the shortest possible period of time. If the delinquent tax payers will avail themselves of the five per cent. discount and pay their taxes promptly, we had better take their money.

Alderman Cahill opposed the original resolution as demoralizing to tax payers, who would see in it a premium to wait another year. Delinquent tax payers have almost come to the conclusion that the longer they wait, the greater discount they will get, coming at last to a discount of fifty cents on the dollar.

Alderman D. E. Smith opposed it with special zeal the allowance of a discount to delinquent tax-payers.

President Smith thought the principle of allowing a discount of five per cent. to current taxpayers, was the same sasn allowance of a similar discount to delinquents.

Alderman Pepper advocated the original resolutions as a matter of policy. They money is greatly needed, and taxes cannot be collected by compulsion.

Alderman D. E. Smith said if it had got to this, that there is no law to compel the payment of taxes it is time we knew it.

Alderman Muldon demanded the yeas and nays on his amendment, and this was the result: yeas 12, nays 5. So the amendment was adopted, and then the resolution from the council was adopted as amended.

The vote on the amendment was: Yeas—Atkinson, Cahill, Chamberlain, Craft, Hanna, Kennerly, Miglieli, Muldon, O'Connell, Smith A. H., Smith D. E., Turner, Walsh. Nays—President Smith, Bestor, Gates, Kirkbride, Pepper.

The resolution from the council providing for raising $70,000 to pay funded debt instalment and interest coupons was concurred in.

The aldermen concurred in the action of the council accepting an invitation to participate in the firemen's celebration.

Thomas Vaughn a junk dealer, sent a especial petition to the boards, asking that his license tax be fixed at $25, instead of $125. It was so logically written that Mr. Vaughn, if he wrote it should seek the avenues of law for a profession and abandon the junk business. Referred to ways and means committee.

The communication of the health officer in reference to the scavenger ordinance reported by the board of health, action on which was at the last meeting of the aldermen deferred one week, was read. Alderman Muldon moved that it be referred to the committee on hospitals, and that motion prevailed.

The following resolutions were offered by Alderman Atkinson:

Be it Resolved, That any special license tax demanded of butchers, green grocers and others (who pay a market license) over and above the market license paid by them under the market ordinances for the use of one cart or wagon in the delivery of market articles sold in the market, or for the peddling of market articles by one cart or wagon, as prohibited in such market ordinances, is not authorized. Be it further

Resolved, That the report of the committee of ways and means on this subject, made on the 8th day of March, 1875, so far as conflicting with the preceding resolutions, be not adopted.

Alderman Atkinson advocated the passage of the resolutions on the ground that the market license covered the right to peddle. The system has worked admirably in the past, and the imposition of a special and second tax would be an injustice.

Alderman Muldon said as he understood it the resolution was simply explanatory of an existing ordinance.

Alderman Atkinson assented to this proposition.

The resolutions were adopted.

Alderman Bestor offered a resolution that the city clerk be instructed to inform the Fire Department of the acceptance of their invitation to join in their annual parade.

At half past nine o'clock, the board adjourned.

THE WEATHER YESTERDAY.—After the rain and the wind and the thunder and the lightning of Monday, it was expected that some unusual phase of the weather would present itself yesterday. In the morning the sky was clear and the sun shone brightly, but the wind from the north was piercingly cold as the day progressed and at nightfall it cut like a knife.

Mr. Harry Hall, clerk at the signal office here, informs the reporter of the Tribune that in Mobile during Monday 2 inches and 61 100ths of rain fell, while New Orleans was deluged with 4 inches and 73-100 of the watery element.

The wind, at 6:51 o'clock yesterday morning, blew 32 miles an hour at Galveston, 38 at Indianola, 16 at Montgomery and 8 at Mobile. The temperature at Mobile was 53, highest 59 at Augusta and Savannah, lowest 39 at Corsicana.

At 3:51 yesterday afternoon, the wind blew 30 miles an hour at Galveston, 38 at Indianola, 18 at Mobile, 19 at Montgomery and 20 at New Orleans. The temperature at Savannah was 77, Augusta 64, Galveston, Indianola, Mobile and New Orleans 57, Corsicana 55, Montgomery 51.

The maximum temperature at Mobile yesterday was 58, minimum 53, a range of only 5 degrees.

At the Mobile Theatre next week, we are to have the opera grand, with Miss Julia Mathews and her operatic company, producing the choicest English operas.

LOSS OF THE BARK MAGDALA

THE PERILS OF THE GULF

The Tribune of yesterday morning briefly reported the total loss of the British bark Magdala, bound from Liverpool for Mobile, where she was chartered for the timber trade by A. C. Danner & Co. The New Orleans Picayune of yesterday contains the particulars, as follows:

The stoop Anna Fishing Company reports from Chandeleur Islands that on Saturday, the 18th inst., the bark Magdala, Capt. Wm. Wilds, from Liverpool in ballast, was stranded on Chandeleur Islands. The vessel was of 800 tons burden, and was bound for the gulf coast and a cargo of timber.

In consequence of the strong current at Chandeleur Islands, the ship got out of her reckonings, and drifting on the north, or smaller Chandeleur, got on the quicksand. The gale on Sunday set in and drove the vessel still further ashore and deeper in the sands. With the increasing violence of the wind the sea broke incessantly more threatening, and the Magdala was finally thrown on her broadside. The masts were then almost on a level with the water, and a tremendous sea breaking over her she soon went to pieces. The crew, numbering eighteen men officers included, took refuge in the rigging until such time as they were enabled to get their boats launched.

The storm had at this time increased in intensity, and the heavy breakers threatened destruction to the hardy craft that might venture on them.

Two boats were put out, and the captain entered with ten men in one, while the mate, James Morris son, took the other boat, with six men. The sea broke over the boats, and the men were constantly employed in baling out the water. This was about three-quarters of a mile from the shore. After great difficulty and many perils the captain's boat reached the shore all right, but the other capsized, drowning the mate and three men named Geo. Allen, a native of Connecticut, Geo. Kemp, a Greek, and Edward Watchman, a watchman. The remaining three men succeeded in managing the boat, and joined the captain's party on shore, but in a bad condition for the utter destitute of clothing. In casting about they found the fisher men's camp and were hospitality treated, but on Sunday night the flood entered the island and covered it to a depth of three feet. The whole party had to remain in the water all night.

The disaster took place with such rapidity that not one of the crew could save a particle from the wreck, and even the captain had to sacrifice his papers.

The survivors were taken from the island by tge light house tender and landed at Bay St. Louis.

The Magdala was built in 1853, and was owned by Messrs. Fernee & Son, of Liverpool.

The captain of the fishing smack Anna reports that on 22d inst., in the evening, he discovered a vessel on fire about twenty miles south-south-east of Chandeleur light. The distance was too great to make out what her rig was.

WEDNESDAY,.....MARCH 29.

The following curious advertisement was published in Londonderry, Ireland, in 1783: "Whereas, on February the 14th, 1783, it pleased kind providence to confer on Matthew Neely, of Burnally, parish of Tamlaghtfinlagan, and county of Londonderry, a manchild, whose appearance is promising and amiable, and hopes the being who first caused him to exist will grant him grace. Also, in consideration and in remembrance of the many heroic deeds done by that universally renowned patriot, General Washington, the said Matthew Neely hath done himself the honor of calling the said manchild by the name of George Washington Neely, he being the first child known or so called in this kingdom by the name of Washington, that brilliant western star."

Mrs. Walpurga Wackerle has arrived in Connecticut, after travelling thousands of miles, much of the way on foot, in search of proofs that her husband was killed in 1872 on the Texas and Pacific Railroad, in order that she may collect $6,000 on a policy from the Ætna Life Insurance Company, of Hartford. The company resists payment.

Our Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, March 26.

Old Probabilities has had a nice time of it this week. We've scolded about him because he wouldn't give us continuous weather of any sort and he has revenged himself by sending a succession of days whose gloom and temperature and general tone of bad cheerfulness was very exasperating. I could fancy "Old Prob." sitting aloft in his tower and laughing to think how he paid us for grumbling before, only "Old Prob." is an entirely mythical personage. His courtier, who looks for his nod and translates to mortals his decrees, is a very pleasant gentleman, with the charmingly stately manners of an old army officer, and as great a degree of sensibility about the weather as any other mortal.

Monday it snew and blew and friz. Tuesday measurably clear and cold, and so on through the week, always keeping cold with variations of rain and sleet and one or two gleams of sunshine. But Congress has gone on just the same, accomplishing, I am sorry to say, but precious little beside an endless amount of talking. Mr. Blaine has again distinguished himself as a leader by using weapons of his own, till his opponents began to doubt the value of their's; and then as they doubted, he snatched their's from their hands and used them for their utter defeat and humiliation. There has been so much comment upon the practice of assessing department clerks for electioneering purposes that any party desiring to inaugurate reformation must say some ing about it, and Mr. Caulfield, of Illinois, introduced a comprehensive bill to prevent bribery among voters. Mr. Blaine wished to add an amendment making it a penal offense for any body to use money in influencing elections. Even Congressmen were to be forbidden this privilege and some Congressmen declined decidedly. But the measure was carried finally, and Blaine chuckled; for has he not just now his own private and particular reason for being delighted? You see he hasn't so much money to spend in a Presidential campaign as some other candidates. This bill places them all on an equal footing. It makes me laugh a woman's laugh to think what dismay and terror its publication must have brought to the ranks of election brokers who expected such rich pickings during the coming season. Doubtless they will at once set their sharp wits at work to discover some loop-hole of escape from its strict rendering. The appropriation bill is occupying a great deal of attention. Reductions have been made everywhere. Every one of these must have its own individual debate and in each of these debates every little punctilio of parliamentary propriety must be observed. O dear! the days and hours that are wasted thus, while the suffering country waits for the laws so sorely needed. Mr. Scales of North Carolina made an extremely sensible speech, when he said it would be much better for gentlemen to obey the rules than to spend much time talking about them.

There is one habit in which Mr. Blaine indulges which is almost intolerable. He seems to think because he is acknowledged adroit and quick that no one else can fully comprehend, much less properly discuss any question. He must always have his say. So when Mr. Foster of Ohio was speaking the other day, in walked Mr. Blaine from some cloak room listened a minute, then springing to his feet exclaimed, "Will the gentleman allow me a moment?" Of course Mr. Foster yielded. Mr. Blaine then with great unction and authority made a point explaining it as if to most immature minds, while Mr. Foster stood disgusted, for not five minutes before he had covered the same ground in a satisfactory manner. Mr. F., replied that he had already said the same thing and then Mr. Blaine begged pardon, saying he wasn't there; but, of course, Mr. Foster had said it much better than he could, etc., etc. Somebody ought to teach Mr. Blaine that he is not infallible.

In the Senate they have been talking about the Indian Commissioners and also about counting the electoral votes. This last topic involved sharp discussion. Stevenson, of Kentucky, who always talks sensibly, Maxey of Texas who always talks extremely, Thurman and Withers each had his pet view to present and the vice-president pro tem seems a nuisance everywhere complicating all measures and puzzling the wise ones about apparently simple matters.

A real vice president is quite another; the present accidental incumbent is only a mar-plot. Behind the closed doors of committee rooms much more interest centers than in the open session of either house. Spencer is in the hands of his friends (politically I mean, for socially they would not know him) so he will very likely escape the condemnation he has so clearly earned. The Belknap case still drags its slow length through bewildering tangles of twisted testimony. The Marshes have returned. We pricked up our ears for astounding revelations and no revelations came. Mr. Marsh hesitates and prevaricates about statements he made most positively a month ago; his memory seems badly affected by the Canadian climate and Mrs. Marsh doesn't remember anything worth telling. O dear! isn't it dreadful how lightly oaths are uttered; how little the most solemn assurances avails to convince the public mind. In the face of Gen. Belknap's own statements and Mr. Marsh's previous declarations it is impossible to believe him now. It was announced however that the committee had gained sufficient knowledge to proceed to impeachment. Gen. Babcock offers a very plausible story in which that famous letter came into his possession and every one wants to think it true because the gallant General has been such a favorite; then comes the Attorney-General with still another explanation. Isn't it disgusting? We wish we could just rub out all the mistakes and begin over again! What a spectacle we must present to the eyes of Europe. Our boasted America, the memory of its grand days of self respect commanding the respect of all the world, where has it all gone? Another still comes to be investigated. Gen. Schenck is here, at Wormley's, waiting his turn. The sea voyage seems to have been injurious, affecting his liver so that he requires constant medical care. Meantime Mr. Dana is still fuming about the fancied insult to his dignity. The President determines to sustain him and the Old Bay State ruffles her feathers to think so favorite a child should be attacked. There, that will do for politics.

Hammond, that extremely muscular advocate of the gospel, is nearing the close of his sojourn, and he reports, I believe, amazing sheaves. Chacun a son gout. If one can think of anything spiritual while hearing him it must be from the force with which opposites suggest each other. He has drawn immense crowds, for people love the physical magnetism of crowds, and the singing, with its irrepressible enthusiasm was stirring enough. Then, too, the

THURSDAY,.....MARCH 30.

Silver in New York at the last accounts, was fourteen per cent. below the par of gold. In other words, about equal to currency. It is likely to go even lower, for the mines which produce it are giving out great quantities—too much. Perhaps the metal may fall so low for exchangeable values, that even Gen. Butler would hardly pick up spoons, &c., made of it. Notwithstanding this, it is a nice thing to have about one's house. We shall insist that no man in Mobile ought to have plated spoons, &c., while silver can be bought "for a song" in greenbacks, or gold.

Annus Mirabilis.

The Alabama State Journal, at Montgomery—Sam Bard, esq., editor—denies that it is in favor of Gen. Grant for a third term. We thought that it was. If it were, there would be no sin in it—unless money had been paid for lying.

In the style of the almanacs, look out this year for much that, in political partisanism, is not true.

Two things are coming on—the Centennial and the making of a new President—for the conventions of the year will name the man, and the Centennial exhibition in Philadelphia will be a splendid place as a means of helping the person nominated. And there will be gathered the partisans of each side, knowing that it will be a grand place for any nefarious operation. The thieves will go there, for it will offer to them all sorts of opportunities of plying their vocation.

Public Schools.

Of what is said of the Public Schools by our correspondent, "Practical," is what we can hardly with wisdom offer an opinion. But there seems to be a "mouse" in it, as is said of some of our meal-tubs.

The General Superintendent of the schools has much respect among our people, and there is no doubt that he is worthy of it. He would, no doubt, make an excellent governor—for, we suppose, he has no great desire for any place which has to offer only an empty house and not much pay.

But this aside. We believe that the public schools are of general, but not high influence. Hundreds of little children—we see them in scores every day—would be left without instruction, if it were not for them.

Even if they learned no h ng, they are put to the methods of learning. They get mental discipline, and that is an essential thing. They have their poor little heads directed to forms of knowledge, and those heads would take other forms, if they were running about the streets gathering the garbage which is not wholesome—neither to moral, nor mental, nor physical growth.

There is much controversy about the public school system, for the reason that persons of diverse views are throwing into it a religious element. We put this aside, as only an incident. The substantial thing remains: that is some kind of instruction: for, at the worst, that is better than no instruction. It is the means that these schools offer to little creatures that would, without them, have no schooling, and would be permitted to run about gathering knowledge of what they ou, ht not to learn.

But they do more than this: they impart knowledge of what is to be got in the best schools—not much Latin or Greek, we suppose. But, perhaps, more than one-half the little chaps, that we see toddling on the streets, making their way to the schools, would turn out to be rascals, if they had not been sent to them.

Education is about as cheap as our jails and penitentiaries. It certainly is more moral in its results.

The question of religion is disturbing all the school methods of the country.

The Catholics desire something more than is taught in these schools. They refuse to send their children to them. If that be the rule of the faith, we can see no rational objection to it. We have an extreme aversion to all those matters which divide a community on any subject or general interest, but this is true: neither Catholic nor Protestant has a right to these schools.

Opera.

Next week we are to have an opera troupe at the theatre—in English and grand opera. Of all things, if well done, this is the most delightful of entertainments to those who can distinguish the difference between Yankee Doodle and Old Hundred.

A great many years have passed since the time when we had a good English opera in Mobile. What was called the Segum troupe was the best—having in it Sequin, Manvers and Archer—and it had crowded audiences every night. Manvers was one of the best of tenors: for the base the voice of Archer was what gave great delight. It had an unlimited power, and could fill the remotest corner of the theatre with a clear and understandable sound. He was by no means a man of physical beauty—rather otherwise. In short, he was what young ladies, after a diligent course of novel-reading, would have called ugly; but most of them fell in love with his manly voice, and so went to bed at night, and dreamed of the voice, and not the man.

Norma, as an opera, is what Hamlet is to the drama. That every one would like to see and hear. Music is like good wine: the older it grows the better it is—for its age proves its merits.

There are two things in the "Postillion," that are very beautiful—especially a little song that seems to have escaped the praise that belongs to it. We heard it once in what was called the Alhambra, and retain so vivid a recollection of it that we could whistle the air, if not render the libretto with some decent degree of skill.

Robert le Diable has never been exhibited in Mobile. That is something that one would desire to see and hear. La Sonnambula, Der Freischutz, and such of the more popular operas have been given to us. They are all full of charms, when well represented; but of all of them there is none, to an unscholastic musical ear, with love for the art, equal to Norma.

Delightful weather yesterday. A little too cold, but not much harm was done to the vegetable tribe.

The peach trees are not hurt. Some of the bloom, have fallen off; but that is better, for usually, there are too many, and Darwin's theory of selection come in here to show the reason why.

There were some little "toddling" creatures going about without shoes. They seemed to give no care to the cold—perhaps, like many of us, have been accustomed to it. Habit in a matter of this kind is useful. The dainty chaps need the shoes and the socks. The little fellow who can't get them goes along, like that soldier on the side of the Potomac. It was as "cold as blazes"—some profane people say, "as cold as hell." The sergeant came along and saw the man washing his shirt. "My dear fellow, why not put on your other shirt, and not be washing that one in this freezing weather?"

The soldier made not much answer to the sergeant to reply, with some unprofessionable manner of "rotating." Hell, sir, do you suppose a man wants a thousand shirts?"

And so it may be that the little children can have no shoes and go in the cold about the streets; but a humane person might desire to have the means by which all or them could be shod.

Public Schools.

Mr. Editor.—The Montgomery Advertiser & Mail of the 28th pays a well-deserved compliment to the efficiency and worth of our efficient state superintendent of schools; ending with, "The state can ill afford to spare him, and we most sincerely hope that he will reconsider his resolution to retire at the end of his term, and consent to serve again." Were it possible for any State Superintendent of schools to be of any utility so long as the present legislative enactments are in force, Mr. McKleroy would be the very man for the position. But the public school system of the state is in chaos. Under those enactments the schools are gone up, the strenuous efforts of Mr. McKleroy to save them notwithstanding. He is wise enough to see that until they are abrogated, under the present enactments, public schools must be a nullity or a farce in Alabama. He is too honest to desire a sinecure office, or too smart to wish for a non-paying one. Whatever may happen otherwise, the Free Public School System of the State must at the earliest possible period be placed on a firm basis, one beyond the reach of mousing politicians. To accomplish this, the best and shortest course is to elect none but well-known friends of Free Public Schools to Executive Legislative offices.

Impressed with these ideas I would gladly welcome a ticket headed

For Governor.
Hon. J. M. McKleroy.

if made up boldly in accordance with the interests of the public schools.

PRACTICAL.

Nothing has yet come out of the Senatorial investigation of Mr. Spencer. It seems to us that nothing will come out of it, except expense. About a hundred, more or less, witnesses have been summoned from Alabama. They get ten cents mileage and two dollars a day for their services. They ought to get more, especially if they have something to attend to at home.

This and some other important matters will be relegated to the future—after the election for President.

TELEGRAPH

DOMESTIC.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Schenck is making quite a plausible documentary showing. The impression is that he will show what he claims—simply that he has been unfortunate and imprudent.

The ways and means committee are hearing a delegation in the copper interest, and will hear this afternoon a delegation from New York on a new method of collecting the tariff.

The United States district court at Baltimore has suspended action under the force bill, and all the prisoners have been released on bail.

Dispatches from New Orleans indicate that Kellogg has abandoned reliance on the force bill, and is pushing action in the state courts against acts which he had hoped the Federal courts would handle.

Solomon denies having sent money to Jay Cooke, McCullough & Co. until simple security had been given that they were safe custodians.

The Pacific Railroad committee heard arguments upon the Omaha bridge, but took no action. It is understood a bill will be reported making the bridge part of the road and prohibiting extra charges.

Gen. Custer was before the committee on war expenditures. His evidence is damaging to Belknap, and generally in depreciation of the purity of the military in monetary affairs.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 29.—The Spanish steamer Elvira exploded and sunk off the passages. Many were killed and wounded.

ATLANTA, March 29.—The state supreme court have unanimously decided that the head of a family can waive both for himself and family the right to the homestead, thus enabling people to create a valid lien on the full value of their property.

FOREIGN.

LONDON, March 29.—The Daily Telegraph's editorial on the subject of the rumored indisposition of the Czar, says: "We believe the facts concerning the Czar are that he is seriously ill, and that his doctors have recommended his prolonged sojourn at Ems and afterwards in Switzerland. Therefore it is probable that the public convenience will necessitate the Czarowich exercising the functions of the Emperor during his absence."

A special telegram from Berlin to the Times says the prospect of a regency in Russia excites much speculation here concerning the probable relations between Russia and Germany, because of the anti-German tendencies of the Czarowitch.

The Times' financial article this morning understands that the capital required for making the practicability of a channel tunnel is being rapidly subscribed. The French company already have two million francs, half of the requisite amount. The English, company, if not already equally advanced, will shortly do so, and experiments will be in active progress before long.

PARIS, March 29.—M. Pillode, the eminent Greek scholar, is dead.

BRUSSELS, March 29.—The Court of Cassation has denied the appeal of Carl Vogt, murderer, against the death sentence.

All the sea-going ships that recently arrived at New York report "hurricanes." It is very likely that presently we shall have much news of disasters.

Three persons of note, who have been sick are now in a better condition of physical health. The telegraph gives us information of this. Barney Williams is getting well. If we could borrow a dollar, we should give it to see Mrs. Williams in the "Yankee Gall." In Mobile some years ago this mercurial lady made the benches laugh. We shall swear to this, for we saw it "with our own eyes." We hope that the husband may get well, for he and his wife have contributed largely to the pleasures which make people forget their troubles. They add to the gayety which can be enjoyed without detriment to one's morals.

The other sick person who is getting well is Mr. A. T. Stewart, who can find all the help that medical skill can give him.

The third is Daniel Drew, who was "getting better," but he has fallen into great trouble—lost his large possessions, and, we trust, is as poor as any of us—to poverty, under certain conditions, is a sign of merit. As for us we know, he is a good man, and has, like Vanderbilt, given from his large stores what was the product of much good.

LOCAL NEWS.

PLANTING POTATOES.—Peerless, early rose, peach blow, Ohili, Red and russets are to be had for sale low by Owen Farley, 64, 66, 68, 70 and 72 Government street.

MR. J. HARRINGTON.—This energetic young man has gone into the plastering business and solicits the patronage of his friends. His office is at No. 26 Government street.

Selling off to close business, all of our best balloons at 7 cents a yard at retail, and all other dry goods at prices to insure the immediate sale. Store for sale.

P. H. PEPPER & Co.

The Opal restaurant and hotel, next door to the post office, is conducted on the European plan. Guests may dine and wine there and sleep elsewhere, or they may take lodging rooms there and dine where they choose. Hasenen aims to be polite and courteous to all.

LENTEN SPIE OF APRIL.—As usual this year, I presume, the good ladies of the Presbyterian church will have their lunch at the Odd Fellow Hall. As the Confederate orphans have now attained an age, that they are not to a dependent as in years past—would the ladies think of another charity which is at least equally deserving and much nearer home—that of the Protestant Orphans of our city? The harder the times, the more difficulty I judge it is to supply the increasing wants of the orphan. Let the lunch of the Presents day be hereafter given for the benefit of the orphan is the wish of a CONFEDERATE.

A GOOD MAN GONE.—At 7 a. m. yesterday Brother Schmidt, S. J., of Spring Hill College, departed this life, in the 76th year of his age. He came to this city in 1846 and up to a few months ago, was daily engaged going to and from the college, transporting the supplies, and attending the post office for the college and its inmates. After a long and well spent life he has gone to his reward. The community of which he was a devoted member, after proper ceremonies, will consign his remains to their last resting place, in the cemetery of the college, at 7½ a. m. today.

THE WEATHER YESTERDAY.—Except that it was a little uncomfortably cool yesterday, the weather was just magnificent. Everybody hoped that it will grow warmer today, having had quite enough of the cold snap. The wind blew, at 6:51 o'clock yesterday morning, 22 miles an hour W. from Montgomery and 6 at Mobile. The temperature at Mobile was 40, highest 70 at Key West, lowest 36 at Corsicana.

At 351 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the wind blew 18 miles an hour at Montgomery, 16 at Indianola and Key West and 12 at Mobile. The temperature was at Corsicana and Key West 64, Indianola 65, New Orleans 68, Galveston 61, Mobile 58, Augusta 58, Montgomery 54.

TRANSPORTATION BY TOWBOATS.—Mobile does a good deal of transportation business by steamers and steamboats, while large quantities of freight are brought to New Orleans by towboats. Some idea of the magnitude of this latter method of transportation may be formed by reading the following from the Louisville Courier-Journal of the 24th instant:

The tow towboat Joe B. Williams, has left with 22 boats and 7 barges of coal, amounting in weight to 21,000 tons. This would be a load for 3000 railroad cars. Estimating 25 cars to the train, it would require 60 locomotives to move it, and each train being 300 feet in length, it would extend a distance on the railroad track of more than 15 miles. This immense freight is carried by the William's at an expense of two cents per bushel, which would amount to a little freight bill of $21,000. To transport it by rail 800 miles to New Orleans, at the lowest price of railroad freight—say one cent per mile—the freight bill would be something more than $170,000. If the Williams reaches New Orleans in safety with her tow, we think she ought to be entitled to a beautiful pair of horns, as having towed the largest fleet of barges of coal that ever went down the Ohio or Mississippi rivers.

RAISING TO THE RACES.—Captain Frank Stone was prompt in the departure of the Victoria for the new wharf near the Magnolia race course yesterday, leaving precisely a half past one o'clock, and those who went down to the Dauphin street wharf ten minutes later, could see in the distance only the smoke of that departing steamer. She carried a pretty good number of passengers, wondering it was the first day of the races and the steamer was not chuck full. Managers were delighted with the courtesies extended to them by Captain Frank Stone commanding the Victoria, and Mr. S. P. Gray, the clerk.

Today at half past one o'clock, the Victoria, with the same obliging officers, will leave Dauphin street wharf for the Magnolia race course wharf. Fare for the round trip only fifty cents. Tickets may be obtained at Soto & Primo's drug store, at Woodcock's saloon, at Peter Burke's and at the office of Spaulding & Foster, steamboat agents.

THE MAGNOLIA RACES.—It was not expected that the attendance at the races of the Magnolia Jockey Club would be so great on the opening day as on the subsequent days. Nevertheless it was very large, and in that respect agreeably disappointed the managers of the races.

The first race—one mile dash; purse $100—$70 to first, $20 to second, $10 to third, was the opening excitement. The entries were b. h. Milligan by W. Cottrill; b. m. Pass Broadnax by W. Cottrill; br. h. Newbern by W. B. Chesshem. Pass Broadnax came in first, winning the $70.

The second race—Trotting, best three in five; purse $100—$70 to first, $20 to second, $10 to third, for horses that have never beaten 2:45. The entries were b. m. Etna Earle by L. D. Fordney; b. h. Jeff Boone by Al. Williams; s. m. Birdie by G. B. Shawhan; b. g. John McDonald by N. McGarrou; br. m. Alice by John McDonald; b. g. Abrams by E. P. Toulmin. Etna Earle made the best performance and won the $70.

Third race—one and a quarter mile dash; purse $125, $90 to first, $30 to second and $15 to third. The entries were: br. h. Newbern, by N. B. Chesshem; br. h. Milligan, by W. Cotsrill; Carrie Fish by W. H. Williamson. The best time was made by Milligan and he was the winner of the $90.

The races today will be as follows:

First race—Mile heats; purse $150—$100 to first, $50 to second and $15 to third.

Second race—Three in five; purse $225; $160 to first, $40 to second, $25 to third.

Third race—Trotting, mile heats, free for all, purse $150—$100 for first, $35 to second, $15 to third.

Every commercial traveler doing business in the State of Alabama must take out a $50 license now.—New Orleans Picayune.

Now will the Picayune state how much license is required by the city of New Orleans from every commercial traveler who does business in that city? New Orleans usually taxes commercial travelers very heavily.

CITY COURT.—Judge Semmes. Yesterday in this court, John Beardy, for carrying concealed weapons was tried. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty. George Brown, for carrying concealed weapons, was convicted and fined by the jury $50. Josh Brown, for burglary, found guilty by the jury, and remanded for sentence to the penitentiary.

The bonded cases will be called today. The cases of Frank Jackson, assault to murder; Robert Jones, burglary; Cæsar Davis, grand larceny.

RIVER NEWS.

pleasure was a cheap one, costing nothing till the bat came round. That ceremony was never neglected, for brother Hammond transposes the scriptures, and declares that man cannot live by the word of God alone: he must have bread—and cake too. Let us hope that amid the tumult and excitement, some hearts have been touched and elevated.

At the theatre, Mr. and Mrs. Florence play "The Mighty Dollar," to crowded houses. Its irresistable fun, it's initials for phrases and its palpable hits have been enjoyed hugely. The President was there one night when the phrase "Let no guilty man escape" was adroitly introduced. At this he laughed heartily, but when some admission was made to a "third term," he was unmistakably annoyed. How funny some of these dramas of to-day with seem to those who come after us. Will they only be equal to our own? I'll leave you to think about it. MRS. GUMMIDGE.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage made and executed by John H. Garner and Mary E. Garner to John M. Morgan, the 2nd day of June, 1875, I shall proceed to sell to the highest bidder, at public sale, in front of the Court House in Mobile county, in the city of Mobile, on WEDNESDAY, the 3rd day of April, 1876, at 12 o'clock M. the following described property in the city of Mobile, viz:—Lot No. 1 on the south side of St. Francis street, commencing eighty feet and nine inches from the northeast corner of St. Francis and Water streets, and running west on St. Francis street twenty-eight feet, and seven and a half inches to the center of the wall dividing the lot hereby conveyed from the store occupied by M. J. Sylvain, and running along said wall south, one hundred feet, twelve and twenty-seven ft. nine inches, more or less to the north along the wall on the east, dividing the lot hereby conveyed from the building now occupied by the National Commercial Bank, and the lot now or lately belonging to John Henry, to the place of beginning, one hundred feet. Together with all and singular the tenements, hereditaments and appurtenances unto the above described property. JOHN M. MORGAN, mortgagee.

A divorce suit now in progress in a Georgia court is of a peculiar character. The local paper says of it: "The parties have been living together for over twenty years, and have grown up children. The monster 81-ton gun, which is being enlarged in England from 14½ inch diameter to 16 inches, half an inch at a time, has been tested with favorable results at the 15-inch diameter. The problem the committee has to answer was submitted by the British Admiralty in 1874, namely, to make a gun which can penetrate 20 inches of solid iron, strongly backed, at a distance of 1000 yards. Major Noble, the great arsenal authority, has calculated that this gun, when widened to a 16-inch bore will throw a shot of 1800 pounds with such velocity as to penetrate at 1000 yards range, an ironclad ship protected with 27 inches of solid armor.

A European correspondent thus writes of Strauss, the composer of dancemania: "He is as nervous as a composer as he is as a dancer. Clad in a velvet costume, with patent leather boots reaching to his knees, his eyes aflame, and in a state of desperation, he goes striding through the house like a maniac. If inspiration does not come to him in the salon he clutches his papers and goes to his bed-room or to his wife's boudoir. Sometimes the waltz begun in the parlor is finished in the kitchen. Fran Strauss, who appreciates and understands her John's habits, has half a dozen pianos scattered through the house, and in each room a table with writing materials, so that, whatever nook Herr finds himself he is quite at home. It was only in consequence of her influence that he was induced to undertake a dramatic work."

Connecticut is prosperous. Its finances seem to be in an excellent condition. The State taxes were reduced about one-half three years ago, and nearly one million and a quarter of dollars have been saved in taxation during that period. FRIDAY,.....MARCH 31.

Dana, the unfortunate nominee for the post of ambassador at the English court, is accused of a heinous crime. He edited a well-known work on law, and stole all the "notes" by which it was adorned.

This is the chief malefaction that has been alleged. The members of the U. S. Senate must be growing virtuous—running to an opposite extreme. They are trying to catch the rogues, and it is possible that they will do execution on some person who has committed no greater sin than plagiarism. If this come to be the rule, why two-thirds of the authors of the time would be hanged in the shortest possible time—us, under excitement, Mrs. Surratt was hanged.

If literary stealing be a crime, there is hardly one of a hundred writers of books or editors of newspapers who does not deserve summary execution.

But there is more in this business than the stealing of "notes"—not bank notes.

Mr. Dana, as we infer from the descriptions that we see of him in the papers, is very self-sufficient—arrogant. He came of a good tribe of the East. Perhaps, the best parts of it, like potatoes, are under the ground.

He is a Republican in political sentiment—is extremely anti-southern, if what is reported of the notes be true. We know nothing about them, and are speaking on the authority of those newspapers which have given some investigation to the subject.

There is another motive of the opposition to the confirmation of this gentleman, and that is entirely a party one. Massachusetts, strange to say, is losing its influence in national affairs. Webster, Choate, Sumner, and other men of large influence, carried a vast amount of power with them. The greatest man that the state seems to have now, is Gen. Butler, and he is bent on defeating the confirmation of Dana. We suppose that in this he is paying off the score when he ran for Congress and was defeated. Dana, no doubt, did a good deal of engineering in that affair.

Butler is not a good Christian. When struck on the one cheek, he doesn't turn the other to be struck. He is a recalcitrant man, when he gets a fair chance to kick back. He is a self-sufficient man, like Dana, but one thing may be said of him with certainty: he never stole the notes for an annotated edition of a law book. The "spoons" are another thing.

On the whole, we begin to like this Gen. Butler. When he was in command of New Orleans, he committed what we of the South consider the greatest affront—that is, he classed the ladies of that city among the poor "women of the town," who have been generally more sinned against than sinning. This is what hurt him in the estimation of the Southern people. As a soldier, he was justified in any measure that was considered necessary to accomplish the purpose of the government. War is not fun. He, like Sherman, made it as terrible as he could; but that was no excuse for maligning the women, although we very well know that they were all rebels, and, by their influence, they could do a great deal of harm; but nothing of good was got by telling a lie about them.

Butler was an imperious man in his management of New Orleans, and it has come to be considered a wonder why he got out of the city without being carried out of it. But he knew his danger and was well-guarded.

There is a story told of a man who, thinking, perhaps, that he was much wronged by the General, went to his head quarters for the purpose of shooting him. He was passed through to the General's presence, the staff watching him, and he was so well watched that he thought it was not wise to draw the pistol that he had in his pocket. Butler knew this, and refused to do the mean harm. He could have sent him out to be shot—for the General had plenary power, and could have ordered, under his authority, any number of men and women also to be hanged, or shot, as Mrs. Surratt was.

That was a murder. Butler had some humanity, and would not have shot a woman. He would, no doubt, have used her for a better purpose.

The devil is not so buck as he is painted.

Butler is black enough; but he is one of the creatures of these times, which cast up their dregs—so that the bottom gets to the top.

He is a very skilful man in his vocation: that is to get all the good, in eating or otherwise, that is within his reach.

Mercury is the synonym of theft. The Greeks apotheosied him.

"History repeats itself," and will until the millenium come. We know this now: so let us give respect to all those persons who can steal, without getting into jail.

This is a true philosophy—not, by any means, of moral value; but we must take the current coin, as we do greenbacks, without too curious a disposition to inquire as to its intrinsic value.

Interesting from France.

The following is a summary of the strength of the parties in the French Chamber of Deputies: Republicans 354; Bonapartists 105; Conservatives (what this means is not stated) 46; Orleanists 8, and Legitimists 23. Total 536. It will be seen that if all the four last-named parties were to unite, their force would be only a little more than half of that of the Republicans. There are four colonial members whose opinions are not known.

The Paris correspondent of the New York World, from whose letter we compile these facts, says:

"The whole number of votes cast at the election of these 536 representatives was 8,533,612, of which the Republicans had 4,687,117, the Conservatives, Orleanists and Legitimists, 2,147,094, and the Bonapartists, 1,024,467. Thus the strength of the Bonapartists in the new Assembly is larger in proportion to their strength in plebiscitum than that of either the Republicans, or the Conservatives, Orleanists or Legitimists combined. Treat the question as you will, however, the stubborn fact remains that France has pronounced most emphatically for the republic. It remains to be seen what the Republican leaders will now do with the power intrusted to them. Gambetta, who is their real leader, has thus far shown much wisdom and some folly—the latter displaying itself chiefly in threats against the freedom of public education as established by the late Legislature."

We may add that in the Department of the Seine, which includes Paris and its suburbs, of the 25 members, 24 are Republicans. The one is a "Conservative."

MR. EDITOR.—The other day you made some remarks in defence of the state ordinance which taxes what are called "drummers." These industrious men come to us with knowledge of their business, and are trying to make a living. To tax them is putting a penalty on the labor of man. My own opinion is that they ought to be free from all taxation, for they are not among us as meddlers in political affairs. If they were of that kind I should say that the best way would be to tax them out of the state.

DRUMMER.

Not much reply is necessary to our correspondent, as above. In the state of Alabama every man doing any kind of business is taxed.

We are not certain that the boy who, running along the streets, with his box of blacking, and his small bench, is not asked by the city authorities to pay a license for what he does.

Suppose a boy of this kind comes from Tennessee, and gets a about "shining up shoes." Is he to pay not tax for the privilege because he comes from Tennessee. If this were the rule and the law, we should have great large grocery and other establishments doing business here without the cost of a nickel for the privilege.

We have said, and repeat it, that a "drummer" from Tennessee, or elsewhere, is a branch of the house which he serves. He is temporarily, perhaps, a partner in the concern which.

And if this man, a partner of the kind, can avoid the taxation which is put on our own people, why it would be as well to give up business, and invite the traders of other states to do it for us, without taxation. We are not quite sure that a plan of this kind would pay the principal or the interest of the debt of Alabama. It would, no doubt, be profitable to the foreigners.

We are much opposed to that sort of business which makes us an appanage of other states. Alabama is a sovereignty—notwithstanding the new clauses in the old Constitution; and it has a perfect right to make what laws it pleases in reference to subjects of this kind. They may be not wise laws—may be hurtful—but it has the right to do what it pleases in matters of this kind, and it is a trading insolence, as in this case, which denies that right.

JOHN E. Shawhan, a man of wealth in San Francisco—a retired stock broker—has built a palace for his horses—some eight or ten of them—at a cost of $100,000. We suppose that he gives them gold-covered oats; although, it is likely they would prefer them au naturel. Mr. Dane's stable that every day, we see going up, may not fresco the walls of his stalls; but we will wager a nickel that the proprietor and Mr. Alba can make them as happy as any horses stabled by the California millionaire.

We have received from London a pamphlet copy of "The third annual Report of the Council of the Corporation of foreign Bondholders" for 1875. It is a very influential body of merchants, some of them of high aristocratic rank. It was they who sent out Mr. Suagge to look after some of our Alabama bonds. There is a brief statement in respect of these, but our people know as much as is told in the pamphlet.

Judge Keyes and Judge Woods (not Judge Woods, of the United States Circuit Court) have been appointed to revise and "digest" the laws of this state.

CONCORD, N. H., March 30.—A freight train while standing on the Concord Railroad track last evening, waiting for a washout to be repaired, was run into by a passenger train from Manchester. The fireman, Wm. Saratelle was thrown back into the tender, which telescoped its entire length with the baggage car, and is severely, perhaps fatally, injured. Assistant Superintendent Hildreth, and Assistant-Roadmaster Wm. Burbank were also very seriously injured. Both engines were smashed, and the baggage car of the passenger train is wrecked and six or seven freight cars more or less damaged.

WORCESTER, Mass., March 30.—About 8 o'clock last night an alarm was given that the dam of Linde Brook Reservoir, which supplies the city, was giving away when the excitement became great, and clearing dwelling houses and mills commenced. At 9 o'clock the danger increased, the water pouring in torrents through the gate house. The break is in an archway, about sixty feet long, making under the entire dam a waterfall. The reservoir covers a hundred and forty acres, and stores six hundre d and seventy millions gallons of water.

At one time the gap was widening, and the dam is not expected to hold much longer. The fire hydrants and water pipes in the city were opened to draw off as much water as possible, and at 9:50 A. M., the water had stopped running through the city pipes, and it is thought the dam has given away bodily.

WORCESTER, March 30—3:30 A. M.—A reporter who is just in from the dam says it still holds. The gap is twenty feet wide and increasing rapidly, and cannot hold much longer.

WORCESTER, Mass., March 30—11 A. M.—The dam has not given way yet. The hydrants ran all night. There is intense excitement in the city, and efforts are being made to patch the break in the dam. The latest news shows a great chance of success, and a more encouraged feeling prevails.

P. M.—Later advices from the broken dam are of a more assuring character. Large tree-tranks, bales of hay and loads of dirt are being thrown into the gap, and the rush of water is being at last lessened.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 30.—Last night, as the steamer City of Hartford was passing down the river at Middletown, the boat missed the draw of Air Line Bridge over the Connecticut river, and striking her bow against the west side of the pier next to the pivot pier, carried away the span west of the draw 300 feet long, and it now lies across the stern of the boat. The passengers, about fifty in number, escaped without injury, but the pilot and one other is reported seriously injured.

WHITEHALL, N. Y., March 30.—A large fire is raging at Hoosack Falls, N. Y. The hotel and several buildings are burning, and all is saved far from Troy.

EVANSVILLE, March 30.—Eichel's tobacco warehouse and stemmery is burned; loss $40,000.

JACKSON, March 30.—Ames having resigned, the impeachment proceedings have been stopped. Col. J. M. Stone, President pro tem. of the senate, is in the gubernational chair.

BATON ROUGE, March 30.—A monster mass meeting was held here to receive the men who were arrested Saturday, by the United States marshal. They were received with cheers, artillery, and music.

FRIDAY,.....MARCH 31.

The Things are Comig.

From the New York World.]

The foreign exhibitors are crowding sail. Labrador arrived at Philadelphia last week with a load of French goods. The Spanish steamship City of Vera Cruz, lying at pier No. 3 North River, New York, has aboard 1,577 packages of goods for the Exhibition, which had been brought over from Spain to Havana and there transshipped. All the goods from Holland have arrived. Among them are 146 masterpieces of the Duesseldorf school of painting, and four copies of pictures by old Dutch masters. The latter include Paul Potter's "Bull." The steamers Vaterland, from Antwerp, and Lord Clive and Indiana from Liverpool, have come with some forty car-loads of packages. The parts of the Moorish villa, shipped by Dr. Schmidt, German Consul of Tangiers, Morocco, for erection on the grounds, have arrived on four freight cars.

These are the most recent foreign arrivals, in addition to the prompt contributions of Japan, China and other countries previously written of. Three hundred cases of Australian exhibits are on the way from San Francisco. The collection of Danish articles has left Hamburg by the steamer Hammonia. Goods from many colonies are due at our seaports. All the steamers of the American and Red Star lines arriving from this time until May will have goods for the Exhibition. Of the 926 exhibitors of all sorts from Italy there are 146 from Florence, 125 from Turin, 119 from Milan, 82 from Rome, 51 from Palermo, 44 from Bologna, 34 from Catania, 27 from Naples, 19 from Messina, 16 from Sienna, 13 from Salerno, 12 from Medina, 10 from Legourne, 9 from Genoa, 8 from Venice, 6 from Palisance.

The residence of Senator Walter B. Harris, of Russell, was destroyed by fire yesterday at Girard. We regret to say Mr. Harris lost nearly everything he had, including a large amount of furniture, many valuable books and papers, and a great variety of curiosities of nature and art, of which he had been a diligent gatherer for many years.—Mont. BY

H. BALLENTYNE AND THOMAS E. LYONS.

How Rossi Does Macbeth.

Rossi's "Macbeth" is by a Parisian critic, called ludicrously Rossi. The scene of Duncan's murder is made the medium of contrasting effects by Macbeth attempting to give his wife an idea of how the voices of the sleeping grooms sound while those still on "deal bloss" and 'Amen' the others," as the banquet scene Rossi introduces a new and extraordinary feature. As the queen flashes the ghastly terrors of fear at the recent apparition of Banquo's ghost he thunders over his long, snaky, lithe, hair and body crouching and quaking to see what is coming next. The idea is that his thoughts are so crowded with horror and doubt that he is incapable of paying to a proper control of his physical actions. The Lady Macbeth, played by Mme. Parent-Giech, is a great success. Her influence over her husband is of a decided unassuming character. To hear her to his face after Duncan's "chicken" she is while the visitors are knocking at the gate; she chides him about that chicken-hearted work, with the cool aplomb of a ten poltroonery power.

Reappearance of Flowers.

The effect of light, regarded as the revival of life in the vegetable world, has just been illustrated by the observations near Athens of the Monarchia, under very certain circumstances. The notice of leaves concerning which of late years there have been such active disputations, took place on the 6th of March, when the sun's rays, after passing through the atmosphere, fell upon the ground. The plant is a species of ranunculus, and is described by Pliny and Theophrastus, and had disappeared from the face of the globe fifteen or twenty centuries.

An inquisitive but hasty young Briton went down to visit Mount Vernon not long since, and finding many inquiries, and noting down the answers, he said to the aged incumbent. "Ah! may I ask you if General Washington was in the army?" "He was, sir," replied the gentleman. "And on which side, sir, union or rebel?" "Rebel, sir," was the reply, which was cautiously noted down.

"Ugh! I'll tell you what it is, Jones, if there were burglars in my house and I knew it, by Jingo, I'd—" "Well, what would you do?" "I'd do whatever they required of me. I never find my own way in that house yet, and it's too late to commence now."

"Eliza," said a clergyman to one of his parishioners, whose hair was gray, "your hair is quite peculiar. The Lord had designed your hair to curl." "He would have curled it for you." "He did, sir, when I was a child; was the reply; "but He, choice not that I am old enough to do it myself."

SATURDAY, APRIL 1.

We have reported that there was much small-pox in Pensacola. We got the information from the papers of that city, and know nothing about it, except what knowledge we got from them.

The disease, we see, is in New York city, and it is there producing some anxiety among persons who watch matters of the kind. Vaccination is strongly urged.

Queen Victoria has acquired a new title—that is, Empress of India, made by act of Parliament. Great Britain for a long time has been master of India. Two very great men accomplished this, namely: Hastings and Clive. They saved the possessions to the British crown. The former was troubled, and the latter received honors. Both were great men, although neither was of the aristocratic stock.

One of the greatest horses of the time died in the state of New York a few days ago—the stallion Hambletonian. His age twenty-eight. His biography is given in some of the northern papers. It is interesting, but we have not space to copy it. He came of a good family, and did what work was set before him with entire honesty. We hope that all the two legged animals will do it as faithfully as was done by that quadruped.

The Lotteries.

The attorneys for the owners of the charter of the Alabama State Aid Association, have applied for a mandamus to the Supreme Court. It is probable the case will be heard before the United States Supreme Court.—Montgomery Advertiser.

As the above is of interest in Mobile, where the lottery companies are, we append the following from the paper above named:

W. W. Boyd, jr. vs. The State. Appeal from Mobile City Court.

STONE, J.

1. Setting up or carrying on lotteries being contrary to the general law and long declared policy of the State, no uncertain or doubtful terms or provisions employed in a particular charter, will be construed to authorize them.

2. Such of the provisions in the body of the act to establish a mutual aid association and to raise funds for the common school system of Alabama," approved Oct. 10th, 1868, as purport to authorize the carrying on of a lottery or games of chance, are unconstitutional and void, because the subject of the act, as expressed in the title, does not cover them.

3. The cases of Brent vs. State (43 Ala. 297), Boyd & Jackson vs. State (46 Ala. 620), Boyd vs. State (in MSS.) overruled and the case of Moses & Beebe vs. Mayor and Aldermen of Mobile (in MSS.) adhered to and re-affirmed.

4. Whererelying on a statute which has been pronounced constitutional by the highest court of the State, a person does acts which but for the statute would be indictable and is afterwards indictable and convicted, the appellate court, on appeal, if it deem the statute unconstitutional, is bound to affirm the conviction, if that is the only point involved.

BRICKELL, C. J., dissenting on this point.

Affirmed.

Whether these lottery companies are useful, or not, is not the question. If all sorts of the methods they represent were to come to an end, we are not sure that we should not have to abolish more than half the trade of Mobile.

But the question is this, and hereon hangs what is right or wrong. The state by indispatable authority, gave these companies charters, under certain conditions. The state has been [illegible] conditions then of [illegible] and only for these purposes [illegible] gradually, requisites three hours to exhaust [illegible]t. No lives [illegible]

[illegible] have no more [illegible] bonds for [illegible] this regard [illegible] office have [illegible] the city or [illegible] is good, in a proper [illegible] of the term, as is that of the [illegible] or the city; and no man ought to feel any responsibility in either case, unless he may have given his assent to it by vote or otherwise. After even then, we are not sure that the opposition voters ought not to be relieved from the burden of taxation which the majority may have assumed.

We go so far as to believe that there is no obligation on a citizen for any bonds that have been issued without his assent, having been given by ballot, or otherwise.

Here comes in a keen fellow who wants to get bonds from the city for anything: for example, a street railroad to the moon. Well, some of us fools think that a railroad to the moon would be a good thing. We want to see the man who is said to be there. Some keen fellow comes along and says: "I'll make that railroad, but it costs something to build it." He goes to the mayor and to the governor, and tells them that he can build the railroad. We [illegible] to the moon, and what kind of people dwell on it. Well, bonds are issued to build a railroad to the moon—the moon people probably laughing at us. The man having the bonds runs to Wall street, and sells them for anything that he can get; perhaps, ten cents in the dollar. That suffices for his purposes, and the bonds come back, demanding cent. per cent., with interest added, and thus we pay for a railroad to the moon.

Why what a miserable set of lunatics we are to suffer this to be done, and yet we are allowing it to be done, and all through the country it is allowed.

This is the way by which the state and municipalities are covered all over with debt.

It is shameful that it is so, and proves clearly to us that men need masters—both white and black.

There is another thing of importance. Only once have our citizens been put to a vote in respect of what they were willing to bear in contributions for the purpose of this kind: that was the Mobile and Ohio Railroad. The votes on that were almost unanimous. Here is a question which in equity we leave for public consideration: were not those persons who voted in the negative not entitled to be relieved of the taxation that, by this vote, was put on the community?

We can discover no right by which I shall be made to pay a tax to promote what I think wrong.

For necessary municipal purposes, we can approve of a property tax, and for that and nothing more—not for railroads, or fancy purposes. It is the duty of the city to see that the latter are kept in such order that a man walking to his domicil shall not break his legs or neck, or run against the cows which infest the highways. There end the quota.

Well, then, what to do in matters of this kind? Tue question is simple, and the answer can be made as brief. Allow neither city nor state to use the public credit, and if either does it, without our assent, to say that we shall not pay. There is no moral responsibility otherwise on the matter.

Men buy bonds of the states or municipalities for almost nothing. They take self risks. It is all or nothing—gambling. We who have to pay ought to make their values nothing. In this way we may get rid of these ridiculous responsibilities for which no one thinks he has any responsibility, and which few feel none, and would not sacrifice the bonds of the state, or this city, brought nothing more than what in a grate would go up a chimney. SATURDAY, APRIL 1.

LOCAL NEWS.

Mrs. General Benton, mentioned lately by General Butler as a mysterious witness, was in her maiden days Mildred White, of Mobile. So it is stated.

The closing out sale of the balance of jewelry, watches, silver spoons, forks, housekeeping articles, wall pockets, shoe oil, paintings, etc., at store under Odd Fellow Hall, at half past seven o'clock this evening, by Samuel Gottwals, will give those who attend it an opportunity to obtain the rarest bargains.

The Opal restaurant and hotel, next door to the post office, is conducted on the European plan. Guests may dine and wine there and sleep elsewhere, or they may take lodging there and dine where they choose. Seamen since to be polite and courteous to all.

City Court.—Judge Semmes on the bench. The case of Stephen King, for assault with intent to murder, occupied the attention of the court yesterday. The jury found the defendant guilty of assault and battery and fined him $50. Today Edward Caller will be tried on the charge of enticement of Misses Lena, Kate Owens and Tobe Douglas.

There are many things in the World, and some of them are at the store of O. J. Hood, 26 North Commerce and 33 North Front street, some of which are enumerated in his advertisement this morning. These things are very essential to live stock, lands and human beings. The prices are so low as to shop-keepers. Retail dealers should go there to buy things.

The clothing sales of Pincus, the famous dealer, northeast corner of Dauphin and Royal, are made on Saturday at remarkably low prices, whether the purchaser buys a single garment, or a full, fashionable suit. The salesmen at this house make only correct representations as to the quality of the goods, and the prices are established so low that the buyer is perfectly satisfied.

Mayor's Court.—In this court yesterday, Mayor Hartel presiding, Ben Isaac, a colored youth, arrested as a vagrant, explained that he was away from his mother because she threatened to whip him. He was remanded to the custody of the chief of police who will have his mother notified. Fred Connor, child of drunk, was fined $2 50. Geo. Higgins and Geo. Morrill, arrested as tramps, were released on their promise to leave the city immediately.

Mobile Varieties.—The usual Saturday evening's throng of people will visit the Mobile Varieties tonight, where Manager Hippler has provided an entertainment that will possess unusual interest. There will be Kitty Davenport in song and dance, including the "Highland Fling," Addie Woods and Miss Woods in the plaintive song of "Two Orphans," Lizzie Wanton in songs and ballads, and a new star from New Orleans, Dick Roberts in Dutch and Ethiopian delineations and Durand in legerdemain and a host of brilliant novelties.

The Weather Yesterday.—It was a delightful day yesterday, though it was cloudy in the afternoon with indications of rain. But it did not rain, nor even sprinkle. At 651 a. m. the wind blew 34 miles at Indianola and 3 at Mobile. The temperature at Mobile was 53, highest 69 at Indianola, lowest 50 at Montgomery.

At last yesterday afternoon, the wind blew 2 miles an hour at New Orleans and 8 at Mobile. The temperature was at Corsicana 79, Key West 77, Augusta and Montgomery 75, Galveston and Savannah 73, Indianola 72, Mobile 67, New Orleans 66.

RIVER NEWS.

The steamer Peerless, Captain Owen Flanegan, from Montgomery arrived at a very early hour yesterday morning with 141 bales of cotton, 13 sacks of cotton seed, a fair freight of sundries and twenty-two passengers.

Later in the day arrived the D. L. Tally, Captain Woodis Stone, of Frank Stone's Grange Line, from McLaren's Landing, with 171 bales of cotton, a good miscellaneous freight and twenty-nine passengers.

The Emma No. 2, announced to leave last evening for Tuskaloosa, will hold over till next Tuesday evening.

The favorite passenger packet Peerless, with Captain Owen Flanegan on the roost and Mr. P. J. Lyons in the office will back out this evening at five o'clock for Selma and Montgomery. The Peerless having been thoroughly overhauled, is just as good as new. Her state rooms are in excellent condition and her saloon temptingly comfortable. Considerable freight was received yesterday and she will go out with a full cargo. Spaulding & Foster agents.

The splendid steamer D. L. Tally of Frank Stone's Grange Line, with Captain Woodis Stone to run her, will cast off her lines this evening at five o'clock for Pickensville and intermediate points. The Tally took on a full complement of freight yesterday, including bales and shingles, and she will receive to-day at 10 the hour of her departure. Captain Frank Stone has established a reputation for the Tally that she never achieved before, and this will aid her materially, on the up-river passenger and freight trip. Spaulding & Foster agents.

WALKS AROUND TOWN.

Hot coffee, five cents a cup, at Thompson's, opposite the Campbell House.

New Orleans received this week 25,161 bales of cotton. Last week, 23,749 bales—a falling off of 3,388 bales.

If you want the choicest pickles in barrels, or by the measure, go to Owen Farley, Government street.

To obtain bargains in furnishing goods, go to Hatton's, corner Dauphin and Royal, and examine his stock.

The cotton receipts at Mobile this week were 5465 bales. Last week 4966 bales—an increase of just 500 bales.

A set of Hatton's shirt jewelry, at the low price set on each article, would be an economical purchase at any time.

The celebrated Cape City flour, which took the first premium at the Vienna Exposition, is always in store in barrels and half barrels, at Owen Farley's.

Look in the display windows of Pincus, and select a shirt, flannel or cotton undergarments, a vest, necktie or an elegant handkerchief and then buy the duplicate.

Cotton seed meal is very nutritious for milch cows, and that is why Owen Farley buys it in large quantities, and sells it to suit purchasers, at his Government street grocery.

To set a drove well pet down, go to the Young Brothers, corner Dauphin and St. Emanuel, who do that class of work much cheaper than it is done by anybody else in Mobile.

Esporte kid gloves, the best in the market, of all colors, and the Reynier (Imperial calf) gloves, fashionable and cheap, at Hatton's southeast corner Dauphin and Royal.

Gas fixtures sold and gas fitting done by Young Brothers, corner Dauphin and St. Emanuel, who are also plumbers and prepared to execute promptly all orders in that line.

One of the specialities of Hatton, furnishing goods dealer, is neckties, of which he has a full line, of the latest and most fashionable patterns.

When visiting New Orleans, go to the City Hotel, Watson & Mumford, proprietors. Location central, tables abundantly supplied, lodging rooms, well ventilated and prices moderate.

For your Sunday supply of groceries and provisions, go to the family grocery store of Walter Crosbie, southeast corner of Dauphin and Jackson streets. Stock carefully selected. Prices low.

The Young Brothers, corner Dauphin and St. Emanuel, are agents for two or three patterns of cooking ranges, the best of which is the Stag's Head Range, superior to any now in use anywhere.

The closing cotton quotations of the Board of Trade, yesterday were: Ordinary 9¼@10; good ordinary 10¼@11; low middling 11¼@12; middling 12¼@13; good middling 13¼.

The cotton receipts at Mobile since September first have been 348,911 bales, against 293,264 bales during the corresponding period the preceding year—an increase of 49,647 bales.

According to the Board of Trade reports, the cotton receipts yesterday at all ports were 14,795 bales: New Orleans 6,065, Norfolk 800, Charleston 991, Mobile 1,498, Savannah 572, Galveston 1,593.

The noon cotton report of the Board of Trade yesterday was: "Market weak and small sales." Closing report: "Sales today 500 bales and 500 last evening. Market closed weak and irregular. Light demand."

The Montgomery Railroad has brought in considerable cotton this week. The Journal says, judging from the appearance of the warehouses at Montgomery, half the crop is there now. The Montgomery Railroad has brought to Mobile since September first 55,889 bales. During the same period the preceding year 78,743 bales.

"Prepare for a rainy day" is an admonition that has become a proverb. There is no better way to do it than to go to Hatton's furnishing goods house, Royal and Dauphin, and buy an umbrella. Rich stock is large and prices small.

It is not yet too late to plant potatoes. The value of the crop depends very materially on the variety of the potato that is planted. Owen Farley, 64, 66, 68, 70 and 72 Government street, has the peerless, early rose, peach blow, red, russets and Chili.

Hatton is the shirt king of Mobile. He has a large and carefully selected stock and sells at these astonishing low prices: 85c shirts for $0 00 (open back or front); six for $10 50, six for $12 50, six for $16 00. The quality of the goods is excellent and the work so faithfully done that the seams do not rip, nor the buttons come off.

Last Day of the Races.—Captain Brooks to-day to the Victoria race-course to the landing near the Magnolia race course, more passengers there in the two previous days. Besides the crowds of people went out there in private conveyances, and so the attendance was very large, notwithstanding the threatening weather.

The first race, two mile dash, purse $175—$100 to first, $50 to second, $25 to third, resulted as follows:

W. Cutchin's b. m. Pass Broadnax 1
W. Cutchin's b. f. N. Nelligan 2
W. H. Williamson's ch. m. Carrie Fish 3
Time 4:4.

The second, a trotting race, mile heats, best 2 in 3, free for all; purse $150—$100 to first, $35 to second, $15 to third. The result was:

L. B. Fordney's Blind Tom	1 1
G. B. Strawhun's b. m. Birdie	2 3
E. P. Toulmin's Dick Abram	3 4
Jno. McDonald's br. m. Alice	4 2

The Justices in Council.—Hostility to Negro Constables.—There are on County Court, Judge Semmes on the bench, a number of justices of the peace, perhaps the only one being Justice Roulston. The rest, however, who exercise the powers of justice of the peace, are clothed with full authority to do so each by virtue of an appointment by the governor as notary public and ex-officio justice of the peace. A meeting was held last Wednesday evening at the office of Ex Officio Justice Loomis, at which eight of these officials were present. It was called for the purpose of inaugurating some plan of action that would terminate the employment of colored constables.

To add weight to the deliberations of this body of assembled magistrates, it was determined that the presiding officer should possess the requisite of personal dignity, and so Ex Officio Justice Flanegan was selected to act in that capacity. The records of the deliberations of these eight magistrates, it was thought, should be made in the most legible penmanship, and so Ex-Officio Justice Loomis was elected secretary.

In order that none of these magistrates should charge unreasonable items in their bill of costs, a committee was appointed to frame the bill. A resolution was adopted that no constable shall be employed whose moral character is not irreproachable. A timid voice suggested that it might be that responsible position also up to this high standard should not be found, without searching Bull's Head and Whistler.

A resolution was also introduced and laid over, under the rules, till the adjourned meeting next Wednesday evening, providing that no colored constable shall be employed by any justice or ex-officio justice of the peace.

The meeting then adjourned.

The wholesale grocery store and liquor house of Martin Horst at the corner of Conti, Commerce and Front streets, is always the scene of activity. Mr. Horst has had a long experience in the wholesale liquor trade, and consequently is the agency of the celebrated Kentucky beer of Best & Leger Beer Bottling Company. His stock of groceries is large and fresh and is offered at the lowest prices. Retail dealers of the city and county should open a line of trade with him.

In passing by the store of Ira W. Porter & Co., corner St. Francis and Water streets, attention is attracted to their overstock of kitchen stoves of various patterns, which they sell at the lowest prices. They are extensive dealers in foreign and imported hardware and a great variety of goods that are used in households. They have a large stock of plantation implements and machinery, gardeners and turpentine makers' tools and in fact, a great variety of everything ever found in a hardware store.

Councilman Anderson has consented to withdraw his resignation as a member of that board. So Councilman Perry, one of the committee to wait on Mr. Anderson and request him to do so, reported Thursday evening. Mr. Anderson is a valuable member of the upper branch of the city legislature, and his friends will be gratified to know that he has consented to serve the city in that capacity still longer.

There were four clearances at the Mobile custom house yesterday of cotton for foreign ports—Barcelona, Rotterdam, Grostadt and Havre. The number of bales was 5,326; value of the cargoes, these vessels loaded at the wharves, and this is an important fact to be noted.

Circuit Court.—Judge Toulmin presiding. In the case of Harrison vs. Tobe et al. the jury rendered a verdict for defendant. Two unimportant cases were tried yesterday. Today, a motion for a new trial in the case of Hudson vs. Wickersham will be argued.

Druggists obtained on credit are breeches of trust.

Cotton Exports of March.—The cotton clearances for foreign ports during the month of March were 40,034 bales, valued at $2,254,937. The cotton clearances for foreign ports during the month of February were 97,580 bales, valued at $5,609,975. These were the heaviest clearances during the month of March ever reported, though in December and January there were 40,029 bales. Mobile has equal vitality yet as a cotton shipping port.

SUNDAY.....APRIL 2

Two deaths by small pox at Milton (Fla.) are reported.

Montgomery is claiming the right to consider itself the best musical city in Alabama. You see how that is? Mr. Tannenbaum is there.

The President of the United States was very ill last Tuesday his disorder being neuralgia of the brain. On Thursday his health was so much improved that he could get in his carriage.

Gov. Ames, of Mississippi, sent to his resignation on condition that the articles of impeachment be withdrawn—quashed. His offer was accepted. The articles were withdrawn and exit the governor.

There is what is called by the law and the lawyers compounding of felony." What is this act of that kind? There is an excuse: the prosecution would have been expensive, and thus, perhaps, the compromise was economical. Economy now-a-days is a virtue.

MEXICAN WAR VETERANS.—Medal badges have been struck at the U. S. Mint, Philadelphia, commemorative of the Mexican war, and can be obtained by making application to the Secretary of the National Association at Washington. Printed forms can be had by applying at the Coroner's office, northwest corner of Conti and St. Emanuel streets. Possession of this medal will entitle the parties to important facilities and privileges, should they contemplate a visit to the Centenial Exhibition.

The present Congress is for the purpose of providing ammunition for the uses of partisan papers in the election for the Presidency.

The rascalities that have been already exposed are shocking to any person of moral susceptibility, and we are not sure, as it appears now, whether there will not be two sides to be exposed.

The Republicans have had a great advantage in this respect. They have used it, and shamefully too. If what is reported in the papers be true, there is no doubt that in the case of Secretary Belknap there are most disgusting certainties. His wife, it is said, is responsible for these knaveries, which were innocent because they furnished her with the most costly raiment, and couches and innumerable servants.

Belknap loved his wife. She is a beautiful woman, and so he was made, by her influence, a thief. That betrays weakness. A man ought to stand above any influence of the kind—more especially as he may, by her fault, be sent to a penitentiary, or become a synoym of official peculation.

We pity both of them—she a fool, and he weak enough to be fooled by her.

They will not, however, send her to jail, and so she will escape that evil result of a vanity which has disgraced her husband.

If what is said in the partisan papers be true, it is impossible to find in any past era so much corruption as there is now exposed.

We can judge only by the reports, and, as we have intimated, we are not sure that the weakness is confined to any one party.

Human nature is about equal in all parties. Temptations which will influence the one, will influence the others. All that is essential in them is—opportunities.

This is so true that one need not dilate in respect of it.

Well, then, what is to be done in the terrible emergency? Nothing more than this: elect trust men to office, without reference to their party opinions. This is the only way that we can see how to do it.

Sunlight.

On an outside page is some curious information in respect of the "Effect of the Sun on Lunatics." In therapeutics, if the experiments related are not fallacious—and they are vouched for by eminent men—they may direct attention to a much wider application of the sun force than simply to lunacy. In palsy, for example, or paralysis.

It is a little strange that some of the commonest things that may be used with great benefit in diseases seem to be overlooked. For instance, salt. In spasms, it gives immediate relief, if used properly. We have seen its benign results in one case or this disorder.

A peasant went along one night, staring at the stars, and imploring some aid from them—he was a natural astrologer—but didn't see a diamond lying at his feet. So it is with men of all classes. They strive after the impossible, and starve because they cannot reach it—neglecting what lies at their feet.

Apropos of salt, we have the authority for the story from one of our Mobile physicians, who was a highly instructed member of the profession, but is now dead. He was finishing a course of study, having graduated in one of the Edinburgh medical schools, closing at Apothecaries' Hall, London.

A very ambitious young doctor went to the great city to seek reputation and custom. He thought that the first thing to be done, in order to accomplish his object was to make a sensation, and the result was a very ingenious essay for the purpose of showing that nearly all the physical ills of men come from the use of salt. It did create a sensation for a moment—every one read—knew better, and then began to laugh. The poor fellow, in despair, went out and was never seen alive any more. He committed suicide. He was somewhat like that wonderful youth Chatterton, the poet. Both were lunatics—looking at the moon, and not seeing the jewel lying at their feet: that is of industry and skill in their vocations, in order to get a solid reputation, which does mostly—nor always—bring what is the reward of a well-spent life.

The Storms.

The storm last week at the east and north was very destructive; but that "tidal wave" of atmosphere was not experienced to this continent. In Europe it was very destructive. The Holland dykes, which had stood so many convulsions of the kind, gave way, and hundreds of people who relied on them for security were driven to the upper lands to save themselves from drowning.

We of Mobile were outside of the limits of this convulsion of the elements. We have had some of it, and a few fences were blown down. Weak fences, we have no doubt, that could not have stood up long, if there had been no wind to push them down.

The New York World, of the 29th ult., in describing this storm, says;

"The tempest which struck us last night will go careering on over miles of land and sea beyond us, and it is very probable, not to say certain, that we shall hear of its fury and of the devastation wrought by it from beyond the Atlantic itself. Only a fortnight ago there burst over the western shores of Europe a tempest, coming from the west, which all accounts agree in describing as "nearer to a tropical hurrikane than anything which has been known in England and France for a generation." The great storm of France which flow into the Channel and the Ray of Biscay, swollen by long-continued rains and rolling mighty floods to the sea, were met, arrested and pressed backward in masses to inundate the country through which they pass. In Normandy great trees were uprooted. Huge blocks of stone were hurled from the cliffs of Calvados by the sheer force of the wind. At Liege the barometer fell to a point lower than has been known there since the invention of that instrument. At Brussels a man walking on the street was whirled up twenty feet into the air, and then let down again quite uninjured. In London the driver of an omnibus in the public streets was carried off a telegraph wires, which drew upon his throat and actually cut off his head. The Rhine was heaped up at Coblence to the height of a house, the roofs of churches were blown into neighboring houses in various parts of England and the Continent, and the air in many cities, we are told, actually hurtled with flying lasts and wigs and chignons and religious, shrieking that living but grotesque description of the Day of Judgment, in which the estimable Dr. Young tells us that

"Through the echoing sky Fragments of bodies in confusion fly," while

"The head moves on to meet
The distant neck, the distant legs the feet."

First of April.

Yesterday was "All Fools' Day," but the gamins were not sharp enough to catch the old birds with their little worms. We saw one gentleman, who stooped down to pick up a package that lay in his way. He opened it, and found a ten cent piece, in fractional currency. He pocketed that, and the joke was on the wrong side, but the boys laughed, and paid ten cents for the privilege. The money was spent for lager beer.

SUNDAY.....APRIL 2.

LOCAL NEWS.

JOSEPH LOOMIS.—Julius Winston and Bob Bailey arrested for larceny of clothing. Fined $5 and costs. The same party had Bob arrested for assault and battery. Fined $5 and costs.

Rev. Victor Both will deliver an English sermon in the German Evangelical Lutheran Church, on St. Francis street, between Warren and Dearborn, at 7½ P. M. The public are respectfully invited to attend.

The choicest wines and liquors to be found in our city and in quantities to suit customers can be obtained at Owen Farley's stores on Government street and at prices lower than at any other house. His large stock of imported wines is worthy the attention of connoisseurs.

The attention of all who are in want of feed is called to the large stock to be found at the stores No. 64, 66, 68, 70 and 72 Government street, as Owen Farley has made a specialty in that line and has all hay, corn, oats, bran, etc., etc., at the lowest prices to be found at any place in the city.

Mayor's Court.—In this court yesterday morning, Mayor Hartel presiding, Ned Finnerty, arrested for making a row on Government street Friday, was released, the complainant not appearing. Fred, alias Tom Counure, arrested for trying to beat a restaurant keeper out of a square meal, was released on his promise to settle up.

Mayhew.—The restaurant of John Madlon is at No. 26 South Royal street. Customers can always find a bill of fare lying on the tables from which they may select any substantial or delicacy of the season. Oysters in every style. Meals at all hours. Board by the day, week or month. Lodging rooms in connection with the restaurant.

W. Crosbie.—This well known grocer, who occupies the spacious store south east corner of Jackson and Dauphin streets, and who has the capacity to advertise in the Tribune, replenishes his stock daily and keeps his spacious store well filled with the choicest family and fancy groceries. Those who desire to buy fresh groceries, at a slight advance on wholesale prices, should call on Mr. Crosbie.

At the clothing and furnishing goods house of Brink & Jacobson, 56 Dauphin street, the rarest bargains may be secured in the purchase of a full suit of clothing or a single article of furnishing goods. The reputation of this firm for handsomely fitting for fair and honest dealing, and their customers are always treated with such consideration that they go back again to get good fits and better bargains.

Circuit Court.—In the case of Roberta T. Hudson vs M. D. Wickersham wherein, March 25, 1876, the jury rendered a verdict for plaintiff of $3,261 66 yesterday, on motion, Hon. H. T. Toulmin, judge of the circuit court, set aside the verdict and granted a new trial, on the ground that the verdict was contrary to the evidence, to the law and to the charge of the court.

The court adjourned till the 7th of May.

Stuffed Birds.—Monday afternoon and all day Tuesday there will be found at Mr. L. E. Brooks' store on exhibition a large and attractive collection of bird of rare and beautiful plumage and of interesting and specimens of the feathered tribe. The public, including the ladies, especially, are invited to examine the collection. The sale takes place Wednesday. Don't fail to attend the exhibitions and the sale.

City Court.—Judge Semmes on the bench. The case of Kate Owens, charged with stealing a considerable sum of money from a young man, who lost a $100 note, when he visited the joint premises of herself and another of her class, occupied the court all day. It went to the jury at four o'clock and at twelve o'clock, failing to agree, they were discharged. Kate was remanded back to jail.

Religious.—The Rev. Father Downey, of Spring Hill College, assisted by the Rev. Clergy of this city, will open a mission in the Cathedral this, Sunday evening at half past seven o'clock. The following is the programme for the week: Sunday evening, 7½ o'clock, Vespers, sermon and benediction. During the week:

Mass at 6 o'clock with instructions.
Mass at 9 o'clock with instructions.
Sermon at 7½ in the evening, followed by Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament. The mission will close on Sunday next.

WALKS AROUND TOWN.

The weather became quite pleasant yesterday, although the air at night could be felt passing off with a cloudless sky.

A good healthful rain fell yesterday afternoon and there were sharp flashes of lightning and the wind blew a hurricane in the evening.

L. E. Brooks will sell tomorrow at half past nine o'clock a.m., furniture, dry goods, shoes, ground coffee, teas, onion, pickles and sundries.

W. A. Alexander and Geo. St. John have formed a copartnership under the firm name of Alexander, St. John & Co., to conduct the soap manufacturing business.

To-morrow morning opening and buying of week's supply of groceries, provisions and such vegetables as potatoes of Owen Farley, at his mammoth grocery, 64, 66, 68, 70 and 72 Government street.

R. B. Owen & Co, 10 St. Francis, advertise an estate for sale consisting of sixteen acres of land, and a good dwelling house, two miles and a half from the river, with fruit trees in bearing condition.

The internal revenue commissioner promulgates today in the Tribune an important notice in reference to special internal revenue taxes. Parties interested should read the advertisement and pay their taxes.

Hodgson & Lightfoot, attorneys-at-law, 15 South Royal street, have a card in the Tribune which reminds us to say that these gentlemen are safe and discreet legal advisers, who will look closely after the interests of their clients.

Pincus, corner Royal and Dauphin, sells fashionable clothing of durable fabric at the lowest prices. He has a large stock of furnishing goods, embracing everything in that line for men and boys at the smallest figures.

That gentleman, of the old genial Virginia school, Captain W. H. Merritt, will conduct his usual Monday morning auction sale tomorrow at the corner of royal and St. Antoine streets. It is a pleasure to bid when his silvery voice wells on an article for sale.

Bargains are still offered to parties who want guns, pistols, fishing tackle or other goods usually found in a gun and sporting house, by Mr. F. L. Gelbke, of 14 Dauphin street, who is diminishing his large stock by selling at reduced rates.

The pretty little bay steamer, Annie, Captain H. C. Baldwin, will make an excursion trip to Point Clear today, leaving the Dauphin street wharf at half past nine o'clock a. m., and returning in the evening. Fare for the round trip one dollar.

He who has an entire harness, favorite saddle or bridle that he prizes for the service it has done, need not put it in soak because slight repairs are needed. He can put it in Pickel and H. R., next door to Shawhan's stable will make it almost as good as new.

Those who are not in a special hurry to go to New Orleans should wait and join the Lee Association excursion on the nineteenth instant, leaving at 9 a. m. that day and returning on the evening of no less at 2 p. m. Fare for the round trip $3.

Messrs. R. B. Owen and M. Brewer have formed a copartnership for the purpose of conducting the real estate brokerage business. The field is large and profitable and if these gentlemen do not grasp the lion's share that is within their reach, the fault will be only their own.

A great many things are needed in households, on plantations and in gardens. By consulting the advertisement of O. J. Hood, 38 North Commerce street and 33 North Front street, no idea can be formed of where any of these things can be obtained and purchasers may be assured that they will also get good bargains.

The best is the cheapest. That has passed into proverb. No better material, no better workmanship and no more fashionable shoe is made in Mobile than at Jacob Frank's, 22 Dauphin street, 2 doors above Conti. Boys. This class of work is a specialty at that establishment, and the prices are astonishingly low.

As there is almost a certainty that the weather will be altogether cool today, of course everybody will ride down to Frascati on the Conception street cars, which will commence running there at two o'clock p. m. Martin Horst, the proprietor, has made all the usual arrangements for the comfort of those who visit that delightful bay shore retreat.

Chess, Carley & Co., successors to W. T. West & Co., 68 North Commerce street, are producers and refiners of petroleum and dealers in naval stores and distillers supplies. They do a very extensive business in these articles; shipping turpentine to the west in tank cars and receiving petroleum in the same manner from the west. Parties in want of goods in their line should call at the establishment of Chess, Carley & Co.

The wholesale grocery house of A. A. Voss & Co., 3, 35 and 40 South Commerce street, is conducted by merchants who buy snugly, sell at small profits and therefore give good bargains to their customers. They are engaged in the manufacture of naval stores, spirits of turpentine, rosin, tar, pitch, etc., and are receivers of standard white kerosene and lubricating oils. Their oils and turpentine are transported in special tank cars.

At 10 a. m. and 7½ p. m. tomorrow, there will be an auction sale in the store under Odd Fellows' Hall of crockery, glassware, plated ware, jewelry, wall pockets, chromos, paintings, fancy goods, etc. Great bargains can be obtained by attending these sales.

The Julia Mathews English Opera Bouffe Company.—This organization, which comes to us endorsed in the most phenomenal manner by the press of the north and west, will appear at the theatre on the evenings of Friday and Saturday next. They will also give a matinee Saturday. The prima donna of the troupe, Miss Julia Mathews is said to be an artiste of most remarkable skill. She was the original in London, of "Le Grand Duchesse," "La Belle Helene," "Mme Angot" and "Giroflo Girofla." The New York World pronounces the "comedy artist that has yet crossed the Atlantic who can give English opera bouffe with the vim and sparkle of the French originals and yet keep herself "on support" with a cultivated and critical audience." She will be supported by an organization of twenty-five artists and will give us her opening performances "Giroflo Girofla," for the matinee "The Bohemian Girl" and Saturday night, for the first time in Mobile, the world-renowned "La Fille de Madame Angot." At each of these performances, we expect to see the theatre crowded by our better class of citizens, always the first to appreciate musical merit.

RIVER NEWS.

There was no arrival yesterday and no boat was due.

The Peerless, with Captain Owen Flanagan on the roof, went out last evening, with a full freight, about all that she could carry, inclued, there were some appreciamous at one time, that it would be necessary to get up steam on the Jno. T. Moore as Captain Flanagan never refuses freight.

The D. L. Tally, of Frank Stone's Independent Line, with Captain Woodie Stone as master, had a splendid freight for Pickensville and intermediate landings.

The Mary, Captain John Quill, from Montgomery, will be due tonight or tomorrow morning, and the Atlanta, Captain H. E. Johnston, from Pickensville, will be due tomorrow morning. It is presumed that they will both bring in light cotton freights, owing to the scarcity of the staple on the Alabama and Bigbee rivers.

Strangers visiting the city and our citizens who want to buy anything in the line of furnishing goods, should be sure to go to Hutton's, southeast corner Dauphin and Royal, where a large stock at small prices. Go to him to buy an umbrella for a rainy day, or a dozen fancy neckties for the centennial season.

The illuminated sales by Owen Farley every Saturday night of provisions, potatoes and cabbages, rival in amount the sales in the Louisiana Market, and the prices are almost to be lower than the market people's. Remember 64, 66, 68, 70 and 72 Government street.

If you are hungry today, go to the Opal restaurant next door to the post office and call. Whatever you want a good dinner. It will come.

Everybody wants a nice bed and an attractive room to sleep in. Go to the Opal, next door to the post office, and secure a lodging room.

Planting Potatoes.—Peerless, early rose, peach blow, Chili, Red and russets now in store and for sale low by Owen Farley, 64, 66, 68, 70 and 72 Government street.

Selling off to close business, all of our best calicoes at 7 cents a yard at retail, and all other dry goods at prices to insure their immediate sale. Store for sale.

P. H. Pepper & Co.

The noon cotton report of the Board of Trade yesterday was: "Market dull and weak at yesterday's quotations. Light demand. "Sales closed 100 bales heavy. This class of work is a specialty at Closing report: Sales today 400 bales. Market closed weak and irregular; light demand."

The closing cotton quotations of the Board of Trade, yesterday were: Low ordinary 8@8¼; ordinary 9@9¼; good ordinary 10¼@11; low middling 11¼@12; middling 12¼@12½; good middling 13¼.

DUNCAN, SHERMAN & Co.—An opinion was rendered by Judge Barrett in the New York Supreme Court, Chambers, on the 21st inst., on the motion to vacate the order of arrest obtained by Washington A. Robbins and others, against Wm. H. Duncan and others on a $5000 bill of exchange upon London, purchased by plaintiffs shortly before defendants' insolvency and which was dishonored. The Judge says defendants admit they were embarrassed, and were examining their affairs when they sold the bill. Six days afterwards they became insolvent; liabilities $5,000,000, and assets $200,000. They did not disclose the grounds on which they hoped to retrieve, or of success in their negotiations for funds to meet liabilities, and under the circumstances the motion must be denied.

When a man to whom you lend money says he will be indebted to you forever, you may believe him my boy.

Last year we exported leather to the value of nearly $5,000,000, being $3,000,000 more than we sold in 1874.

Six Thousand Tons of Sandstone about to Roll Down the Side of Lookout Mountain!

On Sunday hundreds of people visited the mountain for the purpose of taking a look at the immense mass, which is slowly severing from the ledge of rocks at Bragg's Bluff, near the toll gate. The first indications of this severing process were discovered about a week ago, and since then the work has been almost constantly going on. The greatest progress so far discovered has been an inch an hour, but on Sunday, at 3:30 p m, it had reached a distance of about sixteen feet from the parent ledge. The crevice is about thirty feet deep. The lenghth of the falling rock is about one hundred feet, and the weight is estimated to be about six thousand tons. The rock commences just above the spring near the toll gate, out of which, standing under this great mass of rock, so many people have drunk, few if any perfectly sective. When the rock falls it will take with it this cool chamber where so many have slaked their thirst. Down at the base, between the falling part and the ledge has been opened a bank of beautiful white sand which has been pronounced by judges to be superior for making glass. The severed part is ornamented by three pretty good forest trees. The distance between the road and the cliff is so small that the rock will undoubtedly fall across the road and go thundering down the side of the mountain, carrying with it trees and whatever may be in its track. People are still passing in front of it on foot, and a few venturesome ones on horseback. We fear somebody will try this experiment just once too many times. Sunday night about ten o'clock some thirty tons of rock fell from the front of the moving mass. It is still moving, though less rapidly than heretofore. The fall will be a wonderful sight, and ages hence, people who see this huge mass in the valley beneath, will wonder what great upheaval sent it to its resting place. "Thus Time the tomb builder" levels mountains and fills up valleys, and we doubt not that much which is ascribed to wonderful commotions in nature is the result simply of the ceaseless working of the never idle destroyer, Time.—Chattanooga Commercial, 28th.

LOOKOUT'S CRUMBLING PALISADES.—An immense mass of rock weighing about 6,000 tons which had been breaking off from the "Palisades" of Lookout for several days, fell Monday morning, completely blocking up the secent of the mountain. It landed just below the toll-gate, about two-thirds the way up the mountain. Efforts will soon be made for its removal.—Nashville American, 29th.

The Chicago reporters are at it bad way. One of them, making the announcement that the bills of a theatre would be changed, said: "This week Mr. McVicker will lead his forces out of the sun-lit valley of comedy into the shadow which the mountain of tragedy casts upon the middle land of drama."

A Chicago doctor says that superstition often kills people who are otherwise fitted for a long life. That may be so, but what is a fellow to do when his grand-mother's ghost pokes him in his ribs at midnight and whispers: "Refund that money—your hour has arrove!"—Detroit Free Press.

When a Boston girl breaks her engagement with a man and her friends expostulate with her, she only has to say his views on the theocopic doctrine of cosmogony are loose; and they at once see how impossible it is for any true woman to risk her happiness with such a person.—Norwich Bulletin.

The California State Senate has passed a bill permitting any citizen who feels himself aggrieved by aspersions published in a newspaper to go into court and compel his assailant to prove the proof of the obnoxious charge, or, if it is incapable of proof, to print a retraction.

TUESDAY,.....APRIL 4

News from home up the Lavaca is to the effect that the Rojo was rapidly sinking.

President Grant on the 4th of last March was not well enough to attend to business.

Congress, both Houses, has passed a bill making the 14th of this month a holiday within the District of Columbia.

Prof. O. Downer, a noted New York chemist—has failed—liabilities $110,000; the assets little or nothing.

There was another coal oil explosion in New Orleans last Saturday. The house was set on fire and entirely destroyed. It had the merit of being insured.

The steamer sold by telegraph about the Black mines, is said to be fraudulent—invented to attract emigration by railroad, and for the purpose also of selling worthless lands.

The U.S. debt statement for the last month shows a decrease of $4,250,000. There was $73,750,000 of coin in the Treasury, and $6,000,000 of currency.

Utopian Wolfe suggests that his "Schleisian Aboriginie Schnapps" as a substitute for quinine. It may expert, except himself, and said it would trust in the beverage, for it is more easily taken than quinine.

The U.S. revenue collected by internal taxation during the month of March was $7,000,000. The receipts from customs were $14,000,000. The receipts from miscellaneous sources were $1,000,000.

Mr. Editor—I see it stated in the N.Y. World that Dr. Guillotin, after whom the instrument called guillotine, was named, was the first one that suffered from it. Is this true? QUERY.

No; it is not true. Indeed a similar instrument, called "The Maiden," had been in use in Scotland long before the French revolution was dreamed of. Dr. Guillotin lived long after that time, and, we think, established a hospital in Switzerland, and, finally, died quietly in his bed, like an honest gentleman.

The despatches are predicting much trouble on the Mexican Rio Grande border. An attack was expected on Matamoras which fell immediately on the other side; but our government has taken prompt measures to protect the Americans who are in the city. The U.S. gunboat Rio Bravo had gone up to the city of Matamoras, and, dropped, her anchor. Her guns, we suppose, were shotted and ready for service. That is the way to do it. There is no error in the filibusters that cannot be corrected by powder and shot.

Gov. Ames, of Mississippi, has resigned his office, rather than submit to the articles of impeachment that were made out in his case. He ought to have been held to them.

Gen Grant, it is said, is likely to be impeached.

These are two of the latest state ments in regard to matters of this kind.

We have not the slightest doubt but each of these gentlemen has allowed wrong to be done; and as they could have prevented it, and it was their office to do so, they ought to be held responsible for it.

In asserting this, we do not mean to imply that they had dishonest intentions.

These offices gave them opportunities of making money. That is what every person is trying to get, every one thinking that there is nothing good, except money.

In some respects they are right, for without this money nothing can be bought, and without the something that it can buy, there is likely to be dying lacking at one's table. But the old adage says that enough is as good as a feast. The enough? Who has it? Nobody. Like Oliver Twist, every one wants more, although that poor little chap had not enough to fill up a cravng for what was absolutely necessary for his health, if not its appetite.

It is very difficult to make an honest man believe that all his fellow sinners are rogues.

Some of them are—no doubt many of them—but what might be called roguery, may be called only a desire to have a good dinner. That is a thing that one, not dyspeptic, always desiderates. It may, also, be the result of ignorance of what is dishonest.

But this is running off into extraneous matters, and our purpose is to say that we do not believe that Lieut. Grant or the late Gov. Ames is a rogue.

How, then, to account for their aberrations? Why simply by saying that they are ignorant of the duties and somewhat careless of the responsibilities of their offices. In short, they lack the knowledge and experience which are necessary to leadership in civil government. This is all—unless the alternative be that they are thieves and ought to be in a penitentiary.

This assertion, we have no doubt, will startle some of those Democrats who imbibe their opinions from the partisan papers—imbibing them as they do the air—not knowing anything about the constituents of its elements. They take it in, and never trouble themselves about it. The lungs are not brains, or conscience

The men who choose to have their own opinions—like the oracles, some time since portentously giving expression to them are conspicuous. Instead of this, if they could know what is good for their bread and butter, they would keep their mouths shut.

This is, theoretically, a free country. Every person, black or white, has a right to vote—in this way to make a President or a governor. We call this vote a ballot, because it is not vive voce, and may be given secretly—perhaps half a dozen times. But no man has the privilege of expressing an opinion in relation to public affairs, unless he accord with the controlling power of his town or neighborhood. Not to be in accord with that, is to be ostracised, as Aristides was—by a mob.

Well, after all, we are very much like a flock of sheep. A tounguy man, with a bell tied to his neck, goes out on the street and "hollers," and all the flock run after him, and many are thrown into ditches and can't get on them. So much the better. They ought to stay there.

The City Auditor has a long explanatory communication in the city organ of last Sunday. It is plausible —perhaps, conclusive.

The discussions between the Auditor and some of the officials of the City, as we understand the matter, grew out of the assumption of authority on the part of the former.

One does not like to have persons meddling in what is not their business.

A neighbor comes into a man's house, and says that he ought to cook his turkey in a certain way. The householder says: "This is the business of the cook, who knows how to do it." "Let me go into the kitchen and see all about it." The other refuses, and declares that he has confidence in his cook, and has no desire to meddle with matters of this kind.

That is a right conclusion. The master very properly says you are intermeddling—that you are somewhat like the Yankee man, who climbed up a chimney to see what was in the range, cooking for dinner.

If in this the curious disposition of persons to "poke their noses" into other people's businesses that engenders strife. Half of the troubles that we are afflicted with comes in this way.

Of this subject of the Auditor, we know nothing, except what we can laboriously gather from the reports and the rumors on the highways.

A man that one meets on the streets, says that the Auditor has vindicated himself against the charges and rumors of charges—not, of course, of any lack of intelligence or any malfeasance, but of presumption in the office which he holds.

We know nothing about this, and the conclusion that we may be able to get at, must come from Mr. Councilman Smith, who seems to be at the head of those members who are not willing to submit to what is called an assumption by the Auditor. And now he cast a firebrand and into the municipal camp.

We hope that it will be put out, and that no general conflagration will ensue in consequence of it.

In South-western Texas coffee is cultivated and seems to be a success, as reported.

It is now said positively—by telegraph—that the Emperor of Russia was abducted, and that to his wife has been entrusted the management of the empire.

TELEGRAPH

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., April 2.—Hale's block was partly burned; loss $50,000.

WILKESBARRE, April 2.—Bridget O'Donnel was found dead in the outskirts of the city, choked to death and outraged. There is no clue.

FAIRMONT, W. Va., April 2.—Twenty-two buildings were burned and others injured by an incendiary fire. Loss $125,000.

LOUISVILLE, April 2.—The race horse Ballensteel has been retired from the turf on account of an affliction caused by the epizootic.

JACKSON, April 2.—The Democratic convention declares Morton the unanimous choice of the colored voters of Mississippi.

MILWAUKEE, April 2.—The First National Bank of LaCrosse has failed.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—It is stated that a vigorous effort will be made by a combination of democrats and republicans to pass some kind of a currency bill. Chittenden and Willis, of New York, have taken the matter in hand, and Friday night gave a dinner at which the subject was canvassed.

A river and harbor appropriation bill has been prepared. It appropriates about $1,000,000 less than last year.

Bright, of Tennessee, intends, if he can be recognized today, to propose a resolution committing the democratic party to the Pennsylvania democratic platform on the financial question.

In the senate Morton introduced a bill to amend section 5 of the act to enforce the right of citizens of the United States to vote in the several states, etc. Referred to the judiciary committee.

The committee to purify the civil service is examining Parsons, of Florida. It appears that he was offered $1,000 a year for collecting, but he demanded $4,000 down and the arrangement fell through.

Upon the before the foreign relations committee in the Schenck case; he has great trouble with his dates.

Certain entries have asked the chairman of the committee on expenditures of the judiciary department to investigate Marshal Packard's office, and furnished a list of witnesses. The committee has taken no formal action, but probably will do so. It is thought by some to be a device to get Packard out of the state during the meeting of the republican state convention.

The privileges and elections committee did nothing. General Morgan has virtually closed, and the defence will begin on Wednesday.

In the house the regular call is progressing. Impeachment proceedings have not commenced.

GALVESTON, April 2.—The News' Brownsville special says Mr. Schleicher, an American citizen, aged and 70, was killed on the top of the parapet wall of Matamoras, and in case of an attack, would have been between two fires. Consul Wilson's demand for Sustedt's release was instantly complied with, and Consul Wilson calls it this hank. The Rio Bravo steamscrew and made fast to the Mexican bank, and steam launches are policing the river. It is reported President Gram has directed that foreign residents shall be protected against the exactions and apprehensions of the Mexican government.

NEW YORK, April 3—A dispatch from Brownsville of the 2d says: At 5 o'clock this morning Colonel Diaz assembled himself with his army of about a thousand men to attack Matamoras. General La Baria in command of the garrison sent out a force of about 500 of the regular army and came back three hundred men under General Toledo to the defence of Diaz. The National Guard, 1,000 strong, in the city, and the artillery, refused to fire a single shot when ordered by De La Baria, and the revolutionists kept marching on the place. All the government forces fled over except the 9th cavalry, which stood firm. After some fighting General De la Baria, seeing he was betrayed on all the battlefield, left the city with a squad of the 9th cavalry for Brownsville; he finally crossed over, and he is now here. The United States gunboat Rio Bravo is in front of Matamoras to protect American and foreign citizens. Diaz is in Matamoras, and has been received with great rejoicing. At the present writing fighting is going on at Forts San Fernando and Cano Mata, a fortification in the suburbs of Matamoras, by a detachment of the government troops under command of Colonel Ledriste and Parrott, who do not give up the artillery; the result is doubtful. Thousand of families from Matamoras have been pouring into this city for a week past, in anticipation of a battle, and the greatest excitement prevails on both sides of the river. Orders and troops who crossed over to Texas have been arrested and disarmed and General Potter, and taken to Fort Brown under orders of the Secretary of War.

FOREIGN.

LONDON, April 2—The Russian telegraph agency declares the report of the Czar's ill health unfounded.

Cameron, the African explorer, arrived at Liverpool today in the steamer Congo. A large crowd was on the steamer dock to receive him, and he was warmly cheered on landing. He is in excellent health.

HAVANA, April 2.—In one of the courts yesterday, after an angry controversy over a claim, the Marquis of Arguilla, as he was leaving court, struck Senor Sanchez Bustamante, when the latter pulled out a revolver and shot the Marquis, who died this morning. Both parties are wealthy, and well known.

For the Tribune.

SIDEWALK FLASHES.—The Vicksburg Herald of Friday says: Next week is Passion week, and will be rigidly observed by those professing the Catholic and Episcopal faith. Passion week in this city begins next Sunday. The Herald is only a week ahead of time. That's all.—Register, April 2d, 1876.

The Register is only a week ahead of time. Sunday, the 2d, was Passion Sunday. This week is Passion week, Next Sunday, 9th will be Palm Sunday. Next week will come Holy weeks. D.

BY

H. BALLENTYNE AND THOMAS B. LYONS.

For the Tribune:

Fiat Justicia ruat Coelum.

MR. EDITOR:—Sir Edward Coke in his "Institutes" has said that the knowledge of the law is like unto a deep well out of which every man draweth according to the strength of his understanding;" and he intimates that those men who have the deepest reach draw the clearest and purest waters from the mysterious spring of reason and crystal truth. Lord Coke was the impersonation of law; indeed, like Venus of Love, he was law itself; his whole soul was inflated and inspired by that supreme ratio which guides the understanding of men through all the doubts and mazes of logic and sophistry which bewilder and amaze the intellects of less gifted men. Now if we compare men of these modern days, with this dictum of the apostle of reason of centuries ago, we shall truthfully conclude that our contemporary Judges and lawyers are far from being men of "deepest reach," and are not like Sir William Herle, capable of fathoming the occult sources of Justice in her hidden currents of truth. We have an exemplification of this disparity in present and ancient legal logic and personal ability exhibited to us in a recent decision of our Supreme Court in a case between W. W. Boyd & Co. and the State of Alabama, for the crime of carrying on a lottery under the authority of the state. If the syllabus of the case be the exponent of the reasoning of the court, we cannot escape the conclusion that the two Judges who decided the case are not among the lawyers of "deepest reach" in the sink of their buckets into the waters of the well of truth. On the contrary, we shall be forced to think that they are more diligent in a wild hunt after pretexts in order to sustain, if not to pander to the passions of public prejudice, than to uphold their solemn and solid duty to reason, law, justice and truth.

The case will appear in this: The judges say that,

"Setting up or carrying on lotteries being contrary to the general law and long declared policy of the State, no uncertain or doubtful terms or provisions employed in a particular charter, will be construed to authorize them."

"Any person who * * carries on * * any lottery or device of the like kind, without the legislative authority of this state * * must be fined not less than $100, nor more than $2,000." See § 3616, 22, code.

The general law of the State is, then, that no person shall carry on a lottery without legislative authority. That is the sole policy of the state. The state does not pretend that lotteries, like murder, rape, arson, &c., &c., are malum in se, but are more prohibited evils to the extent of carrying them on without legislative authority.

And have Boyd & Co. no legislative authority for carrying on the Mutual Aid Association? Look at the act of the legislature, 10th Nov. 1868. There the reader will see that the legislature have not only granted them the privilege of carrying on a lottery, or device of like kind, but have done so with eyes wide open, with a view to the benefit of the school system, and in the plenary power of state sovereignty for the ample consideration of two thousand dollars a year, which is the equivalent of the rudimental instruction of five hundred children.

Yet in face of this merely conditional law and provisional policy, the two partially learned Judges say, that "no uncertain or doubtful

WEDNESDAY.....APRIL 5

The government printer at Washington is now reported to be dexterous in accounting for moneys that he had received.

They have got an alligator in New Orleans which weighs 1300 pounds and is thirteen feet and six inches long.

Now the papers are advising the planters to make corn. That is very good; but we say make corn and cotton—plenty of the former and as much as possible of the latter.

"There are 566,000 beans in a barrel." Nobody can cheat you now when you go to buy beans. This is what the Picayune says. It is consoling information to those who affect beans.

Yesterday was a delightful day. We put this on record, and not for the purpose of giving any individual in Mobile information.

Perhaps a century from now some persons may bet on the condition of the weather the 4th of April, 1876. Here is the means of deciding it. We mention the fact for their convenience, and no other purpose.

There is a communication on an outside page this morning in regard to the lotteries.

We shall say nothing in defence of them—for the reason that it might offend some persons—and we have no desire to give offence to the meanest creature.

But this can be said, without any fear of "successful contradiction," that there is an obligation of the public to these companies.

If an obligation of this kind is not worthy of legal or other respect, nothing legal, or otherwise, is worthy of it. And when we come to this condition, why no man can respect the law.

It may be said that the granting of these charters was wrong.

It may be said that they do not teach morals; or they are not like preaching, or some other thing that is generally considered to be good.

All this may be true—but there is the law.

We shall stand by that. If errors have been made by the lawgivers, we have an obligation on us to stand by the same. The state must not, in anything, refuse to stand by the trusts that it has given.

The question of morality has nothing to with it. It is a question of right, and that is not at all impaired by the opinion of any member of a Supreme or other Court.

There is a great. It may have been wrong to give it. It was given. And that, it seems to us, ends the question in dispute.

"Given improperly," says some fellow who knows nothing about rights and would have no regard for them, if he did know them.

This is not the kind of people whose opinions we respect.

We are receiving no benefit from the expression of our opinions. But we know enough to declare that there is more harm done for charitable purposes than is done by the lotteries.

We want to abolish all methods of this kind; but we want it to be done legally.

Given, that the lottery is not desirable. We do not think that it is; but the right to it has been given, and a foolish juage, thinking it is wrong, runs his head against a right—assuming authority that he has not been elected to use.

Well, this is not the first example of nature. All of us have turned up in nature, and most of us want the benefit of popular opinion, whether it be good or other purposes.

This is the sad condition of what we are coming to. God help us!

The Mexican Trouble.

The Mexican pronunciamiento, with Porfirio Diaz at its head, seems to be growing into some importance. Usually the local disturbances among our neighbors have no general importance. A few impecunious men, who are not willing to work, get together, and form a purpose, with the notion that, "the world owes them a living." And straightway they gather around them an ignorant, desperate crew, who adopt the same theory.

These rascals, with arms in their hands, surprise a peaceful town; make high-flown proclamations of equality, liberty and fraternity, or something of that kind, and then they proceed to make a forced contribution on the inhabitants. "Blood or money! The terrible citizens "shell out," and then the wretches separate and are seen no more. Occasionally, some of them are caught, and after that they give no more trouble.

The present affair seems to have a greater significance—for Diaz, its leader, is known generally in Mexico, and has a wide influence.

The New Orleans Republican has received and translated into English the address of this man to the people.

In it it is charged that the present government is corrupt in all its departments. Here is an extract from it:

The present government does not and has never had the confidence and support of the Mexican people, nor is a fact too notorious to be controverted. If this term administrative and repeatedly declared a failure, owing to the gross abuses which have been committed thereunder by means of its infamous election laws. The government which deprives its citizens of the right of exercising their choice at the ballot-box, and is surrounded by a small circle of ambitious courtesans and servants, whose only aim is to plunder the public treasury, increase taxation, monopolize the most useful branches of our industries, and permit the unlawful importation of merchandise within the territory, is not, and cannot be said to have been instituted for the public welfare.

The government, which bearing the name of a federal republic, concentrates into the hands of one person the three powers of the constitution, and which also assumes to control those of all of the States, through the authority conferred upon irresponsible officers, who are themselves subject to the executive will, is not and can not pretend to have been established for the people and for their good. The government which disdains, to perpetuate its terrible omnipotence and its irresponsible authority, whose acts are notoriously opposed and insulted and has given rise in the minds of the people to the conception of revolutionary ideas; which has caused the suspension of all financial transactions, the decrease of our credit, and the absolute starvation among the laboring people, and has instigated an actual state of violence among all classes of society, neither is nor shall longer remain that of the Mexican people.

Afterwards there are specific charges, which, if true, justify what is in the above extract; and at the close is a "Plan" which provides for a thorough reorganization of the government. The whole is dated March 21.

We have a suspicion that there is more in this than is on the surface; and that it is the hope of the chief influence is derived from this country. The insurgents of Cuba have been kept going from the aid given to them by our own citizens, with the hope of ultimate profit from it. The fugaciousness of Don Carlos has left Spain free to deal with the subject, and the probability is that the insurrection—invasion or better word—will presently be crushed out.

There is nothing left now for the turbulent men, except Mexico, and it may be that Diaz will invite them to Mexico to help him to accomplish his purpose.

In the war of the sections of this country, thousands of men made fortunes, or offices in the army for the making of them. Such is the desire of those people, or this low moral principle caring nothing for the means of getting, they would discover that Mexico is a good field for their operations; and it is thrifty in them to promote what may lead to this consummation of the whole country by the United States.

A war of this kind could be got up within a month if our rulers were base enough to make it. The leaders of the border ruffians on both sides seem to have this object in view. Let us see now if there is not some humane principle underlying our state policy that will avert this calamity, and let the Mexicans work out their own salvation.

It is likely that from this time, we shall have spring weather.

We have heard it said that a late spring is the harbinger of a good harvest, and the reason is obvious in this, that no frosts will come to destroy what the husbandman may put in the ground.

The apprehension now in the lowlands, we suppose, is that of overflows by the rivers. This produces anxiety, for while they fertilize the soil, it is a question as to the possession they give for the cost and labor of replanting. Perhaps, it is about even.

In all sections of the country north of us the coming of the vernal season is slow, thus we shall be relatively as we have been in the past; and there is no reason to doubt that our gardeners, hurrying on their crops, will find at the north the same demand, as of the past, for their early products.

Opera.

Three operatic performances—in English—are to be given next Friday afternoon, and Saturday. The first one will be Gilbert, Gindle; for the matinee, Saturday, the Bohemian Girl, and at night La Fille de Madame Angot. The company is said by all the papers to be complete. The prima donna, Miss Matthews, is said to be in English what Aimee is in French. She has been a favorite in London for many years. This is her first American tour, and that is the reason why a great many of our citizens have not heard of her reputation.

LOCAL NEWS.

The smallest receipts of the cotton season was yesterday—108 bales at Mobile.

Six thousand dollars is wanted for 12 months by R. B. Owen & Co., on real estate security.

The reporter is informed by Mr. W. T. Ayers that the tennis infirmary has been reopened.

The ginger champagne and lemon beer campaign will be opened at once, by Thompson, opposite Campbell House, who will supply retail dealers.

The weather yesterday was magnificent. The temperature in Mobile at 6:51 a. m. was 56; at 2:51 p. m., 73. The maximum temperature here was 73, minimum 55, a range of 18 degrees.

Those who want bargains should attend the auction sales at the store under Odd Fellows' Hall, at 10 a. m. and 7½ p. m., of crockery, glassware, plated ware, chromos and oil paintings.

In compliment to the French citizens of Mobile, Miss Julia Mathews will in both "Girofle Girofla" and "La Fille de Madame Angot" sing her opening solo in the French language. The box office at the theatre will be open tomorrow.

Selling off to close business, all of our best calicoes at 7 cents a yard at retail, and all other dry goods at prices to insure their immediate sale. Store for sale.

P. H. PEPPER & CO.

The city is constructing a new and wider culvert at the north crossing of Conception street from Estava, in consequence of which the running of cars was interrupted there nearly all day yesterday, and passengers were saluted with the unusual request: "Please to change cars."

The fine alarm boxes are all provided with new locks. A policeman who did not know that fact put his old key into one of these locks and it stuck there. He watched the box all night and early in the morning bewailed to awaken the chief engineer and notify him of the misfortune, with an excited brogue.

Mr. L. E. Brooks' sale of stuffed birds comprising that beautiful collection which has been in exhibition at his store for the past two days, comes off today at 10 o'clock a. m. We know of nothing more attractive than these beautiful specimens of the feathered tribe presented by the hand of the taxidermist. Go early for all the world likes to attend the sale by all means.

MAYOR'S COURT.—In this court yesterday morning, Mayor Hartel presiding, Fred Gocken was fined $2 for violation of the market ordinance. Thomas Lee for creating a disturbance on Royal street, James Richardson, a boy in blue, repeated the frequent indiscretion of getting drunk and down and was fined $10. Walter Hogan, colored, for stealing a coat from a store, $25 or chaingang. Ann sentenced to twenty days' work for the city.

RIVER NEWS.

There was no arrival yesterday.

The Mary, for Selma and Montgomery, steamed out with an excellent freight and a good list of passengers, last evening.

The Atlanta, Captain Johnston, of Frank Stone's Grange Line, carried off a big freight for Pickensville and intermediate landings, and a greater number of passengers than usual.

The W. S. Holt, of Central Line No. 2, will be in today from Columbus.

The freight of the Emma was transferred to the Lotus No. 2, yesterday and that steamer will go out today at five o'clock for Tankalousa and Northport, as one of the fleet of Frank Stone's Grange Line. Spalding & Foster agents.

OPERA BOUFFE.—Of Julia Mathews and her opera troupe, which will delight Mobile audiences this week at the theatre, the Chicago Times says:

The second week of the Julia Mathews opera troupe opened auspiciously last evening at the Academy. Lecocq's delightful opera, "La Fille de Madame Angot," the pretty melodies of which have been a familiar theme for years all over the country to the other was the opera of the evening. The music is light and sparkling, abounding in pretty melodies that tickle the ear and haunt one for weeks afterward. Since this opera was first produced in Europe it has been performed in every town and city there and in America with flattering success. The opera was excellently cast last evening. Miss Mathews, of course, had the role of Clairette, and sang the part better than anything she has yet done here, using her voice to best advantage. The role of Mlle. Lange is well suited to Miss Larkelle's capabilities, and she made the most of it. Miss Emily Wiseman was the little treasure in herself, infused real life into the play. Messrs. Hoff, Howard, and Forrester, were quite satisfactory. The chorus has improved considerably since its first appearance. The completion of chorus was effectively rendered. The management has been fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Thomas Whiffin and Miss Blanche Galton, who will join the troupe at New Orleans during April.

PLANTING POTATOES.—Peerless, early rose, peach blow, Chili, Red and russets in store and for sale low by Owen Farley, 64, 66, 68, 70 and 72 Government street.

terms in a particular charter" will be construed to authorize Boyd & Co. to carry on their granted privileges. In the name of reason, ma', of the most common sense, what more can be required of Boyd & Co. under this state of the law and policy of the state than the authority of the Legislature to carry on their business for the benefit of themselves and the school fund? What more than legislative authority in any words expressed, by formal act, by joint resolution, by an authorized license, or by any other means declared by the executive, Senate and House of Representatives can be demanded of a citizen for the exercise of the rights conferred upon him by the authority of the State?

Is not the state authorized to contract and be contracted with, and has not the state agreed, in consideration of $2000 a year, that Boyd & Co. shall have the privilege of running the Mutual Aid lottery or device of that kind, for twenty years? Have not Boyd & Co. paid the money, and does it now lie in the mouth of politicians of a pharasaical aspect or the sternest law, to say that because the caption of the act or grant does not contain the body of the contract that therefore, the contract is void.

Fudge! How is it with billiard tables? Keeping them are contrary to law and the policy of the state without legislative authority, but when the legislature places a tax upon them are they not legalized by the taxation? The main question in all these cases is, has the Legislature authorized them, no matter how; if so, the dispute is at end; and any one would think that grave judges would better serve the purpose of their office by declaring the law, than by fishing about for pompous phrases, with the hope of further advancement to office hereafter, by ad captandum acclaims. The Supreme Court should be the oracle of wisdom and law.

THE STORM OF SATURDAY AND SUNDAY.

When It Commenced and What It Did.

From the Montgomery Advertiser.]

The most destructive rain within the history of Montgomery, or this State, commenced to fall on Saturday morning last, and at five o'clock in the afternoon the torrents commenced to pour down, accompanied by unusually heavy peals of thunder, the lightning's red glare, and fierce bursts of winds, and rattling of hail. So it continued for hours, every moment increasing the velocity of the wind, and the strength of the rain, the fearful glare of the lightnings, and the ponderous rolls of thunder. A midnight, and from then on until away after daylight, the situation was absolutely frightful, and there seemed to be no probability of a cessation of the storm. It was the darkest, most fearful night ever known in Montgomery, to have been caused by rain or storm. The destructive winds unnecessely swept away solid, as well as unprotected parapets, mercantile sign-boards, fruit, barber shop, and cigar stands, frame houses, shade trees without number, and in several instances, lifted the heavy brick from the very tops of houses and carried them pellmell into the streets. It was all indescribably fearful night; many a loving mother hugged her babe closer to her breast, and many a stout hearted husband and father attempted to affect indifference. At daylight the storm seemed to be at a greater height, and more wild than at the time of its commencement on the evening before. Trees were gave way without resistance, and tiny houses in the rear of the capitol and near the banks of the river, were keeled over without opposition; rain poured into houses where leaks were never known before; paling and fences innumerable were prostrated. During all this time the bright flashes of lightning alone relieved the darkness, darting its forked tongue into every house, and, apparently, at every object. The large parapet on top of Le Grand's grocery store was knocked into the middle of the street, by one of its pluvil darts. Several trees, but no other houses, as far as ascertained was struck by lightning in and near the city.

At about 12 o'clock on Sunday the rain let up in its fierce ness, but there was no full stoppage until nearly ten o'clock on yesterday, there having been a continuous rain, therefore, of about 36 hours. The amount of damage that it did cannot now be estimated. During the time, eight and a half inches of rain water has fallen, and the Weather Observer informs us that a correct report will show even a greater quantity than that. The Alabama river at one o'clock yesterday had risen 45 inches and was then rising at the rate of 4½ inches an hour. At 4 p. m. the river was nearly as close to the Commerce street depot as it ever was before. In some instances the draughts, sheds, and other furnishing implements of plantations contiguous to the banks of the river, were swept away. At this time the river looks like the Gulf of Mexico, there being no land to see on the other side as far as the eye can reach. This being the case, it is unnecessary to ask what has become of the promised crops along its banks. Old rafters, timbers, logs, &c., without number, have been swept into its bosom by the Coosa and Tallapoosa rivers. The storm seems to have been general; it missed not a span of land in all this section; it came from the east, and so far as our information goes, extended to the Mississippi river, and, perhaps, beyond. At Decatur 190 miles north of Montgomery, on the S. & N. Road, it is said to have been even more destructive, if possible, than here. We doubt if it missed a single portion of Alabama, unless possibly the extreme southwest, and the damage we fear is untold. The telegraph wires came in for a full share of derangement. The trains had ceased to arrive or depart up to yesterday evening, since Saturday night. On the Western Road at West Point, the bridge was threatened with being swept away, and the water had gone up into the store doors of the town. On the same road, towards Selma, work is now progressing at Pintlala, Tallawassee and Catoma creeks, so as to make them passable. On the Mobile road, at the last accounts, the train which left Mobile Saturday is now at Greenville, and the authorities expected it to reach this city last night. On the M. & E. Road, the authorities reported the damage not extensive, and expected to send out a train yesterday evening. The South & North brought their passengers to town on a hand car, transferring some miles above. The pecuniary damage to the railroads we have no means of ascertaining, but the temporary inconvenience to the public, will be of very short duration. For the amount of damage done the planting interests, &c., we will have to await further advice.

"OLD GIRL," THE LIONESS.—The death of the lioness "Old Girl," so well known to Dublin folks, was attended by a touching incident. When dying, old lions are much concerned by rats gnawing their tails. During health they rather welcome the vermin, and lie blinking at them as they frisk about the cage, nibbling the bones left from their (the lion's dinner.) To prevent this annoyance a ferrier was put into "Old Girl's" cage. At first she growled, but when she saw it "fetch" the first rat, toss it up and catch it in professional manner across the back, with one quick, fatal snap, she drew the brave animal to her licked it and fondled it; and in her shaggy breast is slept every night, with her great protecting paw over it. During the six weeks of the lioness' illness the rats had rather a hard time of it. "Old Girl" had some fifty-four cubs, and had reared fifty, bringing in by the sale of her progeny £1,300 to the gardens. She was the handsomest lioness ever reared in the country.—London letter.

Back of Fredericksburg, Virginia, is an elevation called Mary's Heights. Here stands an unfinished monument, eleven feet square at the base and sixteen feet high, begun in honor of Mary, the mother of Washington, by a wealthy merchant of New York. The cornerstone was laid in 1833 by Andrew Jackson, then president. The merchant was a suitor for the hand of Miss Curtis, and thought to win her favor by respecting the bones of her ancestors. Being refused by the lady he abruptly quitted the enterprise.

The Chicago reporters are in a bad way. One of them, making the announcement that the bills of a theatre would be changed, said: "This week Mr. McVicker will lead his forces out of the sun-lit vally of comedy into the shadow which the mountain of tragedy casts upon the middle land of drama."—N. O. Republican.

A Chicago doctor says that superstition often kills people who are otherwise fitted for a long life. That may be so, but what is a fellow to do when his grand-mother's ghost pokes him in the ribs at midnight and whispers: "Refund that money your hoss has arroye?"—Detroit Free Press.

Impartial suffrage—Voting for all of the candidates.

The London Times recently asserted that every man in Lancashire gets drunk as often as he can, and at a late alliance meeting Sir Wilfred Lawson read the following lines, which had been sent to him apropos of the matter:

"I'm a Lancashire man,
And get drunk when I can;
Sir Wilfred may scout, but I will;
For this liquor accursed
Has purchased the vote I steal."

The Spectator thinks that "I shall" would have been better rhyme and reason that "I will." The matter of rigmarole is the poem of the substitutions churchwarden, who welcomed the bishop thus:

"Why skip ye thus, ye little hills,
And wherefore do ye leap?
Is it because ye're glad to greet
His Grace the Lord Bishop?"

"Why do ye leap, ye little hills,
And wherefore do ye skip?
Is it because ye're glad to greet
His Grace the Lord Bishop?"

THURSDAY.....APRIL 6

The Democrats have carried Connecticut, both for Governor and the Legislature.

Even national banks will fail. That is the case with the First at Barcroase, Wisconsin.

A. Durnuty & Co., cotton merchants of Liverpool, have failed. Liabilities $2,000,000.

The Democrats of Baton Rouge have elected their municipal candidates by between three and four hundred majority.

The New Orleans street organs are playing tunes from the opera of "Puttie de Mine Angot." They take some of the floating nickels.

The levees in the lower part of the Mississippi are beginning to give way. The river is very high, and, it is expected, will get higher before the end of the month. There is a probability and apprehension of this. The danger this year was in the Mississippi bend levees. Not a great deal of harm had been done, and prompt measures had been adopted in the matter.

Henry Schreiber, clerk of Messrs. Levy, Loeb, Schour & Co., New Orleans, was arrested last Monday, charged with stealing money from letters of the house. He confessed the crime, and was sent to jail because he failed to make a bond of $6000. He is a young man and the amount stolen were small—no more than $500, as discovered. Here is a fellow who has thrown away his life for what one may consider nothing.

The storms of Saturday and Sunday are described in the Montgomery Advertiser, as is copied on an outside page this morning. They seem to have exceeded in fury what we recollect of the past. The heaviest rainfall within the recollection of the "oldest inhabitant" occurred on the occasion. Between eight and nine inches by the rain-guage is an instance that deserves to be held in memory.

Every person seems think that the present time is the future—that the world of industry is coming to an end—and that forever hereafter we shall have nothing to incite industry to make people believe that they are not to be starved—that their little children will forever cry for bread, and no baker man will furnish the loaf.

This, we think, is a mistake, for even in that rich city, New York, the children need bread. In New Orleans, also, they are needing it, with no bakers to supply it, without "cash on the nail."

Hundreds of people are going from this state and other states to Texas, thinking, apparently, that in that state bread is growing on trees, and that chickens are running everywhere about already cooked. Many of them have come back, not having found the bread or the cooked chickens; and they are now brought to the conviction that like fools they sought elsewhere what they could have found here.

It is true, and it is pitiful that it is true, that all of us want something that we have not got, and the Texas immigrant agents go about inspiring men with discontent of their condition, and thus carrying them off to Texas, at a fixed price per capita.

Let them go. They will come back, after awhile, if they can get money enough for the return. Perhaps they are not at much value anywhere.

There are some sensible writers about us, who have enough knowledge to understand that there is no Paradise in this country —except in an office, and there are not enough offices to accommodate all men who want pay, and not much work.

The cotton crop is about to get in, and the ins are desirous to keep in. This seems to be the whole theory of party matters.

This, however, is only important matter, as preliminary to the following extract from the Montgomery Advertiser, which has the merit of being a faithful organ of its party:

Although our people may not realize it, yet we are candidly of the opinion that they are in a better condition than the citizens of any portion of the United States. It is very true that they have but little ready money, but they are happily very little in debt. Their farms have been greatly improved in the last few years, their dwellings, barns and out houses fixed up nearly and snugly and a start made in the direction of raising supplies at home. The good result of raising plenty of corn is demonstrated by the appearance of horses and mules that now come to market compared with those that came the last winter and those of the winter before.

Planters have had to buy a good many mules this season, but they have paid for them and owe very little on them and will not be put to any outlay on that score next season. From Eufaula to Demopolis we learn from reliable authority, that 14,000 mules have been sold this season, distributed as follows: Eufaula 1800; Montgomery 4200; Selma 2700; Uniontown and Marion 2200; Demopolis 2000. The freedmen have done well and we understand that they bought at least 1800 mules in this city.

A great many young white men have rented land and are running the plow and the hoe. They are bound to succeed, and will make money this year if there is any sort of a season. With even such a crop year as the last one was, the South will be on the top round, and from then on her advance in prosperity will be sure and steady.

Factories.

The new cotton mill to be erected at Columbus, Georgia, will contain 600 looms and 40,000 spindles, and will be the largest mill in the South. Its consumption of cotton is placed at about 9000 bales per year, and the number of hands to be employed at 600. Ground will be broken in a few weeks.

The success of Columbus in manufacturing pursuits—the above statement is an indication of it—ought to be a lesson to all parts of the South.

Before and during the war it was noted for its enterprise in this. Some federal bandits came along and destroyed its manufacturing and other property. When the war closed the citizens started immediately to restore their lost property, and now, notwithstanding the great depression of the factory interests of the East, Columbus is about to build a mill of dimensions superior to any in the South.

This shows that, even under the present universal depression, Columbus is not afraid to build new mills.

Well, cotton mills in this part of the country can be made to work at a cost of ten per cent. less than they can in the North, and within that word we comprise all that is not of the South.

There is another thing worthy of reflection.

We venture to say that if one of these factories were started in Mobile, and managed with skill—showing in this way some profit—it would not be long before, perhaps, there would be a dozen similar enterprises. It is the example that is essential in this case. The first step is the most important. Take that, and, in all probability, we shall be able to walk into a future of prosperity.

For a moment look at the condition of Columbus in respect of this new mill. It is to employ six hundred hands—not to give them alms, but work, which will afford their employers profits that will be the means of luxury.

Perhaps each of the six hundred has a dependent: thus we have twelve hundred persons kept from idleness—which is the Devil's workshop—and a great many people are made comfortable,—happy, it may be and certainly lifted above the temptations that penury supplies to men, and women also.

Extreme poverty is seductive in its relations to crime; and thousands of men and women are lost every week because of this poverty. The Arch-enemy gets as many souls by it as he does through human ambition or luxurious appetites.

The inculcation of industrious habits—the means for it must be provided—is a religion in itself; and, to tell the truth, we should rather see a factory erected than a new church.

We are indebted to Capt. Eads for a copy of a pamphlet, entitled "Physics and Hydraulics of the Mississippi River. Report of U. S. Levee Commission, reviewed by James B. Eads, C. E."

Hastily looking over this pamphlet, we discover that it is very excellent, and gives a great amount of information within a brief space. It is intended to controvert some of the theories of the Chief Engineer of the U. States, (Gen. Humpreys), in regard to the best mode of improving the Mississippi river.

It is a very interesting brochure to those persons who take an interest in the subjects which it deals with—and it is a supremely important one to all the country—not to New Orleans alone, but to all parts of the west which rely on the great river to get the products of their labor to market. Nay, more than this: to all those who are cultivating lands that lie contiguous to the great natural highway. Those lowlands are immeasurably fertile and the husbandman is attracted by them, and he goes to work, under the temptation, and just when he is expecting success, here comes along a flood that destroys all his hopes.

Capt. Eads think that this danger may be averted by his theory.

We are not competent to judge of its value. But we know that Capt. Eads has a contract with the government to apply his jetty system to the embouchures of the river. Let him show by that means what is true of his theory. We do not distrust. We only have our doubts, for the previous plans have been tried so long, and at great cost, that one naturally doubts.

Our Mobile harbor has been put to experiments. The last one was a jetty system. Much money was spent in pursuit of that, under the direction of Gen. Bragg.

The jetties are still down there, unless they have been pulled up. But they did harm, and no good.

An old skipper, not long ago, said, "if you people of Mobile don't stop improving your harbor, as you are now doing, you will before long have no harbor at all."

Well, let us here put in an unscientific opinion. It is this: as soon as we have the products to send to market, there will be vessels coming to our port to get them.

Look back a few days, and see how many vessels were loaded at our wharves, carrying away a large amount of cotton—called three-masted schooners. They were not much troubled by the difficulties of the harbor. They came loaded and went on their way, not caring a farthing whether there were twenty or forty feet of water.

Our conclusion is, if any harbor will not allow a great ship to enter, the master will not take her to it. He goes to some place which he can enter.

It does not follow from this that we shall have no ships, for the shipping interests, finding no deep harbors, are adapting their vessels to the harbors, and so a large part of our exports this season has been made on vessels that could lie at our wharves.

For our own part, we cannot see how fifty feet of water here in front of Mobile and all the way down to the Gulf would help us. What we lack is on land, and the harborhas got nothing to do with it.

Some people seem to suppose that, if we had this great depth, the goose would "honk high and all be serene." This is a mistake, obvious to every sensible man. Get your products ready, and there will be no difficulty in getting them to market, either by sea, or otherwise.

LOCAL NEWS.

PLANTING POTATOES.—Peerless, early rose, peach blow, Chili, Red and sweets in store and for sale low by Owen Farley, 64, 66, 68, 70 and 72 Government street.

An estate comprising 160 acres of land in fruit tree cultivation, dwelling house, cellar, &c., on the line of the New Orleans and Mobile Railroad, is for sale or exchange for city property by R. B. Owen & Co., 10 St. Francis street.

MAYOR'S COURT.—In this court yesterday morning, Mayor Hurtel presiding, Robert Peters, colored, was sent to the county jail for ninety days for breaking into a store near the corner of Monroe and Warren streets and stealing about $13. Thomas Wilkins, a colored boy, for pulling down a man's fence, was ordered to be switched out. His father did it so effectually that he will not pull down any more fences.

JUSTICE ROULSTON.—William Miller, white, the keeper of a store on corner of Chastend and Palcetto, was arrested on complaint of Robert Peterson, color ed, charged with assault with a knife. The case was dismissed.

John Philyon and his brother Simeon Philyon, arrested on a complaint of a lady at Webster for defamation of character. Simeon was dismissed and John was sent to the city court in bond of $250.

AN EXCITING SWORD COMBAT.—At the Mobile Varieties this evening a scene from the "French Spy" will be introduced, which embraces a sword combat between Addie Woods and the most valiant man of the company. Of course, by all the rules of chivalry, the lady becomes the victor. The beautiful Kitty Davenport in a variety of songs and dances, Miss Woods and Addie Woods in the "Two Orphans and other novelties. Sharpsons and Dutch delineations, jig and clog dances.

A WHOLESALE HOUSE.—The most attractive wholesale house in the city is that of Messrs. A. & B. Moog, grocers, provision dealers and soap manufacturers, Dauphin, Commerce and Front streets. The exterior of the building is the perfection of neatness and indicates prosperity within. Messrs. Moog are the sole wholesale agents in Mobile of the celebrated Cape City Flour, which took the first premium at the Vienna Exposition and has taken premiums at fairs in this country. They are also agents for Lemp's lager beer. Ranking among our most sagacious and prosperous merchants, they are prepared to fill orders of retail grocers in the city and country, at prices that will stand the most rigid scrutiny and comparison.

CITY COURT.—Stephen McCoy, gaming, $100 fine. Edward Calley petit larceny, 3 months in jail. Caroline Oliver, grand larceny. Convicted and remanded for sentence to the penitentiary. Alfred Thomas and Benjamin Adams, for burglary, were under trial in the afternoon. The jury, after an absence of about twenty minutes returned a verdict of guilty as charged in the indictment, and the prisoners were remanded for sentence to the penitentiary. Alfred Thomas, Benjamin Adams and Montgomery Tacks broke into the wholesale grocery store of J. G. Calhoun & Sons some weeks ago.

In the case of Tacks a nol pros was entered and his testimony corroborated that of others in the conviction of Thomas and Adams.

Thomas and Adams will be tried today on another indictment, for breaking into the store of E. E. Weems.

The cases for today are: Maria Thornton, arson; Charles Wilkins, murder; Will Thomas, resisting process; Alexander Williams, larceny.

RIVER NEWS.

The Lotta, No. 2, of Frank Stone's Grange Line, under command of Captain John H. Mabry, went out yesterday morning with a very heavy freight for Tuscaloosa and intermediate points.

About twelve o'clock yesterday the W. S. Holt, Captain Whiteside, arrived here from Columbus, with 213 bales of cotton, a short list of sundries and a few passengers. Captain Whiteside reports 22 feet of water at Columbus and the river rising. He apprehends an overflow on this side of Demopolis, which will effect planing operations and interrupt business.

The Alpha and Peerless will be in tomorrow morning with light cotton freights.

The W. B. Hall, of Central Line No. 2, with Captain G. H. Whiteside on the roof and Mr. Virgil Powers in the office, will depart from the landing at five o'clock this evening for Columbus and intermediate points. She will carry a full freight and all the passengers who want to go.

WALKS AROUND TOWN.

The open weather prompted the management of the Conception street railroad to run open cars Tuesday and Wednesday.

The spring trade among the retail dry goods dealer on Dauphin street, has been lively during the beautiful days this week.

Wanting to sleep and eat where you please, go to the Opal restaurant, next door to the post office, and secure a lodging room.

The increase in cotton receipts at New Orleans since September first has been more than 355,000 bales, compared with the same period the preceding year.

Street sprinklers ought to be prohibited by municipal ordinance from sprinkling the street crossings. When wet, they are bad for ladies to walk over.

Hamereen tries to please the public, and he does it when men go to him at the Opal restaurant, next door to the post office and order a dinner or breakfast.

Quiet, spacious, neat and airy lodging rooms, beds as soft as down and linen as white as snow, at Thompson's, old court house building, opposite the Campbell House.

The cotton receipts at Mobile since September first have been 351,341 bales, against 308,934 bales during the corresponding period the preceding year—an increase of 42,407 bales.

The oyster season is nearly over, but as long as it runs, a half dozen raw, with the extras, can be had at Thompson's, old court house building, opposite the Campbell house, for only a dime.

The closing cotton quotations of the Board of Trade, yesterday were: Low ordinary 8@8¾; ordinary 9¼ good ordinary 10¼@10¾; low middling 11¼@11¾; middling 12¼; good middling 13¼.

The noon cotton report of the Board of Trade yesterday was: "Market dull, nominally unchanged. Sales 200 bales. Closing report: Sales to-day 200 bales. Market closed dull and irregular."

The gap was closed up late last evening on the track of the Conception street railroad, at the culvert on Conception and Estava streets, and passengers had no further occasion to "change cars."

A meeting of survivors of the Mexican, Florida and Black Hawk wars, for the transaction of important business, will be held at the State Artillery room, armory hall, next Saturday afternoon at five o'clock.

According to the Board of Trade reports, the cotton receipts yesterday at all ports were 9,554 bales: New Orleans 2,121, Galveston 542, Charleston 390, Savannah 407, Mobile 273.

The season for cool, light and refreshing beverages has arrived. Thompson, opposite the Campbell House, can supply retail dealers with lemon beer, ginger champagne and similar beverages of his own manufacture, or retail to consumers by the glass.

The New Orleans Picayune of yesterday says: "Wednesday evening Judge Woods, of the United States circuit court, goes to Mobile for a day or so, to hear pleadings in the case of Ketchum vs Mobile and Ohio Railroad Company, on application to set aside the present receiver."

The first train from Montgomery since the interruption by the rains, arrived at three o'clock yesterday morning. Another train came in at eight o'clock. The interruption is caused by an overflow of the Coatoms bridge, fourteen miles this side of Montgomery. Passengers and mails are transferred at this point by hacks.

The rarest bargains are obtained by those who attend the auction sales of Samuel Gottwalls, at 10 a. m. and 7:30 p. m., in store under Odd Fellows' Hall, where crockery, glass, plated and silver ware and jewelry, chromos and paintings are put up and knocked down to the highest bidder.

The New Orleans Picayune gives us this item: "A very pretty sight was witnessed upon the Mobile and Ohio Rail road during the last cold snap. The weather at a point pretty well down the road had become quite warm, when a southern bound train rolled into the station with a deep covering of snow upon the roofs of the cars."

Today the box office will be open at the theatre for sale of seats to the Julia Mathews opera bouffe entertainments. The New York Evening Mail, alluding to the first appearance of Miss Mathews and her comic opera troupe at Wallack's theatre, says: "Miss Mathews made an extraordinary success and was obliged to repeat every song, and was called before the curtain at the end of each act. She has a sweet, rich-toned voice, and her acting in full of vivacity and graceful sparkle."

A DESPERATE CONVICT.—By our court reports, it will be seen that two parties, Alfred Thomas and Benj. Adams, both colored, were yesterday convicted by the jury of the city court of burglary in breaking into the wholesale grocery store of J. G. Calhoun & Sons. A third accomplice named Tacks, also colored, turned state's evidence and a nol pros being entered in his case, his testimony was corroborative in proof of the guilt of the other two.

After the conviction, as Deputy Sheriff John Rabby was on his way to jail with Thomas, Adams and Tacks, (the latter being held as a witness to appear against the others, who are indicted for breaking into the store of E. R. Weems) just as they were descending the steps that lead from the side entrance of the court house to Royal street, Thomas threw off and hit Tacks a terrible blow on the back of the head, which felled him as though a log of wood had been thrown down. By the fall and the blow Tacks was very badly injured and bled profusely. All three were taken into the Sheriff's office, and while they were there Judge Semmes happened to come in and saw the bleeding man. He inquired who did did this, and Thomas promptly replied, "I did it!" It is quite likely that Judge Semmes, when he passes sentence on the penitentiary convicts at the close of the present term of his court, will remember the brutality of Thomas and give him a sentence to the whole extent of the law.

LOUISIANA JOCKEY CLUB.—The spring meeting of the Louisiana Jockey Club will commence on the 15th instant. Many horses for the fair grounds course in the morning are entertained by the racers in training. The New Orleans Picayune of Tuesday compliments the Alabama stables in the following paragraph:

"A young blood of the Virgil family owned by Mr. John Tunk, of Henderson, Ky., (purchased from Mr. M. H. Sanford, now in Bogland with a number of American racers,) came on the course clad from head to foot in white raiment, and showed good signs of excellence, both in breeding and acting. He walked about the course for a while, and then casting aside the fine clothes, measured the mile around in beautiful style, showing the elasticity of movement which plainly told that if he had been permitted to "move along," the flunkeyeers would have had a brisk work to do. This colt was second in a stake race at Louisville last spring, when the white raiment, and showed good signs of excellence, both in breeding and acting. He walked about the course for a while, and then casting aside the fine clothes, measured the mile around in beautiful style, showing the elasticity of movement which plainly told that if he had been permitted to "move along," the flunkeyeers would have had a brisk work to do. This colt was second in a stake race at Louisville last spring, when the world's wonder, Vagrant, came first to the judges' stand. He is engaged for both the three year old stakes to be run at the Spring Meeting here, commencing on the 15th of this month. He will have the pick of Cottrill's company to contend against, unless he tried colts all the way from the far off northwest. Speculation relative to the result of the contests has already begun, and while many claim superior excellence for the young Virgil, others are fast in the faith that the Alabama stables can't be beaten.

MONTHLY WEATHER REPORT.—The table sent to the Tribune by the signal observer here, showing daily and monthly means of barometer and thermometer, monthly velocity of wind and amount of rainfall, with the prevailing direction of wind, etc., for the month of March, possesses so much interest that we give the general figures:

TELEGRAPH

DOMESTIC.

WORCESTER, Mass., April 5.—The snow storm is unequaled in 25 years.

HARTFORD, Conn., April 5.—The total vote is 98,485, against 100,983, last year. The republic this year is—Robinson 43,557, Ingersoll 51,071, Smith 1,871, Atwater 1,986. The senate stands 18 democrats and 4 republicans, the democrats gaining 1. The house stands 159 democrats, 85 republicans, and 2 independents; a democratic gain of 32. The democratic majority on joint ballot is 87.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—A World's special says that Secretary Cameron and the president are too strong for Bristow, and the Pittsburg custom-house frauds remain without investigation.

The foreign relations committee, with probably two exceptions, will report that Schenck did some reprehensible acts in becoming a director and speculator in the mine, but was not guilty of intentional dishonesty. Two members are attempting to show that the reverse is true.

General Custer was before the Emma mine committee. His testimony shows the value of the mine when he owned it; in four months it yielded nearly $1,000,000; he found English parties eager purchasers, and they selected Silliman to examine the mine. His testimony has not reached Schenck's connection with the mine yet.

In the senate Edmunds and Thurman were appointed a committee to wait upon the chief justice of supreme court and invite him to attend the senate at 1 o'clock and administer the impeachment oath to senators.

Committee on privileges and elections have ruled out letters submitted by General Morgan, as written by Spencer to Bacon and others. The defence will open tomorrow.

The committee on the war department had Cashier Park, of the Bank of New York, before them, who said that Pendleton's account was closed and all his checks, etc., sent to a Cincinnati bank.

The house committee on banking and currency have made the first report of the session by a bill regulating national bank receivers.

CHICAGO, April 5.—The republicans have carried the southern and western towns, the northern town being very close.

ST. LOUIS, April 5.—The municipal election resulted in the success of a majority of the democratic and independent officers.

ST. JAMES, Mo., April 5.—At the municipal election yesterday, the vote was probably the largest ever polled here. The democrats elected the mayor and most of the city directors, with three out of the four councilmen.

TOPEKA, Kansas, April 5.—In the city election yesterday, the republicans elected the mayor and probably all of the city ticket.

FOREIGN.

PARIS, April 5.—Seven thousand workmen of Belleville attended the burial of General Cremer in Cemetery Pere La Chaise; the largest gathering of the genuine working class since the Commune.

LONDON, April 5.—The American schooner Ralph M. Hayward, from Liverpool for a United States port, was sunk by collision; crew saved.

HAVANA, April 5.—The cable steamer Professor Morse, with Prest Ieaj Orton and party on board, has arrived.

THE WEATHER YESTERDAY.—The weather was again magnificent yesterday. The temperature at Mobile, at 6:51 a. m., was 60, highest 72 at Key West, lowest 47 at Corsicana. At 3:51 yesterday afternoon, the temperature at Mobile was 77, highest 81 at Augusta, lowest 55 at Corsicana and Indianola. The maximum temperature at Mobile yesterday was 77, minimum 58, a range of 19 degrees.

BY

H. BALLENTINE AND THOMAS B. LYONS.

[Correspondence of Mobile Tribune.]

Our Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, April 6.

If the rolling of countless hoops followed by little human furies, the tossing of countless balls by as many merry boys, the groups playing at ringtaw in shady corners, and the milliners' windows full of spring bonnets, mean the coming of that most bewitching season, then it certainly must be near at hand, for all these signs are apparent, and besides, the birds held a special convention in the trees this morning to announce the fact. How they did twitter and flutter, chattering worse than old ladies over a precious bit of scandal and claiming to be individually heard as persistently as any member of Congress. They did better, however, than the politicians, for they settled matters finally, and united in one grand chorus before they flew away to their nests. In quite as sweet a fashion but more silently, the trees and plants have been issuing prophecies. Buds have been swelling and bursting; leaves have been unfolding and out in the shadowy places of the forests timid blossoms are peeping, telling the winds to carry their fragant assurance of Spring through all their wanderings. There is only one other story which will bear such repetition. We never tire of hearing of the coming summer; we never tire of hearing the whispers of love. Think of the Spring times that have come and gone, always welcome; think of the young hearts that have opened to the rapture of loving since Adam and Eve found its bliss, and weigh that gladness and happiness against all the wretchedness and misery that would make us hate existence. I thank Heaven for Spring and Love! It would be easy to fill my letter with the delight the sunshine brings to me, but you want news. How shall I make bricks without straw? How can I give you news when Congress persistently refuses to do anything worth relating? To think of this, to think of the wasted weeks and months, to remember the disgrace and shame clothing our beloved America is a dreadful transition from the brightness of my Spring reverie. Our eagle has been soaring so proudly; we thought his eye was fixed upon the sun; we thought he was so far above all meaner things that nothing could vary his flight; we had forgotten that even our own precious and peculiar Eagle had many earthly instincts, till one day clouds hid the sun and the royal bird missing his duty circled lower, till touching the earth his pinions were draggled and broken and his proud head drooped. From over the sea we hear the laugh of derision; kings settle contentedly back upon their thrones; despots grasp more firmly their cruel sceptres, while, more bitterly humiliating than all the rest, we know that "the lion and the unicorn" of Mother England are exulting in our dismay.

There comes, too, a sound of sighing from the oppressed among far-off nations, a cry of despair lest the experiment of a free government shall be proven a failure, lest there be no land of hope or refuge left. How pitiful that the blind zeal of party should so obscure the higher and grander interests of patriotism! This ceaseless investigation has exposed one man's false dealing, it has wasted a million of money, and—the committee on Appropriations knowing this are complacently cutting down individual salaries and boasting of economy! Bah! The discharge of the employees in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing has created the greatest misery. When these poor creatures were employed they were herded together in a close room whose atmosphere was poison, but they endured its horrors patiently, for the sake of the pittance so earned; now face to face with absolute starvation the cry of their distress moves every heart except those on that committee of Gorgons. (The Gorgons were women, but they were horrible, so I insist on the correctness of my epithet.) A regular organization for relief has been formed. One of the ladies interested lives over the way; her door is besieged with women and young girls and children, whose wan faces and shabby apparel tell their sad story with irresistible eloquence. Starvation in America! Starvation at the very gates of the Capitol! business embarrassed, dismay and distrust spreading like some foul contagion and—investigation committees ignoring it all for partisan ends. The pressure of legislation becomes extreme and then, these gentlemen having consumed the hours of the day in their precious search for infamy conclude to have evening sessions! So weary and jaded they drag themselves to the House and wrangle because they are too much exhausted for any proper consideration of any topic. One thing is very certain, the country doesn't admire the conduct of the present majority in the House. The usual quiet of the Senate has been somewhat disturbed, and this time it was Mr. Boutwell who made a disgraceful exhibition of himself. I know Mr. Boutwell is a Republican, but no man is excusable in any party for saying the things he said as he said them in the debate with Mr. Bayard. Bigoted, narrow and spiteful he is by nature; Massachusetts made a mistake when she sent such a man to the Senate, but there he is and the Old Bay State must bide her time till another election may give her an opportunity to show that gentlemen and statesmen are not yet extinct within her borders. Mr. Bayard may be mistaken in his thinkings, but Mr. Bayard never forgets to be the gentleman his birth and culture have made him, a fact which to a mind like Boutwell's is a sin beyond forgiveness. He is not a gentleman ergo nobody has any business to be! Am I ill-natured? I confess that more than any other sentence of that bitter tirade, the fling at Mr. Bristow was too much for any one to endure who knew him. Mr. Boutwell would never trust any man born in the South! Compare the record of Messrs. Bristow and Boutwell in administering the affairs of the Treasury! Which is the honorable man?

The Senate is dreadfully exercised over the mysterious way in which the newspapers obtain their secrets. Were the laws against witchcraft still in force enterprising correspondents would surely be condemned for practising the black art. I heard a Senator expressing his amazement the other day. Said he, "I was going down the Avenue when Billy Copeland overtook me; everybody likes Billy; we walked along a minute and then he asked me what we had done in the last executive session; I replied I couldn't tell him; 'Ah,' said Billy; 'well, good morning,' and off he dashed. Twenty rods ahead of me he met another reporter. They stood and rubbed their heads together a minute, Billy laughed and coming back told me the secrets of our last meeting. How did they find out? Truly the "freedom of the press" is a great thing.

Jones, of Nevada, created a great deal of interest by his brief remarks upon the silver question. He means to make an exhaustive speech upon the subject before many days. It will be well worth hearing, for to this man of countless ingots, all possible

FRIDAY.....APRIL 7

News from San Antonio (Texas) says that the Mexican revolution at Matamoras is "an accomplished fact," and that every thing on the border is quiet, although refugees were coming over to this side for security. There were no Mexican federal troops left on the borders of the Rio Grande.

There is not much congressional news. Some action was taken in the House in regard to the troubles on the Mexican border. A bill was offered requiring the President to add two full regiments of the cavalry to the forces now there.

The clause to the legislative appropriation bill reducing the salary of the president, after the 4th of next March, to $25,000, was adopted.

On Tuesday there was another petroleum explosion in New Orleans. A woman, Mrs. Powers, getting impatient with the slowness of the fire, used a can of this oil to help it along. It ignited, and burned her severely. Her screams attracted help, and the fire was put out. Except for that, she would have been put out, and the house too. As it was, she was severely burned.

When silver comes into general circulation the people will have to carry around 1400 tons of metal.

So one of the papers says. We prefer the greenbacks. If the gold could be forced down to their level, they would be unquestionably preferable—not, perhaps, to board in old stockings and similar receptacles—for the rats might eat them, and they would not, like us miserable sinners, give a bit of cheese for all the gold in America. Wretched and ignorant rats!

The recent floods in Massachusetts have done a vast amount of harm to the mills and other property. The loss at Worcester is said to be between two and three hundred thousand dollars—swept away and leaving nothing behind.

The poor people have our sympathies. The rich ones may have lost, but they have the means of getting good dinners. That is something. A man may lose his soul. That is nothing, as in relation to a good dinner. That is the price that he chooses to pay for it. We suppose that he gets by this process the value of what he has given.

We desire to see the individual, and don't care the value of a nickel as to what party he belongs to.

"Measures, not men," has been a sort of political phrase to conjure with. We now care nothing about the "measures." We want the men—true men. They are necessary The proper "measures" will follow, if we get the right men.

The next President of the United States should be a capable administrator, a clear sighted statesman, and a fearless and energetic reformer. He must be a man whose past public life needs neither apology nor defense, because it speaks for itself. He must be free from all sympathy or connection with the influences which have thrown discredit on the good name alike of the party and the people. He must, in short, be a man thoroughly identified with the principles and thoroughly qualified to fulfill the the expectations of the new era in our politics and our public life.

The Opera.

There will be large audiences at the theatre for opera bouffe. We have not the slightest doubt from what we have heard that the performances will be extremely interesting and amusing.

Lent is what is in the way. Our Catholic people, most of whom love music in any form, will be kept away. We know that they want to go.

This is a matter of religious conscience, and of course that, properly, super edes all desire for amusement during this lenten season.

The government is becoming economical. Well, that is a virtue in individuals as well as in governments.

But there is an unwise economy, so-called. There is an old saying to this effect: there is saving at the spigot, whilst the bung-hole is open. The little things are saved, such as the ends of candles, while no one takes note of the big things.

A thief carries off six millions, as Tweed did. And, by the way, he hasn't got it now, for his friends have him shut up in New York. They don't want to let him loose. He knows too much, if he were put on the stand, for the comfort of his fellow rogues. It is likely that he would 'squeal," and so his fellow-thieves are hiding and keeping him from the temptation.

There are few rogues that would not "turn state's evidence" rather than go to a penitentiary.

We have a profound respect for Tweed. Not because he was a honest, but because he managed New York—stealing at the same time, and was not discovered. It was his not being caught that makes us respect him, and we respect him the more because, being discovered, no policeman can catch him.

This is heroism. Let us give it all the respect that is due to eminent skill of the kind.

But we are wandering from our text. The preachers often do that. It was said of a preacher that if his citation from the Scripture had had the small pox, his sermon could not have caught it. That was scandalum magnatum.

Economy is our text, and we shall stick to it. We have been informed that the government has ordered the gas to be cut off from the Custom House of Mobile.

Then follows a conclusion in regard to matters of this kind. There are but two things of vast importance this year; namely, the centennial and the elections. We put the former ahead, for that will be a potent instrument in relation to the other, and preceding it.

It is a very remarkable phenomenon that all parties on the eve of an election get pious. We have seen this exhibited in Mobile, and what of it is here is to be found everywhere on occasions of the kind.

Isn't this very strange: that for three years or one year a politician should be dishonest, and then become virtuous? This is one of the mysteries of human nature that our plummet cannot get to the bottom of.

It is strange—wondrous strange.

Economy now is the law. The government is not able to pay for gas, in order to give light to its employees in the Custom House.

We propose that a subscription for the supplying of this light shall be set on foot in Mobile. Miss Mathews, of the theatre, if properly applied to, we have no doubt, would give her services for one night.

All this seems to be jesting. We do not intend it for that purpose. Within it we think lies a great truth. And it is simply this: put not your trust in professional politicians. Let every man "keep his head level" and vote for good men—refusing to be controlled by cliques, who are using the ignorant voters for their own purposes, and caring about nothing except their own ends.

Democrat or Republican, it makes no difference. An honest man on either side is to us an honest man. His color—the law having made us all equal as far as voting is concerned—makes no difference.

We have an aversion to any law that gives universal suffrage. If we had the power, we should allow one man in ten to vote, and should make his fitness for the privilege, secure before we should grant it to him.

But then there is a law which gives this privilege. One cannot refuse to obey that. It may, after awhile, be changed, and we shall have no objection to the change, even if it deprive us of the privilege.

Things that are cheap—although they may be of great intrinsic value—are not much esteemed. If Champagne were as cheap as lager beer, we are inclined to believe that the latter might be preferred, or at least "hold its hand" with the former. This illustration might be run farther—perhaps run "into the ground."

The rock which this country is splitting on is universal suffrage. But there is this hope for those who shall come after us: that the wisdom of the statesmen—if there shall happen to be any people or the kind—will discover the error of the present. Anarchy, or a change, is a condition of the future.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—A World's special says the difference between Belknap and Benson is, that Belknap received his percentage direct from Robeson through his best friend, Senator Cattrell's brother. He received nearly $150,000 commission on the contracts with Matthews & Co., of New York, for stolen dealers.

In the senate Bottwell introduced a bill making an appropriation to defray the expenses of the committee appointed by the senate to investigate the recent election in Mississippi, which was referred to the committee on appropriations.

In the Louisiana district marshal case, one witness was examined, who arrested 150 persons before the election, when proceedings against them were stopped; he could not swear, but was morally certain, that blank warrants were distributed broadcast; his warrants reached him in due form. The New Orleans custom-house will be examined. The entire Federal machinery in Louisiana is under question.

ROBINSON.

LONDON, April 6.—The Earl of Sheffield is dead.

The following particulars of a most distressing disaster on the River Dee, which occurred yesterday, have been received. The day was Sacramental Fast Day, so-called by the Scotch Church for preparation for Sunday Communion, and the people celebrate it as a holiday. Crowds were crossing from Aberdeen to Torry village, on the opposite bank of the river, in overloaded ferry boats, which are drawn across the Dee by wire ropes. One boat containing about 60 persons, despite the warnings of the waterman, was pulled by the passengers into the middle of the stream, where it was swamped, and 22 persons, men, boys and girls, are known to have been drowned. The scene during the night was heart-rending. Relatives and friends were all night watching on the banks or searching the river for the bodies, but up to 3 o'clock this morning none had been recovered. It is believed that 31 persons are lost.

The Daily News severely condemns the action of the United States senate in rejecting the nomination of Mr. Dana as minister to England.

LOCAL NEWS.

WALKS AROUND TOWN.

At Tuskegee, J. C. Smith & Bro. are manufacturing the Cary plow, turning out at the present time from three to six per day.

Montgomery proposes to substitute kerosene for gas in lighting the streets, which will effect a saving of three thousand dollars a year.

The Prairieville and Tallassee factories were greatly damaged by the late heavy rains, and mills, pickeries and foundries in Montgomery were also much injured.

Montgomery is going to have a grand central depot at the foot of Commerce street. Mobile ought to have a similar depot on Commerce and Government streets.

Feeling inclined to order a half dozen raw, go to Thompson's restaurant, opposite the Campbell House. Only ten cents. His oysters are of the best quality.

Hamaseo, at the Opal restaurant next door to the post office, does not clothe the naked, but he feeds the hungry, when he goes to his establishment and order a breakfast or dinner.

There is a little disagreement as to hours and minutes between the long and short hands of the town clock, which puzzles some people who rely on that dial to learn the exact time.

The closing cotton quotations of the Board of Trade, yesterday were: low ordinary 8; ordinary 9¼; good ordinary 10; low middling 11¼; middling 12¾; good middling 13¼.

According to the Board of Trade receipts of cotton receipts yesterday at all ports were 4,441 bales: New Orleans 686, Norfolk 1,319 Galveston 539 Charleston 438, Savannah 554, Mobile 69.

The Montgomery Advertiser reporter met some friends Tuesday night who left Mobile the Saturday previous. They were all anxious to hear the news about Belknap, the storm, the Connection election, etc.

The Mobile and Montgomery passenger trains are running all right now. It may be that half a dozen freight trains from Montgomery will be precipitated into Mobile today, adding materially to our cotton and merchandise receipts.

T. Wharton Collins, jr., official shorthand reporter of the fifth district court, New Orleans, has been engaged to report the proceedings in the Mobile and Ohio Railroad case that is to come up before Judge Woods in the United States circuit court here.

The noon cotton report of the Board of Trade yesterday was: "Market weak and irregular. Moderate demand. Sales about 100 bales. Quotations nominally unchanged." Closing report: "Sales today 700 bales. Market closed quiet and steady. Fair and general demand."

All the post offices and custom houses will be in darkness now that the gas and light appropriation is exhausted. The Mobile custom house has enough coal left to fix up a few more fires to warm the reporters who visit it, but that must do without gas; and they do'nt need it, for all their business is transacted by daylight.

New Orleans is greatly favored as her citizens will have opera bouffe and burlesque opera a whole week, commencing next Sunday night, while Miss Julia Mathews and her thirty odd artists will give us three renderings of English opera—tonight, tomorrow night and a Saturday matinee. They favored Mont Pomery with the "Grand Duchess" last night. They give here tonight "Giroflo, Giroflo" a famous opera. Reserved seats may be secured at the box office.

The summer nights concerts are so well received, so it is stated by Professor Klemke, who generously tenders his thanks to those who have so generously come forward and subscribed. He invites others who contemplate subscribing to come forward as soon as possible, for the greater the amount of subscriptions, the larger will be the orchestra. Subscription lists at Soto & Primo's, Zadek & Co.'s, Cawthon & Co.'s, Snow's and Bromberg's. A liberal subscription will result in the best of the series of summer night concerts.

PLANTED POTATOES.—Peerless, early rose, peach blow, Chili, Red and russets in store and for sale low by Owen Farley, 64, 66, 68, 70 and 72 Government street.

JUSTICE MCCORMICK.—Phillisa Brown and Martha Stenton had John Griffe arrested for assault with an ax. There being some extenuating circumstances, Griffe was put under peace bonds in the amount of $100.

The kid gloves, white vest and patent leather boots alluded to in the Register of yesterday morning, have been missing since Wednesday evening. The reporter of that paper is requested to see that they are returned to the office No. 53 Conti street, as he appears to know more of the missing articles than any other person.

JUSTICE ROULHAC.—William Mills white, will keep a store on corner 8, Emanuel and Palmetto was arrested on complaint of Robert Peterson, color ed, charged with assault with a knife. The case was dismissed.

MAYOR'S COURT.—In this court yesterday morning, Mayor Hartel presiding, Thomas Jones, colored, drunk and down on the corner of Royal and Conti, was fined $5. Other cases called will be disposed of at another time.

Delegations from several of the New Orleans fire companies will come over to Mobile next Sunday, but no company, as a company, has arranged to make a visit to this city to note in the firemen's celebration on the 10th instant.

The next time the porter of the municipal buildings furnishes the reporter of the Tribune with a no-backed chair, as he has done several times, it will be swapped off for any vacant chair with a back to it that the reporter can find in the council chamber. On this point, the reporter "has got his back up."

The best government on the face of the earth is so poor that it cannot raise the money to light up custom houses and post offices or to furnish a water supply. Orders have been received here to stop the gas and water bills. The post office clerks have borrowed two or three coal oil lamps. There is a reservoir on the top of the custom house, and so the collector and postmaster make their own water.

FATAL ACCIDENT ON THE FOUNTAIN.—As the towboat Fountain was coming up from the lower bay yesterday afternoon, Mr. Henry S. Hawkins, engineer in charge, slipped while oiling the machinery and, falling, was so mangled and crushed by the machinery that death was almost instantaneous. His remains were brought to this city, and the coroner was called to hold an inquest. Mr. Hawkins was the son of the well known steamboat engineer, Mr. Henry J. Hawkins. He leaves a family to lament his untimely death.

THE COMMON COUNCIL.

At the regular weekly meeting of the common council last evening, President Quigley in the chair, Messrs. Anderson, Broun, Dancer and McCaw were also present.

Report of clerk of Southern Market, collection of $507 30. Referred to market committee.

Report of W. H. Wickes, treasurer, for March, 1876, showing a balance of $17,844 66 after on the first of April, the usual disbursements. Referred to ways and means.

Communication from S ephens Croom in reference to the track of the New Orleans and Mobile Railroad through Commerce street. Received and filed, action suspended one week, that time in meantime to be printed. This, on motion of Councilman Dancer, who moved that the reading of the document be suspended.

Police force in the board of aldermen received action in concurrence.

The action of the board of aldermen providing for a conference committee on the resolution for the temporary payment of city taxes, was concurred in, and the president appointed Messrs. McCaw and Broun, on the part of the council, as members of that committee.

Petition of insurance agents of a Pennsylvania company that their license of $100 be refunded to them, as they have done no business and the company has withdrawn their agency. Was referred to committee on laws and ordinances.

Petition of Wm. Butler Duncan and Andrew Foster Elliott, trustees and receivers of the Mobile and Ohio Railroad, to have to extend the railroad track to a depot and ice ing place on river between Canal and Palmetto streets, where the company long ago bought a piece of ground fronting on the river, to give facilities for landing, shipping and storing produce and merchandise in connection with that railroad. Referred to street committee.

Petition for reduction of assessments were disposed of in accordance with an ordinance for the relief of tax payers, recently adopted by both boards.

At five minutes past nine o'clock the board adjourned.

THE ARCTIC WAVE.—A Mobile letter of April first to the New Orleans Picayune contains some points of interest:

Now that we can see what effect the "Arctic Wave," so called, of the 20th and 21st ult. has had on things generally in this region, I have considered to drop you a line.

It struck with fearful force at Mobile. On the highlands above the city the mercury went stiddenly down to 30, and, of course, it won't not tell you that most of our fruit and all of our tender vegetables went up. It has made what might be termed a clean sweep of everything sufficiently tender to be killed by such a fall of temperature. Our deciduous oaks and our hickories, out almost in full leaf the day before the freeze, are now sere and black. Thousands of small birds were destroyed. The martins had already built and hatched their young, and the mocking birds are largely dead. The grass sparrows and blue birds fared but little better—the latter had nested and their young were half grown while young birds all perished in the nest.

Our country people are very much discouraged, many of them who were growing early potatoes for the northern markets being heavy losers. But they are now rallying, and so fast as possible making arrangements for a second planting. Their heaviest losses were in snap beans, though many fine fields of Irish potatoes are, it is supposed, entirely ruined. It stayed off the sugar cane, which was well up, but what the effect will be upon it no one seems prepared to say as yet.

RIVER NEWS.

There was no arrival yesterday and nobody was due.

The fast little steamer W. S. Holt, Captain Whiteside, of Central Line No. 2, went out last evening, for Columbus and intermediate points, with a full freight and some passengers.

The Peerless, from Montgomery, and the Atlanta, from Pickensville, ought to be in this morning. Neither will bring in heavy cotton freights.

The Montgomery Advertiser of Wednesday says: "The steamer Peerless came up yesterday evening, eight hours behind time notwithstanding the inviting waters. The number of passengers could not be counted—they were numerous, and the freight the old craft returned with, brought gladness to the heart of good old Owen Finnegan."

The Montgomery Journal of the same date says: "The beautiful steamer "Peerless" arrived yesterday from below. Owing to the drift-wood she had to feel her way up cautiously, and in consequence was delayed several hours. Her officers reported the river rising steadily—all the streams below overflowed and the lowlands submerged. The "Peerless" left during the evening on her return trip. Thousands of persons visited the wharf yesterday afternoon to see the steamer and watch her back out on her departure."

ROW AMONG NEW ORLEANS REPUBLICANS.—SHOOTING AT CLUB MEETINGS.—The republicans of New Orleans are no more harmonious than are their political brethren in Mobile. They seldom hold a primary meeting where the choice of officers is involved without the report of a shot gun or pistol is heard or the blade of the bowie knife or razor gleams. Two or three nights ago, away down town, a colored man who was the leading candidate for president of a club, was accidentally shot and mortally wounded by the discharge of a gun that hit the wrong man.

Wednesday night there was a meeting at Mechanics' Institute, on Dryades, near Canal street, of the Southern Republican Club and at the same place there was a large gathering of the third ward republican club.

N. P. Cresgh objected to the adoption of the minutes of the previous meeting A member said the motion came from him with a bad grace, as a motion to expel him was pending. Pat. Cresgh, his father, made some remark, and another member declared that he ought to be expelled. Violent demonstrations then began, a pistol was fired in the rear of the hall, and the third warders and other persons began to leave, Pat. Cresgh being followed by N. P. Cresgh, John King and Judge Lucien Adams. When they arrived at the door leading to the street Judge Adams walked up to Pat. Cresgh and after scaring him knocked him down, as they say. The firing then commenced between Cresgh and N. P. Cresgh on Dryades street and N. P. Cresgh ran off.

John King, a son-in-law of Pat Cresgh, was the first man wounded. One bullet struck his left leg just below the knee. He got up and went on up Dryades to Common street, where he fell and he was shot in the back while he was down, the ball lodging in the abdomen.

Lucien Adams, judge of one of the municipal courts, was wounded in the right breast, on a line with and about an inch from the nipple. The ball penetrated the chest.

Lucien Adams, jr., started down Dryades street toward Canal, where he was shot by some unknown hand, the ball penetrating the stomach.

It is not certain that any of these men were mortally wounded.

Police Superintendent Long put King and the two Adams's under police surveillance that night—King and the elder Adams being carried to their respective homes and the younger Adams to the Charity Hospital.

views affecting his treasures have been of the greatest importance. Evidently he has studied widely and thoughtfully. He used language expressing his opinions that was wonderfully graphic and clear; he was ready with conclusive answers to every question and wore his oratorical spurs with the assured ease of a man knowing his power. The coarse allusions so often made to Mr. Jones' mining days have given an impression that he is uneducated, but Mr. Jones studied with Edwin M. Stanton after completing his earlier course and no gentleman in active life has continued his reading with more assiduity and pleasure than has our silver senator.

This agitation of money and its values is extremely puzzling to the average mind. We have taken its existence for granted, caring little to examine its origin or the causes affecting its circulation. It has seemed as if, like the air it had always been an adjunct and element of existence; its presence is an unmistakable blessing, its absence a shocking calamity, but to measure it and change its values in conformity with the fluctuating needs of commerce, what would women do with such a puzzle if they had their much coveted rights? America so rich in silver, that it almost ceases to be ranked as a precious metal, and yet whining about domestic expenditure!

Poor General Schenck feels keenly the indignity of his position. The committee having his case in charge are only anxious to establish his infamy not his innocence, while attacks from all quarters make the persecuted man exclaim. "I was proud of my country; proud to be her minister abroad; I called America my home, and I come to find that in England I have warmer friends than I have here!" It is hard indeed after sixty honorable years to be so bitterly assailed. Let us hope that no intentional wrong doing may be proven.

"People won't patronize art now a-days," said a disgusted artist, as he left the picture sale up town yesterday, "they throw away their money on bread and butter."

Two droves of cattle numbering 3500 head, belonging to Capt. James Fillson, of Hays county, Texas, passed through Merrville Monday bound north. It is reported that Captain Richard King's cattle, to the number of 30,000 will also take this route on their way to the market.

A New Orleans merchant was induced by a woman, who told a pitiful story of poverty, to give her $14 with which to bury her dead husband. Before giving the money he went to the house and saw a discolored corpse that he thought might have been buried days before. In his hurry to get away from the place he forgot his umbrella. When he returned for it he found the corpse sitting up and counting the $14.

The sedate Journal des Debats tells a wonderful story from Andennes, Belgium, where an express train struck a wagon laden with powder and exploded it. The shock was tremendous, lifting the whole train up in the air, but fortunately fell back on the rails and sped on toward its destination. Not a single passenger was injured, but all the windows were smashed and the curtains singed; the cars were also seriously damaged.

About 20,000,000 tons of coal are mined yearly in Pennsylvania. In the mine, unwrought, it is worth fifty cents a ton, or $10,000,000; mined and brought to the surface it is worth $1 50 a ton, or $30,000,000; ground, broken and placed on the cars it is worth $2 50 per ton, or $50,000,000; delivered at the boundaries of the State or on shipboard it it is worth on an average $5 50, or $140,000,000, which is the sum annually paid to Pennsylvania for coal.

Stop Crowding the Street Cars.

Hon. Mr. Bruner, of the House, has introduced a bill in the Ohio Legislature to regulate the carrying of passengers in street railroad cars. It provides that it shall be unlawful for any conductor of a street, car, or driver, if there be no conductor, to permit any passenger to enter the car after the seats are filled with passengers. It is also made unlawful for a conductor or to receive any passenger who cannot be provided with a seat. The penalty for each offense is fixed at $1. The bill also makes it unlawful for any company to run cars unless the seats therein are partitioned into compartments "sixteen inches width, more or less, such as shall permit the comfortable and separate sitting" of adult passengers. The penalty to the company is $50 for each car operated in violation of the law. One half the fine in both cases goes to the informer, and the other to the school fund. The bill has been referred to the Committee on Railroads.

SATURDAY,.....APRIL 8

The New Orleanspapers announce the death of Lucien Adams, jr., from the wound received in the party riot last Wednesday night. His father, Judge Adams, who was wounded at the same time, is out of danger of a fatal issue.

The gas and water supply of the U. Ors ans Custom House has been shut off by order of the Secretary of the U. S. Treasury. It is some consolation to know that Mobile is not an exception in this matter.

The reason, we are told, is not because the ways of the government, are like those of the Chinee, but because the money for gas, water, &c., has been exhausted.

The members of the executive committee of the Underwriters' Association of the South met in New Orleans last Thurday. A. Dumont, Secretary of the Mobile Underwriters, was present. Not much was done during the day. The New Orleans Underwrites gave an invitation to the members to take a pleasure trip on the sugnificent Protector, to look at Rade's jetties, and afterwards eat something at Boudro's restaurant—a place where a hungry man may be satisfied.

Men in office live long. Jefferson said that few die, and none resign. Washington was 68 when he died; John Adams was 90; Jefferson 83; Madison 85; Monroe 73; John Quincy Adams 81; Jackson 78; Van Buren 80; Harrison 68; Tyler 72; Polk 66; Taylor 65; [he was killed by the politicians.] Fillmore 74; Pierce 65; Buchanan 77, Lincoln 56; [he was slain by a crazy man, and would, in all probability, have been alive to-day, if it had not been for the time;] Johnson 67. The last of the Presidents is Grant. Losing somewhat phlegmatic, it is possible that he may beat John Adams in longevity.

It is a settled fact that men who use their brains as well as their bodies are of long life. There is nothing strange in this—for each part of a man is necessary to all the other parts of him, and by the uses of all there is a physiological harmony, which is favorable to long life. We have evidences of this all around us in Mobile. Take, for example—we beg pardon for citing the instance—our fellow-citizen, G. N. Stewart, esq—a gentleman of whom men respect and love. He is younger to-day than men going about the streets carrying on their backs not half his years. The physical and mental in him are of an equipoise, and that is the essential thing.

But all this is based on the presumption that the person has not inherited a tendency to functional disorder. That neither brains nor action can contend with. By prudence there may be delay in the final result, but it is nothing but delay—short, perhaps, but running rapidly to its end.

We see many old men—old men in years, but younger than the boys—men gentle in their manners, and fond of all those things which a prudent life has kept within control. We see these men—wise and honest in their purposes and losing nothing of their interest in the affairs which are to be managed by those who will cry over their coffins.

The respect that is due to gentlemen of this kind, we are sorry to say, is not always given by the rising generation. It thinks that it is wiser than its fathers. Every thing now seems to be turned up side down, and we are apt to think the boys, who are likely to learn by experience what they are now ignorant of. They must pass through this curriculum of life. They will know more after they shall grow older and, by age, wiser.

But this is preaching. Amen!

Tom Tcumb intends to settle in Texas to make a stock farm. We suppose that it will be little, and his stock will be Bantam chickens or pigeons.

A snow-storm at Worcester (Mass.) on the 5th inst., was the heaviest known for twenty-five years.

We understand that the gas at the Custom House has not been cut off for economical reasons. It is simply that the Congressional appropriation for that and fuel is exhausted. Mr. Fish, we suppose, would trust the place for gas, and Mr. Danner or Mr. Hall would give it coal and wood on the same condition.

S. W. Rawlins, jr., son of S. W. Rawlins, of the firm of Rawlins & Murrell, cotton merchants, New Orleans, disappeared last Wednesday morning, and, at the last accounts, had not been heard of. As there are a great many "roughs" in the city, it was feared that he had been improperly dealt with.

At night of the same day two of the "hitchers" of the Dauphine street railroad quarrelled, and John Roach, (one of them) stabbed the other and instantly killed him. His name was John Reiser.

The news from all parts of the state seem that the recent floods were general, and that they did a vast deal of harm to houses, fences, and all those things which were movable.

All the creeks were out or their banks, and the land everywhere was washed out of order.

Last Wednesday at Montgomery the Alabama river began to fall, and it is likely that it will soon get within its decent limits.

The farmers seem to have the "blues." But a few days of warm sunshine will restore all the hope that they think is now hopeless. It may be that the flood and the trouble that it gives will be discovered presently to be a "blessing in disguise." Who knows?

Gen. Custer was before the committee of Congress last Wednesday in regard to the Emma mining company. It seems to have no relatives to the government, except so far as Gen. Schenck was associated with the business.

It has its connexion with the government only as it concerns the duties which the Ambassador owed to the government, and all of us who are parties to it.

From what we can see, the Ambassador lent his name to what he ought to have kept himself aloof from.

Potent in his place, why his name was valuable for any concerted fraud. He gave his name, with much impropriety, and he has been called home to answer for it.

This is virtuous in the government. It shows that its servants must be held to account.

Gen. Custer seems to have owned this Emma mine—feminine by name—and he declared before the congressional committee that it yielded nearly a million of dollars of metal within four months. With this knowledge, English parties were eager to buy stock in it. The Ambassador's name was used to make it respectable. All sorts of people, under this influence, bought stock—the Ambassador being the warrant for its value.

General Schenck may not be a rogue, but it is quite probable that he was used by rogues. These kind of people are very numerous. At all events, the general has got himself into senseless trouble, and he must prove that he was not a rogue. We shall know something about this presently.

One must not be too hasty in coming to decisions in matters of this kind. Suspicion, unjustly given, is as bad as a thief. We must not have much doubt. Wait and see. The truth, although slow, will come to us after awhile. Let us wait and see how matters will turn out in it, before we draw conclusions which may hurt an innocent man.

But this, as it seems to us, was said, that Gen. Schenck was not a fit man for the place that he occupied.

It has been hard to find men fit for places—men who can make this government so respectable at home and abroad, as inspires one with pride in their management of affairs.

DOMESTIC.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 7.—The Pacific Mail Company's steamship City of Panama has been attached by a suit of the Panama Railroad Company. The Granada, now due from Sydney, Australia, will also be attached on her arrival.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Babcock's evidence says he saw Bell in that headquarters seeking employment as a detective; heard of him next when Luckey returned from St. Louis; sent for him, and got much information from Bell, which, at the suggestion of Babcock's counsel, Bell refused to an affidavit; he gave Bell about $100.

The sergeant-at-arms of the senate has served the writ on Belknap, who was cheerful and talkative. He said only one side had been heard.

The sub-committee on appropriations having charges of the deficiency bill, has under investigation an item of $227,000 spent in violation of law, in furnishing the New York post office.

Postmaster Cochran, of Selma, is before the committee on elections and Privileges. He repeats his story before the Alabama commission, that there was no bargain between him and Spencer; he has no recollection of the conversation between himself and Armstrong, to which Armstrong swore.

Wm. E. Chandler is conducting the defence.

Furman is quoted before the committee on civil service: That his election cost him $6,000, and that he was going to get some of it back; some old fellow wanted a cadetship for his son, and if hagot it would have to pay for it.

Blumenthal is quoted: He had paid $600 good money.

The foreign committee have not decided whether to confine the Emma mine investigation to Schenck's connection with it, or to give it a wider scope. Meanwhile the testimony of Park regarding the value of the mine is progressing.

FOREIGN.

LONDON, April 7.—The house of commons has agreed to increase the income tax one penny on the pound, by a vote of 113 to 52.

Five thous and coal-miners in North Derbyshire have struck.

VERSAILLES, April 7.—The deputies have announced the election of D. Orleans a Bourbonartist, from Chartre.

HAVANA, April 7.—President Prado, of Peru, United States Minister Gibbs and Judge O'Sullivan, promoter of the Nicaragua ship canal, sailed yesterday for New York.

Frank Murmet, collector for Messrs. Lochte & Cordes, grocers, New Orleans, while going to bank to make a deposit, last Thursday, was knocked down and robbed of $1667 in currency, and $2871 in checks. Done in broad daylight on Gravier street. The story is considered questionable, and the person who tells it will be obliged to make it plain.

Theatre.

Last night was just about as unpleasant a one as we have had for a long time. The rain was without cessation. The result was that the theatre was not crowded; but we are sure that those who braved the weather found full compensation for it.

The music was excellent; and to it was added a great deal of burlesque, which was "admirable fooling," as Shakspeare says. The company is harmonious and knows how to work in accord. There are several very pretty women in it—graceful, and with voices. The men don't need praise.

Miss Mathews is a very charming lady—not only in voice, but in beauty of person, and grace of manner. She is just one of those persons that a man might fall in love with. That is, if he had any regard for what is lovely.

We judge this only from the audience point of view.

Anyhow, the play was extremely interesting, and those who stay from the matinee today, or what will be given tonight, will miss something that "gives delight and hurts not."

Custer's Cane.

Gen. Custer was the hero of a severe caning affair, in which E. W. Rice, a claim agent here, was the worsted party. Rice had long been an intimate friend of Gen. Belknap's, and is believed by a good many to have been the medium through whom a large part of the post trader ship money passed from the buyers to Gen. Belknap. Gen. Custer's testimony tended to prove this, the General testifying among other things, that he had been told that in a certain instance a post tradership was secured through the payment of $5,000, on which he said that if Gen. Custer did say that any money was ever paid to him (Rice) for a post tradership he was a liar. To-night Custer met rice on G street and gave him a severe caning.

A private letter from New York says that pneumonia is making fearful ravages in that city and its neighborhood. There have been many deaths among persons in good circumstances, and the fatal character of the disease inspires great alarm. The writer of the letter referred to, says "deep gloom over-shadows our household in consequence of the sudden death, during the last week of our members—among them two brides, almost in their orange-flowers. They left only a short time ago, on their bridal tours, and were brought back in coffins. But spring is at hand, and we hope that this epidemic will soon pass."

The silver bill, has passed the House, provides for replacing fractional currency now in circulation with silver coin. It makes silver dollars legal tenders to the extent of $50, and less denominations legal tender to $25.

The school fund being exhausted in San Francisco compels the closing of the public schools of that city for the last two months of the fiscal year.

H. BALLENTYNE AND THOMAS B. LYONS.

MONTGOMERY, ALA., SUNDAY, APRIL 9, 1876.

Mrs. Watts, the wife of one of our eminent citizens, died recently—at Montgomery, we think—and there have been many eulogies given to her virtues. Among them is a very gentle bit of poetry, which we find in the Advocate at Greenville. We like it so much that we affix it to this brief introduction. Her illness had lasted a long time:

IN MEMORIAM.

Dear friend, when first thy kindly hand
Held mine in friendship's grasp,
I read upon thy face the truth
I felt within its clasp.

I loved thee then and owned thy worth;
And now beside thy clay
I stand and watch the silent form,
Whose soul hath passed away.

I mark the brow so marble cold,
The closed eye's jetty lid,
The pallid lips that never spoke,
Save at affection's bid.

I know, dear one, that then art now
Where suffering ne'er may come;
That freed bad soul of thy pure soul,
And blistering; called it home.

And He who notes the sparrow's fall—
That humble bird of low degree—
Will hold in His protecting arms,
The little ones that mourn for thee—

Will comfort him upon whose breast,
Thy weary head so long hath lain—
Whose love and whose untiring hand
Had soothed thy hours of pain.

And I, when North my feet shall tend,
Will pray with an unfailing trust,
That God will bless the Southern soil
That holds thy sacred dust.

And ever shall, as years roll on,
The image in my heart be laid,
Nor Northern snows, nor Southern sun
Can make that image fade.

C. K. S.

GREENVILLE, April 31, 1876.

A Big Bonanza.

From the San Francisco Stock Report.]

Three years ago Mr. C. D. O'Sullivan paid $9,600 for 1,200 shares of Consolidated Virginia, which was then selling at $8. Behold how great a matter a little fire kindleth. This little nucleus of less than $10,000 was the germ of a mighty fortune which has been steadily growing for three years past. Mr. O'Sullivan, annoyed at the manner in which the market seemed declining, spoke to Mr. Flood on the subject, and the Bonanza King, with a little less confidence in the future of his mine, attempted to reassure the other, and finally expressed his readiness to purchase any amount of the Consolidated Virginia stock which might be brought to him at $100. This offer Mr. O'Sullivan was at first unwilling to accept, but having taken a turn to reconsider the matter, and noticing that stock continued to decline, concluded to accept the offer, and returning told as much to Mr. Flood. The Bonanza King did not awaken in the least; he had dollars in the mine where the other had cents, but he knew that Consolidated Virginia was good for every dime invested in it, and he was willing to make the investment. There is always a brilliant future for a mine whose principal owners have such implicit confidence in it, and as Mr. Flood signed the check for Mr. O'Sullivan, and thus in a moment consummated a transaction involving nearly half a million, he instilled by that single act a share of his own confidence into every one of the stockholders who are holding stub born to their securities through all this falling market. The price of Consolidated Virginia at the time was fluctuating at about $415, and of course it would have been impossible to unload 1,200 shares without depressing the market, probably into the three hundreds, while the sudden purchase of the same quantity would have proportionately raised it. Four hundred dollars was, therefore, a fair average on the market price, and the purchase on Mr. Flood's part is chiefly remarkable as indicating his boundless confidence in the wealth of the mine. His action must be extremely gratifying to holders of the securities. But it will be interesting to look into the profits realized by Mr. O'Sullivan on his original investment of $9,600. At $400 per share he received for his 1,200 shares $480,000. But at the time of the division of the stock he received on his 1,200 shares 606 shares of California, which has since been divided up five for one, making 3,480 shares. Within the past week California has been selling at prices varying from $88 to $93. Taking the market value in round numbers at $90 per share, he holds California to the amount of $313,200. In addition to this he has received in monthly dividends this 1,200 shares of Consolidated Virginia during the time he has held them, $160 per share, or a total of $192,000. From the aggregate of these sums we have to subtract the sum of $9,600 paid for the original shares, the first and only expense, and the remainder represents the profits of the transaction in three years.

To multiply one's original by upwards of one hundred in t ree years is satisfactory enough and yet there were times when Mr. O'Sullivan could have closed out of Consolidated Virginia with nearly double the profit.

These are the circumstances exactly as they occurred, and they might be paralleled by still more marvelous accounts of rapid and enormous fortunes made in mining stocks, without tresspassing on or even approaching the limits of truth. Consolidated Virginia has made many a poor man rich, and vastly argumented the fortune of many a rich man since three years ago. And there are plenty who still maintain that there are mines still to be uncovered or developed which will yet do the same for as many more. Why not, but who will be the lucky ones?

The Old-Time Minuet.

For the first time in this city since Washington's birthday, as it is believed, the genuine minuet de la cour was danced Tuesday night at the academy of musid in the cause of charity. It opened the ball, as it did in the days of the grand monarch in France. It was simply an illustration of the minuet by twenty or more young people, who have been practicing its intricacies diligently for the last month. What passes current by the name of the minuet in the dancing academies of this and other cities is only a quadrille with the flavor of the stately old-time war dance, whose name it has appropriated. Properly, the minuet is danced only in couples, as are the galop and waltz and other round dances of the present day, the cheaper currency which has driven out of use the better sterling coin of a former period. It was so danced in colonial days. There lives in Germantown, Pennsylvania, a silver-haired old lady, born over one hundred years ago, named Mrs. Margaret Boggs, who, at one of the courtly private assemblages of that era, led the minuet with Washington, and from her it is possible to learn the manner of the genuine minuet de la cour without resorting to the libraries. The occasion was a tea party of about twenty guests, of which Mrs. Boggs, then eighteen, was one. She wore that evening a satin dress with a very long train—so long, in fact, that in entering the house it was necessary for her maids to come behind and lift it as she walked. Her hair was arranged in front like a cushion, and fell in natural curls down her shoulders, and was all powdered after the pretty colonial fashion. Washington led her by the hand to the floor. The music was slow and dignified, almost choral in its character. After a profound salutation to the company, three slow steps forward were taken followed by an equally grave salutation to each other. At this point a modern society girl would have laughed, but there was no laughing with the dignified Washington. After the reverence the young lady was led to her place by the hand. There then began a series of slow, graceful evolutions by which the imaginative old French masters who perfected this dance intended to represent the varying relations of two newly formed acquaintances to each other in good society. At times the partners were ten paces apart. They would pass each other gracefully but gravely two or three times, as though reluctant to meet; then advance slowly with a smile, and join hands; then coquettishly retire still facing them hesitate, and pirouette, and even absolutely turn away from each other; ultimately, however, advancing with a smile and joining both hands, and returning to their places. It was in this manner that the minuet was danced at the academy of music.

SUNDAY.....APRIL 9

There is a bill before one of the House of Congress, making the office of Postmaster elective in all cities and incorporated towns.

This would be a change, but, we think, no improvement. We have too many elective offices. For example, take our judges. How is it possible to suppose that the mob of electors can understand the fitness of a man for a judicial post, the duties of which come home to the hearts and hearths of almost every citizen?

If we go on, as we have been, enlarging the privileges of electors, it will presently be proposed to make doctors, lawyers, and clergymen by popular vote. Why not do it at once, and then go a little farther, and when a man wants to build a house, put it to vote as to its form and dimensions?

Universal suffrage is getting the country into trouble; but it is likely that, like wine, the less will fall to the bottom—and these lees are not those citizens who don't seek office, or manipulate the voters. It is just otherwise. They are "cooled to the top of their bent."

The proposition in Congress—made by a Democratic member—was no doubt intended to get rid of an evil which has grown on the country since the conclusion of the war. It is this: the member of a district, or the Senator of a state, is in power ready to do what almost amounts to a law: that is to appoint—for it is equivalent to this—any person he pleases to office and, what is worse, to remove him with or without cause.

What is the result? A corrupt man in office can use his power to make any man an officer of the government. Is it amazing that, under this system, there are much peculation and bad influence?

Why not at all? The fruit is a necessary consequence of the miserable method of its cultivation.

What to do? Why, make Presidents, or governors, or legislatures responsible for improper appointments—make the tenure of judges life-long—to be impeached and removed for malfeasance—and to be retired, with a pension, when senile incapacity unfits them for their duties.

It is one of the strangest things that so few men appreciate the importance of the voting privilege. It is considered nothing more than going to a poll and putting in a ballot—perhaps, a half dozen—no thought of the value of that little bit of paper—no care in respect of its value—no reflection at all about it: as Hood said, in one of this very pleasant bits of poetry, "no-nothing."

A man who uses his privilege in this way ought to be deprived of it: in short, disfranchised.

We are of the people and we intend to tell them the truth, as it lies within our power.

We are opposed to all the pitiful schemes that are set on foot for nothing but to walk into the innumerable offices that the general and state governments have the authority to give to hungry people who want places and who seem to think that to get into an office, is a warrant for doing nothing—and stealing.

This, we know, is not entirely polite; but it is true. Well, let us tell the truth, so that Old Scratch, or an office-seeker may be ashamed.

When we shall have got to this point, the millenium will have come.

Let us pray for the early coming of that.

The argument can be stated in brief. This: men are not fit for self government. Very few men can govern themselves. How can one expect a mass of men to govern themselves? A part is equal to, or a measure, of the whole. Isn't this true? Why, how can any one expect a million of fools to furnish more wisdom than is given by one of them? A chain a hundred fathoms long is not strong of necessity. The strength of it is in its weakest part. A defective link is the measure of the strength of the chain.

We are not entirely sure that we are making the simile good, when we express the opinion that the weakest link in this case is universal, indiscriminate suffrage.

This opinion is honestly expressed, and the reader may think about it, and make the most of it.

Theatre.

There was a very fair audience at the theatre yesterday for the matinee, but instead of the Bohemian Girl, which was announced, the Daughter of the Regiment and Alladin were substituted. The reason of the change was because a person who was expected from New Orleans to take a part had not arrived.

The audience was pleased with the substitutes, and they received much applause.

Ex passant, we think our neighbor ought to advertise for a competent musical critic, or employ an honest one. Who believes the man it has? How much does he get for saying what is not true?

This is not much of our business; but we heard some musical experts yesterday say that there is either ignorance or malice in the musical critic. We suspect that there is a good deal of both. The name of the person who makes this charge is ready for delivery when the proper call for it shall have been made.

The play last night was the Grand Duchess; and if the public had known how admirably it was managed, we suppose that there would not have been a vacant seat in the house. We allude to the performance only in general terms. We may say that we have never seen a more delighted audience. In costumes and scenery and acting, it was extremely gratifying. Some fastidious persons suppose that the opera bouffe is coarse. This is not true, as far as the present troupe is concerned. What was on the stage might have been represented in a parlor.

We should like to compliment several, as indeed all of the members of the troupe. We must single out Miss Mathews, and for the reason that, with all her skill as a vocalist and actress, and personal charms, she has a ladylike manner—not stiff—that is very charming.

We trust that the troupe may return—after Lent—for then we should guarantee to it large audiences.

TELEGRAPH

DOMESTIC.

BOSTON, April 8.—A meeting of the Boston Light Infantry was held last night to perfect arrangements for attending the Fort Moultrie Centennial at Charleston. The plan is for the command to leave Boston with 30 guns for New York, where they will join the Old Guard with 30 guns and proceed to Charleston by steamer. After the celebration these commands, with two companies from Charleston, will return to New York and rendezvous at the Hippodrome. There the Boston Light Infantry will be joined by thirty more guns, and with full ranks the seven companies, including the two South Carolina companies, will on the third day of July, take a special train for Philadelphia, to join the Centennial Legion. The New England division of the Legion will be under the command of General Burnside. It is calculated that it will take 15 days to carry out this programme.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—The safe burglary examination today became very exciting. The evidence shows that there was a conspiracy to rob the safe of the district attorney and place the contents in the possession of Columbus Alexander, in a way to exonerate him criminally with the transaction. It was a mock robbery, and the papers taken to Alexander's house were worthless. Some of the ex-officials and those who escaped by a hung jury two years ago are telling the whole story, and Whitley implicates General Babcock.

There are wild rumors that Bristow has resigned in consequence of Henderson's testimony, in which Bristow is made to say that he had no confidence in the administration. Bristow left for Kentucky suddenly a few days ago, and some of Bristow's friends say he has only gone for his health, but it is singular that he had no idea of such a trip before Henderson testified.

Great looseness, to say the least, is being developed in the management of the government printing office.

Assistant-secretary Burnham says Brisfow will be here Monday and Tuesday, and that he went West on pressing private business.

LOUISVILLE, April 8.—Bristow himself says there is no truth in the rumor of his retirement.

Ober, Anderson & Co., Commerce Street Mills, northeast corner of Government and Commerce streets, have just received a large consignment of that celebrated and unsurpassed brand of flour, termed the Bridal Wreath. Here after they will have and keep constantly on hand a full supply of the Bridal Wreath flour. No writer can do full justice to its merits. To the lovers of good bread, the suggestion is proper, to call at the Commerce Street Mills and buy it and try it. Calling for that genial, polite and accommodating young gentleman, Mr. J. J. Botter, salesman for the firm, customers will find they can rely on all he says. Franklin Avenue, Star, White Rose and various other popular brands of flour. Meal, grits, feed, etc., fresh ground and constantly on hand. Give Ober, Anderson & Co. a call.

CITY COURT.—In this court yesterday Judge Semmes on the bench, in the case of Rafe Cummings for carrying concealed weapons, the jury, after being out twenty four hours, returned into court with the statement that they were unable to agree upon a verdict. Cummings was then pleaded guilty to the indictment, and was fined $50.

Frank Phillips for disturbing religious worship, was on trial yesterday. The case went to the jury about one o'clock and at half past three o'clock they had failed to come to an agreement on a verdict.

No court will be held tomorrow.

The cases set for trial Tuesday are: Michael Keros, carrying concealed weapons; Howard Rice and Hannibal Smith, indicted for selling liquors at retail without a license; Murray Pomroy, carrying concealed weapons.

The wholesale grocery house of A. A. Vaas & Co., 36, 38, and 40 South Commerce street, is conducted by merchants who buy sngly, sell at small profits and therefore give good bargains to their customers. They are engaged in the manufacture of naval stores, spirits of turpentine, rosin, tar, pitch, etc., and are receivers of standard white kerosene and lubricating oils. Their oils and turpentine are transported in special tank cars.

The wholesale grocery and liquor house of Martin Horst is located at the corner of South Commerce and Front streets. Staple and fancy groceries and provisions and the purest wines and liquors are embraced in his stock. Mr. Horst is agent of the Kauffman brewer, and of the Cincinnati Star Bottling Company, of whose goods he always has a large stock on hand.

If you want a splendid harness made to order, go to Mr. H. A. Pickel, 49 South Royal, next to Sawhan's stables, who is a manufacturer of saddles, harnesses, bridles, collars, etc., and a dealer in articles of that class of other manufacturers. His gives special attention to the repairing of harnesses, and does the work cheaper than any other house in the city.

The choicest wines and liquors to be found in our city, and in quantities to suit customers, can be obtained at Owen Farley's stores on Government street, and at prices lower than at any other house. His large stock of imported wines is worth the attention of connoisseurs.

That genial gentleman of the old Virginia school, will conduct his usual Monday morning auction sale tomorrow morning at the corner of Royal and St. Anthony streets. It is a pleasure to sell when his silvery voice dwells on an article for sale. Captain W. H. Merritt is alluded to.

The attention of all who are in want of feed is called to the large stock to be found at the stores Nos. 54, 56, 58, 70 and 72 Government street, of Owen Farley has made a specialty in that line and can sell hay, corn, oats bran, etc., etc., at the lowest prices to be found at any place in the city.

☞ Mechanics' Steam Fire Company No. 7 will give a grand firemen's ball at Armory Hall on Monday, the 17th instant. Tickets $1 50 including refreshments. The names of the committee of arrangements, together with the reputation of No. 7 for October with the engine house generally, all things well, afford a guarantee that this will indeed be a grand ball.

Pincus, corner Royal and Dauphin, sells fashionable clothing of durable fabric, at the lowest prices. He has a large stock of furnishing goods, embracing everything in that line for men and boys, at the smallest figures.

The reporter of the Tribune acknowledges an invitation from Phenix Fire Company No. 6 to participate in their annual celebration tomorrow and to be present with them on the termination of the parade.

Mechanics' Steam Fire Company will give a grand fireman's ball at Armory Hall on Monday night, the 17th instant. Complimentary tickets have been received.

THE FIREMEN'S CELEBRATION.—If the day is auspicious the 38th anniversary celebration of the Mobile Fire Department will be a splendid street parade. The route of the parade will be as follows:

Form on north side of Government street, the head of column resting on Royal street; down Government street to Water, countermarch up Government to Broad, up Broad to Dauphin, down Dauphin to Franklin, down Franklin to Eslava, down Eslava to St. Emanuel, up St. Emanuel to Church, down Church to Royal, up Royal to St. Michael, and there rest for 30 minutes. Up Royal to St. Louis, up St. Louis to St. Joseph, up St. Joseph to St. Anthony, up St. Anthony to Joseph to St. Francis, up St. Francis to Dauphin, down Dauphin to Franklin, down Franklin to Dearborn, down Dearborn to Dauphin, down Dauphin to St. Joseph, up St. Joseph to St. Francis, up St. Francis to Franklin, down Franklin to Government, and there to be dismissed.

The First Division will form on the north side of Government street, head resting on Royal, under the supervision of Second Assistant Chief W. R Gurow.

The Second Division will form on the north side of Government street, head resting on Joachim, under the supervision of Assistant Chief George S. Cummings.

The Third Division will form on the north side of Government street, head resting on Franklin, under the supervision of Third Assistant Chief S. S. Montgomery.

As soon as the Assistant Chiefs have their Divisions formed they will report to the Chief Engineer.

At 9:30 A. M., a general alarm will be given. At 9:50 A. M., an alarm will be given from No. 2. At 10 A. M., an alarm from Box No. 16 will be the signal for marching.

THE IRON CLAD OATH.—The crooked whisky cases in New Orleans were going along smoothly before Judge Woods, of the United States circuit court, until counsel for the defense insisted that a portion of the jury were incompetent to serve, as they could not take the iron clad oath. Nine of them failed to stand that test, and in filling vacancies there was some trouble, as may be inferred from the subjoined report referring to General Emory, a merchant of New Orleans whose political proclivities lead him to friendship for the republicans:

General Bussey declared he was unable to serve.

Judge Woods, asking if Bussey had not been summoned in the previous array, and being answered in the affirmative, inquired why he could not take the oath.

General Bussey said the oath was very broad, and no one who had rendered any service to the confederacy could take the oath. He had captured a confederate officer and had given him the last shirt on his back.

Judge Woods asked if he had supposed the confederacy could again fight against the United States.

General Bussey said he knew he would. He would be glad to see any other things to confederate prisoners, and did not wish to take the oath.

He was excused.

CRITICISM.—There is so much difference between intelligent criticism and the peevishness of a disappointed theatrical lessee, that it is very easy to distinguish the one from the other. The musical critic of the Register made a complete and utter failure as a theatrical lessee, and he vents his spite by silly attempts to undermine the talent which the present lessees of the Mobile Theatre have succeeded in securing. The Julia Mathews opera troupe has stood the test of the severest and most intelligent critics in the country, and it is utter folly for one who has himself no knowledge of music or the drama to assert that there is no musical ability in the troupe that favored Mobile with opera at the close of last week. Miss Mathews and her company go to New Orleans where they will be fully appreciated by intelligent and generous critics.

CHARITY CONCERT.—A grand vocal and instrumental Charity Concert will be given at the Mobile Theatre on Wednesday evening, the 19th instant, by the best musical talent of Mobile. Admission $1. No reserved seats will be sold. Boxes will be sold at auction at the Cotton Exchange next Friday, at twelve o'clock. From what is known of the objects of the Concert, and from the the influential character of the members of the several committees, there can be no hesitation in predicting that as a musical event this concert will mark an era in Mobile, and that as a pecuniary success there can be no mistake whatever about it. There is a vast amount of musical talent in Mobile, which will develope itself on this occasion, and there is an instinctive readiness to respond to the calls of charity. Read the advertisement carefully.

RELIGIOUS.—Services at St. Joseph's (Father Bussard) church for Holy week. To-day Palm Sunday —Blessing of the palms and procession at 9 a. m; other services as usual. Wednesday—Tenebræ at 5 p. m; sermon 7½ p. m. Holy Thursday—mass at 7 a. m; Adoration Blessed Sacrament; other services like on Wednesday. Good Friday—solemn service 7 a. m.; Tenebræ at 5 p. m.; sermon and solemn Passion, 7½ p. m. Holy Saturday—Service as usual; sermon and solemn Benediction 7½ p. m.

LUCILLE WESTERN.—This talented emotional actress, the most powerful in her line on the stage, will appear at the Theatre tomorrow evening in her great specialty drama of "East Lynne," in which she sustains two characters. She will play this week, besides the "Child Stealer," the great Parisian sensation "Fedu Fron," "Oliver Twist," and "Forbid Shalt Not," her new emotio al drama, played for the first time last week and then at the Academy of Music, New Orleans. Box office open tomorrow morning.

There are no many stormy Sundays that it is unsafe to make any predictions about today. If the weather is good, the Conception street cars will commence running to-morrow evening in her great specialty drama of "East Lynne," in which she sustains two characters. She will play this week, besides the "Child Stealer," the great Parisian sensation "Fedu Fron," "Oliver Twist," and "Forbid Shalt Not," her new emotio al drama, played for the first time last week and then at the Academy of Music, New Orleans.

The Daily Tribune.

Sam Bard, Esq.

This gentleman, who edits the State Journal at Montgomery, is very angry, as will be seen by the following extract from his paper. It is good reading to every person that it does not assail. We, not being hurt, take much pleasure in it. It is in a style which becomes a public man who has been slandered. Who the "viper" is not stated:

THE LIAR AND HIS FATE.—A viper in human shape has had the temerity to state that the editor of this paper, ("Sam Bard"), charged a high official of the Government at Washington, with drunkenness! Some monsters in human shape, calling themselves men, would greatly prefer a lie to the truth. The swaggering vagabond who set this canard afloat would pilfer coppers from a dead man's eyes, just as soon as he would enter the house of God, and rob the sacred altar of its consecrated jewels, dedicated to the service of the Most High. Yes, he would go further and rob the sinoes from an infant orphan's feet, on a cold December night, and tear the last vestige of a worn-out garment from a poor starving, desolate widow's back, with the thermometer at forty degrees below zero. We dislike to speak roughly or unkindly of such people, but we can't endure that class of vipers who make it the principal rule of life to lie by the yard, simply to injure and destroy, if possible, one who would not, knowingly, harm the meanest creature on the face of the whole earth. We make it a positive rule to think well of men when we have half a chance to do so, but when a shameless, blatant, venomous liar crosses our path, he may expect neither respect or mercy at our hands, but that character of classimeanut which his moral infamy merits and deserves. Of all the worthless, degraded beings that walk the earth, a willful cold blooded mathematical liar is the meanest. A professional thief is his equal, while the cool calculating perjurer, forgerer and counterfeiter is vastly his superior. We must treat this painful subject briefly, as a want of space precludes the possibility of recording all we would like to say on the matter.

We will only add, that a deliberate, malicious liar is beneath the contempt or respect of a sheep killing dog, and merits the infinite, withering scorn of such as delight to reflect the glorious image of Him who doeth all things well. That the unrepentant malicious liar will make his bed in hell, we do not entertain even the shadow of a doubt. If men are to be damned for believing a lie, what must be the fate of a genuine firstclass liar?

Surely the wrath of God will abide upon him; not only in time, but throughout the countless ages of eternity.
